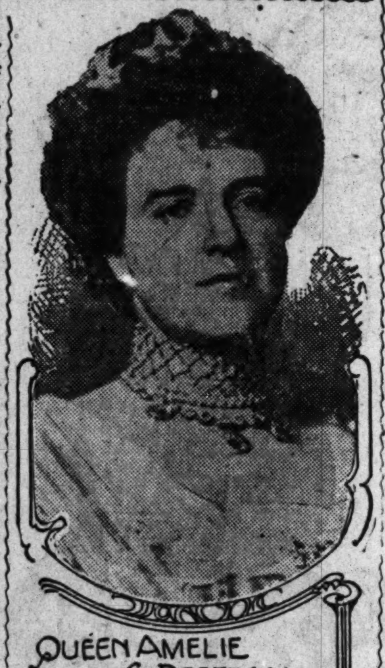
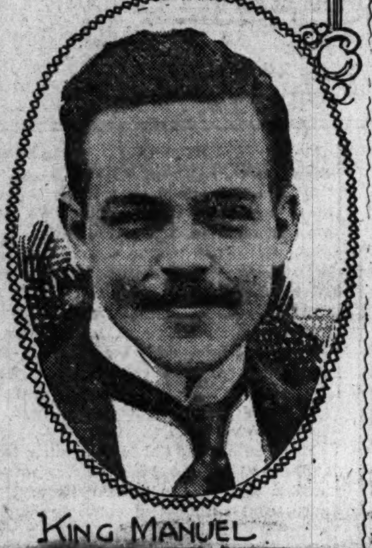
Dust and Decay in the Palace From Which King Manuel Fled for Life

Correspondent Gives Graphic Picture of Condition of Royal Home That, After Standing for Three Years as When Frightened Monarch Abandoned It, Is Finally Being Dismantled.



QUEEN AMELIE of PORTUGAL



KING MANUEL

BY PERCIVAL PHILLIPS.
Lisbon Correspondent of the London Express.

LONDON, Nov. 8.

AT the top of a steep, narrow street of slums, on one of the northern hills of Lisbon, you will find the squat, commonplace, red and white Palace of Necessidades, in which Manuel of Portugal spent the greater part of his life. His last memory of the country that rejected him is linked with this modest two-storied home of his boyhood, from which he hurried, a fugitive, early one October morning three years ago.

I wandered for two hours today among the dismantled rooms and dusty corridors of Necessidades, watching the men who are removing every trace of the Braganzas from their Lisbon palace, and it was like walking through a reopened tomb.

In the darkened smoking room I found an official of the republic busily wrapping the last piece of furniture—a silk upholstered sofa—in folds of sacking.

Presents for the King.

"A WEDDING present from the republic for his ex-Majesty," he said with a smile. "A few little souvenirs"—and he pointed to the piles of shrouded furniture around us—"for his private house at Fulwell Park."

The republic agreed to send Dom Manuel all articles in the Necessidades Palace which could not be regarded as property of the state, and for some weeks expert packers from London have been preparing them for shipment by sea. Seven pantechnicon loads of furniture, draperies, bric-a-brac, books from the private library, and even chandelier fittings have already been dispatched to Twickenham under the watchful eyes of repblican guards, who first checked and ticketed each article.

Three more pantechnicon loads were being put together while I was at the palace, and when these were gone the building will be entirely empty, awaiting a new existence as one of the republican ministries.

Until this great clearance began the palace stood exactly as the King and his mother, Dowager Queen Amelie, left it three years ago. Nothing was touched, not even the illustrated papers in the King's study.

A Dismantled Palace.

KING MANUEL would recognize with difficulty the interior of his altered home. Tapestried walls are stripped to the raw wood, and priceless old paneling has vanished. His mother's boudoir is thick with dust, and the silk hangings faded and soiled beyond repair. Here and there you find a shattered mirror, with a bullet embedded in the wall behind, or a doorway knocked askew by a chance shell.

I went into the King's little bedroom. There was the narrow French bed, exactly as I saw it a few hours after the King's flight—the monogrammed pillows still piled at the head, and the white blankets rolled back at the foot as Dom Manuel tossed them when his equerry awoke him to tell him that he had lost his throne.

This bed remains the property of the republic, blankets, pillows and all. Everything else has gone from the room—chairs, dressing table, pictures.

In the modest bathroom adjoining I found a workman wrapping up the King's shaving stand and mirror. He stopped long enough to come into the bedroom, sit down on the bed, and tell me of the past glories of Necessidades, of the army of servants, the ex-King's hobbies, of little intimate details of his home life. He spoke with a certain guarded affection.

Workman Smokes a Cigarette Upon Gilt Throne.

THE throne room is bare and its hangings and dais vanished. As I retraced my way to the silent courtyard, a workman who rested from his labors seated himself in the gilt-backed throne and lit a cigarette.—Percival Phillips.

The music room was distinguishable only by piles of Queen Amelie's music (many of the volumes and loose sheets contained the names of personal friends), each bundle wrapped loosely with twine. I was shown a volume of Beethoven's sonatas, and told that it had been found open on the piano when the Republicans entered the palace.

I walked down a servants' corridor, and found a set of electric bell indicators on a wall near the ex-King's apartments. The white disc that indicated his bedroom was shown. The King had rung for a servant that last morning of his reign, and the indicator had not been touched since.

Piles of Vestments.

FROM the King's gallery I looked down into the lofty windowless chapel, with its bare, tarnished altar and somber choir. The floor was covered with costly vestments, the accumulation of years—great piles of them, surveyed and registered by the republic.

Piles of china encumbered the white-and-gold state dining room and the uncovered tables (broad strips of unpainted deal on trestles for the guests!) were still ranged in position. The remnants of the palace pictures lay against the walls, most of them mediocre, some of them excessively bad.

Dust lies thick on the hundreds of copper utensils in the glass-roofed kitchen. Many of these utensils are being sent to Fulwell Park. There were the aprons of the chefs, just as they had cast them off, and in the drawer of a little table was the menu of a dinner that was never served.

In one gallery was the King's organ, still open, surmounted by his arms. His reading desk stood near by. All the books have gone, and the carved shelves which held them are being taken down.

The throne room is bare and its hangings and dais vanished. As I retraced my way to the silent courtyard, a workman who rested from his labors seated himself in the gilt-backed throne and lit a cigarette.

"In 15 Years, Socialists Will Control Germany," Says Bebel's Successor in Reichstag, on Visit to St. Louis

Philipp Scheidemann, Secretary of the Social Democracy of Kaiserland, Is Opposed to Syndicalism, Sabotage, General Strikes and Violence, Advocated by English Labor Leaders, Who Recently Visited Us and Urges His Followers to Wait Until the Majority Favors Them Before Trying to Enforce Their Policies.

He Looks Like a Prosperous Business Man, With His Carefully-Trimmed Beard and His Neatly-Manicured Nails and, Altogether, He Impresses One With the Belief That Socialism as Interpreted in Europe Is Not Nearly So Revolutionary Nor Red-Handed as Americans Generally Suspect.

BY CARLOS F. HURD.

PHILIPP SCHEIDEMANN, secretary of the Social Democratic party in Germany and member of the Reichstag, brought to St. Louis last week an antidote for the poison of Syndicalism, whose arch-advocate, Tomm Mann of England, preached his destructive doctrine to St. Louis workingmen a few weeks ago.

"Why should we Socialists resort to general strikes, sabotage and violence?" he demanded. "Let us work on—the world needs our work. God has not forsaken us. We shall win when we cast the most votes, and until then we ought not to win. The majority should rule."

With such words as these, this polished and cultured man, who is, nevertheless, a man of the people, combatted the Haywood-Giovanitti-Mann teaching that workmen should loaf, purposely botch their work and spoil machinery, in the name of "social justice."

Herr Scheidemann is 48 years old, and was a Socialist in belief long before he had reached the age of 18, the lowest age at which members are received into the party organization. The current issue of the Review of Reviews refers to him as the successor of the late August Bebel, the greatest Socialist of his time. As a printer's apprentice in his native city of Cassel, he read proofs of Socialist articles, and the mechanical task was, for him, an education in political doctrine.

Looks Like Prosperous Business Man.

HIS appearance is that of a prosperous business man or a successful lawyer. His eyes are large and prominent—the connection of large eyes and large intellects is almost proverbial—and his skin is as fair as a choir boy's. One notices this the more because of his symmetrical, shining baldness. His light beard is carefully trimmed, and his nails are polished.

Nine hundred St. Louis Socialists gathered at the Victoria Theater Monday night to hear Scheidemann speak in his own language, which was also the ancestral language of most of the audience. I think I am safe in calling the hearers Socialists, from the prompt unanimity with which they arose when Chairman Hoehn pronounced the name of August Bebel.

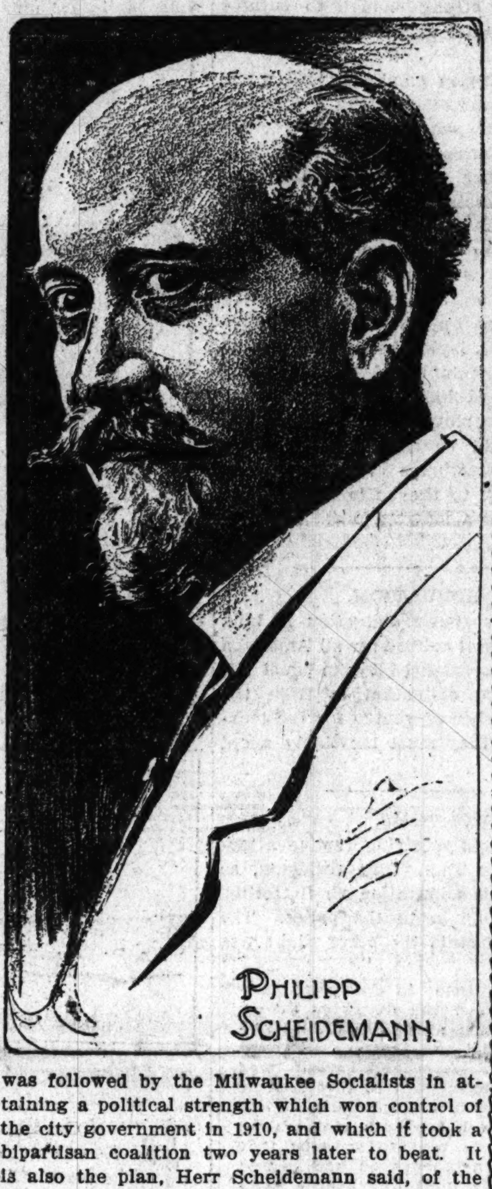
If I were a Socialist, I might wish there had been fewer Socialists and more non-Socialists there—provided the visitors could have understood the speaker. For such a speech as Scheidemann made would go far toward removing the suspicion and apprehension with which many Americans still regard Socialism. It would also suggest that the rapid advance of Socialism in Europe is not so much to be worried about as some students of world politics would have us think.

True, it is not likely that all Socialist leaders, in Germany or any European country, are like Scheidemann. Neither, it might also be said, are all the conspicuous figures of dominant American parties Wilsons, or Hugheses, or Beveridges. The Socialists, like other political bodies, have the right to be judged by their best men, or at least to have those men taken into consideration when a judgment is formed.

There was an orderly aspect about the Victoria Theater demonstration. The music was not the tumultuous outburst of the "Marseillaise," of which some Socialist bodies are fond. It was, instead, the harmonious singing of a body of working men, who almost filled the stage, and whose merit as a chorus would stand comparison with that of the Apollo or the Amphion Club. "Empor zum Licht" (Upward to the Light) was the first song, and the refrain, "Erwacke, Volk, Erwacks" (Wake, People, Wake), came out with rousing force.

Sees Socialist Control of Germany.

EVERYONE paid 10 cents at the door, nor was that the end of paying. The hat was passed after the singing, and was filled. This hat-passing and ticket-selling feature is, to a visitor familiar with ordinary political meetings, the most surprising thing about a Socialist rally. Socialist speakers realize this, and never fail to remind the visitor that the party funds are the dimes and quarters of members, not the four-figure checks of corporations. To hear Socialist orators tell it, Socialists pay more than their share of campaign funds, for they pay their own party expenses and also, as consumers, pay their share to the profits of the corporations which, they declare, support the other parties.



PHILIPP SCHEIDEMANN.

This due-paying and admission-charging plan was followed by the Milwaukee Socialists in attaining a political strength which won control of the city government in 1910, and which it took a bipartisan coalition two years later to beat. It is also the plan, Herr Scheidemann said, of the Social Democrats in Germany.

In his speech, and in an interview on the day following, the German leader talked of class strife ("Klassenkampf") without prescribing class hatred or class warfare of violence as a remedy. When he predicted than in 15 years the Social Democrats would be in a majority in Germany, he added.

"Then, if the rich men wish to leave Germany, they can emigrate to America, as the poor people of the empire have long been doing."

But he preferred to think that, when the working class prevails, all men will become workers, thus ending class conflict.

"And when the Socialists gain the ascendency," I asked him, "what will they do?" It was an old question, yet one which seems pertinent when the question of giving control to the Socialists is under discussion.

"When the Socialists gain political supremacy," he replied, "they will establish equal rights for all. As to the ways in which this can be done, we know now a great deal more than we did before we had any political experience, and we shall know more before that time comes."

"What will become of the monarchy when Socialism prevails in Germany?"

Not Worried About Monarchy's Fate.

"THAT is the least of our anxieties," he replied, with a hearty laugh. "The monarchy does not necessarily cost more than a republican form of government. That problem will solve itself when the time comes." Herr Scheidemann then spoke of municipal ownership and other issues on which Socialism has gained ground in Germany. Remembering a remark of Kier Hardie, to the effect that Socialists do not put all their principles into their platforms, I suggested that the things he had mentioned were only a part of Socialism.

"They are only the vorspiel of Socialism," replied Scheidemann, in Wagnerian speech.

"Then what is Socialism?" I asked, conscious that the question was one which every Socialist is weary of hearing, also that it was somewhat like asking "What is electricity?"

Scheidemann stretched his arms apart to indicate the bulk of the volumes which it would take to answer the question. I suggested a definition which I had heard—"State ownership of all the means of production and distribution."

"Ah, yes," said Scheidemann, "it means that—mines, forests, factories, machinery, railroads, all to belong to the people. But even that is still but the vorspiel. Socialism is the ideal government of the people. It is not communism, it is not anarchy. It is the rule of the majority for all the people.

"As a minority party in Germany, we have 110 members in the Reichstag. Every third man elected to office is a Socialist. There are 12,000 Socialist city officials and 231 Socialists in the provincial legislatures. There are 90 Socialist daily papers.

"Because of the work of Socialists in office, German factories are cleanly, sanitary and well ventilated. The dirty, crowded factories of this

Temperate Socialism as Preached by Scheidemann

Why should we Socialists resort to general strikes, sabotage and violence? Let us work on—the world needs our work. God has not forsaken us. We shall win when we cast the most votes, and until then we ought not to win. The majority should rule.

What will become of the monarchy when Socialism prevails in Germany? That is the least of our worries. The monarchy does not necessarily cost more than a republican form of government. That problem will solve itself when the time comes. If the rich men wish to leave Germany, they can emigrate to America then, as the poor people have been doing for a long time.

If the voting age were 21 instead of 25 at home, Germany would be in the control of the Socialists today.

country, where the workers stand elbow to elbow, would not be tolerated under the laws which the Socialists have placed on the German statute books. In German factories floors must be covered with linoleum and kept washed, and there must be room, light and air for all the workers.

"State insurance is a Socialistic measure which has been tried in various forms in Germany for 30 years. The Government measure provided for only 13 weeks' sick benefit at the longest—we made the time 26 weeks. Even with some compromises which it contains, the German insurance measure was deemed a model for a state insurance system in England.

"Another thing Socialism has accomplished is the prevention of all child labor under the age of 14 years, with restriction up to the age of 16. In industries which are unhealthy for women, the employment of women is forbidden."

The attitude of the police toward workingmen was another matter in which he thought Germany to be in advance of America. In fact, he professed surprise at the facility with which American policemen use their clubs on the persons of strikers and of wage earners in general.

"In Germany, if a guard draws his sword," he said, "a hundred papers the next day demand an inquiry into his conduct. But in this country there is a club at every corner, and an arm to swing it against the workingman. Why, even in Russia men would not dare to stretch the [illegible] against the working class as it has been done in this land."

He spoke of this with keener interest, because he had just come from Colorado, where, it is generally conceded, a number of "raw" things have been done in dealing with labor troubles.

He mentioned the name of Russia in another comparison, when he said that, even in that country, capital is not so brutal as it is in America. He did not venture any assertion that things in general in America are "as bad as Russia," a statement sometimes heard in Socialist speeches, which loses some of its force when one reflects that in Russia criticism of the Government in a public place would not be permitted.

Once Fined for Writing Editorial.

THE days of Russian tactics toward the German Socialists, he explained, were the days of Bismarck. The Iron Chancellor, he declared, placed the Socialists, in the most ordinary political activities, outside the law, forbade their meetings and imprisoned their leaders. Scheidemann, one of the newer generation of Socialist leaders, was never imprisoned, but he was once arrested and fined 200 marks for an editorial written by him for his paper in Giessen.

As to the backwardness of Socialism in the United States, compared with the Fatherland, Scheidemann hesitated to undertake an explanation. He mentioned the diversity of races in America as one force which, at this time, might work against the Socialist ideal of united effort for the common good.

He believes in woman suffrage, but does not seem to consider it a live issue in his own country at present. When I mentioned the opposition of German-Americans in some states to woman suffrage, on the ground that women may vote to stop the sale of liquor (as at that very moment they were doing in a number of Illinois towns) he did not seem to consider the point an important one. His own views on "personal liberty" agree

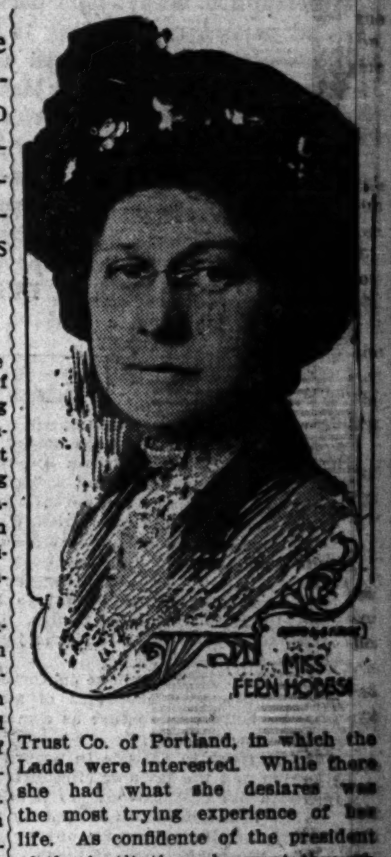
Oregon Sends a Woman Lobbyist to Washington to Win Congress' Favor

Gov. West's Attractive Young $3000-a-Year Private Secretary Goes to Capital to Handle Legislation That Is Usually Entrusted Only to High-Priced Lawyers—She Is Self-Made and Only 27.



MISS FERN HOBBS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.

MISS FERN HOBBS, private secretary to Gov. West of Oregan, is unique among the lobbyists who have visited Washington. Her mission is to adjust many tangles, some of them of long standing, between the State and National Government. This sort of an errand usually is considered justification for the employment of a high-priced lawyer.

Miss Hobbs is a lawyer and is considered expert in land affairs. On her first day in Washington she conferred with Senators Chamberlain and Lane of her State, and arranged for a conference with Secretary of the Interior Lane, with whose department much of her business rests. Next she will have to learn in which of the congressional committees certain legislation rests and arrange for it to be resurrected.

Miss Hobbs speaks frankly but modestly of her mission here. Apparently she considered this trip a part of her private secretaryship. She said:

"I am the private secretary of the Governor, and I have come here at the instance of the Governor, to look after a number of questions in which Oregan is concerned. They are chiefly land matters. Some of them have been lodged here for a long time and I am sent to pry them loose.

"One of the principal questions involves the exchange of the scattered school sections belonging to the State and now in the forest reserves for contiguous lands, which will enable us to have a State forest. The bill providing for that has passed the Senate and I am hoping to help bring about its early passage in the House.

"Some questions relating to swamp lands also are involved. I hope to complete this work in two or three weeks."

Miss Hobbs' salary as the Governor's private secretary is $3000 a year. She was appointed to that place last June, having previously been the Governor's stenographer.

Self-Made and Only 27.

IN addition to being one of the highest—if not the highest—salaried women in the public service, Miss Hobbs can lay claim to another distinction for one in her position—youth. No other woman and probably but few men, has attained such an important position in the course of 27 years, which is her age.

She is decidedly a self-made woman, having fought her way up the ladder of success, carrying burdens at times that would have discouraged a less determined person.

A few days after she took her new position as private secretary to Gov. West, she was admitted to the practice of law, after having just been graduated from the law department of Williamette University in Oregon. It was a laurel won by dint of hard work and a spirit that does not falter. She studied law while other young women attended parties, balls and theaters. Yet she is young, girlish and a jolly companion. There is nothing long-faced or old maidish about her. She is pretty and is popular at the Oregon capital. She is one of the "boys" and by her close friends is called Hobbs, without any prefix.

She was born in Nebraska. At the age of 6 her parents moved to Salt Lake City, Utah, where she lived for 12 years and finished the high school course.

Then her father met with serious financial reverses and she came to Oregon to make her own way in the world and help support her brothers and sisters. For a time she was the governess in the home of J. Wesley Ladd in Portland. But she wanted to get out in the commercial world, so she bought a typewriter and a book on stenography and in spare moments mastered them.

It was not long until she was the private stenographer for the president of the [illegible] and Trust Co. of Portland, in which the Ladds were interested. While there she had what she declares was the most trying experience of her life. As confidente of the president of the institution, she went through the storm of a bank failure and investigation. And it was the loyalty, pluck and spirit displayed during those turbulent weeks that opened the way for her to win her $3000 position.

All this time she was stenographer in the bank she also kept house for her younger brother and sister, both of whom she put through school, and on the side studied law. Her ambition had not been satisfied with the attainment of stenography.

When the trust company failed there was on deposit in it a large sum of the common school fund of the State. Gov. Chamberlain appointed Ben. W. Olcott, new Secretary of State, to represent the State in the investigation of the bank's affairs. When Olcott reached the intimate papers and documents of the company's head, Miss Hobbs, who was then employed as stenographer to the bank's receiver, did not hide her dislike of the man who was trying to find something wrong with the transactions of her former employer. Her dislike of him and her loyalty to and spirited defense of the bank, caused Olcott to take particular notice of her.

One day he met Judge Martin L. Pipes, her law tutor.

"What do you know about that little girl with the light brown hair in your law class, Judge?" asked Olcott.

"The one with the glasses?"

"Yes."

"I don't recall her name," said Judge Pipes, "but I know she is one of the brightest students in my class. She knows mode law now than half the lawyers in Portland."

When the bank investigation was over, Miss Hobbs secured a position with the Ladd Estate Co., one of the wealthiest corporations in Oregon, and Olcott, a little later became campaign manager for Oswald West, candidate for Governor.

How She Won Place.

WEST was elected, and shortly before the time for him to take office Olcott asked him if he had anyone in mind for his private stenographer. The Governor-elect had not.

"I know a girl who will fill the bill in every particular," said Olcott, who sent for Miss Hobbs and introduced her to the Governor on the day he took the oath of office in January, 1911.

In the three years she has been with the Governor her mettle has been put to the test a number of times. A year ago last summer the Governor launched a state-wide anti-vice crusade, which finally centered in the city of Portland. It became necessary for the Governor to open an office in Portland. He sent Miss Hobbs to take charge of it and act as his representative.

As the fight waxed warm the Governor himself spent much time there. Scores of men and women from the submerged world and representatives of the saloon interests sought him on various pretexts, and it was Miss Hobbs' duty to be present at every interview, as the Governor refused to see any of them alone. When the

TORTURE IN MISSOURI.

Editorial in Saturday's Post-Dispatch.

A Jefferson City dispatch states that Gov. Major and the Board of Prison Inspectors, after inquiring into the "stringing up" of Convict Steve Willis for refusing to give information about a violation of prison rules which Warden McClung thinks he has, refused to interfere because they believe the convict has not been injured.

The question is not whether the convict is injured, but whether it is right to torture him to compel him to confess or testify. It is a question of law and policy. It concerns justice and civilization in Missouri.

Does Gov. Major believe in torture as a means of forcing a man suspected of guilt to confess? Does he believe in torture as a means of compelling a man to testify?

Is the right to torture in accord with the Constitution and the laws of Missouri? Is it in keeping with our civilization? Is it wise? Is it just?

What is a confession forced by torture worth? What is testimony wrung out by torture worth?

Does Missouri represent tenth or twentieth century civilization?

The humblest and meanest convict is entitled to the protection of the law and the benefits of civilization as much as the best citizen. The penitentiary where lawlessness is punished should be the last place where law is violated and justice travestied.

The Willis case is a foul blot on Missouri's name. Is it to be made indelible by the approval of the Governor and the Prison Inspectors?

In the name of law, justice and civilization we protest against this outrage.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Afro-American Is Chilly.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It is remarkable that there are in the North so many Afro-Americans, if we consider the climate, which is not at all adapted to them. For instance in this October there is a St. Louis street car with a red-hot stove. On the front seat of this car you will see daily two big Afro-Americans in enormous overcoats, yet they look chilly. In fact, with some exceptions, St. Louis Afro-Americans are found close to the stove every day. Though St. Louis is supposed to be something of a Southern city, it is evidently too cold for the majority of blacks. The Afro-American is a long time "acclimating."

Next Spring's Pageant.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Now that experts are being called here from other cities to give advice about the pageant we are going to have next spring, it seems to me that some steps should be taken to work up an interest among the out-of-town people who are expected to come here and spend their money with the local merchants who are backing the proposition. As one of the pageant experts said, we cannot expect people to pay railroad fare and hotel bills to come here to see a show for just an hour or two, no matter how good it is. The pageant ought to last for a week, or there ought to be other entertainments given the same week. Another thing, you cannot expect them to come here at all unless the papers, out of town as well as in St. Louis, join together to boost the enterprise.

If we are going to give a good show, we want everybody to know it, and we must work up a lot of enthusiasm. There is no better way to do this than through the newspapers, especially the Post-Dispatch, and I would suggest that the pageant promoters get busy right away and give to the press every possible item of news about the fine entertainment they are going to put on. Then everybody who reads the papers will become a booster, and we will have a crowd here that Forest Park won't be able to hold.

ALL FOR ST. LOUIS.

Grape Juice Wholesome.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

This stupid and absurd statement is made by a Chicago minister: "The grape juice of temperance people is an artificial process. It kills life. It is unreal and artificial."

Thousands who have used grape juice have found it real and beneficial, and more and more of it is made every year. No wonder fewer people go to church than formerly. With such teachers in the pulpit, a church is a good place to stay away from.

Pretty Dances With Ugly Names.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Referring to the fact that the Association of Dancing Masters in St. Louis have decided to eliminate the animal dances, such as the turkey trot, etc., from their schools, and to the fact that the Liederkranz Club has just voted against the tango, why, in the name of common sense do the dancing teachers insist upon the name of tango for some of the dances that they are teaching now? Some of these dances have no more relation to the tango than a dog has to a horse, both having four legs, etc., but the very fact that a tango is going on gives a chance for those who hold their place in society through something other than refinement to show the true tango as it is danced in the immoral houses of South America.

Why not change the name instead of trying to defend their original teaching of this dance by clinging to such a name? If the dances they are teaching at present under that name were called something else it would eliminate the chances of the original dance being introduced where it is not wanted; and some very pretty dances now masquerading under the name might be danced many places where their name now makes them forbidden.

COMMON SENSE.

"THE GUN BEHIND THE DOOR."

President Woodrow Wilson's View of the Initiative, Referendum and Recall Expressed in His Kansas City Speech on "Issues of Reform."

Let us ask ourselves very frankly what it is that needs to be corrected. To sum it all up in one sentence, it is the control of politics and of our life by great combinations of wealth. Men sometimes talk as if it were wealth we were afraid of, as if we were jealous of the accumulation of great fortunes. Nothing of the kind is true. America has not the slightest jealousy of the legitimate accumulation of wealth. Everybody knows that there are hundreds and thousands of men of large means and large economic power who have come by it all not only perfectly legitimately, but in a way that deserves the thanks and admiration of the communities they have served and developed. But everybody knows also that some of the men who control the wealth and have built up the industry of the country seek to control politics and also to dominate the life of common men in a way in which no man should be permitted to dominate.

In the first place, there is the notorious operation of the bipartisan political machine: I mean the machine which does not represent party principle of any kind, but which is willing to enter into any combination, with whatever group of persons or politicians, to control the offices of localities and of states and of the nation itself in order to maintain the power of those who direct it. This machine is supplied with its funds by the men who use it in order to protect themselves against legislation which they do not desire and in order to obtain the legislation which is necessary for the prosecution of their purposes.

The methods of our legislatures make the operations of such machines easy and convenient. For very little of our legislation is formed and effected by open debate upon the floor. Almost all of it is framed in lawyers' offices, discussed in committee rooms, passed without debate. Bills that the machine and its backers do not desire are smothered in committee; measures which they do desire are brought out and hurried through their passage. It happens again and again that great groups of such bills are rushed through in the hurried hours that mark the close of the legislative sessions, when everyone is withheld from vigilance by fatigue and when it is possible to do secret things.

When we stand in the presence of these things and see how complete and sinister their operations has been, we cry out with no little truth that we no longer have representative government.

Among the remedies proposed in recent years have been the initiative and referendum in the field of legislation and the recall in the field of administration. These measures are supposed to be characteristic of the most radical programs, and they are supposed to be meant to change the very character of our government. They have no such purpose. Their intention is to restore, not to destroy, representative government. It must be remembered by every candid man who discusses these matters that we are constrasting the operation of the initiative and referendum, not with the representative government which we possess in theory, and which we have long persuaded ourselves that we possessed in fact, but with the actual state of affairs with legislative processes which are carried on in secret, responding to the impulse of subsidized machines and carried through by men whose unhappiness it is to realize that they are not their own masters, but puppets in a game.

If we felt that we had genuine representative government in our state legislatures, no one would propose the initiative or referendum in America. They are being proposed now as a means of bringing our representatives back to the consciousness that what they are bound in duty and in mere policy to do is to represent the sovereign people whom they profess to serve, and not the private interests which creep into their counsels by way of machine orders and committee conferences. The most ardent and successful advocates of the initiative and referendum regard them as a sobering means of obtaining genuine representative action on the part of legislative bodies. They do not mean to set anything aside. They mean to restore and reinvigorate, rather.

The recall is a means of administrative control. If properly regulated and devised it is a means of restoring to administrative officials what the initiative and referendum restore to legislators—namely, a sense of direct responsibility to the people who chose them.

The recall of judges is another matter. Judges are not lawmakers. They are not administrators. Their duty is not to determine what the law shall be, but to determine what the law is. Their independence, their sense of dignity and of freedom is of the first consequence to the stability of the state. To apply to them the principle of the recall is to set up the idea that determinations of what the law is must respond to popular impulse and to popular judgment. It is sufficient that the people should have the power to change the law when they will. It is not necessary that they should directly influence by threat of recall those who merely interpret the law already established. The importance and desirability of the recall as a means of administrative control ought not to be obscured by drawing it into this other and very different field.

How rapidly the new freedom is superseding the new nationalism as an expression of the popular desires is shown by the New Jersey vote where the Progressive candidate for Governor failed to carry a single county and received 100,000 less support than Col. Roosevelt one year ago.

COMMERCIAL VULTURES.

Judges and commissioners who deal with bankruptcy cases may find a suggestive warning against human buzzards who are looking for commercial wreckage in the following excerpt from an article on "Doctors of Credit" in the Saturday Evening Post:

> There are few legitimate credit men in the country who would not find it more agreeable to help a delinquent customer to get the solid ground under his feet than to close him out.
> Only the professional scavengers that live from the waste and wreckage of the bankruptcy courts take a real delight in financial failures. These are the vultures of the commercial world who spot their tottering victims before they fall; who hover over the deserts of business disaster and glut themselves upon the carcasses of the unfortunate.

No law or legal process should ever be misused for dishonest purposes.

BEHIND THE TIMES.

In dealing with their employes St. Louis garment manufacturers, with a few exceptions, lag behind the times. They inflict loss on the workers, on themselves and on the community, by refusing to join their employes in adopting a basis of fair wages and working conditions to insure lasting peace in the industry.

Conditions complained of here existed in New York and Chicago, the chief centers of the garment trade. In both these cities these evils have been cured, wages raised, hours shortened, sweating (by sub-contracting and home work) abolished, shop sanitation improved, an agency for arbitration of all differences created, and unions on both sides made strong enough to enforce compliance with the peace agreement by all their members.

St. Louis manufacturers employing 167 workers have accepted terms offered by the workers' union. Manufacturers employing 645 workers have refused these terms, and have refused to accept mediation either by the State Board of Arbitration or by a disinterested Citizens' Committee.

These men stand in their own light. Their attitude defends evil working conditions which cause tuberculosis among the workers and carry its menace to garment buyers; which make for oppression and discord, laying heavy cost in cash and comfort on the community. These working conditions have been abolished by agreement between workers and employers in New York and Chicago. They should be abolished here. St. Louis garment manufacturers cannot afford to have the word go out to the trade that the industry in this city is a sweated one. The city cannot afford it.

PUBLIC EDUCATION.

The public school system's obligation to hold open the door to a liberal culture for all American youths who seek it, is balanced by its equal but only lately recognized obligation to train the very much larger number of youths for the technical pursuits which they must inevitably adopt for a livelihood.

PEEPING TOMS.

Shenandoah avenue is receiving furtive attentions from a Peeping Tom. The residents, so far from regarding his admiration as flattering, are pestered and complain to the police. The experience of two residents the other night was typical. We read:

> The women were alone in the house, preparing to retire, when the daughter saw a man peering through a rear window. She pulled down the blind and the face appeared at another window. A second curtain was lowered, but the peeper went to the front of the house and stared in a third time.
> This was too much for both mother and daughter. They gave vent to screams that aroused the entire neighborhood and caused the peeper to hastily disappear over a back fence.

There is not much to applaud in merely inquisitive Peeping Tom. There would be more if his curiosity were directed to legitimate objects, or guided by nobler aims, if his ardor and courage partook of the lofty spirit of research, if his powers of observation were dedicated to science, if his intimate concern for the hygiene of the neighborhood were inspired by disinterested love of mankind or motives of enlightenment and human progress. The Devil on Two Sticks was by no means ignoble when he pried open the roof-tops of the great city by night to expose humanity in negligee to a broadly philosophical and sympathetic commentary. Peeping Tom, for his part, has but one redeeming feature. He inspires our enthusiasm only when he scurries over the back fence. Even then we should like to have a sherd, brickbat, tomato can or empty beer cruse in hand to speed the parting guest. It is only by comparison with some other egregious peepers, pryers and rubberneck reformers, who do not have the grace to go out over the back fence, that the casual Peeping Tom appears to positive advantage.

Privacy is one of the most-prized and dearest-bought rights of human beings. It is synonymous with liberty. We large bipeds cannot, like the fabled mouse, find cloister in the thick walls of a Parmesan cheese, but must have homes with doors and windows in them. Surrounding these "closes" common consent gradually established certain rights, and when liberty was in its prime it was said of the humblest cot of an Englishman that though the winds of heaven might enter through its chinks and the rains might enter through its roof, the King of England might not enter its door. Yet today into our vaunted homes of the free there enter a number and variety of busybodies who trespass upon privacy which the King would not dare invade.

Pull down the blinds and you may shut out the timid peeper—he does not come inside. But no fortification can render the average American home an impregnable castle against the officious pest who scales the walls and pries open bedroom windows; the spying reformer—the Sociological Snooper. To him or her, nothing is sacred, except a Cause. There is no sanctum immune from visitation, no retreat that is not penetrated by these crusading intruders and private census takers. To them your mode of living, the condition of your teeth, your sanitary state, your religious opinions, the quality and preparation of your food, the kind of clothes you wear, the color of your necktie, the color of your nose, your personal habits and the condition of your private morals are so many items of statistics, subjects of reports and bases for reforms. How long shall their tyranny be borne?

The Sociological Snooper and enemy of personal liberty will not scurry out over the back fence until there is a terrific shriek from united society.

IN URUGUAY.

Col. Roosevelt was talking to the people of Uruguay about their country.

"It must have been a singularly unselfish and modest man who put all those u's in Uruguay," he said.

His smile displayed every one of his teeth. A peal of laughter arose from the populace.

"Isn't he delightful?" they said, bowing and smiling one to another. "Think of him making that joke on himself!"

He joined them in laughter. What a man—that Teddy!

FALLEN FROM THE "BRANCH."

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Mlle. Febre—does that name seem to mean anything to the reader? We imagine not, and yet that is the simple name that was owned by the strangely shrinking genius whose death occurred recently in Switzerland, the author of the works signed Pierre de Coulevin.

Imagine the writer of best sellers, of books that have gone beyond their hundred and fiftieth edition, of whom scarcely anything is known but her name and of whom no photograph has been discovered!

Imagine a little old lady turning to literature at 56 and producing, stroke on stroke, five of the most delightful and successful volumes of contemporary literature and, meantime, resisting every effort at a personal publicity which was insisted on by a literary world consumed by curiosity!

Her name, her age and the mere fact that she had spent her early years as a governess or companion in American and English families, this is all that is known of Mlle. Fabre, except the wonderful knowledge of a soul that breaks through the pages of her books and tells the reader not the facts of her life, but the resultant of these facts.

It was in "Sur la Branche" ("On the Branch," or better perhaps, "On the Twig")—for such an airy little bird would more naturally balance itself on the far tip of some breeze-swung tree—that the author gives most self-revelation. On the branch, figuratively, sits the author and views the life of things about her. The branch is the room in some hotel or pension where, for a week or a season, the little author pauses, makes her notes, then to flit to another branch, different and yet the same. Just as in diffused light there are no shadows, so in a life, shielded from deep griefs there can be no intensity in passionate delight.

She flitted and flitted, and in her pale and decent life there was never a "lendemain" to her pleasures, never did she allow time to entangle a web about her heart, to fix her to places or persons, and all those sorrows that one must feel were away back in the corners of remembrance must have paled under the bleaching powder of her philosophy: "There can be happiness without joy."

Can this be true? We have for it the word of a strange, pale little old lady who fell lightly from her last branch—the Hotel Beau Sejour at Lausanne, Switzerland—and lies now among strangers, as she lived among them, quite contented, we feel sure, happy and yet joyless.

BEAUTY CULTURE.

W. Z. H.—There are few surgeons who successfully reduce a large nose. Surgical instrument stores sell nose clip to reduce it. A preparation, the application of which will sometimes reduce the size of a fleshy nose, is made from one dram of muriate of ammonia, half a dram of tannic acid, two ounces of glycerin and three ounces of rose water. The ammonia and acid should be put into the glycerin and dissolved before the rose water is added. A linen wet with this is put on at night and the nose is bathed several times a day, letting the liquid dry on. It should be used for some weeks. (Blink salt water solution into weak eyes.)

THANK YOU.—Moles are of several varieties; some are large and fleshy, while others are flat and small; some have hairs growing from them, while others may be blood red or a pale brown, and some almost black. For the fleshy ones the safest way is to tie a strong white silk thread as close to the root and as tightly as possible; this stops the nourishment given by the blood and the mole gradually dries and drops off. While the thread is on, the mole should never be picked at or in any way made sore. A mole is very different in its nature from the ordinary wart; physicians assert that a large and aggressive one may be the nucleus of cancer, developing on the slightest inflammation.

HEALTH HINTS.

QUIZZY.—No discovery of a cure for hardening of the arteries has been established as a fact. A physician writes: Hardening of the arteries is a sign of senility. The arteries harden because of the wear and tear through which the tissues have passed. Some of the factors that are wearing on the tissues and, therefore, in time, result in hardening of the arteries are venereal diseases, alcohol poisoning, gout, rheumatism, living at too rapid a pace, the strenuous life. To avoid hardening of the arteries at 60, one must avoid the causes during his 40 years and his 50 years. When hardening has been found to be present there is little use in locking the stable door, for the horse is out.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

A.—To polish abalone shells: Place in kettle, cover with lye, and boil from 6 to 7 hours to remove the coarse surface, after which wash often in fresh water and dry. Then polish with felt polishing wheels coated with No. 60 emery, then with a wheel with No. 150 emery, and lastly with a flannel buff with rouge to give a high finish.

B. P.—An experimenter says: Gasoline and paint will dye any shade desired; the dyed article will never need any pressing afterward. Obtain from any artists' supply store a tube of oil paint of desired color. Dissolve a little at a time in about one-half gallon of gasoline for two pounds of goods until desired shade is obtained. It is best to try with a small piece of white net or goods first before dipping article. Then dip article to be colored into same, rinsing up and down until evenly distributed. Shake well, hang in the air to dry, then put, when thoroughly dry, before hot oven to absorb gasoline odors. This process will dye nets, veilings, curtains, lace waist, faded flowers—in fact, anything one could wish to color.

Q. Y.—Ravioli: 23 eggs, well beaten; 5 bunches lettuce, making about [illegible] handfuls after squeezed dry; the center of 1 bunch celery; 4 or 5 pieces garlic; 6 crackers, rolled fine; 1 pint olive oil, 1 large bowl grated Italian cheese; salt, pepper, cinnamon, allspice and cloves to suit taste; 1 set brains, cleaned and chopped fine; [illegible] handfuls mushrooms, soaked and minced, and added last of all. Make dough of whites of 5 eggs, 2 quarts flour and water and salt until like pie crust. Roll into thin layers and cut with large biscuit cutter. Place large spoonful of mixture on half of each, round and cover with other half. Wet edges and press firmly together. Drop into boiling water and boil 10 minutes. Gravy for ravioli: Put large potroast of beef into [illegible] spoonfuls of grease, fry brown on both sides or roast, then take from pan. Chop fine 6 small onions, 1 bunch celery, 4 pieces garlic, pint peeled or canned tomatoes. Add stock, spices to taste and simmer until ready to serve.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WISE.—For books on canary birds and goldfish, see book stores or libraries.

ORPHAN.—Free Legal Aid Bureau, Board of Education Building, Ninth and Locust.

ZELLER.—For the picture, "An Argument With the Town Marshal," try writing Collier's Weekly, New York.

RYAN.—Indian stone ax is quoted at 25 cents in curio store. Silver 5-cent piece, 1865, 40 cents. Cent, [illegible], 7 cents. Half dollar of 1819, face value only.

ANXIOUS.—If your property is not in an incorporated town having fire protection, insurance company will attach rider allowing vacancy, the same being good for one month, and must be extended at expiration. If the same has fire protection the rider may be put on not specifying any length of time, in which event it continues until expiration of policy. Look over the forms attached to your policies and see whether vacancy is permitted; if so, no notice to company is required. Leaving some or all furniture in house and staying away for an indefinite time constitutes a vacancy or unoccupancy within the meaning of your insurance contract. Some companies prefer to cancel county policies when becoming unoccupied. See your agent.

SCOTT.—The Standard Bible Dictionary says: "In the matter of the failure of his brothers to believe in Jesus (John vii, 5), the evidence, though negative, indicates that Mary was more sympathetic and expectant than they." The New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge says: "The question of Mary's maternal relationship to Jesus on the one hand and to 'the brethren of the Lord' on the other, is a less difficult one. The designation of Jesus as 'her first born son' (Luke ii, 1) and the statement as to her relations with Joseph (Matthew i, 25, cf. i, 18), seem to point to the conclusion that the persons called in the gospels and in Acts i, 14 the brethren of the Lord were the younger sons of Joseph and Mary. For various reasons the theory of Jerome that they were cousins, and that of Epiphanius that they were children of Joseph by a former marriage are untenable."

MANLEY.—Most of our Presidents have been college graduates. Washington, Jackson, Van Buren, Taylor, Fillmore, Lincoln, Johnson and Cleveland were without college training. McKinley attended Union Seminary, Mahoning County, O., and from there went to Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., where he entered the junior class. Ill health compelled him to leave before graduation. Jefferson, Monroe and Tyler were graduates of William and Mary, Madison of Princeton. The two Adamses and Roosevelt were Harvard men. Grant was a West Pointer. Honors are even between Harvard and William and Mary, each having graduated three future Presidents. Polk was a son of the University of North Carolina, Pierce of Bowdoin, Buchanan of Dikenson, Hayes of Kenyon, Garfield of Williams, Arthur of Union and Benjamin Harrison of Miami. W. H. Harrison attended Hampden Sidney, but there is no record of his graduation. Taft and Wilson are college graduates. Downfall of Tammany Hailed by the Country

THE downfall of Tammany was the striking occurrence of the week. It was hailed as an auspicious event by newspapers throughout the country, not a single journal deploring the defeat of the Wigwam.

"Not a Matter for Exultation.

New York World: Tammany has been beaten, with unlimited corporation money and influence behind it. But when a quarter of a million voters cast their ballots for Tammany's candidates, these ballots are a shocking manifestation of popular indifference to honesty and decency in government. It is idle to attribute this vote to the underworld. It is idle to attribute it to criminals and repeaters and Tammany colonizers. Tammany's vote for the most part, represents the vote of respectable citizens. Some of them followed Murphy's organization through a sense of regularity. Some of them supported Tammany because they can "do business" with Tammany. Some of them were influenced by religious or factional or personal prejudices. Some of them were moved by an inhrent distrust of everything that is called reform government. But whatever the motives the votes speak for themselves and the fact that Tammany under the leadership of its most detested boss, could make so formidable a showing in such a campaign is a matter for anything but exultation.

Tammany's Former Defeats.

St. Louis Republic: Tammany is utterly and hopelessly corrupt. The Ethiopian may change his skin and the leopard his spots sooner than Tammany its stripes. But we who are old enough to remember the Strong administration and the Low administration may be pardoned for our failure to sing an enthusiastic Te Deum just because once more the anti-Tammany forces are victorious at the polls. "It is easier to win victory than it is to use it" remarked Dr. Parkhurst, the morning after Col. Strong was elected, a score of years ago. And the administration that followed was an eloquent commentary on the pregnant saying.

"What Else?"

Milwaukee Leader: It is one of the ironies of working class political servitude that the workers are constantly helping to rivet their own chains. Tammany could not live a single day without the votes of the poor. We should not be too severe upon the workers who vote against their own interests. Until the Socialist party came into being, they had no choice. After repeatedly jumping from the Republican frying pan into the Democratic fire, after having tried both tweedledee and tweedledum, thousands and millions of them have come to look upon their votes as hardly worth the trouble to cast. What else could be expected?

No "Chinese Puzzles."

Washington Times: New York City commanded the attention of the nation. That is true probably, because the issue was simple and the elements in it readily understandable. It was straightaway fight between bad government and good; between boss rule and popular rule; between contractor-control and the management of affairs for the people's interest; between Tammany and decency. The public can understand such a situation as that. It can be very sure that a victory for decent government will be a victory for decent government. It doesn't have to work any Chinese puzzles in order to decide what side it ought to support.

A Second Time.

New York Evening Sun: For the second time in recent local political history the voters of this town went to the polls not to decide between the respective merits of two candidates or the comparative sanity of two political platforms. Again as in 1901, the compelling emotion of a decisive majority was the desire to strike down the grafters and the corruptionists whose handiwork was visible within and without the city. Like the campaign of 1901, the canvas on 1913 has been a long period of hysteria of violent language, of unrest, and of passion. As the "red lights" cast a lurid glow over the earlier struggle and the "brass checks" nightly moved thousands to incredible wrath so the history of William Sulser and the incidents, real or apocryphal, ascribed to Tammany rule at Albany, have produced a similar tremendous and irresistible wave of popular wrath, indignation, destructive fury.

"Lean Pickings."

New York Times: The leader of such an organization as Tammany, living on plunder and held together by the hope of it, might survive a less exemplary defeat but it would seem that such a sweeping disaster as that which befell Mr. Murphy ought to make an end of his bossship. Indeed, the fruits of the triumph will be in great measure wasted if Tammany is not starved to death during these coming four years. It has had pretty lean pickings since 1909. Now it will be altogether barred out until 1918. Why should it not be barred out forever, disorganized, broken up and destroyed?

"A Staggering Blow."

New York Tribune: The true Democrats of the city can take equal pride in the victory. The vote for Mr. Mitchel is a token of what the honest men of the party can do to Tammany, now that they have begun to fight. Mr. Murphy has been dealt a staggering blow. Already cut off from help from Washington, he faces four lean years in the city and the prospect of a rising tide of revolt in city and State. The chances of cleansing the party of the vicious elements which have so long disgraced it could not be brighter.

"Never Such Blundering."

New York Press: From the beginning of the Tammany folly—the rejection of Gaynor and the impeachment of Sulzer, The Press has said that never before in New York politics was there such blundering as Murphy committed or let others commit. So the voters of this city have declared at the polls.

"I Done It."

Chicago Record-Herald: Sweet William, formerly Same Old Bill, has triumphed. He has won himself in an assembly district. He has beaten Murphy and McCall in the City of New York. Editors may claim part of the glory. They may even claim it all. That is their way, and it must be acknowledged that there were combinations that counted. But William is the hero of the hour. There are diversities in the returns that the editors will have to explain. William may concentrate on himself and say: "I have done it." How did William turn the tide and make the bettors desert Murphy, McCall and Tammany? By stirring the clam-bake and turkey recruits who are commonly the dear wards of Tammany. He swayed the mob with a more passionate fervor than Mark Antony's. What he exposed in addition to himself it is difficult to say, because in his regard for the unpoetic truth he certainly resembles Antony more than he does George Washington. But Tammany, brutal, corrupt, tyrannical, had made him a knight-errant to turn its rottenness against it for its own humiliation, and that is delightful.

"Exile or Jail."

New York Evening Post: Before the election Murphy vowed that he would not retire even if it went against him. But the immense debacle in which he has gone down puts his next step beyond his own volition. For him to quit is not a matter of choice but of necessity. Exile or jail for Murphy, will speedily be the cry. Far beyond his dense personality however, does the meaning of Tuesday's great victory strike.

Sulzer's "Bitter Joy."

Chicago Inter Ocean: To William Sulzer, who goes back to Albany in the lesser office of Assemblyman, the result should be the occasion of bitter joy. He may have such consolation as comes from the fact that his immolation probably led to Tammany's undoing. With Mitchel Mayor and Whitman District Attorney, it really looks as if Murphy is shelved, and it would not be surprising if the Tammany chieftain were forced to follow the example of his predecessor, Croker, and leave the country for its good.

White House Rejoicing.

Indianapolis News: The President's greatest victory was that won by the Fusionists in New York. The Fusion candidate for Mayor, Mr. Mitchel, had held federal office at the hands of the administration. He had, too, the moral support of Wilson, and the active support of a member of his official household. We do not suppose that there is any greater rejoicing over the over throw of Tammany than that in the White House. Murphy's rout is complete. He loses everything. Cut adrift long since by the President, he is now stripped of all local power. Even the Assembly which was heavily Democratic, will now be controlled by the Republicans.

Compared With Indianapolis.

Indianapolis Star: The Indianapolis municipal campaign must have seemed rather lively to its participants, but it was a tame affair compared to New York City's mayoralty contest. The latter was becoming decidedly animated before Sulzer and Hennessey precipitated themselves into it, but after that it was a succession of wild and noisy meetings, specific and serious charges of graft against the Tammany boss and improper financial proceedings on the part of the Tammany candidate, with occasional egg throwing directed to Sulzer and a handing back and forth of accusations and denials until the atmosphere was thick with them.

Murphy's Finish.

Philadelphia North American: Mr. Murphy admits getting a campaign contribution of $25,000 from the late Anthony Brady, but says he returned it. This settles Murphy with Tammany Hall.

New Lights on Mexico

AN imaginary "ultimatum," an application to France for "mediation," offers from Carranza and the usual raft of diplomatic rumors, kept the Mexican pot boiling during the week. The American papers are becoming more united and pronounced in their support of President Wilson's position, regardless of party affiliations or former utterances.

"Not Going to Intervene."

Washington Times: The United States Government is not going to intervene. No conditions have developed thus far, and none is foreshadowed which the administration believes sufficient to force that move. Neither does the administration fear that Europe will make any trouble to add to the difficulties of adherence to this program.

"A Remarkable Feat."

London Times: Any attempt to break down Huerta's influence without intervention would result in increasing his pretension to pose as a patriot and the champion of national rights. If President Wilson can secure a firm and honest government in Mexico without a preliminary season of bloodshed and chaos, he will perform a very remarkable feat. But the damage to American interests by continued disorders is so great that we can understand his attempting it.

"Ready to Give Support."

London Chronicle: Whether or not a formal ultimatum has been sent, the effect is the same. Huerta must surrender or the United States must undertake a Mexican war, and it is quite unlikely that Huerta will yield. The European nations, although they have great interests there, cannot conceivably contemplate going to war with Mexico, but are ready to give their sympathy and passive support to the United States.

"Increases Difficulties."

London Express: Delay only increases the difficulties and the United States must either act and rescue Mexico from chaos or the Monroe doctrine must be revised.

"Will Not Be Daunted."

London Morning Post: It is more important for the United States to secure good government in Mexico than in any of the smaller states, and if this end can only be achieved by intervention, her people will not be daunted by the cost.

"Recognize Belligerants!"

Chicago Tribune: The Constitutionalists keep themselves in the field and get their munitions as they are able. They are able to avoid engagements most of the time, unless they choose to accept an opportunity. The duration of such warfar may be indefinite. The condition invites to brigandage and murder. We might serve the interests of peace best by permitting the opposition to obtain arms and come to a speedier decision.

Against Intervention.

New York Sun: If it were left to the European powers that have interests, that is to say, investments in Mexico, the decision would be that the United States should intervene and occupy Mexico to restore order. These powers have everything to gain and in the long run nothing to lose by American intervention. If the matter were left to Americans who have land holdings and valuable mining interests in Mexico, they would not hesitate to urge armed intervention, since they would stand to win, not to lose, by a course that would make the United States supreme in Mexico, since her people could not prevail against the invading armies. But if the question of intervention were left to the great body of American people who have no interests in Mexico and would have to do any fighting that was to be done the verdict would undoubtedly be against intervention, for it would cost hundreds of millions of dollars and probable unsettle business for a very long period. Nothing but massacres of Americans across the border or insults to the American flag would arouse the American people and provoke them to demand war with Mexico.

One Remedy.

Portland Oregonian: The sole stern measure needed in Mexico is a swift kick, well placed.

"The Paramount Issue."

Des Moines Capitol: The paramount issue of the hour is not the bellicose catering to jingoistic sentiment or salving the irritation of a peace-at-any-price contingent, but the early announcement of a program which will say what it means, mean what it says, vindicate our own national self-respect and our ability to meet any emergency which may arise in the opinion of all the nations of the earth.

"Academic Opportunism."

New York Tribune: The facts seem to be that our administration, by maintaining what it perhaps considers to be a policy of academic opportunism, has permitted itself to drift unpleasantly far toward these very complications which it has ostensibly been striving to avoid and which doubtless it sincerely desires to avoid. There is yet time to escape a catastrophe; but that is to be done, not through ultimatums or penultimatums nor through vague platitudes about moral suasion, but only through the speedy adoption of a logical, resolute and equitable policy, which knows itself and can be comprehended by the world.

The "Undesirables."

Washington Post: With the exchequer running low, Vic Huerta must be wishing he had some of those undesirable rich Americans back again.

"Only Temporary Relief."

Philadelphia Evening Telegraph: The announcement that the interested foreign governments will not take any action in Mexico until the Washington administration has submitted a policy with regard to that country will serve to relieve some of President Wilson's embarrassment, but it will be only a temporary relief unless the administration measures up promptly and decisively to the full demands of the situation.

A "Hearty" Grip.

Los Angeles Express: If Huerta eventually forces us to take a hand in the Mexican turmoil, we assure him that it will not be any half-hearted grip which we extend.

The Need of Money.

Evening Wisconsin: The condition of the Mexican exchequer was attractive when Madero took hold of the Government. Huerta found funds low and the Government's credit poor. Now the situation is positively alarming, the payment of salaries to Federal officers constituting a monthly problem. Not only is money "the sinews of war," but "money makes the mare go." If Huerta cannot devise some way of substantially replenishing the Federal strong box, his administration will find itself in a worse condition than it has confronted at any time since Madero and Suarez were "killed while trying to [illegible]."

Mexican "Elections.

Atlanta Constitution: In Mexico it seems to be a question of just one election after another.

"Intervention Not Necessary."

Pittsburg Gazette-Times: The situation in Mexico is not parallel with that obtaining in China at the time of the Boxer uprising. There the trouble was centered in Peking, while in Mexico it covers the nation and is totally different in essence, scope and results. Intervention at any rate may not be necessary, however desirable from one standpoint it appears at this time. The United States owes it to its honor and dignity to work out the problem as best it can, and with patience and tolerance. Mere cost cannot be pleaded as justification for turning to Europe until we are ready to admit our helplessness in the presence of a genuinely serious crisis involving American principles

Learning Rapidly.

Milwaukee News: Certainly Mr. Lind will be able to give an expert course dealing with diplomacy when he gets through.

A Far Cry From Diaz.

Los Angeles Herald: Porfirio Diaz was the last dictator of Mexico. But it is a far cry from the administration of that "man of iron," who was known, respected and admired for his achievement afield and in chambers of state, who was popularly believed to be "born to rule" and whom the people elected again and again to office—a far cry from that reputation of Diaz to the popular suspicion and hatred and contempt felt for Huerta. And for all that, the Mexican people rose against the dictatorship of Diaz and sent him scurrying, an exile, to Europe. With so recent history before him, how can Huerta hope to conquer the people? How can he count upon popular submission?

A Word for Japan.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: All things considered, Japan is displaying admirable moderation and restraint. There are thousands of Japanese subjects in Mexico, and they are in as great danger as the subjects of the European nations. But Japan has dispatched no warship to Mexican waters, nor has she in any way attempted to interfere with the United States in the Mexican difficulties.

"May Prove Embarrassing."

Indianapolis News: Much depends on the views of the European powers interested in Mexico. The general sentiment entertained by the American public with regard to the dictator, Huerta, is that he has no right to the control of the Mexican Government and that the sooner he is eliminated the better for the country. But for the United States Government to get Huerta out of the way may prove embarrassing.

"He Dreads It."

Philadelphia Inquirer: President Wilson's delay in framing and announcing some sort of definite policy in regard to Mexico reminds one impressively of the farmer on his way to town. Being met on the way by another farmer, who asked him where he was going, he replied: "Wa-al, I'll tell yuh, Eph; I'm going tuh town tuh git drunk, and, gee whiz! yuh don't know how I dread it." The President is going to announce some sort of Mexican policy soon, but gee whiz! you don't know how he dreads it!

"Like Kilkenny Cats."

New Orleans Picayune: This would be a Kilkenny cat business, not requiring on our part any shedding of blood, although it might bring down a terrible revenge upon our fellow citizens who still have remained in Mexico after they had all been warned to get out. But it has been insisted that when American citizens, for any purposes of pleasure or profit, go beyond the lim'ts of their own country, they do so at their own risk, all of which seems to be peculiarly a doctrine held by the United States.

Income Tax in Operation

THE Federal income tax law went into operation Nov. 1 and immediately developed numberless complexities which the Treasury Department has since been engaged in straightening out.

Wall Street "Knocking" It.

Indianapolis News: The reports from Wall street and elsewhere that the "best lawyers of the country" are puzzled to construe the income tax—the intimation being that the law itself is a muddle—need not be seriously regarded. This income tax law is not a jumble of provisions; its newness occasions most of the concern. Whatever changes experience shows are necessary will undoubtedly be made.

One Way.

Milwaukee Daily News: As to that income tax, it is certainly one fast way of producing income for the Government. That's one income that's exempt.

The English Plan.

Kansas City Times: Look to the income tax law to see how the old idea works, that the body that makes the law should have nothing to do with the body that administers law. Congress makes a law that nobody understands, and then it is up to somebody else to understand it and enforce it. In England the department that has to administer a law works out the plan with the lawmakers. In such a scheme everyone can know how the law is going to work before it is enacted.

"Cannot Be Nullified."

Louisville Evening Post: Louisville lawyers who have examined the new income tax law pronounce it one of the most puzzling documents that has ever come under their observation. Reports from New York and other financial centers indicate that the same uncertainty as to the exact meaning of the law exists elsewhere. In the end the law officers of the Government will give opinions construing the law and after that the Federal courts will probably be asked to make a ruling. The authority to pass such a law having been given by an amendment to the Constitution, there is no possibility of the law being nullified.

An Amusing Feature.

Detroit Free Press: A feature of the new income tax that would be amusing if it were not so generally irritating is the sudden discovery that its vexations are falling upon the relatively poor, where it was supposed that only the rich would be worrying about this time The wealthy man knows that his income for the year will necessitate his paying the tax in any case and he contributes his pro rata at once when he draws a dividend or cashes a coupon, but the man who is ignorant whether he will cross the exemption line until he closes his books for the year is forced now to choose between doing without his dividend for months or paying to the Government money he may not owe and will presumably have trouble in getting back.

"Express Their Disgust."

Philadelphia Ledger: In America today are many thousands of good citizens who do not hesitate to express their disgust because of the hopeless mix-up in the income tax regulations, and the chances are that the troubles will increase. Already the 5 per cent reduction clause for the benefit of American ships has been quietly killed by a legal opinion, and it will be necessary to get rid of other embarrassments in somewhat the same way. Unfortunately, the income tax troubles cannot be solved so easily. It is clearly a case of not having in the service at Washington men who know what they are trying to do. This incompetence is taking the time and upsetting the patience of the successful men of the whole country—the men who can pay the income tax and who are, therefore, the men who count for most in business.

"New Impossibilities."

New York Times: Every day discloses new impossibilities in the operation of the income tax law. The meaning of the statute is elucidated by treasury regulations, the gloss nearly equaling the volume of the text, and when these prove incomprehensible, new regulations appear, until in the hands of the taxed, of the banks, of the corporations and of the lawyers there accumulates a palimpsest literature of the income tax, one print overlaying the other, and all of impenetrable obscurity.

The money bill began in this way and may end in this way. In the first draft there were provisions to make bankers gasp, things that were appalling to men of understanding. In that form the bill would have brought on financial chaos, had it been possible to set up and operate the system it provided for. Fortunately the bill contained its own corrective—it was impossible.

FOREIGN NEWS GATHERED FOR THE SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH

"WHY ARE WE DOWDIEST OF ALL GIRLS WE MEET?"

"My Gloves Smell of Benzine," Indignant Grand Duchess Tatiana Complains to Her Father, the Czar, "and Our Hats Would Disgrace Charity Children. Smell my Gloves, Papa"—Paris Gowns Ordered Now.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1913, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Russia, Nov. 8.—"Why are we the dowdiest of all the young we meet?" asked the Czar's second daughter of her governess a few days ago, on returning to Lividia from the Crimean agricultural fair at Yalla with her father and her three sisters.

Mindful of the presence of the Czar, the governess murmured in reply that their Imperial Highnesses are always well dressed.

"No, we are not," Grand Duchess Tatiana persisted. "My gloves smell of benzine and our hats would disgrace charity children. Smell my gloves, papa."

"But the state rooms at the palace always seem to me to have this smell," he added modestly.

"Of course, they do," Tatiana exclaimed. "I think it is disgraceful. People just take advantage because you are easy going and put us off with all kinds of nasty thigs. It is a great shame."

This conversation occurred as the imperal barge was taking the family to the yacht, and resulted in a fuss being made at court. The budget shows that $8,000,000 is spent on the palaces annually, and they all smell of benzine. The eldest two Grand Duchesses have now had new frocks ordered from Paris.

Old Baron Fredericks, the Minister of the Court, who is 76, nearly had a fit when he was told to order them. He declared the Czarina's fortune would not stand such extravagance. But Grand Duchess Olga, who knows that in theory at least all the wealth of the Russias belongs to her father, absolutely, backed up her next younger sister, Tatiana, and they have had their way.

Greedy Court Grafters Responsible.

The fact is that the Czar and his wife, who hate show, have let greedy officials put down all sorts of expenses that are never made, and the Princesses are so shabby that their dowdiness has become a by-word in Russian society. Now that they are growing up, the girls have found this out. All last winter they walked out in one shabby hat apiece. The Czar, who is very fond of his daughters and never happier than when with them, has now had his eyes opened and the whole family has been promised new clothes.

Neither the Czarina nor the Czarevitch has been going about this autumn in the glorious Crimean air. The poor lady still believes she is expecting the stork, but it is not yet certain whether it means another hallucination or is really so.

The Czarevitch is no stronger. He never appears at functions now. His last public appearance was at Moscow in June, when he was carried on a Cossack's shoulder. Only the Czar and his daughters show themselves at simple little entertainments given in their honor. On Sundays, when members of the suite are asked to lunch at the royal table, the Czarina eats in her own apartments.

The whole imperial family was caught by the camera recently on one of their frequent trips from Livadia out to the imperial yacht Standart in the state barge, an ornate affair which brings to mind both the galleys of ancient Rome and the Venetian craft of the middle ages.

In the stern sat the Czar's naval aid, with the commander of the craft behind him. At the Czar's right was the Czarina, whose face was hidden from the camera by her husband. At her left sat the Czarevitch, in front of whom was the Grand Duchess Tatiana. On the other side was the Duchess Olga, at whose left was Duchess Anastasia, the youngest daughter, and, last, Grand Duchess Marie.

"Shall Never Be Better."

The Czarevitch's latest pet was a young fox, which one of the servants caught for him. It lived in a kennel near the royal apartments and Alexis was carried twice a day to see and play with it. One day he asked the sailor who is always with him if he thought the fox was unhappy in the kennel.

"It would be happier in the woods," admitted the sailor. "He would run about if he had his freedom."

The child thought for a moment, then said, sadly:

"I have freedom and father is the most powerful sovereign in the world, yet I cannot run about."

The sailor, who adores his charge, tried to comfort him, saying he would soon be better.

"No, I shall never be better," the lad retorted. "I see it in father's eyes."

When he was carried home he said:

"Go back and take that poor litle fox into the woods. Let him be happy, anyway. Foxes were meant to be happy."

Grand Duchess Olga's engagement to Charles, son of Rumania's Crown Prince, has not been announced, despite semi-official assurances in Rumania that the marriage has been arranged. Her beloved cousin, Dimitri Pavlovitch, was here a short time ago and spent the day with the Czar and his family.

New Russian Ballet Star.

A new star of the Russian ballet suddenly shone out at the Marinski Theater at the beginning of the present season and she is accepted by the critics as of the first magnitude. She is Mme. Smirnova. She completed her conquest of the connoisseurs by her performance of the leading role of Kitri in the large ballet of "Don Quixote."

Unquestionably she is the first great dancer to emerge from the school of the Russian imperial ballet since Pavlova ceased to appear regularly in St. Petersburg. The ballet is criticised here in the spirit that it is given to the most ambitious musical compositions. The Novoye Vremya salutes Mme. Smirnova's debut as "a serious event" and declares that her talents deserve the unbounded enthusiasm of the theatergoers. The St. Peterburgskoya Gazette recognizes that she has great intelligence and dramatic grace but thinks that as yet her dancing is more noted for its dash than for "the pure flame of the spirit" which burns in Pavlova's dancing.

Rodin Wars on Frauds.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—M. Auguste Rodin, the famous sculptor, has discovered that there are a number of art warehouses in Paris well stocked with statuettes copied from his works and bearing his signature. He has decided to institute legal proceedings.

GERARD CALLED "MR. CARNATION" BY BERLIN PRESS

Papers Prompted by Envoy and Staff Having No Other Decoration and No Court Costume.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1913, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Since American Ambassador Gerard and his staff wore plain evening dress at their first audience with the Emperor, their only adornment being a white carnation in a buttonhole, the Berlin press has unanimously conferred upon the Ambassador the title of "Mr. Carnation."

As the Berliner Zeitung puts it, Judge Gerard has "broken the uniform tradition of the American Embassy," which was instituted by Charlemagne Tower, dropped by David Jayne Hill and revived by John C. A. Leishman. Emperor William evidently does not intend to slight the Ambassador for thus emphasizing his American citizenship, for at the audience the Emperor promptly granted the envoy's request that a squadron of modern warships be sent to represent Germany in the International Navy to be assembled to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal.

At the farewell dinner this week to Consul-General Thackera, which was attended by all the prominent Americans in Berlin, Ambassador Gerard made a speech in which he remarked that he had been performing an American Ambassador's first duty in Berlin—to look over sixteenth century houses in the hope of finding one he can live in.

This moved the Vossische Zeitung to observe:

"If this American diplomat had not been first a jurist and then a diplomat, he might have become a world-famous humorist."

Already Judge Gerard has become the most popular American who ever came to Berlin.

BERLIN EVEN SANCTIONS TANGO TEAS ON SUNDAY

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—That tango teas are to be a feature of the coming season is settled. A beginning was made last Sunday afternoon, when Countess Hans Schwerin-Loewitz gave a tango tea in the official apartments in the Prussian Diet building of her husband, who is the President of the Chamber of Deputies.

Chief among her guests were American Ambassador Gerard, Mrs. Thackera, wife of the American Consul-General; Miss Thackera, Mrs. Luce and her daughter, who have taken rooms in the Hotel Esplanade for the season; Joseph C. Grewe, secretary of the American Embassy; Willing Spencer, second secretary, and Maj. George T. Langhorne, the new Military Attache.

AMBASSADOR PAGE'S WIFE GIVES DANCE FOR DAUGHTER

It Is Merely a Small Party With Piano Music and No Effort at Display.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1913, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Ambassador Walter H. Page's wife gave a small dance at her residence on Grosvenor Square Monday night for her daughter. It was a very quiet affair. There was no dinner party. Two dozen girls and as many men came in soon after 10 o'clock and danced in the big drawing-room overlooking the square, which had been cleared for the evening. There was no band. Miss Latham played the piano, and the young people danced until about 1 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. Page wore gray and silver, with roses in the dress and a few diamonds.

Miss Page was in white, with a high white satin waist, a belt with a diamond buckle, pale pink roses on one shoulder and a string of pearls around the neck. No decoration of any kind was attempted except on the long supper table in the dining room, all down the center of which were vases of yellow roses and tinted autumn foliage. Later Mrs. Page intends to give a big ball.

Queen Honors Mrs. Page.

Queen Mary has sent Mrs. Page a photograph of herself in evening dress, with her Russian tiara. It is a three-quarters length portrait, in a beautifully embossed silver frame.

On Queen Mary's recommendation, the Duchess of Roxburghe (who was Miss May Goelet of New York) has engaged as chief nurse for "the miraculous infant" (as her baby son is known among her friends) a woman who helped to rear the two younger royal princes. It was hoped that the Duchess would be satisfied to leave the infant in this woman's practiced hands and spare herself. But the Duchess continued to superintend all the infant's day and its night as well. Every atom it eats is prepared under her own supervision. She is with it during all its waking hours and most of its sleeping ones, being the most devoted of mothers.

Mrs. John Astor's London friends have been sending her message of congratulation on the news that she is to have $50,000 a year under the will of her brother, John Rhea Barton Willing. She is expected back here in March.

The Duchess of Marlborough came to London from Paris specially to join Lord Iveagh's annual party for the King at Elvoden, the finest partridge shooting estate in Great Britain. The King's taste is simplicity itself and instead of requiring a luxurious suite at Elvoden he occupies a small suite consisting of a bedroom, a sitting-room and a bathroom, expressly furnished with a tub bath, which he prefers. Breakfast is served at 9 o'clock, at which the King is always present. He never takes anything but two cups of coffee, a poached or a boiled egg and toast.

The Duchess of Marlborough was one of the ladies who joined the guns on two days, the others being Mrs. Keppel and the Countess of Arran. The Duchess wears heather tweed costumes with a small felt hat and a high bow of brown-green ribbon.

Her Grace will return to Sutherland House later, and will stay with Cora Lady Stafford at Houghten, where a succession of house parties are being entertained.

Among the Duchess' later activities was speaking and canvassing for votes for Mrs. Cassiday, a woman candidate for the Battersea Borough Council. The Duchess found that the first thing seh had to do everywhere was to disclaim any sympathy or connection with the militant suffragettes. Her mother's patronage of Mrs. Pankhurst was instantly brought up as evidence against her wherever she appeared, and the Duchess had to explain that she differed with her mother on that question.

The Duchess was the most famous American woman on the grouse moors this year. She had rented Achnassellach Forest and her guests had excellent stag shooting.

AVIATOR LOSES POMMERY CUP BY SPELLING OF TOWN

PARIS, Nov. 8.—It turns out that the aviator Guillaux lacked only one letter of the alphabet to win the Pommery Cup for the semester ending Oct. 31, which is given for the longest flight in a single day, between sunrise and sunset. Guillaux set out from Biarritz and the next morning he telegraphed to a Paris paper that he had landed at Brockel, in Germany. In traslation the name was changed to Brackel.

The National Aerial League expert decided that Guillaux's flight from Biarritz to "Brackel" was four kilometers longer than had been made before, which would entitle him to the cup. But it has since been discovered that there is a Brockel and a Brackel and that it was Brockel where Guillaux landed. As Brockel is 40 kilometers nearer the starting point, Guillanx does not get the cup.

Dog Is Legacy for Sarah Bernhardt.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Miss Storer of Marlborough Hill, on whom an inquest was held recently, left her property consisting of a pet dog and a few other belongings, to Sarah Bernhardt.

TANGO HAS NOW BECOME OFFICIAL DANCE IN PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 8.—President Budost of the French Senate and President Deschanel of the Chamber of Deputies were consulted recently upon the momentous question as to whether the tango should be permitted at official balls this winter. They referred the matter to the President of the republic, M. Poincare, who consented to make tango an official dance at Government functions.

SERVIA ORDERS 900,000 MEDALS FOR HER VETERANS

GENEVA, Nov. 8.—All the Serbs who fought in the two Balkan wars or, rather all who lived to tell about it, will be wearing medals before the end of the year. The Servian Government has placed an order with a Swiss firm for 900,000 medals, which are to be distributed among the officers and men in the two wars. The contract requires that the medals be delivered before the end of the year.

Debutante Luncheons to Be Given Every Day This Week Except Saturday—Charity Ball Is to Take Place at Dreamland Tuesday Evening—"Dancing Teas" to Be One of the Leading Forms of Entertainment for the Social Set—St. Louis Men Criticised for Lack of Manners.

By Frances Cabanne Scovel.

EVER since that little episode in the Garden of Eden men have blamed their shortcomings on women. So it has been said down through the ages.

And now what DO you think is the latest?

They are blaming their bad manners on the girls!

There has been a lot of talk for the last two years about the shocking bad manners of the young men in St. Louis who are part of the so-called fashionable set and now the dear things are getting quite sensitive on the subject and are beginning to "talk back."

They say they "HAVEN'T bad manners"—that is, not ALL of them—and if there are some who are rude and don't pay their calls and send acceptances or regrets to dinner dances and things, it is not THEIR fault, but the fault of the GIRLS THEMSELVES who put up with it and keep on running after the aforesaid group of rude ones because they—the girls, especially the debutantes—think they must have this little crowd who are known as the "dancing set" in their train, in order to be thought belles.

And the funny part of it is, they are right.

The girls put up with it, and so do the leaders who do the entertaining.

There is always a table prepared at a dinner dance for the men who don't make up their minds whether they will go until the last minute. Sometimes they send their regrets and then go without letting their hostess know, and sometimes the hostess gets a lot of regrets the day after the affair.

There are times when the woman who is giving the party gets impatient because she is perfectly at sea as to how many to provide for, because at a dinner dance one naturally "counts noses" and finally calls up over the phone to see if the invitation had gone astray and incidentally to find out if the young man is coming or not. There is one story being very much discussed right now of one of the spoiled beaux answering that "he really hadn't made up his mind." If his mother knew it she would spank him and his older brother would disown him.

Now there are two kinds of men, one young leader said, "men and gentlemen," and with the latter they have no trouble. So a number of the gentlemen admit that there is a small group of men who are spoiled to death because they have been very much run after and think all they have to do is to be taken to places by the girls who buy the theater tickets, furnish the transportation and supper afterward. They never pay a call, never take a girl a single place and yet they keep on being invited places because they are supposed to have money and to be "catches."

Mrs. Morrison said she wished something could be published about the way things are done in the East. There everyone is much more prompt about sending acceptances or regrets, especially to a dinner dance. The girls go, several together, knowing dinner partners have been provided by their hostess, who has received acceptances from a number of the men who are perfectly willing to have her place them as she sees fit. In that way the men who can't afford motors and all the other trimmings feel that they are "singing for their supper" and the girls know that there will be beaux enough to go 'round.

She also said from what she had heard from the women who have entertained recently—the last few years—that the girls were slow in sending their acceptances because they waited for the men to ask them to go, and as the men didn't decide about going until the eleventh hour, the poor hostess, who was doing something for their pleasure, didn't know whether she was going to have anyone at her party or not.

To quote her literally, she said:

"I have always believed that young people's shortcomings arise principally from thoughtlessness, and I am convinced that the kindness of their natures will prompt them if allowed a chance not to incommode ladies who are trying to contribute to their pleasure by giving painstaking entertainments, therefore let them reflect that a speedy reply to invitations is one of the means of showing their appreciation and that no hostess should be expected to wait longer than three days before a party for a reply, more especially to a dinner dance; after that a noncommunication should be looked upon as regrets, and I suggest that no one should be deprived of a pleasure because of having indulged in forgetfulness."

About calling. A man—and gentleman—said: "Oh! that is easily managed now because it has become the custom for a girl, a Sunday or two after she has entertained—and her mother, or whoever gave the affair—to go out and then when the men call they simply leave their cards at the door and they have paid their obligations.

Now, sometime, somewhere, a wise man said that "Good manners were just good sense."

With a luncheon every day this week but one, a tea almost every afternoon and several dances at night, the debutantes will be on the go from morning till—morning.

Monday will be Mrs. Elizabeth Dyer's luncheon for 12 debutantes at her residence, 4936 Lindell boulevard, in honor of her daughter, Miss Mercedes Dwyer, who returned but a short time ago from abroad, where she was going to school.

Miss Marion Howard will be the guest of honor at a luncheon which Mrs. Robert Horace White of 4417 Westminster place will give at the Woman's Club Tuesday.

Wednesday, Mrs. Daniel Sidney Brown of Brown Hurst will give a luncheon for her daughter, Miss Sidney Brown, at the Country Club.

Three of the young matrons of the fashionable set, who were debutantes themselves but a few years ago—Mrs. Leo de Smet Carton, Mrs. John A. Hart and Mrs. Sears Lehmann—will have a luncheon for about fifty of the debutantes at the Country Club, Thursday.

The next day Misses Dorothy Collins and Jane Fowler will have a luncheon given them by their aunt, Miss Carrie Ferguson, at the Country Club.

Mrs. Albert A. Boettler of 5887 Washington avenue has returned from a visit to Chicago.

A reduction of from 25 to 50 per cent on all stock hats. Sally Meagher, Century Bldg.

Miss Helen Gleeson of 5581 Von Versen avenue has gone to Chicago for a visit of several weeks.

Added to the balls already announced will be a bal masque which Mr. and Mrs. William C. McBride will give for their daughter, Miss Kathleen McBride, at the St. Louis Club late in December; a dance which Mrs. Albert C. Fowler will give for her daughter, Mrs. Jane Fowler, and her niece, Miss Dorothy Collins, and a ball for Miss Mercedes Dwyer which her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Dwyer, will give.

An out-of-town marriage of interest here is that of Miss Vera Gladys Cohen of Minneapolis, Minn., and Joseph E. Silverman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Silverman of 5842 Berlin avenue, which will take place at the home of the bride Wednesday in Minneapolis.

The bridegroom-elect, accompanied by his best man and his groomsman, Lester Meyer and Louis Steinberg, and his parents, have gone on for the nuptials.

Mr. Silverman will bring his bride to St. Louis to live after their wedding trip in the East.

Tango tea will be given at the Planters Hotel Thursday, Nov. 13, from 4 to 7 o'clock p. m. The same orchestra which played for the tango given previously has been engaged for this occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman gave a tea dansante in honor of Miss Claire Macbeth, yesterday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock at their residence, 4417 McPherson avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Overton, one of the debutantes, received with the hosts and Miss Macbeth, who made her bow last week at a dinner dance given at the Woman's Club by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kerr.

The search for new ideas in dress is the dream and most serious occupation of the day. H. Cramer, ladies' tailor, is making the old fashion centers. Take notice.

The affair that was given by Mrs. Otto L. Teichmann, for her debutante daughter, Miss Vera Teichmann, yesterday at the Woman's Club was one of the most beautifully appointed entertainments given here. It was a luncheon at 1 o'clock for 80 girls, followed by a Tea Dansante from 3 to 6 o'clock.

The luncheon was in the large cafe of the club and the tables were arranged with a debutante's table in the middle and presided over by Miss Florence Holliday. At this table were 18 of the season's buds and all around smaller tables for the belles of the past season or two.

At the debutantes' table were Misses Eleanor McBride, Catherine McCreery, Margaret Gale, Marion Perry, Ida Grant, Louise Pitzman, Doris Johnston, Sidney Brown, Josephine Ball, Kathleen Cates, Mary McLean, Frances Fuqua, Ina Morris, Madge Adams, Frances Gray, Clara Strassberger and Vera Teichmann. The beaux were invited for 8 o'clock and the dancing was in the ballroom. From that time on day was turned into night and there was a regular ball.

On this week's calendar is the Charity Ball for the benefit of the Night and Day Camp, when Dreamland will be the scene of a brilliant event.

Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins, who has worked for its success, will have a number of young matrons to assist her in receiving and in helping to make the ball as interesting as the one last year.

The real tango will be danced and several other exhibition dances will be

Youthful, Beautiful Skin Easy to Have.

(From The Clubwoman.)

You may be as healthy as a bird in the air and still have a poor complexion. Changing seasons and temperatures, winds, dust and dirt, are apt to injure any skin, even though the general health be good. When these external influences spoil the complexion, the natural thing is to remove the spoil by external means. Ordinary mercolized wax will do this. It will actually absorb the weather-beaten film-skin, a little each day. In a week or two you'll have a brand-new complexion, a new skin. The exquisitely beautiful and youthful complexion thus acquired comes so easily, without harm or discomfort, there's no reason why any woman should not adopt this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings. This will not fail in any case.

To quickly remove wrinkles, signs of care and age, bathe the face occasionally in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. The results will surprise you.—ADV.

given and it promises to be a great success.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Hammar will give a dinner dance at their residence in Hortense place, in honor of Miss Marion Perry, Mrs. Hammer's debutante cousin.

Thursday evening will be the first dinner dance of the season at the Racquet Club and Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. William C. McBride will have a tea dansante for their daughter, Miss Kathleen McBride, at their mansion in Washington terrace.

The Morning Choral Club concert Friday at the Wednesday Club Auditorium will be one of the important social events of the week as well as one of musical interest.

The club, nothing daunted by the canceling of the Matzenaur engagement at the last minute have procured Florence Hinkle and Oscar Seagle who will give the program, as it will be a member's recital, when the club does not sing but listens to the best singers they can engage.

It is always a delightful occasion and one of the fashionable affairs of the autumn.

One of the notable weddings of the fall was that of Miss Frances Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Carroll, and Philip Hoffman Lantz of New York, which took place at the home of the bride, 5465 Delmar boulevard, last evening at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. William McKittrick performed the ceremony, which was in the drawing room. The house was decorated with pink roses and pink Japanese tiger lilies and growing plants.

The bride wore a gown of silver brocade trimmed with the rose point lace that her mother wore to adorn her wedding gown. Her veil was of tulle and she carried a bouquet of white gardenias. Miss Margaret Carter of Kansas City was maid of honor and the bridemaids were Miss Gertrude Mack of Philadelphia and Helen Barnes. They were gowned alike in yellow and carried bouquets of Ward roses. Ward Chamberlain of New York was best man and the groomsmen were John H. Carroll Jr., Arthur Hiemenz and Earl Moon.

Mr. Lantz and his bride departed after the reception which followed the ceremony for their bridal trip and will reside in Baltimore, where their home is in readiness for them. The bridegroom is the son of the late Jesse Lantz of New York. He is a Princeton man and was a classmate of the bride's brother.

The ladies of the United Hebrew Congregation will give a euchre and lotto party Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in the vestry rooms of the temple, King's highway and Von Versen avenue.

The week will start off with two debutante teas this afternoon, Misses Corinne and Louise Nugent, daughters of Mrs. Charles Nugent will introduce their sister, Miss Theotiste Nugent at a tea at the Nugent mansion, 3 Kingsbury place; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Floyd-Jones will introduce their third daughter, Miss Mimi Floyd-Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrason L. Whittemore will entertain at dinner for Mrs. Whittemore's debutante cousin, Miss Francesca Mason, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornie Mason of Galveston, Tex., this evening.

WORKHOUSE PRISONERS HAVE NIGHTLY CONCERTS

Man Offers Phonograph in Lieu of Sentence and Kansas City Judge Accepts.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Nov. 8.—Prisoners in the workhouse have a concert every night with selections from grand opera and the late song hits as encores.

Lonquist Furrillo, after being sentenced to 100 days, offered Judge Brady a $75 phonograph and 40 records in lieu of the sentence and the Judge accepted the offer. The phonograph and the records were delivered in court and Furrillo was discharged.

The Judge then ordered the phonograph and the records sent to the workhouse and every evening one of the prisoners is delegated to operate it for the benefit of the other prisoners.

WHY ARE Nemo Corsets TRIPLE-STRIP A BOON TO WOMANKIND?

THEY GUARD YOUR FIGURE, HEALTH & PURSE

Things to Remember When You Buy a Nemo

1. Nemo Corsets are never sold under any other name. If a dealer says that a corset is "like the Nemo" or "same as the Nemo," you may be sure that it is spurious unless you find the trademarks "Nemo" or "Lastikops" stamped thereon.
2. The market is full of corsets made to look like the Nemo. See that all elastic gores or bands are stamped LASTIKOPS. If not, the corsets are imitations and of little value.
3. Nemo semi-elastic Lastikops Cloth and Lastikops Webbing, the only DURABLE elastic fabrics ever made, are Nemo INVENTIONS and are used only in our corsets. If you don't find the stamp, LASTIKOPS, don't buy the corset.
4. No other corset has the Nemo "bridge" construction, which insures free breathing, prevents painful pressure over the stomach region, and keeps a low-top corset from "digging in" when you bend.
5. Don't buy a Nemo hit-or-miss. Nemo Corsets must be rightly chosen. The Nemo that suits your figure, if correctly adjusted, will give you perfect corset-service. Here's an example:

No. 512—For large, full figures. Verylow bust, with Nemo "bridge"—front steels won't "dig in." Skirt—extra-long; semi-elastic bands of Lastikops Webbing reduce hips and thighs; Lasticurve-Back. The triple reduction when you stand, gives triple expansion when you sit. And the elastics stay elastic. Finest white coutil; sizes 20 to 30.......... $5

LASTICURVE-BACK LIMSHAPING

Nemo $5.00 No 512

This corset will OUTWEAR any three corsets made with the same old unreliable elastics that are used in all imitations of the Nemo.

Preserve your figure; guard your health and your purse. Ask for the Nemo—and GET it. For all figures—$3.00 up.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers should apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Building, College-Ellwood streets, Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Kit" writes: "I am far below normal weight. I suffer with headaches and am nervous to the point of exhaustion. If you can tell me something to help me I shall be very grateful."

Answer: I can prescribe nothing so effective as a thorough course of three grain hypo-nuclane tablets. These tablets will aid in extracting the nutrition from the food which will increase the red blood supply, overcome nervousness and you will become plump and healthy. This treatment should be continued for several months, as it takes time to change the tissues and cells of the body.

"Sarah" says: "Can anything be done for one who is bothered with rheumatism. If so, please reply."

Answer: You can be relieved of your rheumatism if you take the following: Mix by shaking well and take a teaspoonful at meal times and at bed time and you will soon be cured. Comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; syrup sarsaparilla comp., 5 ozs.; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; iodide of potassium, 2 drams.

"Ray" writes: "Can a suferer from bronchial trouble be relieved? Doctors do not seem to help me. What would you suggest?"

Answer: To cure chronic cold, sore throat and bronchitis, I would advise the use of concentrated essence mentho-laxene. Purchase this at any drug store in 2½ oz. packages and mix according to directions given on bottle and you will very shortly be relieved of all bronchial trouble. This will not only relieve, but will correct, and is very pleasant to take.

"Hulda" says: "I cannot eat without great distress after eating. I am sleepless and restless, nervous and irritable. Can you tell me anything that would cure me?"

Answer: Your trouble is all due to your stomach, which causes the nervous, restless feeling. Take tablets triopeptine and you will soon be relieved of all this trouble. These are packed in sealed cartons and are pink, white and blue tablets to be taken after meals. Take the pink tablet after breakfast, white after dinner and blue after supper. If this is continued the curative agencies will soon restore natural digestion.

"Miss M." writes: "I suffer greatly with my nerves, am almost on the point of nervous prostration. I cannot sleep and am hysterical at times. Can you help me?"

Answer: Many women, old and young, who have suffered as you do, have been helped by using the following tonic restorative treatment: Get from your druggist 1 oz. tincture cadomene (not cardamon) and 5 ozs. syrup of hypophosphites comp., mix, and take a teaspoonful before each meal. Always shake well before taking.

Miss T. R. asks: "Do you think a weight of 190 pounds is too much for a girl, of medium height; and what can I safely take to reduce about 30 pounds?"

Answer: Your weight is excessive, and if it increases it may cause much suffering and embarrassment. I advise the regular use of 5-grain arbolone tablets, which are sold by most pharmacies in sealed tubes with full directions for self-administration.

"Carpenter" writes: "My liver and kidneys are in a bad condition. I have dizzy spells and dark spots before my eyes. Also have twinges of rheumatism. Can I be helped?"

Answer: To relieve kidney and liver trouble use three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). These are packed in sealed tubes with full directions for taking. They act pleasantly and tone up the bowels and liver and purify the blood. They are convenient, effective and highly curative.

"Phoebe"—The following will correct your children: Get 2 drams of tincture rhus-aromatic; 1 dram tincture cubebs and 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort. Mix and give the child from 10 to 15 drops in water about one hour before each meal.

"Maud" writes: "I have suffered a great deal with catarrh. It gives me headaches, affects my eyes and my breath is awful. Can you prescribe something to cure it? Only my nostrils and throat are affected."

Answer: I have prescribed antiseptic vilane powder and grateful letters from hundreds indicate that it is speedily curative, but must be used occasionally to prevent a recurrence. Get a two ounce original package of vilane powder; use a half teaspoonful to a pint of warm water. From the palm of the hand snuff the water through the nostrils until thoroughly cleansed, two or three times daily. Mix a level teaspoonful of vilane powder with an ounce of lard or vaseline and apply well up into the nostrils twice daily and your catarrh should soon be gone.

"Onda" writes: "I am troubled with itching scalp, dandruff and my hair is falling out. It is harsh and brittle."

Answer: Plain Yellow Minyol is the best remedy for itching scalp, falling hair and dandruff that I know of. It can be bought in 4 oz. jars and if used according to directions will overcome diseases of the hair and scalp. If the hair is harsh and brittle and you are bothered with those straggling locks, the use of minyol will restore that soft, fluffy appearance and bring back the intense natural color.—Advertisement.

Reduction Sale of High-Class Suits

Several hundred beautiful suits—that formerly sold up to $60.00—on sale tomorrow in three groups at

$18.50 $24.75 and $39.75

THE time has arrived when we must reduce our stock of finer suits—and to accomplish this we have selected an immense number of our choicest styles and qualities and will offer them in this sale at prices that would SEEM incredible if you were not so well acquainted with this store's reputation for truthful and conservative statements.

The sale begins tomorrow morning at 8:30—offering Suits of distinguished quality and exclusive styles at the reduced prices named above—many of the styles are exact reproductions of imported effects and are shown exclusively here — rich models in broadcloths, duvetynes, diagonals, brocades, velvets, etc. — many handsome fur trimmed styles—newest vestee effects — charming draped and cutaway styles and other new and desirable models in wide assortment—in blacks as well as the newest colorings.

Coming so early in the season—this is indeed an unusual opportunity for YOU to select a high-class suit—qualities that up to a few days ago were selling up to $60.00—tomorrow, in three groups at $18.50, $24.75 and $39.75.

Sale of Beautiful New Blouses

Embracing $5.00, $6.95, $7.50 and $7.95 values—and a few worth even more—at

$3.98 and $6.95

THESE Waists have just come in by express—a purchase which was made by our Mr. E. B. Kline from one of the foremost Waist Specialists at a surprisingly low price—over 40 distinct styles in fine chiffon, laces, nets, crepe de chine—some trimmed with plaid and Persian silk ribbons—many adorned with rows of velvet band trimmings—others embellished with silk ribbons and Venice laces—every color you could ask for, including black, as well as black and white effects and an endless assortment of the new rich shadings that will meet with your instant favor—some in the lot actually worth $9.50, but most of them $5.00 to $7.95 values—tomorrow at $3.98 and $6.95.

The Coat Sale of the Season

Hundreds of high-class coats—worth $24.75, $27.50 and $29.75—at

$16.50 and $19.75

WHEN we tell you these are actual $24.75 to $29.75 qualities, we are conservative in our statement—they are the newest models for street, afternoon, motor and evening wear—beautiful fur textile fabrics in striped mole, broadtail, Ural lamb and Persianna fabrics—rich novelty effects, two-tone boucles, nob cloths, imported zibelines, wool and plush brocades, plain and cut chinchillas, broadcloths in black and pastel shades, etc.—plain and draped effects in every desirable length—many beautifully fur trimmed—positively the greatest values of the year at the prices named.

Special Sale of Beautiful Ostrich Plumes

Every Plume guaranteed finest male stock—actual $6.00 values—at

THIS special offering consists of 50 dozen handsome Broadhead Ostrich Plumes—these come to us from a manufacturer who specializes in fine quality Plumes—to introduce this particular grade, he has quoted us a much lower price than he usually asks and we are going to give our patrons the benefit of the saving by offering these Plumes at $3.95—instead of at the regular selling price of $6.00

$3.95

THEY are shown in black, white, all plain colors as well as many beautiful two-tone shadings that will be greatly admired—Ostrich Plumes will be used to a great extent this coming Winter—and as the law prohibits the importation of Paradise, Goura and many other kinds of plumage, you can easily see that Ostrich Plumes will be much higher next season and you will therefore be making a good investment by buying now.

Stix, Baer & Fuller Complete a Big Deal.

The Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co. announces that after considerable negotiations by letter, wire and person it has acquired the entire stock of infants' wear of the Bonwit Teller Co., Thirty-eighth street and Fifth avenue, New York City. The purchasing price to be 50 cents on the dollar and the value of the entire stock $25,000.

Representatives of the Stix, Baer & Fuller company consider the closing of this deal a big achievement that will be of great benefit to St. Louisans. Aside from the benefit that this purchase is to bring to bargain seekers, it is also said to be one of the largest and one of the most important of an exclusive stock that has been made in years.

The Bonwit Teller Co. is a well-known name to wealthy New York families. Practically all of its stock was imported and the concern catered to the very rich and exclusive people of the metropolis.

Just as soon as the purchased goods can be arranged, the Stix, Baer & Fuller company will begin the sale and the half-pricing schedule will prevail throughout the entire stock.

How to be Beautiful

Secrets of Health and Beauty

by Claire Ainsworth

NOTE—If the reader does not find the information wanted in the questions answered below, just address a letter to Miss Claire Ainsworth, Patterson Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope, and she will gladly advise on health and beauty problems. Miss Ainsworth is noted for her marvelous beauty, as well as famous as a talented concert singer, and artists the world over rave at her beauty and have sought her for their masterpieces. She frankly admits that hers is a cultivated, natural beauty—and no "make-up" is ever used. The articles and preparations mentioned are on sale by all wholesale druggists, large retail and department stores; or any accommodating dealer can obtain them

A few of my correspondents doubt that real beauty can be cultivated, and for the benefit of such I wish to recite my own experience, at the risk of seeming too personal. As a child I was just an ordinary little towhead gifted with a talent for music and singing. At the age of eighteen, I was healthy and strong, but not even by vivid imagination could any one call me pretty or attractive. At that age I resolved to go on the concert stage, as my voice was considered most excellent. To make a success of concert singing I realized that an attractive personality—face and figure—was well-nigh essential, and I did not possess them.

I began the study of self-improvement and determined to be as beautiful as Nature would permit by my own study and efforts. I did not then, nor do I now, entertain the "make-up" style of beauty. Real beauty is spoiled by the "make-up" method. On the theatrical stage the "make-up" is a necessity because of the brilliant footlights. But what woman or girl in society, where one must meet one's friends face to face, can endure the thought of being pointed out as a "painted thing of beauty."

Natural health and beauty is what I desired, and you, dear reader, must be the judge of whether I succeeded. Some of my dear friends tell me that my complexion, skin and hair are the most beautiful they have ever seen, and that my photographs fail utterly to do my skin, hair and complexion justice. But enough of this. I know I succeeded, and my success as a favorite singer was soon my reward.

Believing that what I have done others may do, I am gladly telling my experience and giving my helps and hints to you. The articles and recipes are nearly all of my own selection, and I know are superior to the ordinary, and this you will find after trying them.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION.

As I regard it, there are only two essentials for a beautiful complexion—pure blood and the proper materials to treat the skin scientifically. Given these and time, with effort, and any woman under fifty can possess a beautiful, tinted complexion, making her admired by all mankind. Pleasant, generous thoughts made expression divine.

Assuming the blood is pure, but the skin red, sallow, harsh, dry, oily, muddy or blotched, then all that is required is scientific treatment and care. The treatment I have found best of all—and likewise hundreds of my correspondents—consists of gloriol glowene, a "water massage;" gloriol balm, a vanishing cream, and gloriol emollient, a nourishing cream. With the treatment is full and detailed directions for use, to restore and preserve a beautiful skin and complexion. This is a treatment that all women, pretty or otherwise, should use, as it makes the "pretty even prettier."

Mrs. E. S. L. asks: "A friend of mine living in Buffalo informs me that after trying innumerable treatments for developing the bust without success, she learned through a physician that medicated venosol would. She says that in three months her bust increased from 30 to 38. Would you advise me to use medicated venosol, or do you know anything about it?"

Answer: I know it to be one of the best and surest treatments, and advise any woman who wants to develop to use it as per directions with each sealed tube.

Consuella asks: "My blood is impure, my face pimply, greasy and muddy, and some few blackheads. Advise me?"

Answer: There are many good blood purifiers, but medical experts assert that for clearing and whitening the skin of the face and hands there is only one reliable article, and that is ne-grain quiexide tablets, sold in sealed tubes at druggists', with accompanying directions. These tablets may safely be used by you or anyone.

Ione asks: "Can you recommend a formula for waving and curling the hair?"

Answer: I use regularly about once a week a splendid preparation called gloriol wavolene, and by my picture you can how beautifully it keeps my hair. vise you to try it, as it is cannot be detected.

the brewing at home is mussy out-of-date. Nowadays skilled ists do this better than our . By asking at any drug store the ready-to-use product—called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair edy—you will get a large bottle about 50 cents. Some druggists their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting Wyeth's, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—ADV.

of the New York Evening Mail

PRICE, 50 CENTS NET

THE thousands of readers who have so often laughed over "A Night Out" will gladly welcome this new little story by the same author. There is not a dull moment in it, and the tale of the mongrel cur, picked up out of pity by the cowboy, and his comical efforts to rid of his ancient enemy the coyote, so that he may earn the respect his master, makes an hour's reading of the greatest fun. R. L. Goldberg of the New York Evening Mail has made a characteristically funny sketch for the book. If you cannot obtain this book from your bookseller, please order from the publishers direct.

FOUNDER TELLS OF WORK OF NIGHT AND DAY CAMP

Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins Says 27 Girls Have Been Treated Successfully.

By JULY H. COLLINS,
Founder of Night and Day Camp.

I HAVE been asked to describe in a few hundred words the work of the night and day camp for the benefit of which a charity ball is to be given Nov. 11, and this is not difficult. Our problems and episodes would require greater length. Our central facts are capable of close condensation.

Since the night and day camp was opened on March 19, 1913, we have had 44 patients. They are really only tired, run-down girls who show, under inspection, early traces of tuberculosis. Of these, we have discharged as cured 27 girls since March, and the curing of these girls has developed an economic principle that is worth telling. In nearly every instance the girls who have left the camp as cured have returned to employments that bring them better wages than those they received when they were forced to drop their work and come to us for rest and restoration.

The night and day camp is an institution literally created and built from the nickles, dimes and quarters of the self-supporting girls employed in the stores, factories and offices of the city. Their money built the night and day camp, with virtually no outside aid. The financial assistance received since the building was erected and opened has been applied to the maintenance cost of an institution that noted specialists pronounce to be practical and efficient.

It must be remembered that the night and day camp charges no fees—it provides splendid medical attention from Dr. Walter Fischel and his staff; it furnishes excellent nursing and chaperonage under the direction of Miss Rose Ryffle, a capable and excellent nurse, who is a graduate of the Baptist Sanitarium; it gives three regular meals of wholesome and pure food and three additional meals of milk and eggs.

Accommodations for 28 Girls.

The nursing facilities are modern and we are able to care for 28 girls in the camp at one time. These facilities cost the camp—not the girls—83 cents a day, or $24.90 a month for each girl. Some of the girls who come to the camp are unable to relinquish their work, the money they receive in wages is required in their home life.

But even this does not prevent them from receiving the benefits of the camp. At the end of their day's work they come to the camp, receive their supper, their eggs and milk at 9 p. m., their sleeping accommodations, and their breakfasts. This service costs the camp 55 cents per day for each girl. Briefly, it is possible for a run-down, susceptible, or affected girl, to continue her self-supporting employment and still receive care, attention and cure in the camp.

This treatment is such that one of the most recently admitted patients gained eight pounds in weight in a single week. In one instance recently, a girl badly in need of the attention that the Night and Day Camp provides, could not sacrifice her weekly wage of $4 she was then earning, and so necessary did her treatment seem to us that the camp paid her mother the amount of her wages out of its own funds, that it might have the opportunity of restoring the girl to health, which it did.

In another case a mother could not rest happily at the camp because of the homeless state in which her enforced rest at the camp left her little crippled son. So we placed him in other capable hands and paid for his keep while she was recovering. These few cases should show all St. Louisans the practical purpose and the useful work of the Night and Day Camp. From its beginning it has been our purpose to render just this kind of service to the self-sustaining girls and women of this community.

Girls Edit a Paper.

To lead restful lives does not necessitate our girls' leading lazy lives. They have their sewing circle, their reading club, at which they try to read only such literature as will be beneficial. raise chickens and squabs, even have edited a most interesting newspaper.

Appropos the latter industry, I found in their last edition the following story of one of the late arrivals at Camp—a girl from one of the factories who had spent her entire life in the city. She looked at our big rooster, saw his spurs and remarked: "Oh, how funny—I've heard all my life about Leghorn chickens, but I never saw one before." So we have our fun just like other girls. They are most anxious for lectures from women who understand the questions of the day and we should gratefully welcome visits from women for this purpose.

I have made acknowledgement previously of the act which made the camp a possibility, namely, that the land the camp occupies is a gift of the Laclede Gas Light Co. It is situated on a bluff at the southern end of Broadway, overlooking the Mississippi River. Here we have built a home, or a resort of health and happiness, and here we maintain it, by the many devices and entertainments commonly employed to raise money to support what are usually designated as "charities."

And if I may intrude this suggestion here—the liberal patronage of those invited to the Charity Ball at Dreamland on the night of Nov. 11 will do much to contribute to the enlargement of the work the Night and Day Camp is performing in behalf of self-supporting girls and women who require and deserve such attention.

Old Soldier Conquers Eczema

After Hospital and Doctors' Treatments Fail, Zemo Does the Good Work. It Will Do It For You.

Get a 25c Bottle Today and Prove It.

Tortured by burning, itching eczema, with doctors unable to cure him, this old war veteran won another victory and conquered his trouble with this remarkable remedy—Zemo. Read his letter:

"I Believe Zemo to Be the Greatest Discovery of the Age."

"E. W. Rose Medicine Co.,

"Gentlemen:—In 1911 eczema appeared on my back and limbs. Doctors treated me in hospital and gave me alkali baths every day, but did me no good. In 1912 it appeared on head, face and hands—burning and itching. I tried everything, but got no relief and was getting worse.

"Two months ago I got a bottle of Zemo; eczema has disappeared and my hands begin to look as new hands. I believe Zemo to be the greatest discovery of the age. More power to Zemo. John W. Persons, Wm. McKinley Post 376, G. A. R., Chicago."

You can free yourself of this burning, itching, sleep-destroying horror—eczema—just as this grizzled veteran did. Unequaled for any skin eruptions, boils, blotches and other skin troubles. Your druggist will sell you a 25c sealed bottle of Zemo and will guarantee it or it will be sent direct on receipt of price by E. W. Rose Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Zemo is for sale by all druggists in St. Louis and by druggists everywhere.

How to Stop the Tobacco Habit Secretly

By a Specialist.

That the tobacco habit can be treated secretly at home at very little expense is the claim of a well-known specialist who has treated thousands of cases. In a recent interview, he made the following statement: "The cost of the drugs used to treat the tobacco habit in the high-priced sanitariums amounts to very little. Here is a simple, inexpensive prescription that can be given secretly in coffee, tea, milk, water or in the food, as it has no color, taste or smell: To 3 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varlex Compound and 10 grains of pepsin. Put in coffee or food a teaspoonful three times a day. This prescription can be put up by any druggist, is perfectly harmless and will be found very effective, as it contains many of the drugs used in the sanitariums in the treatment of the tobacco habit in any form."—ADVERTISEMENT.

AMERICAN WIFE OF SPANISH DIPLOMAT ALLEGES INEBRIETY

Senora De Pastor, Former Constance Lee, Asks Annulment for Drunkenness, but Fails.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Senora Constance Cazenove de Pastor y de Mora in a suit for annulment of her marriage to Luis de Pastor, Spanish Minister to China and Siam, charges "drunkenness," from the day of the honeymoon until the hour she left him.

Justice Stafford ruled that the proof submitted by the attorney for Madame de Pastor is not sufficient to sustain her suit. The case was submitted without argument last month. A few more days were given for the presentation of other evidence.

Carrying out the new rule of the district courts Justice Stafford lifted the secrecy from the De Pastor suit and made public the charges.

Miss Constance Lee and Senor de Pastor were married in Baltimore in June, 1906. The husband was then charge d'affaires of the Spanish legation here, but later was sent to Paris and is now stationed at Pekin. The wife's petition for annulment was filed last June.

In her sworn statement, Madame de Pastor charges that her husband was addicted to the use of alcohol and drugs. Following the wedding ceremony, she says, he drank on the train to New York. On reaching the hotel at New York he failed to register his wife's name, and when the clerk called his attention to the omission he said: "Oh, by Jove, my wife, I quite forgot!"

Senor de Pastor is charged by his wife with having "spells." His wife says that he was drinking heavily in Paris and remained "drunk the whole six or eight days' stay."

Upon his arrival in Pekin, Madame de Pastor swears, Senor de Pastor was very drunk, exceedingly so. "The 30 days I spent there was indescribable," the petition for annulment says.

Epistles that might have been fine evidence, Madame de Pastor says, were destroyed or mutilated by her husband.

Senor de Pastor has not taken any notice of the suit brought by his wife. He and Madame de Pastor separated three years ago.

MR. LAWYER: Can I get a marriage license before buying a diamond on credit from Loftis Bros. & Co., 2d floor, 308 N. 6th st.?

Girl Lobbyist to Push State's Bills in Congress

Governor was at the capital Miss Hobbs directed the campaign of law enforcement.

Several months ago, when the State Legislature was in session there was bitter strife between the Governor and the organization leaders in the Assembly. As the end of the session drew near, there was much speculation as to what measures the Governor would veto. The leaders decided to adjourn the Legislature for five days, then return and pass the vetoed bills over the executive's head. It happened that Saturday of the last week of the regular session was a holiday. The Governor locked up his office Friday evening and dropped from sight; so did his employes. Saturday morning when the Legislature wanted to deliver some bills to the executive a frantic and futile search for the Governor was begun.

The next Monday morning Miss Hobbs was the only person to appear at the executive offices. The legislators stormed the place. Demands were made for the Governor's return, then for information as to his whereabouts. But the law-makers might as well have besieged a sphinx.

Outwits Legislators.

ALONE, except that she was in constant communication by wire with the Governor, Miss Hobbs weathered the legislative storm, which reached its crest when both houses of the Assembly passed a resolution authorizing a forcible entry into the Governor's offices with the accumulated bills, and which resolution was literally carried into effect by the President of the Senate.

Miss Hobbs is a student of details, she keeps her mind on her work, and Gov. West says he has never yet put a job up to her which she has not been capable of handling.

"Some of my girl friends have asked me what I am going to do with all my salary," she said recently. "I'm not going to spend it on clothes and a good time; it's going to pay the mortgage. When that is out of the way then I will be free to do just as I please."

She was in favor of woman suffrage during the campaign which brought success to that progressive measure, but played no prominent part. However, she lent aid to the cause and helped to bring success. She has stanch friends among the leading women of the State, who recognize in her a satisfactory affirmative answer to the question if woman is fit for important political positions.

There is nothing masculine about Miss Hobbs, who is distinctively feminine, and knowledge of the ways of the world, politics and business has only lent charm to one of Oregon's most interesting personages.

Some see in her a possibility for the Governor's chair when the time for a woman's guiding hand in the executive office arrives. Certain it is that she will go down in history as one of the most efficient employes the State has even had, as well as the first woman private secretary to a Governor in the United States.

See the Bright Faces of a Few of the Children Cured

OF RUPTURE BY Dr. Lewin's Non-Surgical and Painless Treatment

The cure of Rupture in children is often of still greater urgency than in the adult, as Hernia in the active, restless little ones, who make the sunshine of our hearts and homes, is, unhappily, very common and often fatal. In the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled in New York one-fourth of the entire number of hernias treated were those of children under the age of 14. The younger the patient when treatment is begun, usually the more quickly the cure is effected. To neglect Rupture is criminal, as even when the children survive without the Rupture being cured, they are incapacitated for life from entering the Army and Navy and from many active and responsible positions, while girls not cured of Rupture are unfitted to become wives.

My treatment is singularly successful with children, whom I take from earliest infancy. A very few treatments will cure this affliction and restore to them the heritage of a sound and perfect constitution. It cannot be too urgently pointed out that Hernia in MAN, WOMAN OR CHILD is an affliction that should not be neglected. Whatever relief may be afforded by the wearing of a truss can be only temporary; a truss will not effect a cure, but will result in a waste of the surrounding muscles. This causes a more obstinate form of the affliction, on account of delays, and often by an ill-fitting truss terminates fatally through strangulation.

Following are extracts from letters and references to a few of the many little ones who have been cured by my PAINLESS, NON-Surgical Treatment.

* * * At the age of 11 years Dr. Lewin cured me of a severe rupture, which I had suffered from since early childhood. I have remained well and strong ever since. A cousin of mine, and many others that I know, were also cured. Accompanying this letter is picture of my little son, Harry, who became ruptured at the age of 4. Dr. Lewin has cured him, and he is strong and well now, with no signs of a rupture.

I do heartily recommend Dr. Lewin's non-surgical treatment for rupture. Respectfully,

HARRY MILLER, 5141 Patterson Av.
St. Louis, Sept. 18, '11.

* * * For the sake of other parents whose little ones are suffering from rupture I am glad to make known the fact that my little son was cured by Dr. Lewin, after having been ruptured nearly four years; he romps and plays all the time, and never has the least trouble.

I was also cured by Dr. Lewin of a most severe double rupture, and I never fail to recommend him for anyone who is afflicted with rupture.

PETER BOUCKAERT, Butcher, 2900 Missouri Av.
St. Louis, April 30, '12.

* * * About 1901 my son, Walter, was cured of rupture by Dr. Lewin. We find him all right to this day, and will be glad to give information to any other parents who desire their children cured.

JOHN B. WESTERMAYER, Contractor and Builder.
St. Louis, Sept. 30, '07. 3801 Utah Pl.

Julius Grosche, 4 years old, cured when 18 months old by Dr. Lewin. 'Gus Grosche, father of Julius, also cured by Dr. Lewin. 2723 Rutger street.

* * * Eleven years ago, when a mere boy, I was cured of rupture by Dr. Lewin's Non-Surgical Treatment. My little son, 7 years old, has also been cured by Dr. Lewin. In these two, and in many other cases, I have seen the permanency of these cures proven.

MAX WEIGLE, 2740 Hickory.
St. Louis, March 12, '12.

Joseph Kennebeck, 11 years old, 1120 Newhouse avenue, cured six years ago. Father also cured of rupture by Dr. Lewin.

Any of the above parties, as well as many others whose names we can give you, will be pleased to furnish further particulars regarding the permanency of the cure of their little ones.

[illegible] B'nai B'rith Celebration.

Missouri Lodge No. 22, and Eben Lodge No. 27, Independent Order of the B'nai B'rith, will have a celebration of B'nai B'rith day Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at Temple Israel. Rabbi David Alexander of Toledo, O., will be the speaker of the evening.

STOMACH SOUR AND FULL OF GAS? GOT INDIGESTION?—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction, or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.—ADV.

SELPH IN ROTARY CLUB

Postmaster Is Made Honorary Member of Organization.

At the regular monthly meeting of the St. Louis Rotary Club, at the Terminal Hotel, Thursday, Postmaster Colin M. Selph was elected an honorary member and seven active members were elected. Dinner was served at 6:30 and the evening was enlivened with business talks. Particular amusement was afforded by the "Anvil Chorus," a burlesque organization.

Souvenirs were presented by two or three members and a talk on travels in England, Ireland and Scotland was given by Dr. D. L. Dorsey. A moving picture exhibit, through the courtesy of A. C. Erker, added to the entertainment of the members for the evening. About 95 members were present, Jesse M. Tompsett, president, presiding as toastmaster.

Every Piano or Player-Piano has its fixed retail value, based upon the wholesale cost plus the expense of selling and a fair profit.

Do you think any dealer can reduce the retail value of a piano or player-piano $50 to $200 and stay in business?

Not in these days of high rents and enormous expense of selling.

A manufacturer must charge his retail expense the same as the dealer and is in no position to save you money simply because he is a manufacturer.

Where the selling expense is the least, there the value is the best, provided the retail price is right and safeguarded.

This safeguard is assured at

THIEBES

St. Louis' Largest and Best Equipped Piano House,

by an absolute one-price system of selling, so strict that even a little child can buy a Piano or Player-Piano as safely as the shrewdest buyer in St. Louis.

Our One Price Is the Right Price

Because! We are the only Piano firm in the downtown district that owns the building in which their business is conducted.

Because! We are not affected by the high rents that have doubled and tripled on Olive street in the last year.

Because! We maintain three different departments, among which we divide the fixed overhead expense.

Because! We have the largest sales force in the city, and by selling a greater number of Pianos we decrease the fixed expense charged to any one particular piano.

We prove to your satisfaction that you can buy a Piano here to better advantage than elsewhere in St. Louis.

LINA ABARBANELL AT OLYMPIC IN "THE RED CANARY"

Musical Comedy, With Company of 60, Is Said to Be Bright Production.

"THE RED CANARY." Olympic. Lina Abarbanell and full company with increased orchestra in bright musical production. Advance reports say the staging is excellent and the piece well handled. The entire company numbers 60.

"WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE." Shubert. Joseph Santley and company. Philip Bartholomae's three-act musical play here after a summer's run in Chicago where it had good houses. Santley is supported by May Vokes, Saranoff, Russian violinist. The play is an amusing extravaganza founded on the efforts of a disinherited gilded youth who is "coming home steerage," and who falls in love with a "first cabin" passenger.

"ONE WOMAN'S LIFE." American. Western play by William Jossey. Set in Rocky Mountains. It is called a strongly dramatic work, yet not a melodrama. Albert Phillips and Leila Shaw head the cast.

VAUDEVILLE. Columbia. Nora Bayes heads the bill beginning Monday matinee. The sprightly comedienne appears in an act especially arranged for her. Capt. Chink's Australian boy scouts, Coleman's animal novelty, Nicholas sisters, Arthur Aldridge, tenor, Wheeler and Wilson, Eddie Much and Dot Williams and pictures, complete the bill.

"THE PRICE SHE PAID." La Salle. Comedy-drama based on the struggle of a girl against temptation when the prize is her brother's freedom from prison. Miss Rachel May Clark heads the cast.

VAUDEVILLE. Hippodrome. Miss Truly Shattuck, musical comedy star of Cohan productions, heads the bill. Part of her repertoire will be "old favorite" songs. Willard's Temple of Music, Kresko and Fox, Lavelle's dogs, Melnotto-Lanole troupe, Hibbert and Kennedy, the Jordans, Mathes trio, Rhoda Royal Circus and three other acts complete the program.

VAUDEVILLE. Grand Opera House. Sager Midgley and his supporting company in "Early Morning Reflections" featured. Others on the bill are the Six Abdallahs, Ethel Whiteside and Picks, Deltorelli and Glissando, Murry K. Hill, Granto and Maud, Doranto, Paul and Marmion Stone, De Vitt and De Vitt and pictures.

BURLESQUE. Gayety. The Parisian Beauties Company in two acts of burlesque. The olio includes the Four McNalleys, in song selections. Others are Jack Miller, Bobby Barker, Fred de Silva, Steve McNally, Venita Gray, Margaret Cushing, Lanier de Wolfe and Beulah Kennedy.

BURLESQUE. Standard. Gus Fay and the Gayety Girls Company in "Schmidt's Widows" and an olio of vaudeville. Gus Fay, Eugene Bert Woods, Walter Wilson, Nelly Florede, Edyth Hamilton, Ray Williams and Ada Lum are the principals.

Socialist Predicts His Party Will Control Germany

with those of the German-American Alliance.

Although he has been in the United States but six weeks, and has learned but a few English words and phrases, Scheidemann has reached the conclusion that it is best for Germans not to think too much of keeping up German habits and practices when they become Americans.

He said Ludwig Fulda, the poet, whose visit to this country was much heralded, had, in his opinion, laid too much stress on the importance of preserving German customs in America, though he agreed with Fulda that German literature should not be forgotten. Scheidemann would have Germans leave their political and economic ideas behind them when they come here, and learn what America is before they try to change it.

In one respect, Scheidemann would like to see German suffrage put at once on the same basis as that of the United States.

"If the voting age in Germany were 21 years, instead of 25," he declared, "the Socialists would control Germany today."

Cunard Line Congratulated by Hungarian Government.

The Cunard Steamship Line has just completed the celebration of the tenth anniversary of its Hungarian-American service, which has had a steady growth ever since its was inaugurated. On Nov. 5, the first day of the celebration, the line received congratulations from the Royal Hungarian Ministry on the manner in which the service has been conducted.

Both the Cunard line and the Hungarian Government co-operate in this service to preclude illegal immigration, and the steamers are officially inspected at Fiume before each voyage.

Moving Picture Censor to Speak.

John Collier, secretary of the People's Institute, New York City, will be the speaker at the Town Club meeting next Thursday evening. His subject will be "Recreation-Education." Members of the City Club have been invited to attend the dinner and hear the address. Collier is executive secretary of the National Board of Censorship of Moving Pictures and organizer of the National Association of Civic Centers.

MISSOURIAN'S PLAY, 'THE DECOY,' MAKES HIT IN NEW YORK

Drama by Harry King Tootle Is Along Same Lines as "The Lure" and "The Fight."

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Harry King Tootle's dramatization of his own novel of "white slavery," political corruption and police graft, "The Daughter of David Kerr," under the name of "The Decoy," has been thrilling and pleasing big audiences since Monday at the Cecil Spooner Theater up in the Bronx.

The theater's seating capacity of 2100 has been sold out every night of this week. The play having run its week, which is the house limit, will be taken off after tonight's performance, and then will be trimmed up for road production. It is expected to start out about the holidays, but as its bookings have not yet been arranged, it is not known when it will be shown in St. Louis. It will be produced at the American Theater if it gets there.

The play, of course, is along the same lines as "The Lure" and "The Fight," which ran foul of the police conception of the proprieties when shown in Broadway theaters, and which had to be made comparatively innocuous to comply with police regulations, despite which, the great advertising they received during the court proceedings against them has enabled them to continue on profitably.

Up in the Bronx they are either not so squeamish about such matters or the police have failed to take a look, for "The Decoy" has continued to draw to capacity without any such adventitious aids as bolstered up the Harris and Shubert productions. Miss Spooner plays the leading part, that of Georgia, the daughter of David Kerr, and is delighted with it.

"It affords me," she says, "opportunities for dramatic and emotional effects that I have found in few of the great number of parts for which I have been cast."

Robert Frazer, the leading man, has the part of Mr. Wright, editor of the local paper. Howard Lang plays the character part of David Kerr and Philip Leigh has the audiences hissing him with wonderful vigor every night, so effective is his rendering of the cadet part, The Decoy.

Violet Holiday also scores great success in her part as a woman of the street. The big scene occurs in the third act, which shows the interior of a disorderly house. It was a similar scene to this in "The Lure" and "The Fight" which roused the police to action against those plays.

Tootle came from St. Louis to witness the play and is as well pleased with its production as he is with its success.

Harry King Tootle has lived in St. Louis for several years. He has worked on newspapers in Kansas City, St. Louis and St. Joseph.

Thousands of Women Now Tint Their Hair

Beautiful Hair Is Woman's Chief Charm. The Most Glorious Brown (Any Shade) Can Be Easily and Instantly Obtained With Mrs. Potter's Walnut Tint Hair Stain.

SEND FOR TRIAL PACKAGE.

Even though a mask be placed over a woman's eyes she will still be just as fascinating if she has beautiful hair. Gray, streaked or faded hair will ruin the appearance of any woman, no matter how attractive she may otherwise be. Many thousands of women now tint their hair to any shade desired by using Mrs. Potter's Walnut Tint Hair Stain. This preparation is most easily and quickly applied in the privacy of your own room. Results are always sure and uniform—no previous experience whatever is necessary, and the tint can not rub or wash off nor can it be detected. This method is very far superior to the old way of using henna, sage or old fashioned "hair dyes"—as henna invariably turns the hair red and "dyes" are not always satisfactory.

Mrs. Potter's Walnut Tint Hair Stain is also most excellent for tinting switches and all artificial hair. Any shade from light golden brown to darkest brown or black may be easily obtained.

Send 25 cents and the coupon for a generous trial package which will be mailed you in a plain wrapper.

All druggists sell Mrs. Potter's Walnut Tint and the price is only $1.00.

For the trial package you will have to send direct to Mrs Potter's Hygienic Supply Co., 2057 Groton Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

POSTAL FRANK AND PRINTING GRAFTS ARE UNDER FIRE

Congressmen Are Shocked by Latest Proposal for Reform at Washington.

SYSTEM NOW WASTEFUL

Speeches Never Delivered Often Are Circulated in Hope of Winning Votes.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The proposal to abolish the Congressional postal frank that comes from the House Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads is the biggest shock this Capital has had for a long time. It was conceded from the beginning that the Wilson administration would work for economy and reform, but to tackle a proposition like this! The hangers-on were aghast and dismayed and the proposal to limit the editions printed of useless speeches has left them dazed.

The proposal is to do away entirely with the personal postal frank and substitute for it a reasonable amount of stamps, which will be given to the Congressmen to be used at their discretion. When these are gone the Congressmen can choose between writing no letters and paying postage on them.

The printing economy move comes from the Joint Committee on Printing. It is that experts on circulation of Government reports and tracts shall attach to each order for printing an estimate of the probable circulation of the document and that number shall be printed. This, it is believed, will do away with a great amount of waste and make less paper and ink and do more service than it accomplishes at present.

Real Needs Not Met.

For instance: In a printing office basement is stored 15,000 copies of a handsomely bound light house report that no one has asked for. On the desks in the Agricultural Department are great stacks of requests for some reports by that Department which concerned birds and animals. These cannot be printed to meet the demand because the light house report paper and ink took a large share of the appropriation.

Unofficial Washington is wondering how these two propositions will work out. It is admitted that, if the proposals ever get into Congress formally they will pass with a very large majority, for it would be a foolhardy spoils system supporter who would oppose either.

The other side is the fight that will be made in the committee. Both privileges have been mostly graft for a good many years, although each has its place in the reasonable conduct of the Government.

Trousers Sent Franked.

The frank abuse has come more to light than the printing graft. It will be recalled that certain members of Congress have mailed typewriters, household furniture and laundry and even have sent pants home to be patched through the frank. But these have been small touches of graft and are nothing compared with the political uses of the frank to distribute campaign year books, speeches and 10-year-old tables and advertising matter, that was slipped into the official records as a part of the campaign against the Democratic plan for a reduced tariff.

Some of the Congressmen who had loaned their signatures were amazed at the extent of their use as shown by the "insidious lobby" inquiry last spring.

It long has been a habit, however, for Senators and Representatives to write a speech in which many high-sounding statements were made about the "home folks" and which touches no question before Congress, get it inserted into the Record under the leave to print privilege and then send it to every voter at home and elsewhere in hope of winning a few supporters.

The Postoffice Department contends the new system will be fair to all concerned and will be a great economy. It is admitted that the franking and printing economies are interlinked and probably will stand or fall together. It is also admitted that the members of the committee will need great fortitude to hold out until the recommendations get into the House.

1700 MEN QUIT WORK IN A PROTEST STRIKE

Movement Among Railroad Construction Workers to Aid Miners Led by I. W. W.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 8.—Seventeen hundred men quit work last night on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway grade between Newport and Lillocet, tying up work there. The Industrial Workers of the World, who caused the strike, declare that all railway workingmen in British Columbia will go out. The chief object of the strike is to protest the sentencing to jail of the Nanaimo miners engaged in the recent riots.

The strikers also are asking a minimum wage of $4 a day and an eight-hour day. The Industrial Workers of the World declare they have a membership of 104,000 men in the railroad camps.

Misinformation

Odd Facts and Anecdotes About the Most Easily Disseminated Substance Known—Growing Popularity of What Isn't So About the Income Tax—The Case of the Oceans Commingling at Panama—Chloroformed by Burglars—When Men Were Eight Feet High—The Federal Game Law—More Information About Misinformation.

BY CLARK M'ADAMS.

A SINGLE man pays income tax on his income beyond $3000; a married man beyond $4000. Those are very simple facts; but like all facts, they are not very generally understood. It takes a fact time to soak in. Ask the average man concerning these. You will find that he has them complicated in a most astonishing way. His explanation of the income tax law as he understands it will fairly illustrate the popular capacity for misinformation.

There is nothing else in human phenomena that closely approaches it. It is the first wonder of the world. What the sources of misinformation are it would be hard to say. Sometimes it is due to natural assumption. A good example of this particular brand of misinformation is the popular impression that the waters of the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans commingle in the Panama Canal. They do not commingle. The entire canal, except for the inlets at either end, is fresh water. From the fresh water to the salt water is a fall of 80 feet. The two oceans will not commingle at Panama until water begins to run uphill. Yet the world will have it the other way, and the tenderest and most beautiful sentiments are continually uttered in poetry and prose upon the romantic theory that the two oceans are finally wed. Many men have tried to correct that impression. It is futile. One would as well ask Huerta to resign.

There is some singular quality in misinformation. People want it. They are unhappy without it. The average man likes to be well fortified with it. To imagine that someone else possessed more misinformation than he has himself would render almost anyone miserable. One is always seeing that in human nature. A misinformed man is bold, assertive, sure of himself; whereas an informed man is shy and talks very little. A college professor is a fair illustration of informed timidity. There is bird-like wariness about him. One never hears an informed person stating a fact in the bold tone employed by a misinformed person stating something that is not so at all. Observe for yourself. See if it isn't so.

THE Government is trying very hard to make the income tax law plain. It is resorting to all the publicity it can get. There is a period of time beyond which misinformation is never retrieved. Some years ago Dr. Henry M. Whelpley, a St. Louis scientist, undertook single handed to correct the popular fallacy that burglars can chloroform people through keyholes. He made a tour of the local newspaper offices. He explained that people can only be chloroformed by holding them down and applying the chloroform to the nose. Everybody was respectful. His explanation that the story was always unscientific was apparently credited wherever he went. Having done what he could, he retired to bide the result. Probably it was only a coincidence, but chloroformings through keyholes suddenly became epidemic. They occurred all over town. He had made the mistake of trying to retrieve misinformation that had been too long at large. It was irretrievable. Seeking to correct the offense, he had only aggravated it. He gave it up. He had learned something.

When the doctor told me this story I retaliated with my own story about giants. The bones of giants are regularly found in all newspapers. Races of giants, long dead, rattle their bones in the news dispatches with fine regularity. I resolved to destroy this misinformation. I explained that except for isolated individuals such as one sees in sideshows there had never been any giants, and that the story was unscientific. Like Dr. Whelpley, I waited curiously to see the result. At the time I attempted my reform giants were running uniformly in the newspapers at about 8 feet. What was my chagrin and astonishment after my reform campaign to see the stature of giants begin to go up. After 30 days the full effect of my effort stared at me in print. Instead of reducing giants to the stature of all normal men here and heretofore, I had unwittingly increased it to 9 feet! I had made the same mistake the doctor had made. The particular misinformation I sought to correct was too old. It was fixed. The human mind had absorbed it and assimilated it. One had as well gone into the Ozarks and tried to discredit the Zodiac.

MISINFORMATION travels much faster than information. This was proven by the Government's experience with the new Federal game law. This law became effective Oct. 1 of this year. In order that information might have a chance with misinformation, the Department of Agriculture gave the press a copy of the law and mailed thousands of copies all over the country to individuals upon the very day that President Wilson signed it.

Misinformation has done nothing better than it did in this instance. Without the facilities of the Government, it spread over the country like wildfire. Where Uncle Sam employed the wire, misinformation resorted to the wireless. It won the race without trying. Among other things, the new law forbids the shooting of migratory birds on the Mississippi River between Memphis, Tenn., and Minneapolis, Minn. For that distance the river is reserved for migration, and it is illegal either to shoot upon it, in its sloughs, or from its banks.

I had a copy of this law in my pocket along the river one day. I showed it to a riverman. He promptly said he didn't believe it. He preferred misinformation about the law which had come to him by word of mouth. He was very obstinate about it. I subsequently discovered that his was no more than a typical case. Misinformation had gone up and down the river like lightning. It was fortified in every bay, upon every island, along both banks. Nothing could dislodge it.

Information is produced much as diamonds are mined at Kimberly. Misinformation, upon the other hand, falls like rain. It needs no more substantial source than the air we breathe. It disseminates freely. There is plenty of it. One can collect it with many interesting results. It comes in the plain, antique, amusing the grotesque. It is a miracle—the miracle of what isn't so.

James Exploits Kentucky Ham.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.

IT isn't safe for a guest at the home of Senator Ollie James of Kentucky to say anything about a yearning for good old Kentucky ham. That is, unless one wants to precipitate a contretemps, or whatever it is called. If anybody says ham around the James household, Senator Ollie calls for ham and ham is brought in.

Senator and Mrs. James were entertaining some Kentuckians at Sunday dinner and Mrs. James, who knows how, had planned the dinner exquisitely, and it was being served faultlessly. Then somebody said something about ham, just a general remark about ham. And somebody else said, with fervor, "Give me good old Kentucky ham." Senator Ollie was obliging.

"Sure," he said. Turning to Mrs. James he said: "Please have some of that old ham fried that was sent to me the other day from Marion."

Mrs. James did not faint. She is used to Senator Ollie's ways. She smiled and said "Certainly," and in a little while the good old Kentucky ham was brought in. There was no place for it on the menu, but there was room for it in the appreciation of the guests.

Anti-Progressive Prophecy.

REPRESENTATIVE SERENO PAYNE thinks, or says he thinks, that the Progressives that flocked in great numbers last year and helped drive the Republicans into the Big Dismal Swamp, will soon be as extinct as the dodo. He has a story which illustrates how he feels, or says he feels, about the fate that awaits the genus Progressive.

"A new Episcopal minister was once assigned to a Middle Western town," he said. "He decided to make a trip of inspection. The only church he saw at first was a Methodist chapel. So he started around to find the others in an effort to decide which he would try to rent for his own services. At the store he found a friendly crowd eager to be asked for information.

"'Are there many churches around here?' began the rector timidly.

"'A few,' said one of the loafers. 'Cam-ellites and Methdists, Baptists and Presbyterians.'

"'Any Episcopalians to be found here?'

"The idlers held a short and spirited conference in whispers.

"'Wus one on the lake yistiddy,' said a sage at length. 'Looked suthin like a mallard; only its bill wus longer. Joe Hayes shot him. Good eatin', if you want to sound us any.'"

WOMAN TEACHER DENOUNCES MEN'S SLATE FOR OFFICES

Miss Amelia Fruchte of Central High Is Cheered in Speech at Coliseum.

ST. JOSEPH NEXT YEAR

C. A. Phillips of Warrensburg Normal Chosen President at Closing Session.

Miss Amelia C. Fruchte, a teacher in the Central High School, St. Louis, was cheered by women teachers yesterday when, on the floor of the closing session in the Coliseum of the convention of the Missouri State Teachers' Association, she criticised the election of a slate of officers, all of whom were men, submitted by the nominating committee.

"The time will come when you men will realize that you need the women worse than we need you," she shouted as she pointed her finger at President Evans.

Forgets to Make Motion.

Miss Fruchte announced her intention when she arose of making a motion that at future conventions half of the officers elected should be women. After she had given her opinion of the election, and asserted that it was unfair to the women teachers, she forgot to make the motion.

The cheers at various points in Miss Fruchte's brief but pointed speech indicated that if the motion had been made and put to a vote, it would have carried by a large majority. The convention adjourned while Miss Fruchte was on her feet demanding recognition on a point of order, intending to demand a vote on the question, under the mistaken impression that she formally had made the motion

"Act of Unfairness."

Miss Fruchte got the floor a moment after C. A. Philips, professor of education in the State Normal School at Warrensburg, Mo., heading the slate of men officers, had been elected.

"I expect to live to see the time when this act of unfairness will be corrected," she said. "You men on the platform know this is unfair to the women teachers.

"Four thousand of the 5042 members of this association are women, and the women pay four-fifths of the expenses. Yet there has not been a woman speaker on the program at this convention, excepting one this morning incidentally to fill a vacancy caused by one of the men speakers failing to come, and not one woman was nominated for an office."

John R. Kirk of the Kirksville Normal School, started the row when he said that he made a motion at the closing session of the convention last year at Springfield that the women be given a share in the offices, and hoped that somebody would renew the motion at this time. Miss Fruchte then got up to make the motion—and forgot it.

At St. Joseph Next Year.

The convention next year will be held at St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 12 to 14. A silver trophy cup was awarded to St. Charles County for the largest percentage of its membership present at the convention. St. Louis County stood second.

The officers elected besides Phillips were: Vice-presidents, I. I. Commack of Kansas City, S. A. Baker, Jefferson City, and A. R. Coburn, Chillicothe; treasurer, L. W. Rader, St. Louis (re-elected); railroad secretary, J. A. Whiteford, St. Joseph; executive committee, R. H. Emberson and W. P. Evans, reading circle board, P. J. McKinley, St. Charles.

Would Teach Parents.

The recommendation that sex hygiene be taught to parents, who in turn could teach it to their children, was made by Mrs. R. S. Blodgett, chairman of the Parent Teachers' Department of the Mothers' Congress. She said that sex hygiene would be far more effective if it be taught by parents than if taught in the schools by the teachers.

She urged the formation of clubs of mothers for the study of sex hygiene, and that they visit schools at specified hours for the study of the question, and that the tutors be teachers who understand the problem thoroughly.

Dr. George B. Mangold, director of the School of Social Economy of Washington University, in an address on "The Care of the Eye," asserted that an examination is needed of the vision of all pupils in schools above the age of 8 years, as an aid to carrying out the principles of physical education of the children. The school should be a social agency as well as an educational institution, he said.

Central Rural Schools.

The solution of the rural school problem lies in central schools in the districts well equipped for the mental and physical teaching of the child, according to Miss Mabel Carney of Normal, Ill., head of the rural department of the Illinois State Normal School.

A modern school building, equipped with manual training, a music course, gymnasium, library, and facilities equal to city schools would make the children of the country districts know there was something for them to live and strive for, she said. Until this solution is put into practice, she asserted, country schools and churches will continue to be abandoned, the residents will continue to move to the city, and the problem will become larger each year.

Pictures for Good Paupers.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Nottingham Almshouse Visiting Committee reported to the guardians that the master had been ordered to make arrangements for about 25 of the inmates to visit a picture show each week, the suggestion only to apply to those inmates to whom it was thought that the recreation would be of advantage. The guardians indorsed the report. The selection will be made from the better behaved inmates.

WESTERN ARTISTS' EXHIBITION OPENS AT MUSEUM TODAY

St. Louis Artists Are Well Represented in Works Selected by Committee.

FINE PICTURE BY WUERPEL

Bringhurst's Bust of Mark Twain Most Pretentious Sculpture Shown.

By F. E. A. CURLEY,
Curator St. Louis Museum Fine Arts.

The City Art Museum will open at 10 o'clock today the eighteenth annual Exhibition of the Society of Western Artists. This collection will occupy three galleries in the west wing of the Art Building in Forest Park, galleries 18, 19 and 20. The collection comprises 109 works, paintings, sculptures, drawings and etchings, by 61 of the leading artists of the West. It is the annual official exhibition in which the most important work by artists of the West is gathered together for comparison.

The Society of Western Artists comprises four local chapters, in St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati and Indianapolis. Western artists throughout the country are affiliated with these chapters according to their location. Western and Northwestern artists belong to the Chicago chapter. Southern and Southwestern artists belong to the St. Louis chapter. Many members of the society retain membership after removing to Eastern cities or to Europe.

The exhibition at the musem, therefore, is drawn chiefly from the territory west of the Allegheníes, but includes works by artists now in Europe and in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and other centers outside of the West.

This exhibition was formed in St. Louis by a jury of selection which met in the old museum building at Nineteenth and Locust streets in October. It is a competitive exhibition and about one-third of the works submitted by artists for the action of the jury were accepted.

St. Louisans erA Exhibitors.

The representation of St. Louis artists is considered fairly strong, in proportion to the rest. Most of the local painters familiar to the exhibition-visiting public are among the contributors. Edmund H. Wuerpel's large landscape with fading light, called "Night Follows Day," is the most impressive of the pictures in this year's exhibition of the society.

This picture has an effect of solemnity and profound feeling. Its composition is exceedingly simple, and it is impressive in its quietude and repose. Some regard it as Mr. Wuerpel's most successful achievement in painting.

Other St. Louisans represented are Carl G. Waldeck, Dawson-Watson, F. G. Carpenter, Gustav F. Goetsch, Fred G. Gray, Gustave von Schlegell, Oscar E. Berninghaus, Arthur Mitchell, Tom P. Barnett, Helen Rathburn, Celia Steuver, William F. Matthews and Charles P. Galt.

Some of the works submitted by these painters have considerable merit and they will be the center of interest for local art circles during the rest of November.

The contributions from other cities include two excellent portrayals of child life by Adam Emory Albright of Chicago. "The Silver Sea" shows a group of children at the water's edge, in soft diffused light. The other canvas shows two boys tramping away in search of "Big Fish Up the Creek."

A Fine Texas Picture.

Frank Reaugh, of Oak Cliff, Tex., exhibits a very interesting picture of wild prairie landscape with attractive light and color and the feeling of truthfulness in its clear cut drawing and unusual character. Earl H. Reed of Chicago, sends clever etchings.

Sculpture is shown by Robert P. Bringhurst, Victor Holm, Caroline Risque and Nancy Consman of St. Louis, and C. J. Barnhorn of Cincinnati. A large bust of Mark Twain by Bringhurst, is the most striking work of sculpture. It received the gold medal at Missouri State Fair at Sedalia recently.

A Jury of Awards will meet in St. Louis shortly to award the Chicago Fine Arts Building prize, for "the most meritorious and important exhibit by a western artist who is a regular or associate member of the Society at the current exhibition." This prize has been allotted in past years to J. Ottis Adams, Charles Francis Browne, now president of the society; T. C. Steele, William Forsyth, L. H. Meakin and William Wendt. It has not hitherto been awarded to a St. Louis artist. The prize is esteemed the chief honor of the exhibition and carries with it a cash award of $500.

The exhibition will continue until the last week in November.

Harrison Exhibition Opens.

Another exhibition to be thrown open to the public Sunday is of paintings by Alexander and Birge Harrison, two American painters of international reputation. Alexander Harrison has been for some time an important figure in American art history as all works on the subject show. He has painted principally in Paris, where he has been one of the American leaders who have established abroad a high recognition or the talent of American art workers.

BLUEBEARD would have had more than eight wives had Loftis Bros.' diamond-on-credit system existed then. 2d fl., 308 N. 6th.

Road Pictures on Exhibition.

An invitation has been extended by the management of the Public Library to delegates attending the United States Good Roads Association to visit the applied science room, at the library, where there is on exhibition a collection of excellent photographs of roads, loaned by the United States Office of Public Roads at Washington. In the room are also many books and magazine dealing with road questions.

BEEF NEVER TO BE CHEAPER IN U. S., SCIENTIST ASSERTS

Prof. Kennedy Says High-Priced Land, Farm Labor and Cattle Feed Forbid.

TARIFF BOON TEMPORARY

Production Falls Off 32 Per Cent in Six Years, While Population Gains 10,000,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Io., Nov. 8.—That prices of beefsteak, roast beef, veal, etc., will probably never be lower, but go even higher, is the gloomy view taken by Prof. W. J. Kennedy, director of agricultural extension at the Iowa State College.

There will be no return to what has been looked upon as a normal price of beefsteak and Prof. Kennedy holds out little hope that cheap beef will ever again prevail in the United States, where land is high and farm labor so well paid.

"It is really amusing to listen to and read of the many reasons advanced for the present high prices of beef and other meat products," says Prof. Kennedy. "Some people place all the blame on the farmer, others blame the packer, and still others the retail butcher.

Near-Famine Is Faced.

"A careful study will reveal that no one of them is really responsible. The prices are governed by the law of supply and demand.

"For the first time in the history of modern civilization, our people are facing what appears to be a near-beef famine. It has been facing us ever since 1907. Between Jan. 1, 1907, and Jan. 1, 1913, our supply of beef cattle fell off some 15,970,000 head, or about 32 per cent, while our population increased about 10,000,000 people. This would not be such a serious matter from the consumer's standpoint if it applied just to the United States. A careful study of the beef cattle situation in all beef-producing countries clearly indicates that there is a world-wide shortage, as in only two countries, Australia and France, has beef production kept pace with increase in population since 1890.

Cites Decrease in Exports.

"Between 1906 and 1912 our exports of live cattle fell off about 93 per cent, and our exports in fresh beef decreased 97 per cent. Our imports of live cattle increased from 26,000 head in 1906 to 326,000 in 1912. In December, 1908, the reserve stock of beef in the coolers of this country amounted to 265,500,000 pounds; in 1910, it had diminished to 135,000,000 pounds, and in 1912 it was estimated at only 35,000,000 pounds.

"There is a great deal of speculation as to what effect the new tariff law, which has placed meat on the free list, will have on the cost and supply of beef in this country. It may serve temporarily to reduce somewhat the cost of beef, but it will not have a permanent influence. Europe is meat hungry, and thus will bid against our people for the surplus meat of the Argentine, Australia and other exporting countries.

"Even the most optimistic believers in free meat figure that at the very outside, not more than 4000 head of cattle a week, or 2,000,000 pounds of beef, can be expected. This amount would barely furnish enough for our annual increase in population. The very lowest estimates on our annual per capita beef consumption place the amount at 56 pounds.

Feeding Cattle Is Expensive.

"Beef cattle were grown in former years on free land or land very low in value. The present prices of land, feed and labor make it impossible to produce cheap beef. The farmer is not going to produce beef for prices below what his corn and other crops are worth in the open market. Legislation for preserving the calves and young stock is not practical and in my judgment will never work. Sentiment against the wholesale slaughter of heifer calves and cows is bound to come and will be very helpful.

"Neither the packer nor the retail butcher is to blame for conditions. Look at the price of beef on the hoof at any stockyards and then note the selling price of dressed beef to the butcher. As for the retail butcher, he finds that the great majority of his customers call for steaks and roasts, and few of them want the less desirable parts; thus he must raise the prices on the desirable portions to offset the loss on the others.

"The best way to reduce the cost of living from the beef standpoint would be to purchase some of the less desirable portions at reasonable prices and have them prepared and served in a palatable way. Thus, the secret of reducing the cost of living, so far as beef is concerned, must in a large measure rest with the housewife.

"Beef cattle should be grown on our farms as a part of the soil conservation plan. To succeed in this work, we must put more land under grass and through the use of the silo, utilize more of our cornstalks, millions of acres of which are annually wasted, and grow some alfalfa on every farm. Then, and then alone, will we be in position to get back profitably into the business of raising beef cattle and furnishing American beef for our American people."

Interesting Store News

Wonderful progress has been made during the last few weeks toward the completion of "The Vandervoort Block." Little remains to be done.

The Sixth Floor

We have already opened, on our Sixth Floor, what we have every reason to believe is the most beautiful and complete Piano and Victrola Department in the whole world.

The Fourth Floor

On the Fourth Floor we have greatly enlarged the space devoted to the Floor Covering, Curtain, Drapery and Cut Glass Departments.

The Third Floor

The Third Floor is one of which we are especially proud. On the Century side all of the fixtures are white enamel, and in this section can now be found our new Hair Goods Shop, Corset, Muslin Underwear, Knit Underwear, Infants' Wear, Petticoat, Apron, Negligee and Bathrobe Departments as well as the Mourning and Evening Wrap Departments and the new section devoted exclusively to Misses' and Children's Hats.

The Second Floor

On the Second Floor will now be found the Art Needlework Section, the Boys' Clothing and Furnishing Sections and the wonderfully complete new department devoted to Men's and Young Men's Clothing. Our Safety Deposit Vault in connection with our Bank is also conveniently located on this floor.

The First Floor

The First Floor—Century Side—has seen many changes. The Sporting Goods Department has been moved up to it and complete Cigar and Tobacco, and Drug and Prescription Departments have found space therein.

The Basement

In the Basement you will find a splendid Floral Department ready to execute your every demand. Also a greatly enlarged Toy Department.

Due notice of the formal opening of our completed store will soon be given you in the daily papers. Watch for our announcements.

An Unrivaled Sale of New Dresses Begins Monday

Tomorrow morning we expect to eclipse even last Monday's remarkable sale in our Costume Section, and, judging from the values which we have to offer you for Monday, there is no doubt in our mind as to the result.

We have assembled four great lots of Ball, Afternoon, Dancing and Dinner Costumes, which represent the surplus stocks from some of New York's foremost manufacturers. As we were able to take these in large quantities, we secured the benefit of a material reduction in price, which we are only too glad to pass along to you.

We have listed these four lots below and we are also offering special prices for Monday on all of our Imported Models of which there is but a limited quantity.

Lot No. 1—

Values up to $29.50

We only have a limited number of Afternoon Dresses in this lot, which are made of crepe de chine and charmeuse, in black, navy, brown, green, gray and amethyst. They are beautifully draped in the three-tier and tunic effects and have trimmings of chiffon, net and lace. There are a few Semi-tailored Frocks of crepe de chine among them. We advise an early selection from this lot, as we are confident it will not last long. Regular values up to $29.50, sale price $14.75

Lot No. 2—

Values Up to $37.50

In this lot are a number of very attractive Afternoon and Dancing Frocks, in dark, medium and light colorings. These are all of the very finest materials and workmanship, and we recommend them particularly because of their splendid fit. These dresses are of crepe, moire, Charmeuse, chiffon and poplin, in beautifully trimmed or simple effects. Regular values up to $37.50, sale price $18.50

Lot No. 3—

Values Up to $55.00

This group of Dresses includes those of crepe, satin taffeta and charmeuse. The popular minaret effects are shown of lace and crepe, with fur trimmings; also crystal-trimmed Chiffon Frocks in the loveliest color combinations imaginable. Included are Taffeta Frocks with bouffant tunics. We have medium and small sizes only, in light and dark colors. Regular values up to $55.00, sale price $29.50

Lot No. 4—

Values Up to $95.00

In this lot you will find a beautiful variety of high-grade costumes of every description. There are crystal-trimmed effects, chiffon-draped satins and handsome moire and satin Dinner Gowns. Also lovely Dancing Frocks of chiffon and crepe, in the most charming styles and colorings imaginable. There are, as well, handsome Afternoon Gowns of satin, brocade and crepe, in dark, medium and light colors. There is only one or two of a kind, so come early for first choice. Regular values up to $95.00, sale price $49.50

TAKE SALTS IF YOUR BACK HURTS SAYS DRUGS ONLY EXCITE THE KIDNEYS

Salts is absolutely harmless to flush your Kidneys and neutralize uric acid, thus ending all Bladder trouble.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite and irritate the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder trouble.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—ADV.

EARLY MORNING CHICKEN THIEF A FINE, RED FOX

Poultry Owner, Aroused by Fowls, Calls Milkman to Aid Him in the Capture.

Harry Hoff of 1020 Forest avenue heard his chickens cackling at 5 a. m. yesterday. As he had been missing chickens regularly for several days, he dresed hurriedly and ran for help to catch the thief.

The first man he met was the driver of a milk wagon, George Goldsmith. Hoff persuaded Goldsmith to go with him to the chicken house. Armed with revolvers and electric flash lights, Hoff went to the front door and Goldsmith to the back door.

Hoff flashed his light into the chicken house and was prepared to shoot. There stood the thief right in front of him—a beautiful red fox, with a wire ring around his neck. It was captured.

Prof. Earl Barnes to Speak.

Prof. Earl Barnes will deliver the address before the Ethical Society at the Seldon Memorial today. His theme will be "Charity and Its Effect on Giver and Recipient."

HUSBAND DEFENDS WOMAN WHO SHOT PERSISTENT CALLER

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—Mrs. A. W. Holmes of 202 North Clark street was released under $2500 bond after being formally charged with the murder of Edward Laverne, a picture show singer, whom she shot to death the third time he called at her home on one afternoon. Holmes would not permit callers to see his wife after they returned home. To reporters he said:

"Whatever my wife's past may have been and whatever it was to Laverne, I do not care to discuss, but I do know that since we were married she has been a good woman, and he was out of her life. He should have remained so, but did he do it? Several times he has come here to my home, after ascertaining that I was not in, and has tried to see my wife.

"Seeing her living a moral life, he or any other man who has any manhood at all should have helped her, not tried to drag her back.

"Our negro girl servant had twice told Laverne that Mrs. Holmes was not here that afternoon and Mrs. Holmes went to the door the third time he called. She thought as he tried to force open the door that he reached for a revolver and she shot him with the pistol that she had taken to the door for protection."

COL. LON SANDERS WANTS CUSTOMS COLLECTORSHIP

Files Application With Secretary McAdoo for St. Louis Job.

Col. Lon Sanders of St. Louis, member of Gov. Major's military staff, has filed with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo an application for appointment as Collector of Customs at St. Louis. His application was indorsed by Democratic State Chairman McClung, 10 of the 14 Democratic Congressmen from the State, and St. Louis bankers and business men.

The application of Col. Sanders for the appointment called attention to the enlarged duties of the office, which is now known as the office of Surveyor of the Port. Charles F. Gallenkamp, Republican, has held the office for several years. His term expires early in 1914.

The Collector of Customs will have charge of the collection of import duties in the St. Louis district, which has been enlarged to take in all of Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and all of Illinois south of the thirty-ninth parallel. Ports of entry, in charge of deputies, will be at Kansas City, St. Joseph, Mo., and Cairo, Ill.

The salary of the Collector was increased from $5000 a year to $6000. This office is an entirely distinct office from that of Collector of Internal Revenue. Both offices are on the same floor of the Federal Building at Eighth and Olive streets. The Collector, in exercising the enlarged powers of the office, will have numerous subordinates, with an annual payroll of nearly $100,000.

HAIR STOPS FALLING AND DANDRUFF GOES AT ONCE—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Save your Hair! Beautify it! Invigorate your scalp! Danderine grows hair and we can prove it—Always effective.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous you must use Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.

Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, don't hesitate, but get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now? A 25-cent bottle will truly amaze you.—ADV.

BREWERS' SCIENCE BOOKS A JOKE ON KANSAS LIBRARIES

Gift Volumes Sent as Reference Works Are Attacks on Prohibitory Laws.

OFFICIALS ASK FOR THEM

More Than 100 Sets Hustled to Furnace Rooms When W. C. T. U. Woman Reads One.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 8.—The brewers have "slipped one over" on Kansas again and Kansas is getting real excited about it. They have sent a lot of books to all the Kansas libraries and these books set out to prove that prohibition is not a success and does not prohibit.

Kansas thinks a good deal of her prohibition law, so much, in fact, that every attempt to get the law changed has been met with derision and each Legislature makes the law more stringent than before and each year shows less liquor being sold in the State.

Some time ago the officials of all the Kansas libraries received a nice letter from the United States Brewing Association. This letter said that the association had had printed several works on temperance which it was prepared to furnish free to all public and school libraries that desired to have them.

For years the brewers have been telling Kansas that they would aid every plan to promote temperance, but that prohibition was not the way to do it. With the letter there was a post card to be returned to the association if the library wanted the books. Some of the books purported to be of a more or less scientific nature and from the titles and descriptions in the pamphlet describing the books there was nothing to indicate that the books would be an attack on the prohibitory law or other laws to restrain the sale of liquors.

Most Libraries Took Bait.

So most of the school and city libraries returned the post card and asked for the books and in the records appeared a notation that certain books had been donated by the Brewers' Association and letters of thanks were sent out when the books were received. The brewers paid the express charges. Among the list of books were the following:

True Temperance — Dedicated to all who love liberty too well to abuse it.
Prohibition—Relative to good government.
Prohibition—Enemy of temperance.
Alcohol—Sanctioned for use.
Alcohol—Scientifically considered.
Stark—A plea for justice.
Five feet of information for the Impartial Student of the Liquor Problem.

The books arrived and whenever anyone asked for books about the liquor problem at these libraries these were brought out. After being in the libraries several weeks the exact nature of the books was discovered. Everyone contained an attack on prohibition and most of them had something about Kansas and its law, all of which was not impartial and much of it untrue. Some of the books advised the regular and continual use of liquors by everyone from a baby to an old man in his dotage. Whisky was prescribed as "one of the finest remedies for colic."

Nearly 100 Sets Burned.

Miss Mary Dobbs, secretary of the State W. C. T. U., made the discovery about the books and, when she sent out a letter to the different libraries asking the officials to read the books it took about half an hour in each town to send those books to the furnace room. Miss Dobbs located nearly 100 sets of these books in as many public or school libraries of the State.

About two years ago a fellowship was established by a New York enamel ware manufacturer at the University of Kansas to see if the student could discover any material or method of treating enamel wares so that certain acids did not corrode or tarnish. The student worked over a year and did find a process that would prevent the deterioration of the enamel. After turning the secret of the process over to the manufacturer the university discovered that the donor of the fellowship did an exclusive business of manufacturing machinery for brewers and distillers and he wanted to find some process by which he could coat certain vessels used in brewing with enamel so that the acids from the malt would not destroy the enamel.

NATION 3 MILES LONG HAS GUNS OF 9-MILE RANGE

Will San Marinese Practice With New Cannon Without Starting Trouble?

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Official circles here are interested in the official report that the authorities of San Marino, the smallest republic in the world, have ordered a battery of four Creusot cannon, the most modern and deadly money can buy at present. These cannon will replace the single Krupp gun, bought secondhand in 1893, that has given a sense of security to the tiny nation.

One source of wonderment about these new cannon is that they have a range of nine miles, while San Marino is only three miles long. How will the San Marinese practice with their new guns without stirring up international trouble?

MORGUE SUPERINTENDENT IDENTIFIES FRIEND'S BODY

The body of a man floated against the paddle wheel of the steamer Alton, which is laid up for repairs off Barton street, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It was sent to the morgue, where the superintendent, John J. Kennedy, recognized it as that of a friend, Thomas Griffin, a molder, of 1334A St. Ange avenue.

Griffin, following an attack of illness, disappeared Oct. 12. His clothes afterward were found at the foot of Lesperance street.

VEGETARIAN IS STRONG MAN OF MISSOURI U.

Horace Weltmer Scores 2580 Points, Average Among 300 Contestants Being 1045.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 8.—Horace Weltmer, who eats no meat, is the strong man of Missouri State University. He is from Nevada, Mo., and a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences. He is studying to become a physical instructor.

Weltner scored 2580 points in the eight tests. H. K. Thatcher, second, captain of the track team, scored 2387. The average for 300 men was 1045 points. The tests mostly are made by machines, but one is chinning a bar. Weltmer pulled himself up 22 times. In a contest to raise himself an arm's length above parallel bars, Weltmer scored 23 times. The other tests are: Lung capacity, right and left forearm strength, upper arm strength and lifting power of back and legs.

Weltmer works an hour daily in the gymnasium and eats heartily of cereals and fish and drinks milk. Last summer he threw the champion wrestler of Kansas University.

H. L. Shrader of the College of Agriculture keeps the most symmetrical man honors he won last year. After Director Field looked over the gym classes he said there was no use holding a contest.

PHEASANTS FOR ZOO AFTER POULTRY SHOW

Beautiful Birds to Be Exhibited at 1015 Washington Avenue Nov. 24 to 29.

The St. Louis Zoo will receive from William A. Kappey of 3218 Missouri avenue, at the close of the St. Louis Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association show, Nov. 24—29, a pair of pheasants.

The pair chosen will be of a variety produced by crossing Lady Amherst and golden pheasants, which has the beautiful figure of one and the handsome coloring of the other. Kappey will show six varieties of pheasants, all raised in his yard. His total flock numbers 75 and he keeps them in inclosures each of which is 7 by 20 feet.

The pheasants will be placed near the silver and gold campines raised by J. C. Garrell at his poultry place in Webster Groves. He will show 50 birds. His father-in-law, Fred Grimm, will exhibit royal anconas.

Garrell's chicken house has an upstairs, several rooms on each floor, double doors, outer one lined with sheet-iron, and has double locks. Saturday each show bird was placed in a separate cage in order that it might learn show manners and not have stage fright.

Dr. Jules Baron will send 500 chickens from his flock of 1500 at his Glen Park farm, near Pevely, Mo. He raises Rhode Island reds exclusively. Virgil Blakemore of Fayette, Mo., an officer of the Rhode Island Red Club, has written Secretary James J. Long of the association that his organization means to "paint the whole show red."

MAX: When she says "Yes" go to Loftis Bros. & Co., 2d floor, 308 N. 6th st., and buy a diamond on credit.

EMBROIDERY TRUST NOW

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 8.—American manufacturers of Swiss embroidery and Swiss firms engaged in the same industry, have formed a combine with a capital of $10,000,000 with a view to checking competition. Proposals for a combine have been under consideration for some years, and now Feldmuhle & Co., the biggest firm in Switzerland, has joined with two of the biggest New York firms. The combine will be known as the holding company of New York.

The embroidery trade is monopolized by the four northern cantons, and the workmen fear that wages will be cut by the trust. For 20 years America has been the chief buyer of Swiss embroidery, but that country has been producing its own commodity to an increasing extent.

MADAM! DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS" IS THE ONLY SAFE LAXATIVE FOR YOU.

A delicious cure for constipation, biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all this distress lies in a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful tonight means all constipation, poison, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative can not cause injury. Even a delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless effective stomach, liver and bowel regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your only difficulty may be in getting the genuine; so ask your druggist, for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Say to your druggist, "I want only that made by the 'California Fig Syrup Company.'" This city has many counterfeit "fig syrups," so watch out.—ADV.

Robert Irwin, president of the association, will discuss the "Mistakes of Capitalism."

NEW REMEDY SAVES OLD FOLKS FROM KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Stubborn Bladder Ailments, Backache, Stiff Joints, Rheumatic Pains Disappear After Few Doses are Taken

While people along in years are naturally more subject to weak kidneys, they can easily avoid the tortures of backache and rheumatism.

Croxone promptly overcomes all such troubles by making the kidneys filter the blood properly and sift out the poisonous acids and waste matter that cause these troubles.

It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up, inactive kidneys, dissolves and drives out the uric acid and other poisonous impurities that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause rheumatism. It helps the kidneys and bladder regain health and strength.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what else you have used. It is practically impossible to take this quick-acting, effective preparation without immediate results. It starts to work the minute you take it—the first time you use it. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.—ADVERTISEMENT.

TRAILED HUSBAND TO ST. LOUIS; FOUND HIM MARRIED AGAIN

Mrs. Barney Blass Says Physician Did Not Get Legal Separation From Her.

The suit of Mrs. Rosa Blass, a medical student of the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons, to set aside the divorce obtained from her by Dr. Barney Blass, 2920A Dickson street, in this city in 1904, was heard yesterday by Judge Rassieur. She and Blass were married at Sacramento, Cal., in November, 1902, and shortly thereafter Blass went to San Francisco to resume the practice of medicine, his wife remaining in Sacramento to complete a course as a professional nurse, according to evidence.

Mrs. Blass testified she wrote to Blass after a few weeks that she would join him in San Francisco, but when she got there found he had departed. In 1905, while she was nurse in a hospital there, she said she accidentally learned from a patient, a former St. Louisan, that Blass had come to this city, the patient having known him here.

Finds Him Married Again.

When the wife arrived in St. Louis in search of her husband, she said she discovered that he had divorced her and married again. The record in the case shows that Blass' second wife, Libbie Blass, obtained a divorce from him in 1907 and that more than a year ago he was married to Miss Mary Bayes, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Bayes, with whom he is now living. They have a child.

The first wife says Dr. Blass promised to remarry her as soon as he was divorced from the second wife and consequently she delayed starting proceedings to set aside the first divorce. She avers that at various times Dr. Blass supplied her with money. She makes the allegation that the divorce was obtained by fraud on the ground that she was not personally served in the suit, Blass averring he did not know where she could be located.

Blass denies there was a fraud in the case and he also invokes the statute of limitations as further defense.

Another defense is that the first wife filed proceedings to set aside the divorce several years ago and a demurrer to her petition was sustained, from which action she did not appeal.

CHRISTIAN OLD PEOPLE'S HOME GETS BUILDING

Purchase of the Nicholas M. Bell Residence From Peper Estate Approved by Court.

The Christian Women's National Benevolent Association has purchased the old Nicholas M. Bell home, Margaretta, Taylor and San Francisco avenues, from the Christian Peper estate. The property was bought at auction several days ago and the sale was approved by the Probate Court Friday. It consists of five acres of ground and an 18-room brick house.

The property was purchased by the association, which is the women's auxiliary of the Christian Church, for a permanent location for the Christian Old People's Home, which has been in a rented building at 2821 Lawton avenue since it was founded three years ago. The Old People's Home is one of several charities supported under the auspices of the Christian Women's National Benevolent Association.

While the home is largely supported by the Christian Churches throughout the country, yet the association aids the needy aged regardless of denomination. After an applicant has been properly investigated, if found worthy and dependent, she is provided with shelter, food, clothing, medical attention and properly cared for.

The building will be remodeled to suit the needs of the home. It is impossible to care for a larger number in the present quarters.

1746 BOXES OF SWEET POTATOES DESTROYED

Board of Health Inspector Condemns All Frosted Tubers He Finds in Market.

Seventeen hundred and forty-six boxes of sweet potatoes which had been frost-bitten were condemned yesterday by John H. Ritter, chief inspector of the Board of Health, and were destroyed after coal oil had been poured on them. The potatoes were taken from the wagons of farmers and gardeners on their way to market and from commission merchants on Produce Row.

Ritter aserted that he will continue to condemn and destroy frozen sweet potatoes as long as they are found in the St. Louis market. Sweet potatoes are injurious to health after they have been frosted, according to Ritter, and are unfit for food.

The early cold snap this Fall caused thousands of acres of sweet potatoes to be frost-bitten near St. Louis, Ritter asserts. The anxiety of farmers and gardeners to get rid of the potatoes before they become so decayed they are unfit to be sold, is responsible, to a large extent, for the low price of the tubers now, according to Ritter.

SULZER TRIAL COSTLY

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Bills for expenses incurred at the trial of impeachment of former Gov. Sulzer, not including counsel fees, already total $50,000 more than the $75,000 originally appropriated to cover the cost of the trial.

A special bill for $50,000 will be introduced in the Assembly next week to meet these expense.

Cut This Out

Recipe That Breaks a Cold in a Day and Cures Any Curable Cough.

"From your druggist get half ounce of Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine) and two ounces of Glycerine. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half-pint of good whiskey; shake well and use in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime." Smaller doses to children according to age. But be sure to get only the genuine Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Each half-ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If your druggist does not have it he will quickly get it. This formula comes from a reliable doctor and is certain. This was first published here six years ago and druggists say it has been in constant demand.

For Indigestion—Mix one ounce Catandir Compound; two ounces Essence of Pepsin; three ounces Syrup of Ginger. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after meals. This is said to have no equal. Catandir is that new compound. Any druggist has it or will get it. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.—ADV.

KRUPP ARMAMENT MEN SENTENCED FOR BRIBERY

This Is Sequel to Conviction of German Army Officers on Corruption Charge.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Sentence on charges of bribery of Government officials was pronounced today on Otto Eccius and Maximillian Brandt, two former employes of the Krupp armament firm, who have been on trial since Oct. 23. Eccius was fined $300 and Brandt was condemned to four months imprisonment, which he already has served.

The charges arose out of a declaration by Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist deputy in the Imperial Parliament, that corruption was prevalent among German army officials.

Several army officers were convicted by courtmartial in August of receiving bribes for giving secret information to Krupp's representatives.

NOSTRILS AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD? TRY MY CATARRH BALM

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catharrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflammed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lie awake tonight, struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

BIG IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM FOR NEXT CIVIC COUNCIL YEAR

Central Body to Take Up Number of the Problems Affecting Welfare of the City.

The program of the Central Civic Council just issued by Secretary Roger N. Baldwin shows that the organization will take up for discussion during the next year many of the most important problems affecting the city government and the welfare of the people of the city.

The Central Civic Council is comprised of delegates from the most active improvement associations in the city. Regular meetings are held on the last Monday of each month, usually at the Central Public Library. Sylvester G. Lewis of 4730 Ashland avenue is president of the Council.

The special attention of the Council will be given to these subjects in the year:

General Improvements.

1. Support of the movement to secure a modern form of city charter.
2. Support of the City Plan Commission's amendment to acquire parks and boulevards by special assessments against benefited property.
3. Collection of rubbish and ashes by the city.
4. Improved method of collecting and disposing of garbage.
5. Enforcement of the laws for better housing.
6. Provision for a Municipal Lodging House for homeless men.
7. Support of the movement to abolish grade-crossings.
8. Support of a general bond issue for needed public improvements.
9. Enforcement of the United Railways Co.'s franchise obligations.
10. Extension of the waterworks railway.
11. Support of the legislation for a cleaner milk supply.
12. Better provision for street sprinkling.
13. The question of the segregation of negroes.

Neighborhood Improvements.

1. Extension of playgrounds and the use of public parks.
2. Additional public bathing facilities.
3. Supervision of places of public amusement.
4. Additional public comfort stations.
5. Improvement of the sewer system.
6. Abolition of neighborhood nuisances, such as slaughter-houses, dairies, quarries, soap and glue factories, and the like.

Through the medium of the improvement associations with which the delegates are affiliated, the Central Civic Council has been able to concentrate the influence of many people on important affairs in the city government, as well as upon neighborhood abuses which the people wished to have corrected.

TWO GERMAN CHORUSES TO GIVE JOINT CONCERT

Several Hundred Singers to Celebrate Anniversaries Nov. 20.

A joint concert at the Victoria Theater will be given Nov. 20 in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Freier Maennerchor and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Ladies' Chorus of the North St. Louis Free Thought Society. A chorus of several hundred singers will participate.

Mrs. Rosalind Anschuetz, a pupil of the famous Joachim, violin; Miss Alma Dreifus, soprano, and James J. Rohan, tenor, will be the soloists. Hugo Anschuetz, the musical director of the two societies, has prepared a program containing two choruses—a cantata, "Am Meeresgestade," by H. Brueckner, and the other the Festival Chorus from the "Queen of Sheba," by Carl Goldmark. In addition German folk songs, solo and orchestra numbers will be on the program.

These members form the joint executive committee of the two singing societies: Hugo Schade, Mrs. Matilda Junghans, Mrs. E. Niemoeller, Carl Doerr Jr., William S. Grimm, Carl Keisker and August H. Hoffmann. Ernest Sostmann is president of the Freier Maennerchor and Mrs. Carl Doerr Jr. of the Ladies' Chorus.

AMERICAN TO LIVE IN NAPOLEON III'S CHAUTEAU

Pays $40,000 a Year for Magnificent Estate Near Biult for an Imperial Favorite.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Archer M. Huntington of New York, who sailed from Cherbourg for home on Wednesday on the steamship Olympic, have taken the magnificent chateau de Beauregard, near Paris, for a term of years at an annual rental of $40,000.

There are several chateaus of that name in France. One near Blouis is said to have been built 400 years ago by King Francis II, as a hunting lodge. Another, near Villeneuve St. Georges, is an ancient structure, and was the residence of Balzac's widow, Countess de Hanska.

The one the Huntingtons will occupy is near St. Coud and far more modern. It is said to have been built by Napoleon III for Miss Howard, for whom he created the title of Countess Beaureguard and whose son he made Count de Bechevet. It stands in a splendid great park and everything about it is on a scale that could only be maintained by a man of great wealth. Baron Hirsch bought it after Napoleon III's star had set. When the Baron passed away it fell to his heir, Baron de Forest, from whom Mr. Huntington has rented it.

You don't consider the advertising cost AFTER vacant rooms are RENTED to good roomers. Post-Dispatch "Wants" RENT THEM—and the cost is a TRIFLE.

SPIRITUAL AID FOR MEN

A movement has been started by the Church Federation and the Presbyterian Brotherhood, operating through local churches and organizations in the vicinity of the car barns of the United Railways Co., to provide efficient and well conducted Bible classes for street car men.

One class is now held in the Hodiamont Building, room being provided by the company. There are frequently 50 men in attendance. Another class is conducted at Park and Vista avenues. The classes are proving attractive to the men. Plans are under consideration for providing for these men in the near future as the Y. M. C. A. provides for steam railway men.

That situation you seek may be at the other end of that Post-Dispatch want ad you have intended inserting.

PIANIST BACHAUS STIRS INTEREST OF SYMPHONY GOERS

They All Want Seats Where They Can See Keyboard When German Plays.

FIRST "POP" PROGRAM

Season's Concerts to Begin To-day With Chicago Soprano as Soloist.

For the last two days the office of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra has been besieged with requests for a change of seats for the concerts of Nov. 14-15. Subscribers whose seats are on the right side of the house want to be on the left for these two concerts and those in the rear want to be changed temporarily to the front rows. The desire expressed in every instance is to be placed where there is an uninterrupted view of the keyboard of the piano.

Wilhelm Bachaus, the great German pianist, will be the soloist of the programs of this week, and everybody wants to see his hands while he is playing.

"This is the first time a pianist has caused just this sort of interest," said Manager Arthur J. Gaines of the Symphony yesterday. "Often when there is a pianist with the orchestra you will find persons in the audience changing their seats during the concert to get a better view of the fingering of the performer, but I never knew of the public being so worked up in advance over just this phase of the concert arrangements.

"The treble end of the piano always is turned to the audience, thus placing a pianist on the left side of the stage—viewed from the back of the house—and naturally those whose seats are on the right side of the house do not get so good an opportunity to observe the hands of the player. It would be impossible to place everybody within range of the keyboard, and we are having rather amusing times explaining the situation.

Interpreter of Beethoven.

Bachaus is attracting much more than ordinary interest both in St. Louis and elsewhere because of the tremendous impression he made during his first American tour in 1911. He is considered by many to be the greatest living interpreter of Beethoven, a fact that is remarkable because of the somewhat sensational style of his performances.

Vladimir de Pachmann, the most sensational pianist now on the stage, regards Bachaus as the greatest pianist, except himself, and he even goes so far as to say that Bachaus' playing is finer than his, but not as beautiful.

Besides being an interpreter of Beethoven, Bachaus is so reverent a disciple of the master that he has grown to resemble his prototype in a remarkable degree and has many of Beethoven's mannerisms. His number with the St Louis Orchestra Friday afternoon and Saturday evening will be the "Emperor" concerto by Beethoven.

This is his second appearance with the St. Louis Symphony, the former one being two seasons ago during his first American tour. After his concert tour this winter, he plans to remain in the United States long enough to go on a mountaineering expedition in the Canadian Rockies with a party of European friends.

Almost Killed in Alps.

Mountaineering is his chief diversion and has won him almost as much reputation for daring as his great genius has brought him renown as an artist. An accident in the Tyrolean Alps a year or two ago almost cost him his life, but did not dampen his ardor for climbing.

The program for the concerts of Nov. 14-15 follows:

SECOND SYMPHONY PROGRAM.
Friday afternoon, Nov. 14, at 3.
Saturday evening, Nov. 15, at 8:15.
Soloist—Wilhelm Bachaus, pianist.

Overture to Figaro's Wedding	Mozart
Three Orchestral Pieces from the Dramatic Symphony, Romeo and Juliet, Op. 17	Berlioz

III. Queen Mab or the Fairy of dreams. Scherzo
Concerto for Piano, No. 5—Emperor, Op. 73	Beethoven
Overture to Der Freischutz	Weber

"Pop" Concert Program.

The orchestra will begin its season's series of Sunday afternoon popular concerts today with an exceptionally interesting program and a soloist of national reputation. Mme. Hazel Eden Mudge, a Chicago soprano, who sang with the Symphony during its spring tour last season, will give an aria from Verdi's Aida and a group of English songs, and the orchestra will play two numbers new to St. Louis as well as one of the ever popular Strauss waltzes. The programme follows:

HOFMANN IN RECITAL AT ODEON THURSDAY

Pianist Will Repeat Program Which Was Praised Highly by Boston Critics.

Josef Hofmann, who has just returned to America after an absence of several years, will give a recital in the Odeon Thursday evening, repeating his program given in Boston last week, pronounced by critics the best piano recital ever heard there. The program covers a wide range of compositions, which gives the artist opportunity for the display of his genius.

Hofmann was the favorite pupil of Rubenstein, who first heard him play in Berlin concerts when he was an infant prodigy of only 6, and predicted he would become one of the greatest pianists of the age. The St. Louis program is as follows:

(a) Variations, B minor	Handel
(b) Bagatelle, E flat major	Beethoven
C major	Beethoven
(c) Sonata Pathetique	Beethoven
(a) Nocturne Op. 32	Chopin
(b) Mazurka Op. 56	Chopin
(c) Waltz, E flat	Chopin
(d) Sonate, B minor	Liszt
(a) Prelude, A minor	Rachmaninoff
D minor	Rachmaninoff
(b) Polichinelle	Rachmaninoff
(c) Barcarolle	Dvorsky
(d) Poeme	Scriabine
(e) Etude, D sharp minor	Scriabine

CHORAL ART SOCIETY CONCERT POSTPONED

Illness of Mrs. C. B. Rohland, the Director, Is Cause of the Delay.

The date for the first concert of the Choral Art Society of St. Louis has been changed to Jan. 21 instead of Dec. 10, as previously announced, because of the illness of Mrs. C. B. Rohland, the conductor. The concert will be given in the Sheldon Memorial and it is expected that there will be 400 subscribers by that time.

The Choral Art Society of New York was organized by Frank Damrosch more than 20 years ago. The St. Louis organization has a mixed chorus of the best professional singers of the city, all of whom are paid for their services. It is hoped to have the generous support of the city, as it has long been felt that a choral society was necessary for the best musical development here.

Anyone wishing to subscribe can communicate with Mrs. Oscar Herf at the Washington Hotel, treasurer of the Choral Art Society. The subscription price is $5, which includes two tickets for the concert. Mrs. Hudson E. Bridge is president of the Choral Art Society; Mrs. Charles Claflin Allen, vice-president; Mrs. David Kriegshaber, recording secretary, and Mrs. B. J. Taussig, corresponding secretary.

Roots and Herbs Nature's Remedy

Almost every American man or woman can recall grandmother's collection of roots, herbs and barks made every year for home use.

It is interesting to note that the most successful remedy for woman's ills had its origin nearly forty years ago in one of these collections of herbs and roots.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was originally prepared by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., by steeping on her kitchen stove a combination of roots and herbs. This she furnished free of cost to her woman friends who had need of such a medicine.

The cures resulting therefrom caused its fame to spread far and wide. The demand increased until today a visit to the laboratory at Lynn, where this medicine is made, reveals an immense brick building, the entire fourth floor of which is piled high with bags full of herbs, barrels of roots and bins of seeds, and a pungent, aromatic odor fills the place which reminds one of the old attic in the farm house with sage, catnip, thoroughwort and other herbs hanging from the rafters.

None but the choicest herbs are used in making Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; all carefully selected for their ability to remedy the ills for which they are prescribed and tested for their medicinal strength, and tons and tons are used annually in making this greatest of all medicines for woman's special ills.

We ask every thinking person this question: Isn't a purely vegetable remedy, made from the roots and herbs of the field—which are nature's own remedy for disease—preferable to drugs and narcotics in the treating of such diseases?

No other remedy has ever attained such wonderful success as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in treating woman's ills; it acts in harmony with the feminine organism and soon restores natural and normal organic conditions.

Every sick woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, for it cannot harm her, and there are a hundred chances to one that it will completely restore her health.

BAVARIA REJOICES AS REGENT TAKES MAD KING'S PLACE

Ludwig Won Favor of the People by His Administration of Public Affairs.

OTTO INSANE 42 YEARS

He Lives in Lonely Castle Attended by Seven Doctors and Servants.

MUNICH, Nov. 8.—There is great rejoicing in Bavaria over the new King, Ludwig III, who was elevated from Regent to the title by an act of Parliament. The Bavarians long have realized that their roundabout form of government, due to formal deference to the mad King Otto has been a handicap and has hurt the prestige of the kingdom among other German states and even abroad.

This year an economic situation that seemed to be critical arose, and a quick parliamentary decision was made to retire King Otto, for whose mental recovery no hope is held out, and promote Prince Regent Ludwig, whose administration is popular.

Otto was born April 28, 1848, and has been titular King since June 13, 1886, when he succeeded his brother, Ludwig II, who drowned himself.

Mad Since Franco-Prussian War.

To allay any suspicion that might arise over the displacement of King Otto, arrangement was made for the writer to see him at Furstenried Castle as a journalist to give the public an idea of the mad King's condition. Really there never has been a suspicion that King Otto was not insane.

Otto's mind gave way during the Franco-Prussian war. In 1871 he commanded a regiment and one day ordered his men to march against an old wall on which he thought French soldiers were standing, while in reality the whole country was deserted, the French troops being many miles away. At Versailles on Jan. 18, after the proclamation of King William I as German Emperor, a great state banquet was given to celebrate the event. In the course of this Prince Otto of Bavaria, as he then was, made a most tactless and uncalled for speech, which again evidenced his mental weakness. He thereupon was sent to Furstenried, and never since has been allowed to come out.

Furstenried is situated about 30 minutes by railway from Munich. It is an old medieval castle, with magnificent gardens. Ever since King Otto was locked up the gates and hedges have been fitted with every conceivable system of metallic network to prevent his escape. All the castle rooms are furnished magnificently, but have not been used for 40 years. The King and two medical attendants occupy an apartment in the central part of the building.

Attendant Always Armed.

The King himself has only a bedroom, which he shares with one of the doctors in attendance and a herculean valet, who always carries a loaded revolver under his pillow, ready for any emergency.

An atmosphere of deep gloom prevails in these apartments, where one can hardly detect any proofs of the fact that a royal personage, or even a sane person, is living there. One sees no book, no pen—nothing that can in any way convey the idea of intellectual work. On the King's "working" table were a couple of medicine bottles; also little pieces of wood which he cuts incessantly into small bits, believing sometimes that he is a celebrated wood carving artist.

While the King and his doctors took their drive through the castle grounds I was permitted to go through these rooms populated only by male servants in magnificent royal livery. When I reached the gardens I finally saw the King himself, but had to take care at first that he should not see me, lest he have a fit of fury at the sight of a stranger. Since he has been at Furstenried King Otto has seen nobody except doctors and servants, although several royal personages have been permitted to observe him.

Big and Athletic.

King Otto, when you look at him from a distance, is not like a madman at all. He is big and athletic, with a long white beard, carefully groomed. He wears a dark brown suit, cut like a military uniform. Instead of a collar he wears a black woolen jersey. He very seldom wears any kind of headgear. When you approach him and look into his eyes you immediately see that his case is hopeless, for, while as far as his physical person is concerned the King is sound enough, his brain has stopped forever, and his eyes look like those of a dead man. His glance is purely animal. He speaks little and only when hungry. Then he shrieks.

"Essen! Gleich! Essen!" He cries until an attendant comes with food. He has no special diet except that he is forbidden alcoholic drinks. He especially loves fruit.

Strangely enough, near this sad majesty a sort of royal usage is still observed. None of the medical assistants are allowed to speak to him unless spoken to or asked for something; so days pass without a word being heard in the solitary castle of Furstenried.

Doctor Works One Week; Rests Six.

"It is enough to drive anybody mad," I was told by the court personage showing me. "That is why a whole medical staff had to be engaged for the King. On the one hand it is impossible to leave him without attendance for a minute lest something tragic happen, and on the other, two or three doctors could not be imposed upon with such a patient, for the strength of their nerves would give way. We now have seven doctors who take relays with the King for a week. Each one has a six weeks' rest, of which he is badly in need.

"Of course, the greater part of the time the King is as you see him now, walking through the gardens quite calm and normal, but it happens, though more seldom in the last year or so, that he is seized with attacks of frenzy, when it is indispensable to use the straightjacket. Otherwise we either would have to use revolvers or endanger our own lives. Nothing will arouse him at times, yet anything might do so.

"One attack was caused, I believe, because his valet neglected to make three curtsies on entering the room. The custom of these curses has been abandoned many years at Furstenried. Nevertheless, on that day the departure from custom had a terrifying effect on the disposition of the King. The crisis was so strong that it took a week before he recovered. During this week the whole castle heard King Otto's cries and shouts, while he flung the most impossible insults at all those who attended him."

Airship Frightens King.

Some time ago, in spite of the rules and regulations, a German airman happened to fly over Furstenried. The King, who was in the gardens, heard the noise of the engine and looked up at the flyer. As a compliment to His Majesty the airman flew as low as possible, and from his monoplane flung a bouquet of flowers, which fell a few yards from the chair where the King was sitting. This event caused another attack, and for several days the mad King cried exactly like an animal, constantly shaking his fist at the sky whence the floral message had been thrown. He could not, of course, understand how it happened that "a bird" sent a bouquet of flowers. His doctors made no attempt to explain the occurrence.

The upkeep of the mad King is very expensive. The expense is borne by the Bavarian Treasury, and is paid from the civil list of the Prince Regent. King Otto costs about $25,000 a year, and the greater part of this sum is paid to the doctors.

CATTLEMEN, FORCED TO SELL, GET HIGH PRICES

Arizona Range Owners Lucky at Period When Poor Grazing Necessitates Marketing.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 8.—Luck travels with the cattlemen of Arizona, for at the time of the year when grazing was scarcest the prices of livestock went highest. Records of recent years were broken the other day, when Lew Mackey of Maricopa County sold a range steer weighing 1650 pounds for $92.50. The best record for several years was that of Henry Maders of Yavapai County, who sold a range steer for $75.

The shipping stations of Navajo and Holbrook have been among the busiest centers in Arizona the last few weeks. Inspector Lew Mackey reports he has passed 8000 head of cattle and he estimates 16,000 head will be shipped before the end of the season, Nov. 15.

"The cattlemen are forced to sell," says Mackey. "There was a practical failure in the feed crop this year and grazing has been poorer than for several years. The ranges have not been overstocked, but lack of water has failed to produce vegetation. Next year probably will be a good one and there will be few cattle to take care of.

"It is fortunate for the cattlemen that prices are so high, otherwise their losses would be heavy."

PASSED ALTERED MONEY

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—William Houlihan, arrested here several weeks ago, was indicted today by the Federal grand jury on a charge of having in his possession and passing altered currency issued by the Bank of Montreal. He will be arraigned Monday.

It is alleged that the altered currency answers the description of that stolen in the $272,000 New Westminster bank robbery nearly two years ago.

4 MEN AMBUSHED, SLAIN, IN COLORADO COAL MINE STRIKE

Miner and Guards Who Had Rescued Him Attacked as They Go to Mine in Auto.

ANOTHER MINER KILLED

Is Shot After Marshal Saves Him From Strikers — Governor Favors Courtmartial.

By Associated Press.

LAVETA, Colo., Nov. 8.—One miner and three guards from the Oakview mine, near here, were killed late today, when they were ambushed on their way to the mine. The miner had come to Laveta late this afternoon to visit a dentist. When he started to return to the mine he was surrounded by strikers, but managed to send a telephone appeal for aid.

Three guards came to Laveta, rescued the miner and started for the mine in an automobile. The party was attacked and in the exchange of shots the occupants of the automobile were killed.

Miner Slain After Marshal Rescues Him From Strikers.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Nov. 8.—Pedro Armijo, a miner who has been working in the Aguilar district, was killed today by a shot fired from ambush on the outskirts of Aguilar, when he was being escorted out of town by a Marshal. The Marshal, J. A. Davis, just had rescued Armijo from a crowd of strikers and was aiding him in getting out of danger.

Reports of an attack by strikers on the military guard at Forbes early today were received by Adjutant-General John Chase. Several shots struck the fan house and cut off the mine ventilation.

Preliminary steps for the military occupation of the coal mining district south of Trinidad were taken today by Gen. Chase. The camps of Starkville, Sopris, Morley, Valdez, Segundo, Primero, Cokedale, Tercio and several smaller properties will have military protection.

Several camps today announce the return to work of large numbers of striking miners.

Gov. Ammons Orders Slayers Put Under Martial Guard.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 8.—Adjutant-General Chase was ordered today by Gov. E. M. Ammons to round up and imprison under martial guard the men who early today ambushed and killed a non-union miner in the Aguilar district and those that late today ambushed and killed three mine guards and a non-union miner near Laveta.

The Governor declared that if he could find a way to try the men under martial law he would order Gen. Chase to proceed with their trial. The Governor said he did not believe Gen. Chase would have much difficulty in finding the men.

MAN, SHOT, REFUSES TO ACCUSE HIS ASSAILANT

Bystander Causes Arrest of William Schuster, Who Also Declines to Make Statement.

Policemen attracted to the mouth of an alley on Seventeenth street between Carr and Wash streets last night, found Joseph Wisneuski, 21 years old, of 1420 North Sixteenth street, with a bullet wound in his right leg.

Wisneuski refused to tell the police about the shooting and while they were questioning him in a crowd that had gathered John Wister of 1315 North Twentieth street, pointed to William Schuster, 22 years old, of 1810 North Eighteenth street, and said:

"There's the man that did the shooting."

After Wisneuski's injury had been dressed at the dispensary he was taken to the police station where he refused to say whether it was Schuster who had shot him. Neither would Schuster make a statement and both were locked up. They will be held while the police are investigating.

TRAIN HITS WAGON; 4 DIE

Six on Straw Ride Party Also Are Injured.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Four persons were killed and six injured when a wagon loaded with 20 persons was struck by a Delaware, Lackawanna & Western train at Jamesville, six miles south of here, tonight. The occupants of the carry-all were on a straw ride. The wagon was thrown 20 feet into a ditch.

The dead are William Crouder, driver, Minnie Price, Kathleen Springer and an unidentified man. Sophia Marshall and Adam Kolosky are probably fatally injured.

STEAMSHIP IN COLLISION

Pacific Vessel Reports Running Into Unidentified Boat.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—The steamship Pleiades, which sailed late today for Ancon, Panama, was in collision with an unidentified vessel at 8:13 o'clock tonight, 15 miles south of the San Francisco lightship, according to a wireless message received by the Merchants' Exchange.

The Pleiades asked for assistance, as she was badly damaged. She is commanded by Capt. H. C. Armstrong.

"He's a great man," said papa, after reading about President Wilson's Mexican policy.

"The best ever," said Willie.

"Yes, he has a way of putting things over."

"That's right. He kicks a goal every time."

"Admirably put, my son. That's a fine figure of speech."

"It wasn't a figure of speech. It was a plain statement of fact."

"Why, I was talking about President Wilson, Willie."

"TANGO" CRAZE REACHES COURT OF COPENHAGEN

King's Marshal Wires to Berlin for Music; Pays $400 for Manuscript Copy.

Copyright, 1913, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Danish King Christian's Court Marshal telegraphed to the Thalia Theater here the other day for tango music, as the dance was to be introduced immediately in the Copenhagen court.

A reply was sent that no tango music had been published yet, and that the only way it could be obtained was to pay a high price for a manuscript copy.

Promptly came back the order:

"Money no object. State price. Mail immediately."

The manager of the Thalia Theater sent manuscript music and charged $400 for it.

ENGLISH JUDGE SCOFFS AT U. S. DIVORCE LAWS

Declares "I Cannot Live With My Husband" Insufficient Grounds for Legal Separation.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Sir Samuel T. Evans, president of the divorce court, whose second wife was Miss Blanche Rule of Cincinnati, found today an opportunity, which he never misses, to scoff at the divorce laws of America. A woman seeking judicial separation, said plaintively:

"I cannot live with my husband."

"That plea may be good in America but it is not in England," retorted Sir Samuel. Whereupon all the lawyers in court screamed with laughter.

MR. KISS GETS DIVORCE

Charged That Mrs. Kiss Kissed Too Many of Their Boarders.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—John Kiss has joined the army of the legally unwed, all because Mrs. Esther Kiss was affectionate with boarders in their home. Kiss told Judge Baldwin that his wife left with their two children last June after he had discovered and protested against her friendliness with the boarders. He was given a decree.

"I kept a boarding house and my wife was always too friendly with the boarders to suit me," Kiss complained. "I caught her kissing one of them, who had his arms around her one night when I came home early."

BIRD DOG A MEAT THIEF

Butcher Sees Animal Carrying Away Yard of Spareribs.

After watching for several days to discover the thief who was stealing meat from his butcher shop on East Main street, Belleville, M. G. Gannon found that a bird dog was responsible.

Gannon was standing behind a counter cutting meat when he heard a slight noise in the front part of the shop. He looked around in time to see the dog dragging a yard of spareribs from the counter. Gannon could not overtake the animal. He has offered a reward of a pound of sausage to the person who will catch the dog.

MILLIONS FROM A KETTLE

Two Fortunes Made in a Patent Medicine Total $5,200,000.

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The Treasurer of Broome County will file with the County Surrogate a statement appraising the estate of the late Jonah M. Kilmer of this city, exploiter of a patent medicine, at $2,600,000. The fortune of Willis Sharpe Kilmer, his son, who is now in Europe, is estimated at about the same amount.

The fortune was built in 20 years. When the elder Kilmer started the manufacture of his medecine, his original outfit consisted of a big iron kettle and a few gallons of ingredients.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Cora Stepp of Rantoul went to the courthouse today to have the State's Attorney issue a warrant charging her husband with desertion.

Before she could be removed from the courtroom a son was born to her.

MELLEN, $60,000 MAN, SAYS $25,000 IS ENOUGH SALARY

Former New Haven President Would Limit Salary of Best Man on Earth.

U. S. TO TAKE OVER ROADS

Ex-Railway Official Predicts Time for Government Ownership Is Near at Hand.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 8.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven Railroad, whose salary was $60,000 a year, says no man on earth is worth more than $25,000 a year in any executive job, and that all payments in excess are an unjust tax on the public.

Also he predicts Governement ownership of all railways in the United States.

In a copyrighted interview that covers two pages of the Boston Post, Mellen seeks to place on J. P. Morgan, Lewis Cass Ledyard, George von L. Meyer and the other financial heads of the system full responsibility for the breaking down of the New Haven. He says he has been deserted with unearned criminal indictments hanging over him after betrayal by his associates.

Mellen says he was simply an employe of the New Haven system in the capacity of operating head of the road.

Bankers Struggle for Control.

During that time he states that the financial forces behind him, but beyond his control, struggled and schemed for supremacy. It was Boston against New York—a bankers' fight. On the question of salaries he said:

"I believe that the paying of tremendous salaries to corporation officials is a waste of money. I believe that no man in the country is worth more than $25,000 a year. And I know that I would have worked fully as hard for the New Haven Railroad for $25,000 as I did for $50,000. The payment of more than $25,000 a year is simply levying an unjust tax upon the public, which must pay this larger salary in increased rates.

"This matter of large salaries will probably soon come before the Interstate Commerce Commission and before many years the Commission will be given the power to veto exorbitant salaries.

"Of course, any man is human enough to take all the salary that is given him. But that does not alter the fact that he cannot earn for any corporation more than $25,000."

On Government ownership he says:

"The railroads will all go under Government ownership. It is coming quickly. Five years ago I felt that I would not live to see it. But now I think that I will. Regulation by the Government during the last 10 years has tended to lower the value of railroad stocks as investments. There is not the big money in railroads that there used to be. There will not be any great opposition to Government ownership when the time arrives, because private capital will find the field unprofitable as a result of the too-strict regulation.

Effect of Government Ownership.

"Under Government ownership trains will still be late, wrecks will occur and mails will be missed and lost, in just as large proportion as they are today. Under Government ownership, however, a man will simply have to stand it and swear. His kicking will do no good. If he loses a shipment of goods he will have to file his bill and wait for Congress to appropriate the money for him.

"I believe in thorough and complete Government regulation, and I have advocated many of the regulations which have come into force only during the last few years. I do not believe the roads will be as well operated under Government ownership as under private management with proper regulations."

INTERURBAN CARS NOW RUN INTO INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—Interurban traction service from points over the State was resumed into Indianapolis tonight for the first time since the strike of the employes of the Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. tied up the city street cars. During the last week the interurban cars have only been operated to the suburbs, but tonight all lines except the Indianapolis & Louisville Railway, sent their cars to the traction terminal station.

No progress was made today toward reaching an agreement between the the traction companies and their employes.

HESSE KILLED FOR TURNING INFORMER, IS BELIEF OF POLICE

Former Friends Regarded Machinist, Who Was Slain by Deputy Constable as "Snitch."

REVEALED SWINDLE PLOT

Levin, Who Fired Shot, Held After Inquest, Released on Bond of $5000.

The police last night, in investigating the killing of Fred L. Hesse, an automobile machinist of 3012 North Newstead avenue, by Harry Levin, a deputy constable, took up the line that the murder may have grown out of an occurence of two years ago, when Hesse, turned informer, revealed to the police an alleged plot in which it was sought to swindle three railroads out of $15,000.

His former friends, according to the police, regarded him as a "snitch" and in the neighborhood of Broadway and Carr street, where he lived, many consider the betrayal of information to the police as the unpardonable offense. Things were made so unpleasant for him, it is related, that he was compelled to move out of the district.

Returned to Old Haunts.

His return to his old haunts last Thursday night, the night before he was killed, is believed by the authorities to have possibly led directly to his death. His brother, Patrolman John Hesse of the Soulard Street District, related to a reporter that Fred Hesse met Levin and several companions on Cass avenue near Sixth street. The deputy constable, the policeman said his brother told him, demanded the loan of some money. Hesse refused, whereupon Levin and his friends beat him, raising a lump on his head with a blackjack and bruising his mouth.

Levin's version of the trouble was that Hesse said to him:

"You're no better than a dog-catcher. You go around throwing poor people into the streets." The alleged remark had reference to Levin's duties in serving eviction notices. Levin said he struck Hesse on the jaw, and that, in falling, his head hit a wall. The police think Hesse's sneer at Levin may have been provoked by the epithet, "snitch."

Bills of Lading False.

In October, 1911, a skirt manufacturing firm demanded $15,000 from the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroads, alleging that cases of skirts committed to them had been lost in transportation. Waybills purporting to be the railroads' receipts for the goods were displayed. Investigation convinced the railroads that the bills had been forged. All of them, according to the police, were signed "F. Hesse." Hesse was then a driver for a drayage company.

Taken to police headquarters and questioned, Hesse was said to have made a confession, stating that a man had offered him $50 to sign the forged bills and that he had accepted the bribe. His confession was submitted to the grand jury, but the company promptly dropped its claim against the railroads and there was no prosecution.

However, the fact that Hesse had "snitched" spread in the neighborhood where he had grown up as a boy and where most of his companions lived. His former friends ostracised him, until he gave up the job of driver which often took him to the railroad yards in the vicinity, and finally moved away.

The police, however, have no evidence connecting Levin with the unwritten code of gang ethics, except that he has often been seen in the neighborhood, has many friends there, and has the support of influential politicians in the Fourth Ward. Levin himself declined to testify at the inquest or to make a statement to reporters on advice of his attorney, Thomas J. Rowe Jr.

Released by Judge.

Levin was held for homicide in a Corner's verdict returned yesterday, and was immediately released on a common law bond of $5000 by Judge Ben Clark of the Court of Criminal Correction, without the customary procedure of obtaining the consent of the Circuit Attorney's office.

The practice in homicide cases has been that persons held by the Coroner shall be released only upon the recommendation of the Circuit Attorney. Circuit Attorney Harvey said last night that not only did he not recommend Levin's release, but that Assistant Circuit Attorney Spencer, who attended the inquest, told the police he would not sanction such an action. The bond was signed by professional bondsmen.

That Levin shot Hesse Friday afternoon, while the latter was running away, was testified to by three witnesses, William Cole of 3007 Olive street, Miner Carter of 2002 Olive street, and Dr. G. W. Tremaine of 2647 Olive street. Hesse was repairing the physician's machine in front of his home when he was attacked, and fell dying in his doorway, the last of three shots being fired in the vestibule of the house.

Conflicting testimony was given by William Ambs of 5560 Easton avenue, who said that Hesse assailed Levin with a hammer before the Deputy Constable drew his revolver. On being questioned by Deputy Coroner Furlong concerning his own record,

LETTER ENDANGERS CHOICE OF PEORIAN FOR AMBASSADOR

Pindell's Appointment in Doubt Because of Offer of Post for One Year.

SENATOR LEWIS EXPLAINS

Tender of Short Service Made, He Says, to Fill Another's Unexpired Term.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The situation in the case of Henry M. Pindell, the Peoria journalist, selected as Ambassador to Russia, is now such as to make his appointment uncertain if not improbable. The publication of the letter written by Senator Lewis to Pindell has aroused much antagonism to his selection. Protests have came from citizens of Peoria. It is certain the case will be investigated if the name comes before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations for approval.

The letter written by Lewis to Pindell told the editor that he might accept the Russian post for one year and then resign, thus gaining the prestige of the office without the heavy expense of a four-year term.

As the matter now stands President Wilson has repeatedly declared he knows absolutely nothing concerning the alleged letter. The President has said that he knew of no such bargain and would not be a party to an arrangement of that character.

Secretary Bryan of the State Department flatly refused to discuss the Pindell case in any way. He grew much irritated when pressed for information, tightly closed his lips and persisted in preserving rigid silence. He would neither affirm nor deny the statement that Pindell's nomination would be sent to the Senate next Monday.

It is certain that Russian Ambassadorship was promised to Senator Lewis for Pindell in good faith because the usual inquiries were made of the Czar's Government concerning the acceptability of the possible appointee. Assurances have just been received that Pindell is persona grata. Inquiries of the nature indicated would not have been made if the selection had not been specifically determined.

Senator Lewis Tells Why Offer of One Year Was Made.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—A misunderstanding threatened to develop today between Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois and Henry M. Pindell of Peoria, Ill., editor of the Peoria Journal and reputed to be a millionaire, in connection with the publication of a letter said to have been from Senator Lewis, offering to Pindell the post of Ambassador to Russia, with the proviso he hold the portfolio one year only. Pindell is known as the original Wilson man in Illinois.

Pindell, who has been pronounced persona grata to Russia, declared at his Peoria office that the published letter had never been received by him.

Senator Lewis, while not denying that he had written the letter to Pindell, said, with his usual courtesy: "If Mr. Pindell says that he did not receive the letter, he must be right. I have with me no copies of my correspondence with him.

Says Letter Was Stolen.

"This letter was stolen from Mr. Pindell's desk, together with other ones. Friends of Mr. Pindell in Washington have known this for some time and it has been no secret. The appointment now, it is understood, is to be permanent, and Mr. Pindell now understands it is for the full term.

"It was my understanding, when I wrote to Mr. Pindell," Senator Lewis said, "that he should take the Russian post to fill the unexpired term of Curtis Guild, who had resigned. I think that would have been about a year. After the unexpired term of Mr. Guild had been completed by Mr. Pindell, the question of his remaining in St. Petersburg would have been for the President to decide.

"Since writing I believe Mr. Pindell has seen President Wilson and Mr. Bryan and they have talked the affair over."

"Letter New to Me."

"The letter published was absolutely new to me," declared Pindell today. "I never received it, never saw it, never had it in my desk, never knew anything about it.

"The only understanding I had with President Wilson concerning this appointment was that I might resign in a year if I found it desirable to do so for business or personal reasons.

"As for this letter alleged to have come from Senator Lewis, it never came to me.

Letter to Editor Pindell.

The letter to Pindell follows:

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5, 1913.
Hon. Horace M. Pindell, Peoria, Ill.

Dear Pindell: I must ask you to consider this letter extremely confidential and personal. It is up to the administration to appoint an Ambassador to St. Petersburg, but it is a position which, if offered to you, would not necessitate your losing control of, nor association with your paper.

Now, the idea of Secretary Bryan is that if you would ac-

T. R.'S PARTY KEEPS 2 NEW YORK GIRLS OFF BRAZIL STAGE

Young Women on Same Steamer Bound for Rio Janeiro Warned and Sent Home.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and others of the Roosevelt party, while en route to South America, may have been the good angels who saved Miss Gladys Waddell, 17 years old, and Miss Johanna Shore, 19, from a shocking fate in Rio Janeiro.

The young women are from Brooklyn and were journeying to South America to become song and dance artists in a vaudeville theater at Rio Janeiro. Because of their youth and vivacity they became the chief dancers and merrymakers on the ship. Indeed, former President Roosevelt is said to have danced the Virginia reel with them while his wife looked on and applauded.

As the ship neared South America somebody asked the young ladies where they were going alone. They proudly told of their contract, and were stunned when William C. MacKenzie of New York, who has business establishments in Buenos Aires, ungallantly remarked: "Well, that's no place for you two."

Policeman Balks Plan.

Then the Roosevelts, MacKenzie, Mr and Mrs. Charles Bradley of Dubuque and others announced they would not permit the girls to go ashore. By this time the young women were badly frightened and were overjoyed when the ship's captain announced that he would transfer them to another steamer bound for New York, but when they attempted to transfer in the outer harbor of Rio Janeiro, a harbor policeman prevented them and took both young women and their friends ashore and to court.

Mrs. Roosevelt had supplied each girl with a letter to the American Consul, also to the American Minister at Rio Janeiro, soliciting their official and personal protection. The Consul got busy with lawyers, so busy, in fact, that he almost upset plans for an official reception to Col. Roosevelt.

The British Consul-General heard of the affair, and, thinking that the young women had been taken from a British ship, jumped way into the middle of affairs and for a few hours there was a merry howdy-do which looked like a threatening of international complications.

Girls Are Very Thankful.

When the girls were turned back into the custody of the ship's captain, he transferred them to the outgoing vessel, their fares having been paid by the first-class passengers of the steamer VanDyke. They arrived in New York this morning, blessing the very ground on which the entire VanDyke party may hereafter walk and thoroughly cured of a desire to appear on the stage again.

"Col. Roosevelt and his wife and family are perfect dears," said Miss Waddell. "They treated me so lovely, and they were all so good. I never realized before that Americans were so much interested in Americans when away from home."

Business chance usually requires an investment, and men who want to invest with services or who want assistants of that kind will find a large number of these opportunities in Post-Dispatch wants.

SEER LOOKS INTO FUTURE FOR 25C; NOW SEES ERROR

Tells Detective His Efforts Will Succeed and They Do, Very, Very Quickly.

John A. Benninghoff, who writes "Prof." before his name, and lifts the veil of the future at 10 to 25 cents a lift, is in jail as a result of lifting the veil twice too often and foretelling all too truly the successful issue of Detective Sergeant Curran's undertaking. The undertaking that was to be crowned with success was an effort to catch "Prof." Benninghoff telling fortunes.

Complaints had reached the police that Benninghoff was ringing doorbells in the West End and leaving written announcements that he was one of the greatest living seers and would read palms and grant clairvoyant glimpses into the hence every evening from 5 to 10 at the Reando House, 410 North Eleventh street.

Curran and Detective Sergeant Keaney went there and Curran was shown to the professor's hall room. Curran wanted his fortune told and the Professor agreed, for 25 cents, to disclose what the future held. Curran paid and Benninghoff read Curran's palm. Curran was engaged in an undertaking, the seer said, that would be shortly successful. He was also to live to a good old age and be prosperous.

Curran wanted to know if Benninghoff had any other way of looking into the future. Benninghoff said, "oh, yes," he could do card reading. There would be an extra charge for that, though. He could read the cards for 10 cents but he could read them a great deal better for 25 cents. Curran said he wanted the best regardless of expense.

The cards were read and they also revealed that Curran's undertaking was to issue in success, but they did not inform the professor that he was to play a part in the fulfillment of the prophecy.

"Put on your coat and come along with me," said Curran. He was joined by Keaney and Benninghoff was taken to headquarters and locked up. His arrest is the first under the new law against clairvoyants.

HUERTA OFFICIALLY REJECTS WILSON'S ORDER TO STEP OUT

Dictator Announces to Diplomats Congress Will Annul Recent Elections and He Will Remain in Office Until New Elections.

Does Not Mention Demand Made Upon Him by the the United States, But His Statement Is Regarded as Answer to Ultimatum.

President Wilson Expected to Enforce His Demands by Recognizing Constitutionalists and Permitting Them to Obtain Arms.

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—Provisional President Huerta at midnight last night issued a formal statement to the diplomats stating that it is now foreseen that the recent elections are null on account of too few precincts having participated in the voting and that therefore when Congress convenes it will naturally annul the election.

President Huerta explains that the program then will be to call new elections, he meantime continuing his program of pacification.

The statement to the diplomats was given to the press for publication at 12:30 o'clock this morning.

No reference is made in the statement to the recent representations by the United States, but by many people here it is taken as an answer. The statement recites at length the efforts President Huerta has made to establish peace and place his successor in the presidential chair by free and fair elections.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Developments in the Mexican situation here today indicate that the embroilment is fast reaching a point where the United States will take decisive action.

It was reported late tonight that the United States had even notified Huerta that he would be allowed only three days more in which to resign, but the report was not confirmed.

According to reports from authoritative sources, however, this Government expects to take action within 72 hours, the belief being that Huerta will make formal and negative reply to the last demands made upon him within that period. This action will embrace one of the three following plans:

1. Intervention.
2. Armed co-operation with the revolutionists.
3. Lifting the embargo on the revolutionists' obtaining arms and ammunition in the United States and recognizing them as a de facto government.

Developments in the last 24 hours point to the adoption of the third plan, with a limited naval co-operation from the United States.

The foregoing was the general talk in official circles immediately following a meeting at the White House which was attended by the President and Senators Stone of Missouri and Swanson of Virginia.

Conference With Speaker.

The President also conferred with Senator Bacon, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. Senators Swanson and Stone are members of the Foreign Relations Committee. In the evening President Wilson and Speaker Clark conferred for nearly an hour. Secretary of State Bryan also saw the President and throughout the day he sent to the White House copies of dispatches received from Mexico City.

Senator Bacon, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, who early in the day had a long conference with Secretary Bryan, tonight said that, while he was not at liberty to discuss his talk with Bryan in detail, he could state there had been no change in the fixed purpose of the United States to have Huerta eliminated from the situation and it would be done, though every effort would be made to avert extreme measures.

The President is said to be impressing on all those who discuss the subject with him that it is the duty of the United States to see to it that the arbitrary assumption of power by Huerta, followed by his dictatorship, should not be permitted to ripen into a precedent in Latin America.

Reports of Aid for Huerta.

Unconfirmed reports reached the White House and State Department that Huerta had received financial aid from sources in Great Britain. These reports stated that, with this money, Huerta would be able to pay his troops and recruit their ranks to greater strength and hold out for at least 30 days without dissension breaking out among his soldiers and civilian followers.

It can be stated on high authority that the administration doubts the authenticity of these reports. According to the Post-Dispatch's informant, the United States has received from Great Britain assurances that that nation will not in any way interfere with the plans of this Government in Mexico.

Huerta's obtaining additional funds was one of the things the President and Secretary of State hoped would not happen. Their reports from Mexico City showed that Huerta was without funds and that there were murmurings in the ranks of his soldiers and followers and that this weight was likely to force him to agree to the terms of the United States that he abdicate as head of the defacto government.

There is a feeling in administration circles that if Huerta has received money from sources in Great Britain that the Lord Cowdray or Sir Weetman Pearson oil interests know something of it, and that it is not sanctioned by the British Foreign Office.

Charge O'Shaughnessy has been asked to investigate the reports of money aid for Huerta and advise the State Department without delay.

There is little or no likelihood of the United States intervening in Mexico at this time. If intervention is resorted to it will result from some overt act on the part of Huerta. While the United States is not anticipating such a step, it is prepared to act in such a contingency. tI is to this end that much of the activity in the army and navy in the last week has been directed.

There is little likelihood of armed co-operation with the revolutionists, according to a high authority, but the United States intends, if it is decided to lift the embargo on the revolutionists obtaining arms and ammunition in the United States, to shut off all sources of supply to the Huerta government. To make effective such a plan the army along the border and the naval strength of the two coasts of Mexico will be utilized. Their service will be to make more effective the guard against the shipment of arms, ammunition, supplies or foodstuffs to the Huerta troops. With the two coasts guarded and the frontier on the north patrolled the only source Huerta would have would be on the Honduran boundary.

Stone Favors Intervention.

A majority of the House and Senate favor the adoption of the third plan, with the co-operation of the army and navy of the United States as a blockade only. There are a few of the members of both houses who favor intervention. Among these are Senators Stone, Fall and Penrose.

With the exception of Senator Stone, the memers of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee favor the removal of the embargo on arms and are holding off offering a resolution repealing the joint resolution of 1911 putting on the embargo, at the solicitation of the President.

This was one of the matters discussed by the President and Senators Bacon, Stone and Swanson, it is stated, at the meetings at the White House today.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan expect a final report from Mexico City regarding Huerta's intentions not later than Monday.

According to information here, the new Mexican Congress will convene on Monday and President Huerta will make known his position in a special message to Congress then. It is not likely that any action will be taken by the United States before Monday. Many expect the President Tuesday to set in motion his plan for driving Huerta out.

Preparations by the Navy.

The Navy Department took action today which forecasts a long stay in Mexican waters for the American warships off the Atlantic coast of Mexico. In this connection the Navy Department issued the following statement:

"In order to keep the naval vessels on the east coast of Mexico supplied with fresh meats and other fresh provision, it has been decided to send the supply ship Cudgoa with a cargo of these stores from New York to Vera Cruz in the course of a few weeks. The Culgoa is now at Norfolk but will proceed shortly for New York for her cargo."

The Navy Department took action also to have marines on the Atlantic coast ready for instant service in Mexico by outlining the organization for a marine brigade. This brigade will be made up as follows:

One company of 125 men from Annapolis; two companies totaling 300 men from New York and vicinity, one company of 125 men from the District of Columbia; one company of 125 men made up from New York and the District of Columbia; one company of 125 recruited from Portsmouth and Boston and six companies totaling 800 men from the Garrison at Philadelphia, making a total of nearly 1600 men. This brigade will be organized at once.

LIND SAYS HE DIDN'T PUT LIMIT ON HUERTA

Wilson's Representative Denies He Had Conference With Dictator—O'Shaughnessy Chatted With General in Cafe.

Copyright, 1913, by Press Publishing Co. (New York World.)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8.—Upon authority of a relative of Gen. Huerta, it was told to the Post-Dispatch correspondent today that John Lind and Gen. Huerta last night had a meeting in the President's house, at which Lind formally served notice upon Huerta that he must resign within 72 hours.

In case of Huerta's refusal, Lind is said to have warned him that the United tSates immediately would issue an ultimatum, possibly following it with armed intervention.

From the same source came the report that Huerta had been notified by representatives of all the European Powers that they concurred in the United States demand, and this same authority said Huerta tomorrow would declare publicly his intention of quitting the presidency Nov. 15.

The circumstantial nature of the story inspired a degree of belief in its truth. Every possible effort, made by the Post-Dispatch correspondent to verify it from official sources, failed.

Lind was positive to a degree in declaring tonight that he had no meeting with Huerta.

"The story is absolutely untrue," he told the correspondent as he was leaving the American Club, where he spent most of the afternoon. "I have not seen Gen. Huerta, have no present intention of doing so and nothing has taken place to give a new phase to the situation. If he has been given any stated length of time in which to resign I do not know it. The story may have started from the fact that Charge O'Shaughnessy met Huerta in a restaurant yesterday afternoon and chatted with him a few minutes, but the question of his resignation was not mentioned."

Mexican Government sources, including Huerta's secretary, when applied to, were equally unproductive so far as supplying confirmation of the story.

HUERTA BREAKS WITH CABINET

Gen. Blanquet, Minister of War, Is Reported to Have Resigned.

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8.—Gen. Huerta has shown no indication that he will comply with the American demands for his resignation. On the contrary, those who profess to have his confidence say his program includes the continued occupancy of the presidency until some time late in 1914, and that he intends to carry out his plan of organizing the new Congress and defying Washington even to the point of war.

It is not forgotten, however, that the unexpected in Mexican politics is never forgotten, and as evidence of this fact every hour brings a new rumor regarding Huerta. One persistent report was he had turned the government over to the Foreign Minister, Senor Moheno, and had gone to Vera Cruz. Another was he had taken his own life.

That Huerta has begun to break with certain members of his latest Cabinet is evidenced by the reported resignation of Gen. Blanquet, the Minister of War.

There is some basis for believing the United States has served on President Huerta a supplementary notice that his official career be brought to an end by Monday night. It was reported today that John Lind, President Wilson's representative, was the medium employed by Washington.

Lind and the Mexican officials deny it, but the rumor originated in the National Palace. Those who insist Gen. Huerta will resist all overtures say he admits financial weakness, but is convinced he can get enough money to keep up a dogged, if intermittent, campaign against the rebels.

Carden and Lind Confer.

According to these informants Gen. Huerta does not expect to bring about pacification for many months, but until it is accomplished he will not resign. They add that he is still determined that the new Congress must meet and he expects it to annul the recent elections, leaving him in the provisional presidency until new elections are held at his call.

That the new Mexican Congress must not meet is a point insisted upon by the United States, since it is believed that one of the first acts of that body would be to legalize certain concession that are not considered desirable.

The British Minister, Sir Lionel Carden, conferred again today with Lind. It was learned that their ideas regarding the solution of the situation are still far apart.

Ernesto Madero Thinks U. S. Should Not Intervene.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—"The United States has no moral right to send an armed force into Mexico, so long as a majority of the people of Mexico can establish and maintain a stable government. This they can do quickly if the embargo on arms be lifted. The Constitutionalists should be allowed an opportunity to demonstrate their power before intervention is considered."

This is the view of the Mexican situation, expressed today by Alfonso Madero, the eldest surviving brother of the late President of Mexico.

Force of 1200 Mexican Rebels Reported Almost Annihilated.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 8.—Twelve hundred Sonora rebels under Julio Acosta were trapped by Gen. Jose Ynez Salazar's command of 700 Federal volunteers this afternoon and were almost completely annihilated by the Federals, according to official messages received tonight in Juarez.

The rebels were hurrying to Chihuahua to reinforce Gen. Pancho Villa, who had been assaulting Chihuahua.

Provisions to Be Sent to Fleet in Mexican Waters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Navy Department today ordered the supply ship Culgoa, now at Norfolk, to steam to New York to take aboard meats and other provisions for the fleet at Vera Cruz and Tampico. It was explained this action was in line with the Navy Department policy to make the American squadron, as far as possible, independent of supplies from shore, and it was pointed out the fleet now in Mediterranean waters was accompanied by the supply ship Celtic for the same purpose.

It appears the second division of the fleet had allowed its store of provisions to run low, expecting to leave Mexican waters earlier in the week on the arrival of the third division. The order from Secretary Daniels detaining the second division indefinitely in Mexican waters has made it necessary to rush fresh food supplies to the ships.

Fletcher Moves Nearer to Vera Cruz to Facilitate Communication.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Admiral Fletcher in a dispatch to the Navy Department today explained that his flagship, the Rhode Island, had moved into the inner harbor of Vera Cruz, nearer the shore, for the purpose of facilitating communication between the shore and the other five battleships which lie farther out at sea, opposite Vera Cruz.

Two War Vessels Said to Have Been Offered to Rebels.

NOGALES, Sonora, Nov. 8.—After a conference here late today between Gen. Carranza and delegations from Cuba, headed by Pablo G. Nenocal, brother to the President of Cuba, and from the camp of Zapata it was reported that two war vessels had been offered to the Constitutionalist leader.

Gen. Carranza said that in response to his summons, Perez Romero, his agent at Washington, had started today for Nogales.

WHEELS OF GREAT POWER PLANT ARE SET IN MOTION

$12,000,000 Project Finished and 80,000 H. P. Current Is Sent to Los Angeles.

FRESNO, Cal., Nov. 8.—The Big Creek power plant started this morning transmitting 80,000 horsepower from Fresno County to Los Angeles. It is one of the longest transmission lines in the world. It is controlled by the Pacific Light and Power Corporation.

The dam at Big Creek was begun two years ago, and the plant cost $12,000,000. It entailed the building of a mountain railroad of 56 miles, wagon roads of 125 miles, and six miles of tunnel 12 feet in diameter drilled through solid rock.

The transmission lines contain 3,000,000 pounds of aluminum, which equals the entire output of the United States for one year. The water drops over 2000 feet in steel pipes, giving a pressure of 1000 pounds to the square inch. There are two power houses costing $500,000. Sixty thousand men were employed in the construction work.

PLAGUE RATS IN SEATTLE

Two Found in Residence Section, a Mile From Wharves.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 8.—Two bubonic plague infected rats have been found in a residence district of Seattle, a mile from the waterfront. The Citizens' Committee. organized to fight the rats will on Monday ask that the City Health Commissioner be empowered by the Council to compel chicken raisers in Seattle to make their inclosures rat-proof.

Two of the members of the Council have expressed themselves as opposed to increasing the appropriations and powers of the Health Department.

Letter Endangers Choice of Peorian for Ambassador

cept the place as Ambassador to St. Petersburg and all the honor that goes with the position, you could resign in a year—say Oct. 1, 1914—and return to your paper, before losing track of your business affairs and yet have the great honor attached to the place.

Job Without Bother.

There will be no treaties to adjudicate, and no political affairs to bother with, for the administration will see to that for a year and you would not be tied to St. Petersburg, but would have trips to Berlin and Vienna and the other capitals of Europe, and also Stockholm and perhaps Copenhagen and the attendant delights that go with such trips.

You would meet with the delightful companionship of the English and other officers connected with the various legations at St. Petersburg, and would be socially and officially treated, as my letters to those abroad would serve you.

I think you have a little daughter. Think what it would mean to her, all the remainder of her life, to say that her father had been Minister to Russia and of all the honor and prestige that will go with it to the third and fourth generation.

Year of High Honors.

If you will accept this position for a year, kindly wire me at once. I have the Secretary on the telephone and am writing this letter after the most confidential conference with him.

No diplomatic matters will be taken up during your service and you will have all the honors of having been Ambassador to Russia; but, if you accept this position, it must be with the understanding that you will resign on the first of October, 1914, and then you will be able to, and no doubt glad to, return to your business interest in Peoria and your paper.

You will not have to be at the expense of a permanent residence as are other Ambassadors and you will have in your family forever the honor that must accompany the holding of such a position. And in doing this you will please the President and also your good friend, Secretary Bryan. Please consider this confidential in all its parts, and answer, too. Yours with best wishes,

J. HAMILTON LEWIS.

(The letter reads Horace, but the name is Henry.)

The talk in political circles here has been that Charles R. Crane, who, a few years ago was recalled when on his way to Pekin as Minister to China, after a year or so, would be glad to accept the Russian post.

NEW COAL HOISTING MARK

Belleville Miners Break Illinois State Records.

By hoisting 10.1½ tons of coal every minute for 7h. 15m. the miners in the Nigger Hollow Coal Mine No. 2, near Belleville, broke all records in the State of Illinois for hoisting coal.

The previous record was held by a mine at Benld, Ill., where 4356 tons of coal were taken out in eight hours. The record made at the Nigger Hollow mine is 4400 tons taken out in 7h. 15m., or more than sixty tons an hour.

EXPLOSION CAUSES A PANIC IN EAST ST. LOUIS THEATER

Crowd Pushes to Front Exits Though Assured of No Danger From Film.

Three hundred persons rushed to the main exits of the Broadway Theater, East St. Louis, at 10:15 last night, after the explosion of a moving picture film in the balcony had caused a panic. Although there was great excitement and disorder, no one was reported as being injured.

John Newton, who was running the picture machine, jerked out the burning film after the explosion and threw it on a balcony seat. A number of negroes were in the balcony, and their shouts of "Fire!" caused those below to crowd toward the doors. No attention seemed to be paid to the side exits, which were marked by red lights, and all concentrated on the front door. An usher who tried to tell the people that there was "no danger," and to keep them back, was pushed out ahead of the crowd.

It was also impossible to quiet the panic by having the orchestra play the "Star-Spangled Banner," as there was no orchestra. The electric piano's strains kept on, but had no soothing effect. The fire was put out by Newton, with no other damage than the loss of the film and the scorching of a seat.

U. S. BEGINS WAR ON MEN'S SPECIALISTS

Man Is Taken in Chicago on Charge of Using Mails to Defraud With His Ads.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—T. W. Upton was arrested on a Federal indictment here today in what is said to be the first of a series of prosecutions contemplated by the Government against advertising specialists in men's diseases. Upton is charged with E. F. Andrews and L. H. Staples, both of Omaha, with using the mails to defraud, in advertising the State Medical Institute at Omaha. The institute is one of several branches in middle Western cities conducted by Dr. Howe & Co. of which Upton is manager.

According to the indictment, the institute was advertised as "an old, reliable medical institute, conducted by a large staff of skilled specialists of recognized ability."

These representations, according to the Government, "were false, fraudulent and misleading statements." The indictment also states that advertisements sent through the mails were "so framed as to particularly attract the attention of and excite the fears and prey upon the minds of boys and young men."

Florence Ziegler Appeals.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Florence Brandt Ziegler, the abrogation of whose adoption by the late William Ziegler, millionaire baking powder manufacturer, recently was upheld by Surrogate Fowler, filed a notice of appeal in the Surrogate's Court today in her fight to obtain what she says is her share of the $30,000,00 estate left to her brother, William Ziegler Jr.

FORD, YOUNGEST DELEGATE, TO BE WED WEDNESDAY

House Members Will See Ceremony for Colleague and Miss Winifred McDonnell.

Delegate James F. Ford of the Eighth Ward, the youngest member of the House of Delegates, will wed Miss Winifred McDonnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McDonnell, 4254 Linton avenue, at Holy Name Catholic Church, Wednesday morning, in the presence of city hall officials.

Ford is 26 years old and quit a career as an athlete and professional baseball player last April, to enter business and make a race for the House of Delegates. He is the first Democrat in 14 years to carry the Eighth Ward, winning by 32 votes. His popularity among the younger voters, who admired his skill and courage displayed on local baseball diamonds, enabled him to win the Republican stronghold.

Miss McDonnell first saw Ford as a spectator at a baseball game and both scored a "hit" that day. Ford resolved to enter a more serious pursuit in order to deserve the hand of his fair admirer and the parents of the bride-to-be applauded his victory in the initial attempt at the April election. He is employed in the office of a South Side manufacturing concern.

Ford's colleagues in the House of Delegates will attend a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents Wednesday. It will be the second wedding of a Delegate in the session. The first ceremony was performed for Delegate James J. Gallagher of the Fourth Ward.

DENIES TRYING TO ANNUL VANDERBILT MARRIAGE

Former Chamberlain to Pope Says He Doesn't Know Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Jr.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Antonio de Navarro, who married Mary Anderson, an American actress, has just returned to England after his term of duty at the Vatican as Chamberlain to the Pope. He is now at Possingworth, Sussex, the guest of a noted banker, Frederick Huth Jackson.

A report was recently circulated here that De Navarro was concerned in presenting a petition on behalf of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Jr. to the Holy See to secure the annulment of her marriage. To obtain confirmation or denial of this rumor the Post-Dispatch correspondent saw De Navarro today. The latter's reply was definite.

"This is the first intimation I have received of any such thing," De Navarro said. "I know nothing about it nor have I heard it mentioned before. I do not know Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Jr."

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Jr., who was Miss Virginia Fair, was married in 1899 at the home of Mrs. Herman Oelrichs in New York, the Rev. Father Murphy, then of St. Patrick's Cathedral, officiating.

225 MULES STAMPEDE IN LIVERY BARN FIRE

Flames, Driven by Gale, Destroy $50,000 in Property and Kill Six Animals.

CLARENCE, Mo., Nov. 8.—Fanned by a heavy northwest gale, fire which started in the Magee & Head livery barn at 5 o'clock this morning, did $50,000 damage, burned to death six horses and caused a stampede among 225 mules before it died out.

There were 75 mules and horses in A. W. Meadows' barn and one was killed before they could be driven out. Five were lost in Magee & Head's barn. The fire then crossed the street and destroyed the Cotton Lumber Co.'s yard and attacked the mule barn of Gates & Capp, which stabled 150 mules. The animals were driven out and ran panic-stricken among the others.

The insurance on all the property destroyed amounts to $18,000.

WOMEN HAVE NO RIGHT ON JURY, JUDGE HOLDS

Ruling Opens Way to Attack Many Decisions Rendered by Gentler Sex.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—Judge W. P. Lawlor of the Superior Court, in refusing today to issue a special venire for a jury of women in a criminal libel case, said it was not the province of his court to "follow fantastical methods in the administration of justice," and held that the State law made no provision for the qualification of women as jurors.

"The code of civil procedure," said the Judge, "provides distinctly that juries shall be composed of men. The granting of the voting franchise to women did not give them the right to sit on juries."

The Judge's ruling has caused speculation among attorneys, as it opens the way to attack a large number of decisions rendered by juries composed wholly or in part of women. In San Mateo County a grand jury dominated by women is now in session.

BUSCH FAMILY THANKS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Musicians Show Marked Improvement in Second Recital Over First Appearance.

The season's initial program of the Symphony Orchestra had its second performance last night at the Odeon before a large house. The work of the musicians was even more admirable than that of Friday afternoon, having gained with the public recital in smoothness and precision.

In the audience was Edward A. Faust, son-in-law of the late Adolphus Busch who expressed to Manager Gaines of the orchestra the family's appreciation of its giving first place on the program to Siegfried's Death Music from Wagner's "Goetterdaemmerung," which was a favorite composition with Busch and which was played in his memory.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATOR DIES

Frederick Keck Stricken in Yard of Belleville Home.

Frederick Keck, representative of the Forty-ninth District in the lower house of the Illinois Legislature, died suddenly of heart failure at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, three miles west of Belleville. He was raking leaves in the yard, when he suddenly felt a pain in his chest. He entered the house, sat in his favorite rocking chair, and in five minutes was dead.

Keck represented his district three times in the Legislature and was for 10 years a member of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors. He was 59 years old and left a widow, a son and three daughters.

MISSOURIAN IN MONTANA KILLED BY MARRIED MAN

Slayer Says Confession by Wife Led to Shooting of Man From King City.

LEWISTOWN, Mont., Nov. 8.—John Crawford, 23 years old, who came here a month ago from King City, Mo., was shot and killed today by Edward Tanquany, 21 years old, following, Tanquany says, a confession from his wife Crawford is married. Tanquany and his wife came to Lewistown three weeks ago from White County, Ill., and, according to Tanquany, Crawford immediately began showing attentions to Mrs. Tanquany. The husband declares his wife became infatuated.

Tanquany met Crawford and told him that he must leave the town by tomorrow. Crawford is said to have thrust his hand into his hip pocket, and Tanquany began firing. One bullet pierced Crawford's right arm. Another bullet penetrated his leg, and as he attempted to escape another bullet pierced his neck, bringing instant death.

Tanquany surrendered to the officers.

Pure Blood

Is healthy blood—blood that is normal in red and white corpuscles and all other important constituents. To have it, and the strength it gives, be sure to take HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

Your blood is not pure if you have scrofula, pimples, boils, or other eruptions, eczema or salt rheum, psoriasis, rheumatism, anemia, nervousness, that tired feeling, loss of appetite or general debility.

You should take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and begin taking it at once.

There is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good," you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

TRY MENTHO-LAXENE

Cold, Cough and Catarrh Remedy. Superior and Guaranteed Superior to Imitations and Ready-Made Syrups.

Get the Pure Essence Mentho-Laxene of Your Druggist—Easy to Mix With Granulated Sugar Syrup Into a Pint.

Usually a family spends two to five dollars every winter for cough, cold and catarrh remedies, buying 25c worth at a time.

For instance, a two-ounce bottle at 25c, will contain about four-fifths "syrup" and one-fifth "medicine." That's paying too much for ordinary syrup; you can make a half gallon of syrup for 25c.

The syrup, extra bottles, labels, corks, cartons, etc., make this method of buying very expensive by the end of the year.

A little thought and wisdom will save any family several dollars and give them purer and better medicine, too.

Make a simple syrup with a pint of granulated sugar and a half pint of boiling water; then buy the pure concentrated essence Mentho-Laxene at your drug store (2½ oz. bottle) and empty it into a pint bottle or jar and then fill it up with the syrup.

Now you have a season's supply of the purest, best and most promptly effective cold and catarrh remedy and cough medicine that it is possible to obtain. It keeps indefinitely, and relieves young and old of colds, catarrh, coughs, bronchitis, hoarseness, shortness of breath and lung and bronchial trouble. This remedy overcomes coughs and removes catarrhal matter from the system by its tonic-laxative action. It improves the appetite, reduces fever and strengthens the system, thus avoiding chronic ailments and consumption.

Directions with each bottle of essence Mentho-Laxene tell how to make and how to take. The manufacturers also guarantee to refund money to anyone not pleased by its thorough effectiveness.—ADVERTISEMENT

THREE CHILDREN, LOCKED IN HOUSE, BURNED TO DEATH

Father at Work and Mother Out When Home Catches Fire in Caruthersville, Mo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 8.—Three small children of Mr. and Mrs. George Back were burned to death here this afternoon when a fire destroyed their one-room home. The parents were away and the children had been locked in the room.

The fire was discovered by Tom Hall, a boy. He heard the cries of the children, and tried to enter the house, but could not. He ran for help, but when he returned the flames had barred entrance.

After the fire, fireman found the bodies of the children in a corner of the room.

The father, a painter, was at his work, and Mrs. Back, before going to a bank to cash a check, locked the children in. When she left the bank to return home she heard the fire alarm whistle.

It seems she had been warned of the danger of leaving her children alone in a locked room, as had been her custom, and the fire whistle alarmed her.

When she and her husband reached their burning home they had to be restrained from rushing into the flames to the children.

The oldest child was 6 years and the youngest was a baby.

How the fire started is unknown.

PNEUMONIA DEATHS LEAD

Twenty Persons Succumb to Ailment in One Week.

A marked increase in pneumonia deaths was recorded last week, 20 persons succumbing to the ailment. Tuberculosis caused 15 deaths, cancer 7, diphtheria 5, and bronchitis 3. The total death roll was 187. Births for the period were 285.

THE CRIME OF THE AGE

A CLERGYMAN'S EXPERIENCE

Came Near Losing His Life—How He Escaped.

REV. G. W. ROBERTS, R. R. 2, Box 27, Hartsell, Ala.

The following letter was received by The Peruna Co., from Rev. G. W. Roberts, R. R. 2, Box 27, Hartsell, Alabama, under date of April 2, 1904, which is exactly nine years ago. He says: "I take pleasure in informing you of what your Peruna has done for me after three years of suffering. I had tried the treatments of several doctors, also home remedies, but they failed and all hope had gone. My friends, like myself, thought I was in the last stages of consumption.

"My daughter brought me a bottle of Peruna and plead with me to try it. I had got so weak I had lost my voice, and I thought it no use. That was in May, 1902. I began to take it, according to directions. I wrote to you, and you gave me your kind advise.

"I soon felt better, my cough began to give way, and the expectoration lessened. I have taken fourteen bottles. I feel well, eat hearty, sleep soundly, weigh as much as I ever did, do considerable work on my farm, and attend to my other business. My friends seem astonished at my recovery.

"I wish to thank you for your kind advice and the books you have sent me. I shall ever praise your medicine and hope that you may enjoy a long life."

It will be observed that Rev. Roberts waited two years after he began to use Peruna, before he wrote the above letter to The Peruna Co. So that his apparent recovery could not possibly have been temporary relief.

In a later letter to The Peruna Co., dated September 22, 1906, Rev. Roberts says: "I am a great friend of Peruna. By the use of Dr. Hartman's advice I am here today, able to be with my family and attend to my business."

We quote from another letter, dated December 10, 1906: "I praise Peruna to all the sick. The people know my case, and they praise it also."

In a letter dated November 22, 1909, we quote Rev. Roberts: "Peruna gave me back my life ten years ago. All my acquaintances know that. I am certainly thankful to you for your kindness."

In a later letter, dated January 13, 1910, he says: "I shall ever in the future, as in the past, be ready to speak in praise of Peruna to all sufferers. I believe my miraculous cure has been the means of many others being cured in this country."

From a letter of September 5, 1911, we quote a few words: "I am still among the living. As to Peruna, I do not feel that I have words to express the faith I have in its merits. I feel that Peruna has been the means, through the kind providence of God, of prolonging my life for more than ten years."

We quote a still later letter, October 31, 1912. He says: "I took a severe cold three weeks ago. I at once sent for Peruna. Have been taking it two weeks. I am now better. I consider that Peruna has carried me over a dozen years of life. I always stand ready to answer any question in reference to Peruna."

We quote from his last letter, dated January 2, 1913: "Dear Friends: I wish this bright New Year to express my thanks to you for your kindness. Trusting that you may have a successful and happy year, and that your medicine may prove a blessing to many as it has to me, I am yours, as ever, G. W. Roberts, Hartsell, Alabama, R. F. D. 2, Box 27."

It is not necessary for us to add any words to this story. The eloquence and pathos of these letters are more convincing than arguments or affidavits. Who can doubt the clergyman's story? Who can doubt that Peruna saved his life?

Every home should be provided with the last edition of the "Ills of Life," sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.—ADV.

INDICTED MEN IN E. ST. LOUIS SEEK AN OUTSIDE JUDGE

Accused Officials File Motions Objecting to Vandeventer or Flannigen.

Judge Vandeventer of East St. Louis, following the finding of 59 indictments yesterday by the St. Clair County graft grand jury, refused motions by attorneys representing indicted city officials, who sought to obtain immediately changes of venue from Judge Vandeventer. The Judge permitted the filing of motions, and, at the request of State's Attorney Webb, delayed action on them until next Saturday.

The indicted officials and former officials do not seek to take the cases from East St. Louis for trial, but allege that they cannot have a fair trial before either Judge Vandeventer or Judge Flannigen of the two divisions of the East St. Louis City Court.

If the Judges finally approve the motions they may call upon any Circuit Judge in Illinois to sit at the trials.

Grand Jury's Second Report.

The motions were presented a short time after the grand jury had made its second report, in which indictments were found against nine on charges which included embezzlement, robbery and unlawful contracts with the city. Eight of the same officials were indicted with 16 others in the first report of the jury Oct. 22. Those indicted yesterday are:

CHARLES S. LAMBERT, Mayor in 1911 and 1912. Charged in 13 indictments with embezzlement from the city of $16,215. This charge is based on alleged payments of bond coupons which already had been paid.

E. FRED GEROLD, City Treasurer under Lambert. Charged in one indictment with withholding $50,000 of city funds from his successor; in 19 indictments with embezzling $16,215, and in 24 indictments with unlawfully engaging in contracts with the city.

JOHN J. FAULKNER, former Comptroller. Charged in seven indictments with embezzlement of $2410 of the above $16,215.

WILLIAM R. RODENBERGER, succeeded Faulkner as Comptroller. Charged in six indictments with embezzlement of $3815 of the above $16,215.

LESTER J. GRIGSBY, Chief of Detectives. Charged with robbery by force and intimidation.

FRED MOORE, secretary to Chief of Police. Charged jointly with Grigsby. He had not been indicted previously.

RUDOLPH HUSCHLE, member of City Council. Charged in four indictments with unlawfully engaging in contracts with the city.

CLAUS E. TIETJE, member of the Council; four indictments, same charge.

WILLIAM H. DEGEN, member of the Council; six indictments, same charge.

City's Loss $16,215.

The embezzlement indictments, considered the most important of those returned yesterday, deal exclusively with charges that former City Treasurer E. Fred Gerold paid to himself interest coupons on city bonds, aggregating $16,215, which previously had been paid by his predecessor, Frank Holten. Former Mayor Charles S. Lambert, who signed the warrants on which Gerold received money, and former Comptrollers John J. Faulkner and William R. Rodenberger, who signed the warrants and the vouchers on which they were issued, were made defendants with Gerold.

The evidence on which the indictments were returned was that these uncancelled bonds and coupons, which had been paid by Holton, were paid again to Gerold at different times after he became treasurer.

One indictment returned yesterday charges that Gerold failed to turn over to his successor $50,000. This is based on an Illinois statute, which requires outgoing officers to turn over to their successors within five days all moneys and records of the office. The indictment alleges that Gerold has not yet made a settlement with his successor, although his term of office expired May 5.

The charge of $50,000 also is said to include approximately $25,000, which Gerold is alleged to have retained as commission on tax collections. The Illinois law permits tax collectors to retain 2 per cent of collections, up to $1500. Gerold was sued by the city a year ago for $11,000 commissions retained, and the suit was compromised on a 20 per cent basis.

Unlawful Contracts Alleged.

The indictments against Gerold and Councilmen Tietje, Degen and Huschle charge that they entered into unlawful contracts with the city. Gerold is alleged to have worked teams on the streets under fictitious names and the names of other persons. Huschle is alleged to have had teams working for the city. Degen is alleged to have furnished livery service to the city, and Tietje is alleged to have sold groceries to the city.

Under the Illinois law, Gerold, who had no vote on the payments to himself, can, if convicted on these charges, be fined, the maximum penalty being $10,000. The members of the Council, however, may, if convicted, be sentenced to the penitentiary for from one to five years.

The indictment of Chief of Detectives Grigsby on a charge of robbery is his second indictment. The jury in its report Oct. 22 charged him with burglary and larceny and with having received stolen property. The latest indictment charges that he, with Fred Moore, secretary to Chief of Police Payne, robbed Alex Kowalski of $14.20 in the police station. The particular charge is that they assaulted Kowalski and threatened to take away his saloon license if he did not pay to them $14.20, which was alleged to have been stolen from a stranger in Kowalski's saloon.

THAW IS ORDERED EXTRADITED; HOPE IN FEDERAL COURT

Gov. Felker Grants New York Request, But Habeas Corpus Writ Is Pending.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 8.—Gov. Felker today granted the request of the New York authorities for the extradition to New York State of Harry Kendall Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, on an indictment charging conspiracy to escape from the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane. Thaw's array of counsel still hopes, however, to prevent Thaw's return to Matteawan, for the case automatically was transferred today to the Federal Court, where a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Thaw is pending.

The indictment on which the Governor based his decision, was returned in New York County. Thaw was committed to the Matteawan Asylum after his second trial for the killing of Stanford White. He made his sensational flight on Aug. 17, and a few days later was arrested near Coaticook, Canada.

Thaw's attorneys announced that they would immediately file an amendment to their petition for a writ of habeas corpus, application for which was made soon after Thaw was arrested in this State, following his deportation from Canada. The original petition was based on the allegation that Thaw was indicted for conspiracy by the Dutchess County grand jury.

Thaw was not present when Gov. Felker announced his decision at the capital to the attorneys representing the fugitive and the State of New York. He will remain here in the custory of United States Marshal Nute and Sheriff Drew pending the Federal proceedings.

Gov. Felker's Decision.

In granting the extradition, Gov. Felker said:

"By the petition of Gov. Glynn and the accompanying papers, it appears that the grand jury of the County of New York has duly returned into the open court an indictment against Mr. Thaw. That is sufficient to warrant the arrest, arraignment and trial of the respondent, if he may be found within the State wherein the indictment is pending.

"It is furthermore sufficient to establish that Mr. Thaw is—if found in any State or country while such indictment is pending—a fugitive from justice.

"The provisions of the Federal Constitution and the acts of Congress enacted to give force and effect thereto, as construed by the court of last resort upon such matters, limit me to the consideration of the question (1), whether the person demanded has been substantially charged with a crime, and (2), whether he is a fugitive from justice.

"I have, nevertheless, owing to the urgency of the demands of his counsel—given Mr. Thaw the fullest possible opportunity for the expression of views. With profound respect, therefore, I am unable to view my duty in the premises as including an investigation of Mr. Thaw's mental condition, or of counsel for the State of New York, or of the probable guilt or innocence of the accused."

Advised by Attorney-General.

The Governor made public an opinion from Attorney-General James P. Tuttle, advising him to grant the requisition.

At a conference of counsel following the decision it was agreed that the status quo should continue for a week, Thaw remaining here in his present custody.

Several years may elapse before a decision is reached, both sides having expressed a determination to carry the case to the United States Supreme Court if necessary.

Judge Aldrich stated in his prescript handed down at the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus in Littleton, that he would take the case up within five days after he had received a notice from the Thaw lawyers.

When the case goes to Judge Aldrich several days will be required for the presentation of evidence and the arguments of counsel. The decision will be followed by an appeal by the defeated party, and then will come the question of bail for Thaw pending the final disposition of the case by the courts of last resort.

Evelyn Thaw Deeply Grieved at Granting of Extradition.

MONTREAL, Nov. 8.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who is in this city, seemed genuinely upset when told that Gov. Felker of New Hampshire today had granted the New York authorities' extradition application in the case of her husband, Harry K. Thaw.

"I am deeply grieved," she said. "I am sure that Harry will be terribly disappointed. If Jerome would only stop persecuting him and allow his family to take care of him he would be all right."

Mrs. Thaw would not deny that there was a possibility of her rejoining her husband if he won in his fight for liberty.

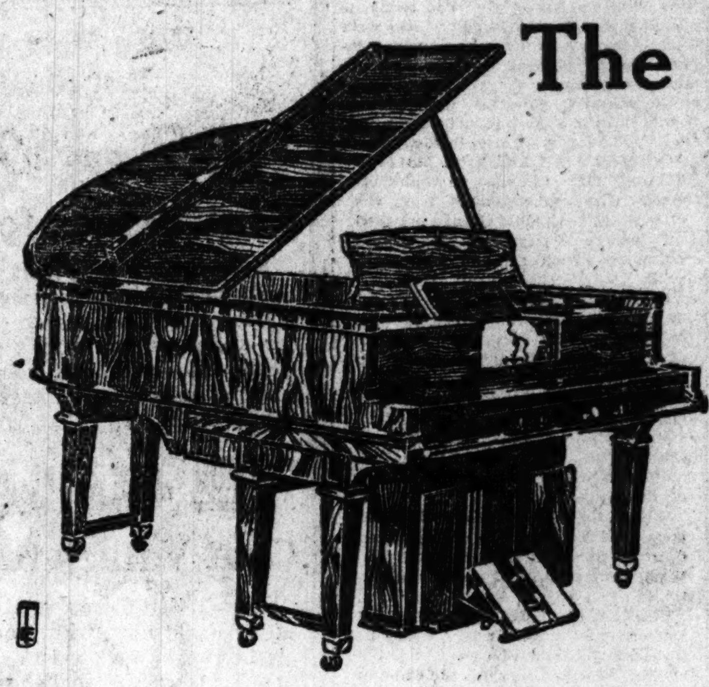
A Pianola for Every Home

There Is a Pianola for Your Home and It Is Well Within Your Means

THERE should be music just as there should be books and pictures. Music is one of the most important elements in the social life of the home—fun and good cheer ride on the wings of music—it is the very essence of the dance and song—it is the typification of happiness. And in addition, music is a refining, culturing influence not even second to good literature.

There can be music in your home, for the Pianola makes music as available, as easily interpreted and enjoyed as books. And there is a Pianola for every home.



The Pianola Steinway

The Steinway satisfies the taste and requirements of the most exacting master musicians. The brilliant splendor of its tone has earned it the favor of countless thousands of music lovers.

Its remarkable perfection has established its commanding position in the music centers of the world.

The Pianola Steinway is a Steinway in tone, in constructional excellence, in every attribute that has made the Steinway celebrated—and it is more. It is the Steinway and the art to play.

The Pianola Stroud

Is not merely a piano, it is an instrument that you can play with all the facility and art of a skilled pianist, and it is better than any so-called player-piano sold by any music house at any price.

Its beauty of tone, responsiveness of action—its perfection in every essential pianoforte feature has won the praise and indorsement of such notable musicians as Maurice Moszkowski, Cecile Chaminade, Arthur Nikisch and Louis Diemer.

Player-pianos, so-called, are not Pianolas. There is but one Pianola. It is made exclusively by The Aeolian Company and obtainable in the following models only:

Why be content with a mere imitation when you can get a genuine Pianola Piano for as little as has puzzled doctors for generations. It is common among those who over-eat, or are of sedentary habits. Food gives little nourishment even though the appetite be good, and lost flesh is noticeable. The bowels are often constipated and a gouty condition usually accompanies the general symptoms of the disease.

Warner's Safe Diabetes Remedy is prepared and prescribed solely for this disease in which it has very deservedly become a popular medicine. It acts as a tonic and strengthening agent, lessens excessive thirst, enables the system to assimilate sugar, promptly checks the loss of flesh and brings the appetite to a normal condition. The success of this remedy in eradicating this prevailing disease from the system is phenomenal.

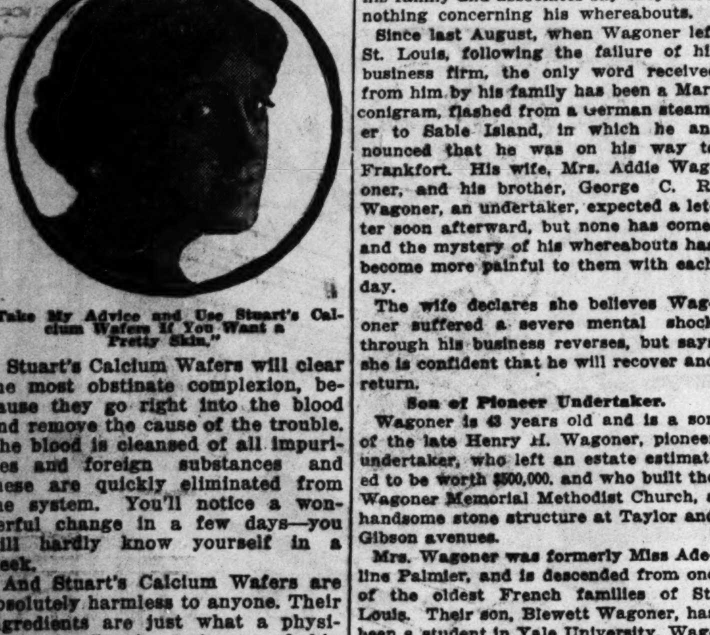
Real Beauty Demands a Perfect Skin

Lovely Complexions May Be Made to Take the Places of Pimples and Bad Color If You Use Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

Pimples, blotches, skin eruptions of all kinds, are simply the impurities in the blood coming to the surface. All the external treatment in the world won't do a particle of good unless you purify the blood. And there's nothing so humiliating as a face that's all "broken out" and spotted.



"Take My Advice and Use Stuart's Calcium Wafers If You Want a Pretty Skin."

Stuart's Calcium Wafers will clear the most obstinate complexion, because they go right into the blood and remove the cause of the trouble. The blood is cleansed of all impurities and foreign substances and these are quickly eliminated from the system. You'll notice a wonderful change in a few days—you will hardly know yourself in a week.

And Stuart's Calcium Wafers are absolutely harmless to anyone. Their ingredients are just what a physician prescribes in most cases of skin eruptions and poor blood. These wafers are put up in concentrated form, which makes them act quickly and thoroughly.

Begin taking Stuart's Calcium Wafers today and then look at yourself in the mirror in a few days, and find all those awful pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, liver spots, rash, eczema and that muddy complexion disappearing and your face cleared like the petal of a flower.

You can easily test Stuart's Calcium Wafers for yourself. You can get the regular-size package for 50c in any drug store.—ADV.

LOZIER

We have just taken in trade on a 1914 Locomobile a 1911 Lozier. This car is the best buy ever offered to the public in St. Louis. It is a 6-cylinder, 7-passenger touring car, complete with a handsome Berline limousine body. The closed body alone cost $2200; the entire job $8000. The car looks, runs and is as good as new.

Will sell this car on terms. Anyone interested should act quickly. Ideal car for private or livery use. Will be sold at a remarkably low figure.

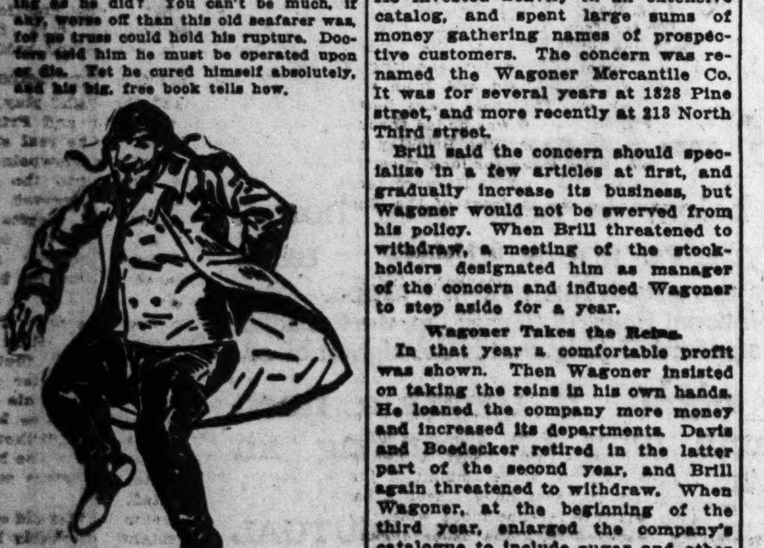
Rupture Cured At Home

Old Sea Captain Cured Himself by Simple Means Within Reach of All Sufferers.

His Remedy and Big, Interesting Book Sent Free to All Sufferers.

If Captain Collings could cure himself of a double rupture that kept him bedridden for years, by a simple means of his own invention, why cannot you achieve the same blessed result by doing as he did? You can't be much, if any, worse off than this old seafarer was, for no truss could hold his rupture. Doctors told him he must be operated upon or die. Yet he cured himself absolutely, and his big, free book tells how.



"Blast my toplights! I can dance the hornpipe as well as if I'd never been ruptured!"

Why should you continue to go through life with the awful handicap of a rupture? Why be annoyed and embarrassed by awkward, uncomfortable and ineffective trusses that are only makeshifts at the best? Why be denied so many of the pleasures and joys of life because the slightest violent exertion may cause the truss to slip and the rupture to displace?

Do not put up with these things. Get Captain Collings' absorbingly interesting book and his free remedy that is so generously offered to those who suffer as he did for so long. Costs you not a penny—places you under no obligation whatever. Just clip and mail the coupon below and receive book and remedy free of all charge and prepaid.

Do not put off sending it. Every day you delay is a day of increased comfort and happiness lost. Send coupon today.

HARRY E. WAGONER, WHO LEFT ST. LOUIS IN AUGUST, MISSING

Family and Associates Say They Know Nothing of Whereabouts of Merchant Who Failed.

Harry E. Wagoner of 5137 Kensington avenue, president of the defunct Wagoner Mercantile Co., has vanished and his family and associates say they know nothing concerning his whereabouts.

Since last August, when Wagoner left St. Louis, following the failure of his business firm, the only word received from him by his family has been a Marconigram, flashed from a German steamer to Sable Island, in which he announced that he was on his way to Frankfort. His wife, Mrs. Addie Wagoner, and his brother, George C. R. Wagoner, an undertaker, expected a letter soon afterward, but none has come, and the mystery of his whereabouts has become more painful to them with each day.

The wife declares she believes Wagoner suffered a severe mental shock through his business reverses, but says she is confident that he will recover and return.

Son of Pioneer Undertaker.

Wagoner is 43 years old and is a son of the late Henry H. Wagoner, pioneer undertaker, who left an estate estimated to be worth $500,000, and who built the Wagoner Memorial Methodist Church, a handsome stone structure at Taylor and Gibson avenues.

Mrs. Wagoner was formerly Miss Adeline Palmier, and is descended from one of the oldest French families of St. Louis. Their son, Blewett Wagoner, has been a student in Yale University. Wagoner is a member of the Mercantile and Glen Echo clubs. The missing man was known as a good liver, and his friends say his personal expenses were from $12,000 to $15,000 a year.

His business career was most spectacular. With a large inheritance, he was remarkably successful in business ventures, and seemed well on the way to the possession of a fortune. His fortune was wrecked by an unsuccessful venture in the mail order business, and particularly, his associates say, by his attempt to do a big mail order business in sugar.

A Salesman 12 Years Ago.

Twelve years ago Wagoner, after having been employed as salesman for various companies, became proprietor of the Monarch Rubber Co. He later sold out his interest in that concern to become manager of the rubber department of the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co.

During eight years with the shoe company, he acquired its stock to an estimated value of $150,000. It is reported that a single dividend netted him $40,000. He also earned a large salary.

Wagoner's closest associates in the shoe company were Samuel S. Brill, now a garment manufacturer, then head of Roberts, Johnson & Rand's foreign department; Thomas Jefferson Davis, now secretary of the Endicott, Johnson Shoe Co., and William Boedeker, later connected with the Friedman-Shelby Shoe Co. Davis and Boedeker were salesmen, and Wagoner frequently told them and Brill that they and he ought to "strike out" for themselves.

Four "Strike Out" Together.

Four years ago Wagoner induced Brill, Boedeker and Davis to join him in the purchase of the Lincoln-Pope Mercantile Co.'s mail order business, and the four men decided to invest $60,000. The concern, still under the Lincoln-Pope name, was soon hampered by a disagreement between Wagoner and Brill.

Wagoner insisted on going into the mail order business on a large scale. He invested heavily in an extensive catalog, and spent large sums of money gathering names of prospective customers. The concern was renamed the Wagoner Mercantile Co. It was for several years at 1828 Pine street, and more recently at 213 North Third street.

Brill said the concern should specialize in a few articles at first, and gradually increase its business, but Wagoner would not be swerved from his policy. When Brill threatened to withdraw, a meeting of the stockholders designated him as manager of the concern and induced Wagoner to step aside for a year.

Wagoner Takes the Reins.

In that year a comfortable profit was shown. Then Wagoner insisted on taking the reins in his own hands. He loaned the company more money and increased its departments. Davis and Boedecker retired in the latter part of the second year, and Brill again threatened to withdraw. When Wagoner, at the beginning of the third year, enlarged the company's catalogue to include sugar and other grocery staples, Brill quit.

But Wagoner was determined to make his concern one of the biggest mail order house in the West, and he induced others to invest, and all the time put in more money of his own. Business associates estimate the losses of Wagoner and his friends in the business at over $100,000. The business would not pay, but Wagoner could not be convinced. He remained until he could not afford to speculate further, and when he found he was unable to get financial aid, the crash came.

Wagoner's pride kept him for some time from letting others know he was in straits. When he was losing money rapidly he continued to live as he had done in prosperous days.

Company Goes Into Bankruptcy.

The Wagoner Mercantile Co. filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy June 30. The schedule prepared by Wagoner estimated the liabilities at $106,539.97 and assets at $184,728.90. The chief asset was a mailing list of 300,000 names and mail order equipment, which Wagoner valued at $123,822.40. The schedule filed by Wagoner also named Wagoner and relatives as the concern's largest creditors, their claims aggregating $52,060.95, representing loans to the company by Harry E. Wagoner personally, the Wagoner Realty Co., which is handling his father's estate, and the Wagoner Undertaking Co., of which George C. R. Wagoner is the head.

The creditors, several hundred mercantile establishments through which the Wagoner concern carried on a mail order business, found the affairs of the bankrupt company in such shape that they elected Attorney John B. Carroll to represent them as trustee.

In the latter part of July, Carroll reported to Referee Coles that the creditors had been able to realize only about $7500 on the Wagoner company's assets, and asked for a hearing to investigate the basis of Wagoner's personal claims against the company. Wagoner at that time was spending a vacation on the Pacific coast. He returned in August, and in the latter part of that month left St. Louis, after giving George C. R. Wagoner a power of attorney in his behalf.

Service on him of a summons to appear in the bankruptcy court was not obtained while he was in the city, and since then the hearing has been postponed owing to his absence.

At the last calling of the bankruptcy hearing Attorney Walter H. Saunders, associated with Trustee Carroll in an effort to straighten out the company's tangled affairs, asked permission to investigate the history of the Wagoner Mercantile Co. He said he had been unable to learn who Wagoner's business associates were. The case was continued indefinitely.

Had Serious Lung Trouble—Now Well

Sufferers from Lung Trouble are often misled in the belief that nothing will save them. Rest, fresh air, wholesome food and regularity in habits do much in aiding to restore health, but something else is needed. Many people who have taken Eckman's Alterative have testified that it was this medicine which restored them to health. Read this:—

Weldon, Ill.

"Gentlemen: Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia which developed into Lung Trouble. In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colo. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Today I weigh 158 pounds. I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator."

(Affidavit.) ARTHUR WEBB.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Sold by Raboteau Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co. and leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

Car Knocks Woman Down.

Mrs. Andrew Hansen, 63 years old, of 5458 Dresden avenue, was knocked down by a Cherokee car from which she alighted just as it rounded a curve at Cherokee street and Lemp avenue yesterday. She suffered a concussion of the brain.

After the Age of Fifty

From this age the human system gradually declines and the accumulated poisons in the blood cause rheumatism in joints, muscles and back. These warnings should be promptly relieved and serious illness avoided by using the following prescription, which comes from a noted doctor and is said to have no equal in curing rheumatism and restoring physical strength. Good results come after the first dose. "From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half-pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime." If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original one-ounce, sealed, yellow package. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.

HOW TO SUCCEED

During the last few years, conditions in all lines of business, even professional life, have changed so completely that every man is waking up to the fact that in order to win success he must specialize and learn to do some one thing and do it well.

So it is with any article that is sold to the people. It must have genuine merit or no amount of advertising will maintain the demand for the article.

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy. From the very beginning the proprietors had so much confidence in it that they invited every one to test it.

It is a physician's prescription.

They have on file thousands of unsolicited letters received from former sufferers who claim they are now enjoying good health as a result of its use.

However, if you wish first to try a sample bottle, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., enclose ten cents and mention this paper. They will promptly forward you a sample bottle by Parcel Post.

Regular sizes for sale at all druggists—fifty-cents and one-dollar.

LAND AGENTS SUE TO BE CALLED BY GRAND JURY

Hadley Representing Them Asks Court Order That They Be Summoned.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—Federal Judge Frank A. Youmans will decide on Monday whether he will grant the application of agents of the Florida Fruit Land Co. and instruct the grand jury to hear their testimony in an investigation of their alleged frauds in selling lands.

In open court today Herbert S. Hadley, former Governor of Missouri, representing agents of the company, declared representatives of the United States Department of Justice, in preparing a case against the company for the grand jury, had been unfair, and asked that his clients be allowed to go before the grand jury and give their side of the case.

It was the first time in the history of the Federal Court that persons under investigation by a grand jury had applied for a court order to compel the grand jury to summon them before it.

The legitimate PAID circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its suburbs is greater than that of ALL other English Dailies COMBINED.

CATARRH VICTIMS

Get Immediate and Effective Relief by Using Hyomei.

Hyomei is nature's true remedy for catarrh. There is no stomach dosing—you breathe it.

When using this treatment, you breathe healing balsams and effectively reach the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs; the catarrhal germs are destroyed—quick and sure relief results.

Hyomei often restores health in chronic cases that had given up all hope of recovery. Its best action is at the start of the disease when the breath is becoming offensive, and constant sniffling, discharges from the nose, droppings in the throat and frequent sneezing, or that choked up feeling begin to make life a burden. At the first symptom of catarrhal trouble, such as crusts in the nose, watery eyes, hawking and morning choking, surely use Hyomei and see how quickly you get relief. All druggists sell it.

The complete outfit, including inhaler and bottle of liquid, costs but $1.00; extra bottles of liquid, if later needed, 50 cents. Hyomei is sold under guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.—ADV.

The New Divan-Bed Parlor Suite

Yes, madam, here is positively the newest thing in Parlor Suites, and they have jumped into popularity over night. The demand for them is so great that manufacturers can't begin to supply it.

We were fortunate in securing a carload, which we place on sale immediately at a very low price.

The three-piece Suite, as shown above, presents a handsome appearance in the daytime. At night the Settee is easily converted into a comfortable Divan Bed, as shown above.

The Suite is splendidly made throughout—a beautiful design finished in mahogany—best steel springs in seat—upholstered with the best quality of Chase leather. And just think of the price—$43.75 for the entire three-piece Suite. The Davenport would sell for that at some stores, and our regular price for the Suite is $60.

You had better come early in the week if you want one, for at this price a carload won't last long.

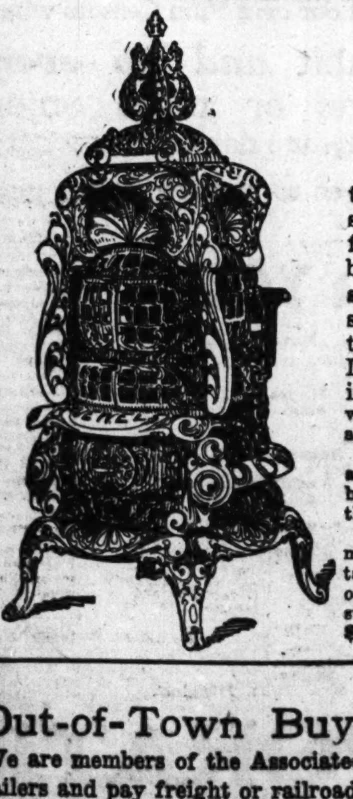
This Famous Detroit Jewel

Hard Coal Base Burner

Is the Best Heater Money Will Buy



$39.75

The Magic Jewel illustrated to left, is the handsomest Base Burner you'll find. It is made of the celebrated Kemi-Test metal, absolutely the most lasting stove material made. It contains the Jewel Triangular Double Heating Flue, which insures one-third more heat with one-third less fuel than any other type of Base Burner.

By its construction it forces all the heat possible around the base because the cold air is next the floor.

It has the Duplex grate, large magazine, and the firepot can be taken out through the door without removing a single bolt. This stove is a great bargain at $39.75.

PIKERS COLLAPSE IN FINAL QUARTER, MINERS WIN 19 TO 3

Crippled Rolla Men Score Three Touchdowns on Washington in Eight Minutes.

By W. J. O'Connor.

As timber wolves, famished from hunger, would attack defenseless lambs, the Rolla Miners in the second half of the fourth quarter of yesterday's football game at Francis Field, stampeded on the tiring Pikers and "ate 'em up," cleats and all, 19—3. Until eight minutes of the closing period had been played, Washington was leading, 3—0.

With a biting northwest wind that chilled the marrow at their backs, the plucky men from down State rallied in the waning moments of a fierce struggle and literally swept Bill Edmunds' gang off the field. Washington players, fagged and weary, fell back before Rolla's relentless attack like so many straw men.

In eight minutes the Miners marched three times across the field, planting the ball behind the maroon goal. It was a brilliant finish to the most stubborn game fought in St. Louis this season.

The superior team won. This despite the fact that early in the opening period Rolla was robbed of Capt. Edmond Stoliker, its best line-smasher. And also despite the fact that Pitts Bland, the elusive halfback, had been shelved as early as the third quarter.

Rolla had the better line. It was bigger, stronger and faster than Washington's. Time and again, the Miners stopped Lewis, the rangy Pikeway fullback, who had penetrated the forward defense of Drake and Ames almost at will in previous games. Lewis couldn't get an inch through Rolla's line. He bounded back as though bumping a concrete wall.

Withal the game was a give-and-take affair for the first three quarters, with Washington having a slight edge in open field strategy. Many times the Pikers rushed the ball within Rolla's danger zone, only to lose it because Quarterback Milford persisted in directing his attack on the Rolla line.

In the second period Washington had the ball on Rolla's 2-yard line with four bucks to carry it over, but failed. Rolla held for downs a foot from the goal line.

It was here that Milford called for four successive attacks on Rolla's line. He sent Lewis off tackle, Potthoff through guard and and then himself took two plunges at center, but gained less than a foot on each try. A forward pass over the line or a fake from a kick formation might have relieved the situation.

Pikers' Prospect for Victory Over Missouri Dimmed by Rolla Defeat

Washington's defeat, in face of Missouri's recent victory, 44—14, over the Miners doesn't speak well for the Pikers' chances next Saturday. By losing the Pikers also forfeited a chance to claim the city title as C. B. C. held the Miners to a 7—7 draw. However be it said for Washington that she fought game and long, only to lose when weary and worn. Lack of stamina to stand up in the final quarter, probably caused by a scarcity of substitutes, is the reason for all of Washington's woe this season.

There were 4000 staunch Pikeway adherents who felt that "Pooch" Lewis' goal from placement in the fag end of the third period had sealed Rolla's doom. Stoliker was under a doctor's care in the dressing room, while Pitts Bland lay wrapped in a blanket on the side lines. The Miners had been stripped of their biggest guns and Washington was leading.

Miller Goes Over.

But at this juncture, Coach McLeary of Rolla sent in his reserves. John Cole for Cushna, Dandy for J. C. Miller and McCague for Wilson. With renewed energy the Miners tore into their enemy. They stormed the tottering Pikeway line, punctured it for big gains through either guard and ran roughshod to the goal. E. A. (Tilly) Miller, subbing for Stoliker, went over for the first touchdown, plowing through Washington's left tackle. Kiskaddon promptly kicked goal from an angle.

Washington had the disadvantage of kicking into a stiff gale after this score. Lewis' boot netted only 25 yards, the wind being so high that Hardaway had to poise the ball for Lewis to kick off. Rolla promptly started its second march to a touchdown. Mountjoy, 135-pounder, was pulled back from end, and he responded with substantial gains outside tackle. Tilly Miller and Freemen were equally as effective, bringing the ball to Washington's 15-yard line. Then Freeman, faking a pass, started on an end run, cut in and crushed through tackle for a touchdown.

The final touchdown was even easier. Rolla rattled along with speed that bewildered the Pikers. Relying entirely on straight football, Mountjoy, Freeman and Miller again, brought the ball to Washington's 10-yard line. Here a fake run was made around Washington's left end, while Quarterback Kiskaddon tried the weak side and found no opposition. Both subsequent goals were missed.

TIGERS OWE NINE OUT OF 10 POINTS TO McWILLIAMS

Missouri Quarterback Scores Touchdown and Field Goal, Defeating Drake U.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 8.—By better playing and by using practically straight football, the Missouri Tigers blanked the Drake Bulldogs in a closely fought game today, score 10 to 0. For two quarters the teams fought a draw and most of the time were battling between the two 35-yard lines.

Only once did the Bulldogs threaten the Tiger goal. That was after Simons had gained fifteen yards and later Crull had raced 30 yards around end.

The Missouri Tigers in the third period twice repelled attacks on their 5-yard line and McWilliams broke up the short forward pass tossed behind the Tiger goal. Later in this period the speedy McWilliams, the Tiger quarterback, the hero of the day, went around Drake's left end and raced 60 yards for the only touchdown of the game. Capt. Wilson kicked goal.

The Bulldogs then began the best fight of the game and by the terrific plunges of Crull, Simons, Bunz and Mendenhall, shoved the Tigers back to the 20-yard line, but they were unable to advance further.

McWilliams Kicks Field Goal.

In the final period the Tigers, fighting against the wind, got within 15 yards of the Drake goal where McWilliams from placement kicked a field goal, against the stiff breeze. Later he tried another from the 30-yard line, immediately after the final whistle blew.

Drake, in the final period, got within 30 yards of the Tiger goal, and, with the wind behind their backs, had Simons attempt to drop kick a field goal, but he missed.

Missouri uncovered few trick plays and failed on three forward passes, the only ones she tried. Drake successfully made three of six passes tossed. Both teams frequently punted during the game, although the wind remained in the west.

Missouri lost thirty yards in penalties and Drake 15. The game was full of fumbles and failures to gain through the line.

Tiger Signals Tipped Off.

Clyde Williams, physical director at Ames, returned an unsigned typewritten letter which gave away the Missouri football plays and signals, to C. L. Brewer, Missouri director today.

The letter had been addressed to the Ames Captain but had failed to reach him before the Missouri-Ames game. The writer said he was a Missouri rooter and he had money on Ames and hoped they would use the information volunteered.

Williams expressed his contempt and termed the Missouri rooter a "dirty scamp." It is thought that the Missouri signals in the last years have been given away three times.

Yale Shows Best Form of Season; Beats Brown, 17-0

Score Fails to Show Superiority of Blue Eleven Over Its Rivals.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—Showing a complete reversal of form over last Saturday, Yale easily defeated Brown on Yale Field this afternoon, 17—0. The score, however, fails to indicate the superiority of the Blue eleven. Twice Yale missed kicks by slight margins and twice was within striking distance of a touchdown, but on each occasion lost the ball on an incompleted forward pass.

It was not until the closing moments of the game that Brown had a chance to score. Yale had sent in many substitutes and Brown, by a beautiful forward pass that netted 30 yards, brought the ball within striking distance. Capt. Henry tried a field goal, but the ball went wide.

Guernsey of Yale made a brilliant attempt at a field goal from the 42-yard line and the ball went so close to the uprights that half the crowd thought he had scored.

Yale displayed the best form so far this year, although the offense was somewhat lacking in polish. Wilson, with only five days' practice at quarterback, ran the team well and contributed a sensational 45-yard run and another dash of 20 yards. Dunn played a star game at fullback for Yale.

Despite the loggy field and a steady rain, Yale did not once fumble the ball. Brown made several bad fumbles and on nearly every occasion an alert Yale man fell on the ball. Yale's defensive work was excellent, Brown failing to gain consistently at any time. Knowles outclassed the Brown punters. Casey and McNeill did the best work for the visitors.

FORWARD PASSES SCORE TWICE FOR MICHIGAN ELEVEN

Cornell's Defeat, 17—0, Directly Traced to Wolverines' Open Field Play.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The West triumphed over the East today when Michigan decisively defeated Cornell, 17 to 0. Cornell was outplayed, outweighed and outfought. The long-looked for punch was lacking and Cornell was powerless almost continuously before the smashing onslaught of the Wolverines.

Michigan scored early in the first period, after receiving the kickoff. The Westerners made two first downs and then executed a beautiful forward pass, Hughitt to Lyons, which brought the ball to Cornell's 10-yard line. Cornell was penalized five yards and on a delayed pass Craig carried the ball around right end for a touchdown.

There was no more scoring in the first period, Michigan, however, excelling in line plunging. Craig, Torbet and Gall were terrors to the Cornell line, tearing through for substantial gains.

Cornell Passes Fail.

Cornell managed to hold the Westerners scoreless in the second period. Both teams resorted to frequent punting, with Barrett shading Hughitt. With the ball on Michigan's 30-yard line, Barrett tried a field goal, but it went wide. Shuler tried two forward passes after Barrett's miss, but both throws were wild.

At the opening of the third quarter Fritz fumbled the kickoff, Torbet getting the ball. Michigan rushed the pigskin to Cornell's 20-yard line and Captain Patterson kicked a field goal from the 26-yard line. Shortly after receiving the kickoff, a Michigan double pass, Craig carrying the ball, netted 35 yards, bringing the ball to Cornell's 35-yard line.

Pass Fools Cornell Men.

A forward pass fooled Cornell and before the Ithacans woke up, Michigan had planted the oval on the Red and White one-yard line. On the next play Hughitt wriggled through for a touchdown.

BRICKLEY'S FIELD GOAL AND GOOD GENERALSHIP WIN FOR CRIMSON

Nassau Eleven Has Big Advantage in Kicking, During Second Half, but Splendid Generalship of Haughton's Pupils Offsets This Factor—Mahan an Important Feature in Saving the Cambridge Machine.

By Herbert Reed,
The Post-Dispatch's Eastern Football Authority.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.

SUPERIOR football methods and canny judgment enabled Harvard to defeat the Tigers here today by the score of 3 to 0, the winning points being made by Charles Brickley, the clever drop-kicker of the Crimson eleven.

Princeton made a splendid fight, much of the time outkicking the Cambridge men and playing a hard, sure defensive game. But the brainest football was shown by the visitors and had the field been dry the score probably would have been larger.

Both teams were severly handicapped by the slippery footing, the Orange and Black in facing the kicking game, the Crimson in starting its quick thrusts into the line. It was a combination of the heavy footing and the stellar defensive work of the Tiger tackles, Ballin and Phillips, that upset the Harvard attack just when it seemed that it was about to show its full power.

Indeed, the Tiger defense was so strong that it proved the Harvard line was far from a stone wall. In the end the visitors made the best of their opportunities for shooting at goals from the field and from start to finish selected their plays better.

Extra efficiency was added through the ability of men like Brickley and Mahan to get away for long runs that swept the play out of Harvard territory and down in front of the Tiger goal.

Wonderful Star Is Mahan.

Never has the remarkable individual interference of the Crimson eleven shown to better advantage, and seldom has Harvard shown so much patience in working out its sound scheme of play. Of the wonderful ability of Eddie Mahan there can no longer be the slightest doubt, even on the part of the most skeptical. Not in years have I seen a man get away with the same amount of jump and not in years have I seen a back use his interference more wisely.

Compared with the other backs of both elevens Mahan looked almost slender; but he was at all times the best man on the field in the running game, and his kicking, when he was sent in to do that work after Hardwick's poor booting had twice opened the door to the Tigers, was without flaw.

One of his kicks from fairly deep in his own territory down along the side lines was a sheer case of football courage and skill. He might well have chosen the safer course and kicked into the open, but instead he sent his driving punt where it would do the most damage to the Tigers and the least damage to Harvard.

With Brickley he shared the honors of changing the entire complexion of the game at critical stages, but AS AN ALLROUND BACK HE WAS IN A CLASS OF HIS OWN. There could be nothing finer than his deadly certainty.

Harvard's opportunity came after the blocking of a kick. There were other openings, especially along the field-goal route for both Princeton and Harvard, but the ball was so water-soaked that it was practically out of the question to score from long distance, in the second half.

Harvard's Generalship Better.

Harvard picked the right play, almost without exception and Princeton did not. There is the real story of the game, from the viewpoint of the critic who looks into the two systems of play. The Harvard system was the better and despite the game fight of a Princeton team, whose spirit I have seldom seen equaled, was bound to triumph, barring accident.

The recent changes in the Tiger eleven worked out well. Glick at quarter played a brand of football that deserved something better than defeat, and Streit lived up to his reputation as a line-breaker. The kicking of Law was almost without a flaw and had he been doing the booting for the Crimson the score might well have mounted.

The two Princeton tackles did a little more than might reasonably have been asked of them and their work down the field was up to the best Tiger standards, save that the tackling was not what it might have been, due to some extent to the slippery footing.

Percy Haughton played his hand cleverly by starting the game without Mahan and putting in his star back at the psychological moment. The Harvard kicking system did not work out as well as had been expected, but the Crimson kept hurrying the Princeton kicker, with the result that one had the feeling that sooner or later a kick would be blocked.

Harvard Defense Solves Attack of Tigers in Time to Save Goal

HARVARD opened up the kicking game right at the start and so uncertain were the backs of handling the slippery leather that both sides signaled for a fair catch again and again. Baker started the fair catching process on his own 23-yard mark and Law promptly shot the ball back to Hardwick. The next time the Crimson was slow getting down the field and Baker had an excellent chance to get away, but slipped in the mud. Back and forth soared the leather until Baker made a pretty catch on the dead run and put the ball on his own 44-yard mark. Streit slipped through the guard position for five yards and in the second attempt made it a first down. Here Law's forward pass hit the ground and the Princeton attack died in the making.

Both teams kicked out of bounds and on a subsequent exchange, Baker all but got free, being brought to earth by a pretty tackle by Logan. Streit made it first down in two smashes into center. But Cowan nailed him the third time and Baker dropped back to try a field goal. The kick was short and Harvard started once more with a run from the kick formation. Glick for Princeton made the same play go for a first down but with the opening of the second

Forward Passes Let Dartmouth Win From Penn

Fumbling and Unusual Plays Feature Game Won by Green, 34—21.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Dartmouth defeated the University of Pennsylvania on a rain-soaked field here today by the score of 34 to 21. It was the first meeting of these two institutions on the gridiron in 16 years and a great crowd was present despite the rain.

Pennsylvania was the first to score, shortly after the game started. The red and blue players fooled Dartmouth on the kickoff and took the ball on the latter's 40-yard line. A series of mass plays, followed by a perfect forward pass, carried the ball to the 20-yard line and on a double pass Carter crossed the goal line.

A 60-yard run by Louden from a forward pass enabled Dartmouth to tie the score in the same period. Then McAuliff got the ball on a fumble on the Pennsylvania three-yard line and on the next play Louden carried it over for Dartmouth's second touchdown. Hogsett kicked both goals and the period ended with the score 14 to 7, in favor of Dartmouth.

The second period was all Dartmouth's and they increased their lead by two touchdowns, one on a 45-yard run by Hogsett and one by Llewellyn, who recovered a quick kick by Minds.

Pennsylvania made a desperate effort to overcome the visitors' lead in the third period and succeeded in scoring two more touchdowns. Avery made the first on a 55-yard run and Capt. Young made the second from midfield on three dashes through the Dartmouth line.

Dartmouth made its final touchdown in the fourth period, when Hogsett caught the ball on a forward pass on Pennsylvania's 43-yard line and ran through a clear field to the goal line. He failed to kick the goal.

Football Teaches That You Can't Get What You Want Without Kicking for It

PENALTY RECORD BROKEN BY C. B. C., BUT LOCALS WIN

Officials Assess Total of 255 Yards in Battle With Osteopaths.

SHEA CAUGHT SLUGGING

Kirksville Eleven Offers Stubborn Defense, but Lose Slovenly Game, 21—3.

By Daniel Dillon.

The Kirksville Osteopaths staged a neat little surprise party at Robison Field, yesterday afternoon, for the benefit of Mr. Luke Kelly and his Christian Brothers' eleven, when they held the highly touted Cote Brilliante tallying machine to the score of 21—3.

In the second and third quarters the visitors held their own with the locals and it was only in the opening period and in the closing minutes of the last quarter that C. B. C. showed any decided superiority. Had the offense of the bone specialists been at all in keeping with the stubbornness of their defense they would have battled C. B. C. to a standstill. As it was, they had no conception of a concerted attack and their gamut of plays ran only from left tackle to right. Line plunging was the beginning and end of their backfield play.

The game was marred and C. B. C. was in particular handicapped by what appeared to the man on the side lines, as the over-fastidiousness of the officials in calling penalties. During the game the two teams were penalized a total of 255 yards. This is altogether out of proportion to the ordinary amount of punishment usually meted out in a game. Of the 255 bitter pills C. B. C. was the recipient of more than two-thirds of them.

Penalties Discourage C. B. C.

The umpire's harshness had much to do in taking the edge off the Brothers' attack. At that, though, the team did not look well in action and its showing yesterday augurs but poorly for a formidable defense against Notre Dame.

The forward pass, the piece de resistance of Kelly's collection of plays, was badly handled yesterday by both Ratican and White, the two hurlers of the team. Ratican all but presented Kirksville with a touchdown when he threw blindly into the hands of Left Halfback Haines, who raced 60 yards on the play and was only halted from scoring by a beautiful tackle on the part of Quarterback Gallagher, who slid in between a protecting interference of three men and downed his man.

Ratican, though, carried the ball in his usual brilliant fashion, demonstrating that he is easily the best individual ground gainer on the local field. But it was glaringly evident yesterday that he gives his fellow backs but little interfering help when they are carrying the ball, and that his defensive work is slovenly.

Weaver, who tallied the Osteopaths' 3 points by a neat place kick from the 30-yard line, was the limelight absorber of the visitors. He was particularly effective on defense and halted Ratican all through the game, when he attempted to circle.

Shea "Canned" for Slugging.

Shea, for the purple and gold, drew the unenviable distinction of banishment from the game for slugging. Kelly, apparently, has injected too much of the professional spirit of win at any cost into his charges. It might be well for him to look up in his lexicon of football the terms "fair play" and "sportsmanship."

In the first seven minutes of the opening quarter, C. B. C. scored two touchdowns and visions of another Cape massacre bobbed up. But the visitors pulled themselves together in splendid shape and for the remainder of the period held C. B. C. scoreless.

The second quarter was an exhibition of prosy play. In this period Kirksville had the wind—a Wyoming zephyr—with them and an ordinarily poor punter was able to boot 45 yards consistently, which helped to keep the play for the greater part of the time in C. B. C.'s territory.

At that it was only two penalties that kept the college from scoring after they had taken the ball from their own 20-yard line to their opponents' 10-yard line by the clever execution of two forward passes.

The third quarter was a continuation of the grueling play of the second, and neither team was able to score. In the final period Weaver, after Haines had intercepted Ratican's throw in the dark, kicked a field goal and Ratican, towards the close of the game, tore off one of his private brands of runs, making the final score 21—3 in favor of C. B. C. This was C. B. C.'s first victory in its history over Kirksville.

ATHLETES FROM AMES WIN CONFERENCE RUN

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 8.—Ames Agricultural College of Iowa won the annual Missouri Valley cross-country run here today, the victory being decisive. Missouri was second, Nebraska third and Kansas fourth. There were only four entries.

Scores by the schools were as follows: Ames, 26; Missouri, 33; Nebraska, 58; Kansas, 78.

Snyder of Ames was the first man to cross the line; [illegible], Nebraska, second; [illegible] and [illegible], both Ames, third and fourth respectively; [illegible], Missouri, fifth; [illegible], Ames, sixth; Pewitt, Missouri, seventh, and [illegible], Ames, eighth. The course was five miles and the time [illegible].

Billikens Romp Over Ferguson, in Tryout Game

St. Louis U. Rolls Up Score of 70 to 7; Bradley a New Star.

Football by moonlight was seen at Sportsman's Park Saturday, when, on account of a late start, the last quarter of St. Louis U.'s clash with Ferguson Athletic Club ended with the man in the moon joining the Billikens in an expansive smile at a walk-over victory, the final score standing 70 to 7 in favor of the locals.

At the outset the teams looked evenly matched, and after scoring two touchdowns in the first seven minutes, one by Kistner on a blocked punt, and the other by Thomas after a sequence of quarterback runs, the Billikens had all they could do to hold the ambitious Athletics to their own half of the field.

Three fine forward passes by the fullback, alternating between the ends, gave Ferguson's field general, Green, an opportunity to dash through a hole for a touchdown. Early in the third quarter, another Ferguson score threatened, but failed to materialize, Gross grabbing the ball on a fumble and romping 90 yards through an open field for a score. At half-time the score stood 20—7 in favor of the Billikens, who had been playing only mediocre football.

Coach Dennie probably hinted at this during the interval, for the Blue and White warriors returned to the field with a thirst for points that could not be checked. They ran up four touchdowns in the third quarter, Bradley carrying the ball for the principal gains.

He has something of the Frank Acker style about him, going through the line like a bullet and wriggling through tackles with good effect. Thomas, Kistner and Gassoway then proceeded to parade the field at Ferguson's expense, and a prettily intercepted forward pass from the latter to Cross provided the sensation of the day to the frost-bitten fans, the Ferguson halfback ripping off a fine 50-yard dash. It was hard to follow the ball during the last quarter and many fumbles resulted in consequence.

Lineup:

ST. LOUIS U.	Positions.	FERGUSON
Kistner (capt.)	Left end	Dunham
Snowbling	Center	Lewis
Mackay	Right guard	Dempsey
Harrison	Right tackle	Hudson
Gross	Right end	Schulte
Thomas	Quarterback	Green
Bradley	Left halfback	Hubbard
Nyquist	Right halfback	Brack
Gassoway	Fullback	Laud

Time of game—1h. 35m., 12-minute quarters. Referee—Smith (Brown). Umpire—Roach (Loyola). Head linesman—Maguire (St. L. U.). Touchdowns—St. Louis 10; Thomas 4, Bradley 2, Gross 2, Kistner, Gassoway. Goals from touchdowns—Thomas 8, Kistner 1. Ferguson A. C. touchdown—Green. Goal from touchdown—Green. Attendance—400.

Class A. A. Teams in Round Robin Series Next Year

American Association Offers to Play Interleague Contests With International League.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Teams of the American Association and the International League will play a round robin series next summer and fall if the officials of the latter organization agree to a plan already indorsed by the club owners of the Association. This was announced by President Chivington today.

Concluding negotiations between the leagues are expected to follow a general discussion of the proposal by the magnates of each circuit who attend the minor league convention at Columbus next week. Details of the tournament have been worked out only in part.

It is proposed to stop the regular campaign early enough in August to permit time for each team to play 42 games with teams of the rival league—three "en tour" with every club and three with each on the home grounds. Thus Minneapolis would play in Baltimore, Newark, Jersey City, Providence, Rochester, Buffalo, Toronto and Montreal and then meet teams from the cities later at home.

The pennant winner in each league would be the team leading when the regular season ended in August and special honors would be given the club making the best showing in the international league series.

Bucknell, Overwhelmed, Score 70 to 7, Is First Team to Score on Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 8.—Although Bucknell's football team did not develop anything like the strength expected against their powerful opponents and suffered a worse defeat this afternoon than Lehigh did last Saturday, they were the first players to score against the Navy this season. The final figures were: Navy 70, Bucknell 7. Last year Bucknell defeated Navy, 17 to 6.

The game was witnessed by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Miss Eleanor Wilson, who, with a party of army officers, came over from Washington. As a football contest it did not amount to much, Bucknell being unable to withstand the hammering of Navy's powerful backs.

Navy piled up 37 points during the first two periods. Three long runs by Nichols, who went in as substitute quarterback, were the features. In the third period the visitors took advantage of Navy's overconfidence and played pluckily. Gaddie ran back 50 yards with a punt, and then Bucknell made two forward passes of about 15 yards each, the second one from Cruckshank to Sullivan resulting in a touchdown. Sturgis kicked goal.

Cue Tourney Starts Nov. 17.

The city championship pocket billiards tournament will begin at the Navarre Billiard Hall Nov. 17, with the following contestants: E. Jackson, A. Rickley, Lloyd Carter, E. Wimmer, A. Brundage, H. Keith, A. Walker, T. Spires, A. Pfautish and C. Bowman.

All-Blacks Still Unbeatable.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 8.—The New Zealand All-Black rugby team found the fifteen of the University of Southern California easy picking today and won by the score of 40 to 0. In the first half the local players were able to heel the ball out of scrum only once. Throughout the game the All-Blacks showed their skill in kicking to touch.

Stanford Defeats California.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 8.—Stanford won from the University of California today, 13 to 8, in the twenty-third annual rugby football game between the two universities and their eighth rugby contest.

TRENDALL AGREES TO LET M'FARLAND DO CATCH WEIGHT

St. Louis Boxer Signs Articles to Fight Stock Yards Terror.

WELSH NOT COMING HERE

British Scrapper Too Expensive an Attraction for Local Promoters.

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

Whether Harry Trendall, the local boxer, has improved since his last meeting with Packey McFarland, the Chicagoan, will be determined when they get together again before members of the National A. C. in the Coliseum, Dec. 4. The match was made a reality Saturday when Trendall attached his signature to the articles of agreement.

The boxers will not weigh in. This feature is expected to give McFarland quite a shade as he has grown so big that he cannot hope to make the lightweight limit—133 pounds. Trendall finds himself in much the same fix, although McFarland will have several pounds advantage when they crawl through the ropes.

Trendall boxed McFarland once before. That was in May, 1909, more than three years ago. While Trendall stayed the limit of 10 rounds, Packey had much the better of the bout on points.

No McFarland-Welsh Bout.

The proposed bout between McFarland and Freddie Welsh, the English champion, at the Coliseum, Dec. 20, failed to materialize for several reasons. The principal one was that the Coliseum club is unprepared to pay the same sum that this bout would draw in New York. Eastern promoters figure this match worth fully $18,000. The Coliseum club could give no such guarantee.

Welsh also insists that McFarland make the lightweight limit, or at least 135 pounds. This would be impossible, unless Packey would amputate a leg or an arm. Another stumbling block is that McFarland is already booked to fight in Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 20, the date for the proposed bout here.

Manager Bishop of the Coliseum club is trying to match Benny McGovern and "Knockout" Mars of Cincinnati for the Nov. 20 show.

Eddie Rivoire Goes East.

Eddie Rivoire, the St. Louis boy, who defeated Marty Rowan at the Future City A. C. last Tuesday, departed for Philadelphia Thursday, where he has hopes of getting a match with Young Erne or Tommy Howell. To Rivoire was offered a match with "Knockout" Brennan of Buffalo at the Future City A. C. Nov. 18, but he declined because Brennan weighs about 10 pounds more.

Rivoire will return to St. Louis if Tommy Sullivan arranges a match with "Wildcat" Ferns.

Moose Club Shows Monday.

Joe Genail and Monte Dale will provide the feature bout for members of the Moose Club at the Moose Home, Monday evening. They are scheduled to go eight rounds at the lightweight limit. Genail is giving away several pounds to get the match.

"One Round" Kern, the bank clerk-boxer, and George Groves will show in the semi-windup, while "Young Jimmy" Foley and "Irish Paddy" will ring up the curtain.

Solsberg Sees a Victory.

Johnny Solsberg, who rocked Archie McLeod to sleep two weeks ago, expects to win via the same route over "Tickle" Sanders of Memphis, when they meet at the Future City A. C. Tuesday evening. In Sanders, however, Solsberg will meet a sturdier boy than McLeod.

Show Sure to Go On.

Manager McNamara of the Queensberry A. C. yesterday announced that the forfeits of all the boxers who are to appear in the opening entertainment of that club, Nov. 19, had been posted. This means that the bouts will go on, regardless of the size of the crowd.

It has been decided to open a branch office of the club at the gymnasium, 3940 Easton avenue, for the accommodation of those who cannot file their applications at the downtown office, 518 Holland Building. The West End office will be open daily, beginning Monday, until 9 o'clock.

Foley Makes No Reply.

Jimmy Foley, the Canadian boxer, who was challenged by Johnny Paizza of Philadelphia, made no reply to the defi of the Easterner yesterday. Paizza says he is willing to make as low as 122 pounds for the Canuck.

NEW YORK ALDERMAN AFTER TICKET SCALPERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A city ordinance designed to prevent ticket scalping at future world's series baseball games here will be introduced by the Board of Aldermen. This move is made at the instance of the District Attorney's office as a result of an investigation by the county authorities of the work of speculators in obtaining tickets to the Giants-Athletics games at the Polo Grounds last month.

A report submitted tonight to District Attorney Whitman by his assistant assigned to make the inquiry shows that while very few box seats reached the hands of speculators, nearly 1200 $3 seats were disposed of through hotel ticket agencies or by individuals.

BADGERS IN IMPROVED FORM, BEAT OHIO STATE

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 8.—The University of Wisconsin won from Ohio State University here today, 12 to 0. The Buckeyes, the newest member of the Western Conference, played gamely against the heavier Badger team, but were seldom within reach of Wisconsin's goal.

The game revealed considerable improvement in generalship and offensive playing on the part of the Badgers over last week's game with Minnesota. Cardinal adherents were satisfied with the low score. The Badgers' two touchdowns were made by straight football.

White Sox Trim Matty.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 8.—Twelve thousand persons saw the Chicago Americans hammer out 14 hits off Christy Mathewson today and take the game from the New York Giants, 5 to 3. Score:

Innings—	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R.	H.	E.
White Sox	2	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	0—	5	14	1

Mahan's Brilliant Efforts Save the Day for Harvard

Brilliant Halfback, Injected in Game After the Start, by Long Runs and Timely Kicking Averts Impending Disaster When Tigers Threaten.

period the Tigers lost the leather on downs, letting the ball go without trying a kick in to the corner, which was the obvious place.

Then came the play which had been long awaited by the Harvard cohorts. Baker's kick was blocked and Storer snapped up the ball on the 20-yard line. Bradley and Brickley could gain little even from the kick formation and Harvard went back to fundamental generalship by calling on Brickley who, from the 22-yard mark, sent the ball over the bar and between the uprights.

This was a triumph for the Harvard type of game and gave the Crimson an advantage that was never lost, even when Hardwick's kicking fell off so badly that Mahan had to assume the burden of the punting.

After Hobey Baker's kick-off Mahan was sent in and he made his presence felt at once, adding fully 50 per cent to the Harvard menace both on attack and in handling kicks. Brickley promptly tore off a pretty run from kick formation and Law made a fair catch of Mahan's kick on his own 38-yard mark.

The Princeton kicking began to edge the Crimson down toward its own goal line, when suddenly Mahan nipped the ball well down in his own territory, and came skipping up the field for 60 yards, making one of the prettiest runs ever seen in a big game. In the twinkling of an eye the game had been carried out of the Harvard back yard into the Princeton front parlor.

HOW THE TEAMS LINED UP

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—The lineup and summary:

Harvard (3).	Position.	Princeton (0)
O'Brien	Left end	Hammond
Hitchcock	Left tackle	Phillips
Cowen	Left guard	Semmons
Soucy	Center	E. Trenkman
Pennock	Right guard	W. Swart
Gilman	Right tackle	Ballin
Storer (Capt.)	Right end	Shea
Logan	Quarterback	Glick
Hardwick	Left half	Law
Bradlee	Right half	H. A. H. Baker (Capt.)
Brickley	Fullback	Streit

Referee—W. S. Langford, Trinity. Umpire—Neil Snow, Michigan; Linesman—D. L. Fultz, Brown. Time of periods—15 minutes each.

Harvard scoring—Goal from field, Brickley. Substitutions—Harvard, Dana for Hitchcock; Mahan for Bradlee; Bradlee for Mahan; Mahan for Hardwick; Hardwick for Bradlee.

Princeton—Lambert for Shea; J. S. Baker for Lamberton; F. Trenkman for Streit; Streit for F. Trenkman; F. Trenkman for Streit.

Penalties Endanger Tigers' Goal, Intercepted Forward Pass Helps

BRICKLEY failed in an attempt at field goal, but the dangerous Mahan carried back the next kick and the same player earned a first down on Princeton's 40-yard mark. Two penalties for offside play put Princeton in danger once more, but the Tigers intercepted a boldly played forward pass and resumed the more satisfactory kicking game. The Princeton punting began to tell and Harvard was edged down once more into its own territory, the advantage in the exchanges being notably with the Tigers up to the conclusion of the first half. At the opening of the third period the Crimson sent Bradlee into the game and began to uncork a more serious attack, showing nothing new, however. A forward pass hit the ground and the ball was promptly booted to Baker.

After the next exchange of kicks the Crimson tendency to use the hands illegally on attack cost the visitors 15 yards, and a subsequent failure to get through the alert Ballin forced Harvard back to the kicking game.

With the Tigers in possession of the leather at the center of the field, Streit and Glick between them squeezed out a first down and carried the Tiger attack to the 35-yard line. Glick was thrown for a loss on the next attempt and the Tigers tried a forward pass on the fourth down that came within inches of being successful. A kick into the corner probably would have been a better play, but, of course, had the pass been successful the choice of the play would have been above criticism. As it was, the Tigers let the ball go on down and Harvard was out of a tight situation.

A long kick that had something of a roll to it once more brought the Orange and Black within fair striking distance, and this time Baker attempted to kick a goal from field because the ball was so heavy he could not get it up.

Brickley Makes Good Gain.

After swapping kicks Harvard returned to the policy of running on first down in the Crimson's own territory and Brickley tore off 16 yards on a switching run outside of tackle. Here a forward pass went astray, and Harvard being once more penalized for illegal use of hands, it was Princeton's ball at the center of the field.

The Tigers now uncovered a pretty forward pass, Baker to Hammond, that gave them a first down, but an offside penalty and the failure of Streit to bore through the Harvard center made necessary a resumption of the kicking game. Law drove a low punt clear down to Harvard's 7-yard mark and the Crimson was in a dangerous situation, as the whistle blew for the close of the third quarter.

WITH the opening of the fourth quarter the Crimson gave the orange and black a golden opportunity to score, Hardwick making a poor kick out of bounds at the 24-yard mark. Glick, the Tiger quarter had learned that the Crimson line was not impenetrable and he carried the ball himself. He had a good opening, but unfortunately for Princeton's chances he fumbled, and although he managed to recover the ball he failed to gain a yard.

Streit was also stopped by the Harvard secondary defense which, by this time, had diagnosed the Princeton system of attack and Baker was once more forced to try for a goal from the field.

The Crimson forwards were through on him as he dropped the leather, the kick was partly blocked and it was the Crimson's ball on its own 25-yard line. Here Hardwick made another poor punt, the leather going out of bounds at the 28-yard mark and for the second time in less than 5 minutes Princeton had the whip-hand in the matter of position on the field.

Twice Streit failed to make an impression on the Harvard line, and there was nothing to do but kick, so that the second really promising Princeton opening went into the discard. Haughton sent Mahan in to do the kicking for the Crimson, and at once the complexion of the game was changed. Brickley got under way behind beautiful interference, and using his men much as Mahan had done, went galloping down the field to Princeton's 20-yard line. But the run from a kick formation failed to work on the following down and Brickley dropped back to try a goal from field.

Soaked Ball Hard to Kick.

By this time the ball was carrying weight for age in wet weather and previous condition of servitude, and slid over the goal line far from the posts. Law kicked out from the 20-yard line and Logan promptly made a fair catch. Brickley tried his good right toe again, but the ball went to Glick on the 20-yard mark. Baker booted the ball to Mahan, who came dodging and twisting back for 35 yards. Brickley picked up three yards and then two on the tackle play, but what looked like another good scoring opening for the Crimson was spoiled when Harvard was penalized 20 yards for sending in a substitute who failed to report to the referee before giving side line instructions to the team. Harvard now kicked into the corner, the best move possible under the circumstances, but Baker made a pretty run of 10 yards and the Tigers were not as hard pressed as they would have been had the kick been covered in better style. Law sent away a pretty kick to Mahan and on the next play the former Andover star made the finest kick of the game, hoisting the soggy leather down along the side line to Baker on his own 15-yard mark.

After this Princeton never had a chance to score.

Although neither eleven had an offense strong enough to carry the ball over the goal line, the Harvard attack was better devised than was Princeton's. The Princeton shift was much faster than against Dartmouth, but it depended almost entirely on deception, and the deception was not long enough sustained to puzzle the Harvard secondary defense sufficiently.

The Tiger attack was stopped mainly through team efforts; the Harvard attack was checked largely through splendid individual work on the part of the two Tiger tackles and Trenkman, the center. Indeed, on the defense, Trenkman was a host in himself. Had his passing been better he would have been one of the stars of the day.

The Harvard line had its hands full throughout the afternoon, but splendid individual interference aided materially in carrying the day, and the individual efficiency of the Harvard back field was the last bitter drop in Princeton's cup of defeat.

MILLERS EXPECT TO PROVE LEOS HAVE GONE BACK

Leaders in Soccer Race Will Provide Feature Game at Athletic Park Today.

SCHEDULES IN TODAY'S SOCCER LEAGUE RACES

At Athletic Park.

First game—Columbian A. C. vs. Rock Church.

Second game.—St. Leos vs. Millers.

Starting time, 2 o'clock. Referee, Phil Kavanaugh.

At Robison Field.

First game.—Athletics vs. Teresas.

Second game.—Innisfails vs. Columbus Club.

Starting time.—2:15 o'clock. Referee, Paul McSweeney.

With first place as the reward for the winner, the St. Leos, soccer champions of the Middle West, will meet the Millers this afternoon in the most important game that has been offered this season at Athletic Park. At present the teams are tied for the lead, each eleven owning a clean slate.

Since their first meeting three weeks ago, when they tied, 0—0, considerable rivalry has been worked up. It came as a result of the Millers' 8—1 victory over the Columbian A. C. team. At the time, some of the Miller players ventured the opinion that the Leos would be just as easy for them as the C. A. C. eleven proved.

The Leos, although several changes have been made in the lineup, claim to be as formidable as ever. They are out to defeat the Millers and establish themselves as the league leaders. In the opinion of many soccer fans, the Leos are due for a beating today.

The curtain-raiser, which begins at 2 o'clock, will bring together the Rock Church and Columbian Athletic Club team, second division members of the league race.

MICHIGAN AGGIES WIN, AFTER A CLOSE CALL

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 8.—Outplayed during the first period, the Michigan Agricultural College football eleven rallied and defeated Mount Union, 13 to 7, this afternoon. Coach Macklin attempted to keep his star ground gainers, Julian and Blake Miller, out of the game, but during the final period, Mount Union's open play became so threatening that he was obliged to call on both men for assistance.

Mount Union in the first quarter worked the ball to within striking distance of the Aggies' goal and then a forward pass from Wilson to Beck scored a touchdown. Blacklock scored both M. A. C. touchdowns in the second period.

MAROONS HELD TO 14—0 MARK BY NORTHWESTERN

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 8.—Chicago downed Northwestern 14 to 0 in a renewal of their ancient duel today, a squad of substitutes failing to score for the Maroons in the second half after Stagg's men had made two touchdowns in the first part of the game.

Straight football put Norgren in a position to drive through the purple line in the first quarter and a fumble gave Des Jardiens the chance he turned into a score in the second period. Up to the second half the Maroon team was regular except that Pierce and Gray, back-field stars, were on the side line and in the last half the Midway second-string men did practically all the work. A dozen forward passes attempted by Northwestern failed to gain.

Army Piles Up Big Score.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The Army ran up a big score today against Albright, defeating the visitors, 77 to 0. Eleven touchdowns, eight goals and a goal from field formed the Army's total. The team showed vast improvement over its recent form. Hobbs, Hodgson and McEwan were the stars of the Army's play.

Purdue Swamps Rose Poly.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 8.—In a driving snowstorm Purdue defeated Rose Polytechnic here this afternoon, 62 to 0. Rose Polytechnic held the ball less than one minute during the entire game. Purdue, after piling up 48 points in the first two periods, used a number of substitutes. The boilermakers used straight football because of the presence of the Illinois scouts.

Illini Runners Beat Indiana.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Nov. 8.—Illinois won the annual four-mile cross-country run from Indiana today, 21 to 34. Mason for Illinois finished first in the fast time of 20 minutes 47.3 seconds. White of Indiana was second, 30 seconds behind the leader. Illinois won first, third, fourth, sixth and seventh places and Indiana took second, fifth, eighth, ninth and tenth positions.

Indians Beat Johns Hopkins.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—Carlisle's football team outmatched Johns Hopkins in every department of the game this afternoon, 61 to 0. By tricks in giving signals and fake plays the Indians repeatedly made long gains around Hopkins' ends. Only a few times was Hopkins able to hold Carlisle for downs.

McKinley Plays a 7--7 Tie With Central Eleven

Prep School Teams Perform in Most Keenly Contested Struggle of Season.

In the hardest-fought and best-played prep school football game of the season, Central High and McKinley High struggled to a 7—7 tie at Francis Field yesterday morning. It was the first time that the teams had met in five years, but the old rivalry was in evidence.

The Central team slightly outweighed the South Siders, but the latter offset this advantage with speed. No player stood out more prominently than any of his mates, but both sides displayed good team work.

Central was the first to score. After an exchange of punts, the Grand avenue team obtained the ball in midfield. Monnig passed over the side lines. Then rushes by Rowan and Gill brought the ball to the 5-yard line. Gill advanced three more and Rowan made the remaining distance for a touchdown. This happened about three minutes after the game started. Rowan also kicked the goal.

It wasn't until the third period that McKinley braced and evened up the count. In this quarter, McKinley obtained the ball after intercepting a forward pass, on the 40-yard line. Monnig and French then brought the ball to the 20-yard line. Blades skirted the ball to the 20-yard line. Blades skirted the goal from a difficult angle, tying the score, 7—7.

The lineup:

Central	Position.	McKinley
Finn	Left end	Burke
Houck	Left tackle	Cloud
Kalkman	Center	Childs
Nies-Zack	Right guard	Nobbe
Klemmons-Nier	Right tackle	Glasgow
McMannus	Right end	Krenyer
Gill	Quarterback	Monnig
Woodbridge-Klemmons	Left half	French
Rowan	Fullback	Blades
McElwee	Right half	Snyder

Referee, Maguire (St. L.). Umpire, Edmunds (Mich.). Head linesman, Abeken (Wash.). Length of period, 15 minutes.

Soldan High's Eleven Beats Smith Academy Team by a 44—6 Score

Soldan High's football eleven annihilated the Smith Academy team at St. Louis U. campus yesterday, 44—6. Although a Soldan victory was expected, few supporters of the team looked for such a one-sided score.

The Union avenue boys outplayed their opponents at every stage of the game and after the second period it was just a question of the size of the score. During the latter part of the game Soldan substitutes were used in almost every position.

Smith's lone score came in their third period, when Glazer picked up a fumble and ran 50 yards to Soldan's 20-yard line. A forward pass, Jarvis to Van Raalte, then proved successful and netted the team's only touchdown.

The lineup:

SOLDAN.	Positions.	SMITH.
Root	Left guard	Compton
Cunliffe	Center	Schwab-Cloud
Henglesbury	Right guard	Weingartner
Walsh	Right tackle	Cloud-Neville
Harrison	Right end	Van Raalte
Klein-Smith	Quarterback	Strous
Chalfont	Left halfback	Antrum
Swingley	Fullback	Glazer
Dawson-Morrison	Right halfback	Hendricks

Referee—Krause (Washington). Umpire—Rickey (Michigan). Head linesman—Powell (St. Louis). Length of periods—10 minutes.

WOODWARD OF DENVER TO BE MADE GOLF HEAD

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Frank L. Woodward of the Denver Country Club for president heads the ticket of the nominating committee of the Western Golf Association. There is no opposition. The nominated officers will be elected at the annual meeting which will be held here Jan. 17.

Mr. Woodward has served two years as vice-president and four years on the directorate of the governing body of the association.

Other nominations are: For vice-president, Bruce D. Smith, Onwentsia Club, Chicago; for secretary, R. R. Stone, Glenview, Chicago; for treasurer, C. C. Paddleford, Homewood, Chicago; for directors, Horace F. Smith, president Southern Golf Association; Aldo Avery, president Michigan Golf Association; George R. Balch, president Ohio Golf Association; R. A. Gardner, Hinsdale, Chicago.

Iowa Swamps Indiana.

IOWA CITY, Io., Nov. 8.—Iowa outspeeded Indiana today, overwhelming the Hoosiers 60—0. A spread play, the plunging of McGinnis, wide end runs by Parsons, halfback, who twice swept 50 yards for a touchdown, and the wriggling of Quarterback Gross appeared to daze Indiana. Iowa used many substitutes in the second half, alternating with regulars.

BOSS OF PLAYERS' UNION WILL HEAD FEDERAL LEAGUE

Man High Up in "Outlaw" Circles Says Fultz Has Accepted Terms.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 8.—"Dave" Fultz, president of the Player's Baseball Fraternity, for the presidency of the Federal League! And that is exactly how the baseball situation in the outlaw circuit stands today.

This information comes direct from one of the leading magnates of the Federal League—a man whose word cannot be doubted inasmuch as he has been one of the bulwarks of the younger organization since it was first organized.

Said he today:

"At the meeting of the Federal League in Indianapolis, a week ago, after a long discussion over the relative merits of different men, whom we had in view for the presidency of the Federal League, we finally decided on Fultz. This decision we arrived at unknown to him and entirely unsolicited on his part.

"Before leaving Indianapolis we communicated by wire with Fultz and made known the decision of the league officials at the same time asking him to name his terms.

Fultz agreed to take the Presidency of the league if he were elected for three years, his salary to be $7000 the first year, $8000 the second year and $9000 the third year.

"These figures being perfectly satisfactory to the Federal League officials, we have forwarded to him a contract made out according to his terms."

From the same authority it was learned today that the following players have signed contracts to play with the outlaw league during the season of 1914: Schulte, Zimmerman, Tommy Leach and Bresnahan of the Chicago Nationals; Lobert and Knabe of the Philadelphia Nationals; Sallee of the St. Louis Cardinals; Jack Miller of the Pirates; McKechnie, formerly of the New York Americans; Hoblitzell and several other stars in the major leagues, whose names are for the present kept secret.

Effort Will Be Made to Play Tiger-Kansas Game in Kansas City in 1914

At a meeting of the Board of Curators of the Missouri State University at the Planters Hotel yesterday, it was decided that an effort will be made to have the Missouri Valley Conference officials permit the holding of the annual football game between Missouri and Kansas University at Kansas City.

Because no meeting of the Conference will be held prior to the 1913 game, which is scheduled at Columbia, Mo., it was agreed that at the next conference meeting at Lincoln, Neb., January 15, the matter will be taken up. The Curators who attended the meeting were Curtis B. Rollins of Columbia, Charles E. Yeater of Sedalia, Dr. [illegible] of Rolla, Samuel Sparrow of Kansas City and Judge Nortoni and D. R. Francis of St. Louis.

YALE BEATS HARVARD IN CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

WILLYS ACQUIRES NEW EDWARDS-KNIGHT CAR

John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Co., of Toledo, and head of several other concerns prominent in the automobile industry, has purchased the plant and all license rights, stock and equipment of the Edwards-Knight Motor Car Co. of Hartford, Conn.

When the Edwards-Knight motor car was announced several months ago, automobile experts declared it one of the most up-to-date product in the American market. The car is built along the most modern lines approved by the automobile world, having the Knight sleeve-valve motor, worm drive, four-speed transmission, Lanchester spring suspension, wire wheels and many other important mechanical features

Mr. Willys has announced his intention of building the new cars, which will be known as the Garford-Knight, in the big and modernly equipped plant at Elyria, O.

H. J. Edwards, designer of the Edwards-Knight car, will go to the Elyria plant as chief engineer, directing the production.

THE LOZIER 1914 MODELS

In addition to the new four-cylinder car which marks the entry of the Lozier company into the popular-priced field, a new series of light six is being introduced with many advanced features of construction.

Probably the most significant feature of the Lozier design as shown by the 1914 models is the tendency toward reduction of weight in all models. When the 1913 light six was brought out it was 500 pounds lighter than any car the Lozier company had hitherto produced. This year a further reduction of 300 pounds in the car's weight has been obtained without subtracting in any way from its strength or power.

Equipment carrying greater conveniences for the man who drives his own car is specially featured. On the new Lozier six a one-man top is furnished which can be operated by a single person seated in the tonneau. The windshield furnished the support, formerly supplied by a set of bows fastened to the front seat.

Motorists, who for years have been compelled to pump tires by hand when touring through the country will look with favor on the automatic tire pump with which the Lozier six is equipped.

Mechanical improvements on the Lozier six power plant are in the nature of refinements tending toward greater ease and silence of operation, including left drive and center control. Cloth timing gears in place of the old steel-against-steel type insure an absolutely silent-running motor. Valves are inclosed but are accessible through hand plates, which can be removed in a few seconds. The six-cylinder motor with a bore of 3⅞ inches and stroke of 5½ inches shows 62-horsepower on brake test. Motor and transmission are assembled as a unit. Lubrication is by the Lozier system of individual troughs under each connecting rod, with force feed for crank shaft bearings.

MOON FACTORY BUSY

The Moon light six, according to Stewart McDonald, vice-president and general manager of the Moon Motor Co., is going fine, and Saturday seven carloads were shipped to various Eastern points.

"This promises to be the biggest year in our history," said McDonald, "and for the past three months our books show an increase of over 100 per cent over the same months last year.

"We have added many new departments of manufacturing and we are now making all of our front and rear axles.

"This week we installed an axle-testing machine, and it is in charge of a skilled mechanic who listens to each axle as it runs, and no axle that has the slightest noise is passed.

"Our initial order for Delco starters was 1800, and it will not be enough. We are finishing our own bodies, and our finishing department has been working overtime all this month, the factory being a blaze of light every night until midnight, and our force is double the size of that of last year.

"We have been so rushed with out-of-town dealers that we have been forced to install a restaurant on the third floor. Here we serve meals for the officers and heads of departments, and our salesmen can entertain our dealers right here at the plant.

"Last week we delivered four light sixes to the following St. Louisans: H. S. Benjamin, Westminster place; G. H. Hoffman, Westminster place; H. K. Luddington, Washington terrace, and W. D. Hewingway, Kingsbury place."

ACCESSORY DEALERS TO ELECT 15 NEW MEMBERS

The November meeting of the Motor Accessory Trades Association of St. Louis will be held at Caffarata's, Delmar and Hamilton avenues, next Wednesday evening. An attractive dinner will be followed by the business session at which a number of matters of unusual importance will be discussed.

The association has had a large increase in its membership and fifteen more firms are to be elected at the Wednesday night meeting. President John F. Shuford will bring up for discussion an important phase of the credit bureau's operations. That bureau has listed 800 names of poor pay automobile owners in St. Louis whose names are supplied to the bureau by the 91 members, so that listing is prima facie evidence that they do not pay promptly or at all.

NEW HUDSON ANNOUNCED

Monday morning will find the Hudson-Phillips Motor Car Co., distributor of the Hudson, occupying their new building at 2315 Locust street, although the formal opening will not take place until the week of Nov. 17. This is one of the most modern buildings to be erected on auto row and it possesses many unusual ideas.

One feature which has never been built into any building is a number of flues, one every eight feet, on both sides of the building. These flues run above the roof and are so placed that the exhaust pipes of the motor cars can be attached, and all the poisonous gas fumes carried out into the air, thus giving the workmen of the service department pure air at all times.

The building is 55x155 feet, and fronts on Locust, with an entrance also on St. Charles.

This concern has been representing the Hudson four years and this is the third time they have sought larger quarters, this time their capacity being trebled.

The salesroom will occupy the frontage on Locust street, and is 55 feet deep, with offices of the company on the west side. The ceilings are high and the floor is tile. The entire second floor will be devoted to the parts and service department, while the first floor rear will be used for minor adjustments of used cars.

ELECTRIFIED MOTOR CYCLE

An "electrified" motor cycle is the newest wrinkle. It is the new Indian, which includes in its equipment an electric starter, electric lights, electric signal. It also has a rear-drive speedometer.

The Indian starter is a powerful, multipolar type motor, generator, neat and compact, mounted on the left side of the engine, and connected with it so that in case of stalling the motor, the throwing of the switch will instantly start it. It operates at 500 revolutions per minute, insuring quick firing. The 1914 Indian line consists of seven solo models, a side car and a quick delivery van. They are handled in St. Louis by the Hurck Motor and Cycle Co.

Eczema Is Only Skin Deep

Proven by D. D. D.

A few skin troubles originate in the blood. But very few. Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of Health and a famous writer on medical subjects, says:

"We shall begin to make headway with skin disease when we learn two things: first that skin disease does not come from impure blood; second, that so-called blood purifiers have no such action."

Get busy, then, and clear up your skin. Stop that itching and burning.

Drive out those pimples.

Make up your mind to start now and give yourself a smooth, velvet complexion.

You can do it with the aid of the wonderful D. D. D. Prescription—a cooling, refreshing lotion—not a salve or grease—it soothes your tender skin, opens the pores, drives out the old impurities and gives you a skin like a baby, smooth and clear.

All druggists have D. D. D. We sell it on a positive no-pay guarantee.

OLDS, BUICK, HUDSON TRADE LOCATIONS

A three-cornered move has been arranged between three of the important automobile concerns of St. Louis, which will begin Monday. The Hudson-Phillips Motor Car Co. has vacated its building at 1045 N. Grand avenue, opposite the Odeon, to go into its new location on Locust street.

The Oldsmobile Co. of Missouri has taken over the four-year lease and will begin to move into the Hudson-Phillips building Monday morning.

As soon as the Oldsmobile location at 3205 Locust street is vacant the Buick Motor Co. branch house, now at Twelfth and Locust streets, will move in.

The Olds Motor Works of Lansing has maintained the Oldsmobile Co. as a branch house with C. Gratiot Cabanne as manager. Under the new deal Cabanne takes over the business and becomes general agent for St. Louis and territory for the Oldsmobile on his own account.

E. ST. L. MOTOR CYCLE RUN

The East St. Louis Motorcycle Club, last Sunday, staged an endurance run to Springfield, Ill., and return, a total distance of 227 miles.

Seven riders started the contest, which was won by George Jackson on a Yale, a Thor taking second prize. The roads all along the way were reported in wretched condition.

TROPHY TO CADILLAC

Cable advices received at Detroit announce that the 1914 Cadillac has been awarded the Dewar trophy by the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain. This trophy, presented by Sir Thomas Dewar, is awarded annually to the motor car demonstrating the greatest achievement toward the advancement of the industry. This is the second victory for the Cadillac in the classic contest of international motordom, the winning of which any motor car manufacturer in the world would consider to be his supreme achievement. The Cadillac is the only car in the world that has won this trophy twice; and the only American car that has ever come out triumphant in any of these contests.

Buy No Winter Tire

Until You See This Goodyear Innovation
This Anti-Skid with Plain-Tread Smoothness
This Thick, Tough, Sharp, Enduring

All-Weather Tread

Here is a tire which you can see excels all other anti-skids.

It gives you on dry roads all the advantage—all the smoothness, all the economy—of the plain-tread tire.

On wet roads—soft or solid—it gives an almost resistless grip.

The tread is double-thick. It is made of extra-tough rubber, toughened by a secret process.

The grips are deep and enduring. They last for thousands of miles, and never all wear off.

The edges are sharp, and they stay sharp. And these edges, set at 45 degrees, face the skidding direction.

The surfaces are broad and flat, giving plain-tread smoothness. The blocks are in alignment, following the tire's direction. So there is no vibration as with scattered projections.

Then the blocks widen out so they meet at the base. Thus every strain is spread over the fabric the same as with smooth-tread tires.

That's immensely important. Separate projections center the strains at little points in the fabric, causing a short-lived tire.

Make a moment's comparison, and for all wheels at all seasons you are bound to adopt these treads. There are eight vital advantages which you will find in no other anti-skid.

ALL-WEATHER

GOODYEAR
AKRON, OHIO
No-Rim-Cut Tires
With All-Weather Treads

Even last summer, All-Weather treads outsold our plain treads with users.

In winter these treads are essential. They should go on every wheel. Nothing of the kind has been made to compare with them. You can see that at a glance.

Eight Others Cost More

There are eight anti-skids which cost more than All-Weathers, despite all our advantages. The reason is, each comes on a tire which has a much smaller output. Then mark the fact that All-Weather treads come on No-Rim-Cut tires, the most popular tires in the world.

These are the tires that can't rim-cut.

These are the tires which are final cured on air, at an extra cost of $1,500 daily. This is done to save countless blow-outs.

And these are the only tires in which hundreds of large rubber rivets are formed to prevent tread separation.

You get all these exclusive features when you get No-Rim-Cut tires. They combat the three greatest tire troubles.

They save so much that these tires for years have held the topmost place in Tiredom. And no man who knows them can fail to adopt them. Come let us prove this to you.

REO MODEL J, TRUCK
Capacity Two Tons, $1650, f. o. b. Lansing. Body extra.

You Can Now Buy This Big Two-Ton Reo Motor Truck for $150 Less

The price of the Reo Model J Truck, chassis only, two-ton capacity, has been reduced

From $1800 to $1650 Effective at Once

Body Extra.

The fact that we have taken $150 off the price of this tried and proven truck will come as a welcome surprise to the many business men who have been considering and had nearly decided to purchase this efficient model.

The public has not demanded this reduction in price. Our dealers did not ask it — they did not even know it in advance. It is not a movement directed at competition, for already Reo Model J Truck was lower in price than any other two-ton truck in the market—54 competing trucks of equal capacity average in price $2701.

We have made this unlooked-for reduction for two reasons:

FIRST: It is a primary principle of Reo policy to give the user the benefit of every saving effected by our large quantity production. As the demand for the Reo Model J Truck increased, we have been able to reduce costs to a point impossible with a smaller organization, no matter how efficient. This reduction has been possible without in the least sacrificing quality of product, or our own modest percentage of profit. Therefore we feel that the buying public, whose support has made this reduction possible, are the logical ones to profit by it.

SECOND: The lowered price will undoubtedly double the demand for Reo Motor Trucks during the coming year. Business men who have been hesitating about modernizing their business with motor trucks will wait no longer. We still continue, as heretofore, to lead the entire field in quantity production of motor trucks of this capacity.

Reo Motor Truck Company, Manufacturers
Lansing, Michigan.

The Dawn of a Better Business Day

Modern business gets its profits out of what it saves. Even small economies amount to big annual dividends. If we can show you how to cut delivery costs with the Reo Motor Truck, we have shown you how to increase your profits.

When the Truck Comes in, the Horse Goes Out

In many towns, nearly all the delivery work is done by Reo Trucks. Every truck we sell becomes a working example of delivery efficiency and economy to other merchants. When the business man gets to thinking of what it costs to keep a horse in feed, shoes and stable care, and then stops to consider that the horse returns for this care only about forty hours of uncertain labor work each week, the Reo Truck his neighbor is running begins to look like the real solution of the problem.

Compare with horses the efficiency of the big sturdy Reo Model J Truck. It will easily carry a load that would be hard pulling for a strong team of horses. It will work 24 hours a day, if necessary, and be ready in fifteen minutes for another 24 hours' work. When it is not at work, its upkeep costs nothing. Instead of half an hour's disagreeable stable care, your driver need give his car only a few minutes' care, and this he really enjoys.

Every Reo Truck Is a Money Maker for Its Owner

We will not willingly sell a Reo Truck to any man unless we are reasonably sure it will make money for him. When conditions are right for the use of a motor truck, we know that the Reo Truck will meet these conditions as no other truck of equal capacity can.

Reo efficiency is tried, tested and proven. Read, for example, the following record of a single day's performance of a Reo Model J 2-ton Truck owned by the Schramm Grocery Co., Flat River, Mo.:

"Five round trips in one day to four outlying towns, average load, 4096 lbs. Total mileage, 62. Gasoline consumed, 8 gallons. On these roads twenty miles with a two-ton load would be a long day's work for a team of horses."

8 gals. gasoline at 20c	$1.60
Tire Cost, 60 mil. at 2c	1.20
Driver's wages, one day	2.50
Depreciation at $650 per year	2.00
Repairs and overhauling at $150 yr.	.50
Interest on investment	.35
Fire Insurance	.15
Oil and Grease	.40
Total daily expense	$8.70

Thus, this truck did the work of three teams, which, with wagons and harness, would cost $2,100. The daily cost was only $8.70, while three teams would cost for drivers alone $7.50.

A Simple Way to Judge Truck Values

Perhaps you are sufficiently versed in technical values to judge of the unusual importance of the many exclusive features that Reo experience and organization have enabled us to put into this wonderful truck.

The impregnable armored frame, the Reo sectional radiator, with its 24 independent, interchangeable units, the left side drive and center control, the Reo hydraulic speed governor, the famous Reo motor cushioned against vibration and road shocks, to mention but a few points of obvious superiority

But if you are not technically versed in motor car construction, here is a simple statement of business fact:

The average price of 54 competing trucks is $2701, a clear saving of over $1000 in favor of the Reo. What does our competitor offer you that is worth that extra $1000?

Let Us Talk "Truck" Together

As a business man, you want more facts on this important subject. We have them ready for you. The day you investigate the Reo Motor Truck will mean the dawn of a better business day for you.

OUTDOOR LIFE OF MISS HUNTINGTON ATTRACTED ASTOR

Young Multimillionaire Was Litle Appealed to by Social Aims of Other Debutantes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Announcement of the engament of Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington to Vincent Astor were received by their relatives and society friends in this city today. Their betrothal came as a surprise to some, but many had expected it for months. The young couple had been seen with Miss Huntington's mother, Mrs. Robert P. Huntington, in public on many occasions.

Miss Huntington had been a favorite of Mrs. John Astor for years, and it was known that her outdoor inclinations appealed to young Astor much more than the social ambitions of several debutantes who had been mentioned as receiving attentions from him.

Astor and Miss Huntington lunched at the St. Regis Friday with her mother, and the party departed for Staatsburg late in the afternoon. Mrs. John Astor went to Rhinebeck on Friday also.

Lived in Colonial Estate.

Miss Huntington is better known in Tuxedo and Newport than in this city. But she has spent most of her time in Staatsburg. There her great-grandfather, the late William B. Dinsmore, president of the Adams Express Co., made his home, which is still known as the Locusts. It is one of the few estates that remain of the many grants of land by British sovereigns to the settlers.

Miss Huntington's mother, the daughter of the former Miss Adams, married Robert P. Huntington, and their home, Hopeland House, is Staatsburg, adjoins Ferncliffe, Astor's estate at Rhinebeck. Miss Huntington has a 13-year-old brother, Robert P. Huntington Jr., and a sister, Alice Ford Huntington, who is 16. Miss Huntington is 20 and Astor 22.

Debutante of Two Years.

Miss Huntington made her debut in New York society two years ago. She was one of the bridemaids at the Steele-Milburn wedding a week ago yesterday. From girlhood she has shown a marked preference for country life to that of the city and has lived much out of doors. She is an enthusiastic horsewoman and an expert at tennis, having been prominent in many of the matches at Tuxedo.

She is tall, with light brown hair and blue eyes. Her friends describe her as a practical young woman, without fads or foolish social notions.

GIRLS TAKE MAN INTO CLUB WHO KNEW SECRET

Guessed Meaning of "O. V. B." and Is Now Regular Member of East St. Louis Order.

Because he guessed their secret, Walter C. Goodall, manager of East St. Louis branch of the Bankers' Accident Association of Illinois, was elected a member of the O. V. B., a girls' club, connected with the East St. Louis Y. W. C. A. For one year the girls have kept as a secret the significance of the letters that form their name and which they wear on a ribbon armlet of green at their weekly meetings.

Goodall was invited to dine with the club Friday evening. He promised to keep the secret. He and his wife, who was made an honorary member of the club, were invited to attend the first birthday party and annual banquet of the club next Friday evening.

The girls have a club bank account. They expect to eat breakfast Thanksgiving day at the club camp on the bluffs in what by that time will probably be the village of Signal Hill. Before then one of their members, Miss Elsie Meyer, will become a bride. She will be married to W. Aikens, Nov. 26. This will be the third marriage in the club this year. The other brides were Misses Maymie Francis and Kate Mulligan.

WOMEN STUDY SUFFRAGE

Collinsville Club Has Special Program for Meeting.

Suffrage will be discussed by the women of Collinsville at the next meeting of their Study Club, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Stucker, Helen place, Tuesday, Nov. 18. The recent granting of suffrage to women by the State of Illinois and the convention of equal suffragists at Peoria last week, have increased interest in the subjects chosen: "The Effect of Suffrage Upon Woman's Relations to the Home," Mrs. Walter Clark; "Condition of Suffrage in Other Countries," Mrs. Charles R. Oatman; "What Suffrage Has Accomplished in This Country," Mrs. Henry Schoettle; "Do Women's Colleges Turn Out Suffragists?" Mrs. Charles H. Dorris; "How Has Education in England Influenced the Women There?" Miss Cleda Greene; "Current Events," Mrs. J. W. Fulenwider. Miss Mabel Holding will sing and Miss Hazel Bullock will play a piano solo.

The president of the club is Mrs. Bertha Combs, who is also chairman of the Program Committee of the Twenty-Second District Federation of Women's Clubs, which will meet in Collinsville in May. Mrs. Frank Stucker, secretary of the club, is chairman of the Credentials Committee for that convention. Miss Cleda Greene is in charge of the music and Miss Mabel Holding will attend to the transportation of the delegates.

BOY HUNTER SHOT IN LEG

Man Stumbles and Gun Is Discharged, Wounding Youth.

Howard Tague, 14 years old, was shot in the left leg by his companion, John Lucash Jr., while hunting rabbits near Belleville. Tague was trying to frighten rabbits out of a pile of brush, so Lucash could shoot them.

Lucash was walking around the brush pile when he stumbled and accidentally discharged the shotgun. Most of the shot struck the Tague boy in the leg.

Miss Brolaski Closes Engagement at Nugents.

Miss Belle Brolaski closed last night her engagement as special demonstrator of Ladies' Home Journal Patterns at B. Nugent & Bro. D. G. Co. Miss Brolaski was formerly a St. Louis girl and has lately been engaged as a fashion writer in New York City. Her acquisition by the Pattern Company, publishers of the Criterion and the Ladies' Home Journal Patterns, was welcomed by the hundreds of agents throughout the

ILLINOIS WOMEN TO MEET

East St. Louis Club Delegates Depart Tomorrow.

East St. Louis clubwomen will depart tomorrow to attend the meeting of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs at Evanston. They will be joined by delegates from Greenville and Alton, both of which are in the Twenty-second District.

Mrs. L. C. Haynes, 701 Pennsylvania avenue, East St. Louis, will depart Sunday evening to attend sessions of the State Board, of which she is a member. Mrs. C. M. Horner will represent the Wednesday Club, Mrs. T. G. Landers and Mrs. W. J. Nichols the Ladies' Literary Circle, Mrs. R. L. Murphy and Mrs. Willis Smith the Bay View Club, Mrs. Louis Boismenue, Mrs. Ella H. Oebike and Mrs. R. J. Boylan the East St. Louis Woman's Club. The meeting will continue until Friday

Funeral of Patrick Kerrigan.

The funeral of Patrick Kerrigan, former night superintendent of the Eads Bridge, who died Saturday, will take place Monday morning from the residence, 430 North Eighth street, to Mount Carmel Cemetery. Services will be held at St. Patrick's Church.

Kerrigan was Chief of the East St. Louis Police Department in the 80's. Three daughters survive him, Mrs. Mary Hays, Sister Immaculata of the Ursuline Convent in Springfield, and Mrs. Agnes Dodge of New York.

TEACHERS UNCERTAIN AS TO WANTING PENSIONS

Illinois Law Requires Monthly Payments and 25-Year Service Before Benefit Is Paid.

St. Clair County school teachers do not know whether they want to take advantage of a Teachers' Pension act passed by the last Legislature. At the closing session of the Teachers' Institute in Belleville Friday afternoon, a special committee was named to look into the provisions of the law and report at a meeting later. The new law provides that teachers who expect to come under the provision of this law shall contribute so much each month, and after having taught 25 years they will be eligible for a pension not to exceed $400 a year.

The institute also passed resolutions commending vocational training, medical examination of children, and the standarization of schools. Superintendent Hough said the "institute was the best ever held in St. Clair County." In the last three days of the session there was an average daily attendance of 600.

WOMAN FAINTS IN COURT

Her Suit Against Executor Has to Be Postponed.

Just as a jury in the Circuit Court at Belleville was being called to try a lawsuit of Mrs. Mary Morgan against Adam J. Kraft, Mrs. Morgan fainted in the courtroom. She was carried in an unconscious condition by relatives to an anteroom where Dr. George Hilgard revived her. The physician said Mrs. Morgan would not be able to proceed with the case and the trial was continued until next term of court.

Mrs. Morgan is suing to recover $3800 which she says Kraft, an executor of her father, George Hentzel's estate, owes her. Kraft says he has paid the money.

The Marshall & Wendell pianos and player-pianos for this co-operative sale were personally selected at the factory by Mr. P. E. Conroy, our President, and upon arrival are being tested and inspected by Mr. Charles Galloway, for years Conductor Apollo and Morning Choral Clubs.

Time's up—Tomorrow, Monday evening, at 9 o'clock, the sale ends

Copyright, 1913, by Martin McCarrick, Inc.

Any order for a piano or player-piano, accompanied by the initial payment of Five dollars, and placed before the close of business Monday night, will be filled and delivered immediately upon its arrival. Your money back if you are not satisfied.

SALES MAY come and sales may go—but we doubt if any piano sale has ever been the success of this. Pianos are things you do not buy every day. You buy one in your lifetime; maybe two. Pianos represent a considerable investment. You can furnish a whole house very comfortably for the price of a single piano. So, when we tell you that there were days during this sale when we could not wait on our customers, you can then appreciate the stupendous "go" to this sale.

It was the plan that did it.

It was co-operation; we co-operating with the manufacturers direct; the customer co-operating in turn with us.

The prices were low; extremely low.

The terms were easy. Anyone could meet them.

And the guarantee (which we called our Bond of Confidence), and the half dozen or more unusual conditions of sale made, altogether, the most liberal proposition upon which any goods were ever sold.

And the public saw this—and simply "flocked" in to take advantage of it.

The sale is closing two weeks earlier than we expected—and even now we have been obliged to provide for more instruments than it was our original intention to sell.

THE SALE is not closing without everyone having a fair opportunity to take advantage of it. If we had restricted the sale strictly to the number originally arranged for—the sale would now be a matter of history.

We decided upon a definite closing day, which is Monday.

Thus any order received for one of the pianos or one of the player-pianos up to Monday at the close of business will be filled.

These orders will be numbered as they are received and filled and delivered in the order received.

Those who can call may select the style they wish from the instruments on our floors, which are sold but not delivered.

Those who cannot visit our warerooms can order easily and intelligently from our Book of Photographs, which we will gladly mail, if request is made immediately.

The initial payment of Five dollars must accompany all orders whether left at the store or sent in by mail. All orders will be accepted and filled subject to all conditions of sale—even to the delivery of the instrument into your home upon the first payment of Five dollars and giving you your money back at the end of 30 days' trial if you wish it.

Also all orders will be held subject to delivery at any time convenient to you.

MARSHALL & WENDELL PIANOS have been made since 1853—there are 65,500 of these famous instruments in American homes—hundreds of them are in use in the homes of St. Louis families. We have scores of testimonials of St. Louis owners of Marshall & Wendell pianos and player-pianos, every one of these people tell you over their own signatures that the tone, touch, durability and lasting qualities of the Marshall & Wendell piano is unsurpassed. It is the famous Marshall & Wendell pianos and players that we are offering on the co-operative plan.

The value of the piano is $350. The Co-operation price is $248.75. The value of the player-piano is $550. The Co-operation price is $395.

Either the piano or player-piano will be delivered upon receipt of the initial payment of $5. If you order a piano, your payments will be $1.25 a week—no more. If you order a player-piano your payments will be $2 a week—no more.

No interest on above prices.

POWERFUL NARCOTIC IS SPRINKLED BY BURGLARS

Thirty-Eight Persons Remain Asleep Long After Robbers Go—Several Seriously Ill.

FARRELL, Pa., Nov. 8.—Scientific burglars visited this place last night and as a result 38 persons today were suffering from a powerful narcotic which was sprinkled over the floors. Several are still under the care of physicians. It is thought the drug was squirted through the keyholes.

In one house a small vial containing a white powder was found. After the powder had done its work the burglars went about their business in a business-like manner.

The robberies were not discovered until late this morning, when a number of persons were not at their places of business at the usual time. Occupants of the homes which were robbed were found still sleeping. When awakened they complained of a peculiar feeling and the finding of the white powder followed.

Even a small hall room for the boy or young man who must practice economy while he is learning is to be found through the want columns.

DEMOCRATS CALL DECISIVE MEETING ON CURRENCY BILL

Conference for Wednesday Ordered After Senator Swanson Has Talk With President.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Twenty-five Democratic Senators whose patience had been exhausted by Senators Reed, O'Gorman and Hitchcock helping the Republicans to delay action on the administration currency bill, today signed a call for a conference of Democrats next Wednesday for the purpose of helping President Wilson get early action on the bill.

Senator Swanson had been circulating the petition for several days. This afternoon, when it became evident that Senator Hitchcock would not return to the party fold and cast his votes with the Democrats, Swanson conferred with President Wilson and upon returning to the Capitol from the White House announced that the situation had reached a crisis. It is presumed that the President advised him that there was no use in further temporizing.

During the last two days Reed and O'Gorman returned to the party lines, but Hitchcock refused to budge. His colleagues sought to change his position this afternoon, without effect. When it became known that the conference was to be called, Democratic members of the committee made a last effort to bring some of the Republicans over to take the place of Hitchcock. Finally the Republicans were notified that the Democrats would give them until Monday morning to help get the bill out as a nonpartisan measure by voting for an increased number of banks.

Just as soon as the word had been received that the White House did not propose to temporize any further, the Democratic members of the committee held a little executive session in the office of Senator Hollis. An attempt was made to iron out their differences in secret.

Senator Hitchcock would not change his position. The Nebraskan is weakening, but proposes to stand out against the President and the committee. He will compromise when the bill gets on the floor of the Senate and he will not vote against his party when a final test is made.

MARGARET HUBBARD AYER IS MARRIED SECRETLY

Newspaper Woman Becomes Bride of Chief Editorial Writer of New York World.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Nov. 8.—When record of the marriage was made here this afternoon it became known that Frank Irving Cobb of the editorial staff of the New York World and Margaret Hubbard Ayer, a special writer, were married here on Oct. 2, by Judge John Keogh. Secrecy was maintained in connection with the ceremony and the blank was not returned until the last legal day. Cobb has a farm in Wilton, near this place.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Frank Irving Cobb of the New York World, is one of the best known newspaper men in New York. He is 44 years old and a native of Kansas. He is a graduate of the Michigan State Normal School, and before coming to New York was an editorial writer on the Detroit Evening News, and subsequently on the Detroit Free Press. He has been an editorial writer on the World since 1904. His present wife is his second, the first Mrs. Cobb having been Miss Delia S. Bailey, to whom he was married in 1897.

Miss Ayer, to whom Cobb was married more than a month ago, has herself been a New York newspaper woman for years. She is a daughter of the late Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer. This is also Miss Ayer's second marriage.

RUSSIAN GENERAL DIES; SUICIDE OR PLOT HINTED

Mystery of Death of Admiral Chagin Recalled by Tragedy of Palace Commander.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—The National Zeitung's correspondent at Yalta in the Crimea telegraphs that reports are circulating there that the death today of Lieutant-General Vladimir A. Dedulin, commander of the imperial palace at Peterhof, did not occur from natural causes. According to the rumors, the commander's demise was the result of suicide or a plot.

The correspondent recalls the mystery of the death of Rear Admiral Chagin, late commander of the imperial yacht Standart, who at the time was said to have committed suicide owing to his impression that he was responsible for the illness of the Russian Crown Prince.

WOULD TEACH PURITY

Training School Proposed at International Congress.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn, Nov. 8.—A training school in which the principles of purity may be taught, is a proposition advanced at the International Purity Congress here today.

A plan for the school, including its scope, location and financing, is being considered by a committee composed of Prof. T. S. Shannon, Frederickstown, Md.; Fred Gernertz, Louisville, Ky.; the Rev. W. H. Blanch, Davenport, Io.; and Dr. T. Albert Moore, Toronto. The committee will report to the congress next week.

TWO-THIRDS VOTE MAY NOW CALL METAL STRIKE

Unions Adopt Resolution Whereby No Men May Return to Work Unless All Do.

SEATTLE, Wash, Nov. 8.—The metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor today adopted a resolution proposed by the delegates of the Machinists' Union that strikes may be called on a vote of 75 per cent of the International Unions, or two-thirds of the members involved, by 1213 to 1096 votes.

J. F. Valentine of the Molders' Union, chairman of the Laws Committee of the department led the fight in favor of individual action. The resolution provides that no single union can reach an agreement and send its men back to work until all of the unions involved have secured a settlement.

The machinists were supported in their fight for united action by the blacksmiths, metal polishers, stove mounters and sheet metal workers, with split delegations of the boilermakers and stationary engineers.

The molders were aided by the pattern makers and plumbers.

"The passing of this amendment to the laws department means united action," said William H. Johnston, president of the machinists. "It will mean that one union cannot remain at work when the others go out on strike."

Physician Tells How to Grow Hair

A Well-Known Physician and Newspaper Correspondent Tells How to Promote the Growth of the Hair.

A well-known physician who has made a careful study of the hair recently made the following statement: "It is comparatively easy to stop the hair from falling out, promote its growth and banish dandruff by the following simple recipe, which can be made at home: To 7 oz. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. of bay rum and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply it to the scalp with the finger tips two or three times per week. It not only is excellent as a scalp and hair tonic but it darkens faded, streaked, gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. I use it myself and have no hesitancy in recommending it to my patients. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost."—ADV,

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, the bowels and the liver with Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the successful substitute for calomel—there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

POWERFUL NARCOTIC IS SPRINKLED BY BURGLARS

Thirty-Eight Persons Remain Asleep Long After Robbers Go—Several Seriously Ill.

FARRELL, Pa., Nov. 8.—Scientific burglars visited this place last night and as a result 38 persons today were suffering from a powerful narcotic which was sprinkled over the floors. Several are still under the care of physicians. It is thought the drug was squirted through the keyholes.

In one house a small vial containing a white powder was found. After the powder had done its work the burglars went about their business in a businesslike manner.

The robberies were not discovered until late this morning, when a number of persons were not at their places of business at the usual time. Occupants of the homes which were robbed were found still sleeping. When awakened they complained of a peculiar feeling and the finding of the white powder followed.

Even a small hall room for the boy or young man who must practice economy while he is learning is to be found through the want columns.

DEMOCRATS CALL DECISIVE MEETING ON CURRENCY BILL

Conference for Wednesday Ordered After Senator Swanson Has Talk With President.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Twenty-five Democratic Senators whose patience had been exhausted by Senators Reed, O'Gorman and Hitchcock helping the Republicans to delay action on the administration currency bill, today signed a call for a conference of Democrats next Wednesday for the purpose of helping President Wilson get early action on the bill.

Senator Swanson had been circulating the petition for several days. This afternoon, when it became evident that Senator Hitchcock would not return to the party fold and cast his votes with the Democrats, Swanson conferred with President Wilson and upon returning to the Capitol from the White House announced that the situation had reached a crisis. It is presumed that the President advised him that there was no use in further temporizing.

During the last two days Reed and O'Gorman returned to the party lines, but Hitchcock refused to budge. His colleagues sought to change his position this afternoon, without effect. When it became known that the conference was to be called, Democratic members of the committee made a last effort to bring some of the Republicans over to take the place of Hitchcock. Finally the Republicans were notified that the Democrats would give them until Monday morning to help get the bill out as a nonpartisan measure by voting for an increased number of banks.

Just as soon as the word had been received that the White House did not propose to temporize any further, the Democratic members of the committee held a little executive session in the office of Senator Hollis. An attempt was made to iron out their differences in secret.

Senator Hitchcock would not change his position. The Nebraskan is weakening, but proposes to stand out against the President and the committee. He will compromise when the bill gets on the floor of the Senate and he will not vote against his party when a final test is made.

MARGARET HUBBARD AYER IS MARRIED SECRETLY

Newspaper Woman Becomes Bride of Chief Editorial Writer of New York World.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Nov. 8.—When record of the marriage was made here this afternoon it became known that Frank Irving Cobb of the editorial staff of the New York World and Margaret Hubbard Ayer, a special writer, were married here on Oct. 2, by Judge John Keogh. Secrecy was maintained in connection with the ceremony and the blank was not returned until the last legal day. Cobb has a farm in Wilton, near this place.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Frank Irving Cobb of the New York World, is one of the best known newspaper men in New York. He is 44 years old and a native of Kansas. He is a graduate of the Michigan State Normal School, and before coming to New York was an editorial writer on the Detroit Evening News, and subsequently on the Detroit Free Press. He has been an editorial writer on the World since 1904. His present wife is his second, the first Mrs. Cobb having been Miss Delia S. Bailey, to whom he was married in 1897.

Miss Ayer, to whom Cobb was married more than a month ago, has herself been a New York newspaper woman for years. She is a daughter of the late Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer. This is also Miss Ayer's second marriage.

RUSSIAN GENERAL DIES; SUICIDE OR PLOT HINTED

Mystery of Death of Admiral Chagin Recalled by Tragedy of Palace Commander.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—The National Zeitung's correspondent at Yalta in the Crimea telegraphs that reports are circulating there that the death today of Lieutant-General Vladimir A. Dedulin, commander of the imperial palace at Peterhof, did not occur from natural causes. According to the rumors, the commander's demise was the result of suicide or a plot.

The correspondent recalls the mystery of the death of Rear Admiral Chagin, late commander of the imperial yacht Standart, who at the time was said to have committed suicide owing to his impression that he was responsible for the illness of the Russian Crown Prince.

TWO-THIRDS VOTE MAY NOW CALL METAL STRIKE

Unions Adopt Resolution Whereby No Men May Return to Work Unless All Do.

SEATTLE, Wash, Nov. 8.—The metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor today adopted a resolution proposed by the delegates of the Machinists' Union that strikes may be called on a vote of 75 per cent of the International Unions, or two-thirds of the members involved, by 1213 to 1096 votes.

J. F. Valentine of the Molders' Union, chairman of the Laws Committee of the department led the fight in favor of individual action. The resolution provides that no single union can reach an agreement and send its men back to work until all of the unions involved have secured a settlement.

The machinists were supported in their fight for united action by the blacksmiths, metal polishers, stove mounters and sheet metal workers, with split delegations of the boilermakers and stationary engineers.

The molders were aided by the pattern makers and plumbers.

"The passing of this amendment to the laws department means united action," said William H. Johnston, president of the machinists. "It will mean that one union cannot remain at work when the others go out on strike."

GARMENT STRIKERS CAMPAIGN AGAINST NONUNION GOODS

Speakers to Take Stump in Missouri and Illinois to Prevent Sale of Products.

S. S. Brill, president of the Garment Manufacturers' Association, told a Post-Dispatch reporter last night that the manufacturers would take no notice of the report of the Citizens' Committee which, after investigating conditions which led up to the strike in 35 factories with 1100 employes in St. Louis, recommended that a settlement be attempted by arbitration.

I. S. Feit and Miss Josephine Casey, strike leaders, said the strikers were willing to follow the recommendations of the Citizens' Committee and arbitrate their differences with their employers, as the Citizens' Committee report finds they have been ready to do since the commencement of the strike, Aug. 12.

But anticipating that the employers would not abide by the decision of the Citizens' Committee the strike leaders have been forming plans for extending their fight and will begin to put these plans into execution at once. Mrs. Sarah Spraggon, vice-president of the Missouri Federation of Labor and president of the Woman's Trade Union League, will start tomorrow on a speaking tour through Missouri. Miss Casey will invade Illinois and speak in all the important cities and towns of that State.

Hope to Stop Sale of Goods.

By these State campaigns the striking garment workers hope to stop the sale in Missouri and Illinois, they say, of the products turned out by the factories against which the strike is in force.

President Brill of the manufacturers said that his association was not worried by any pinas the strikers may have or by the report of the Citizens' Committee. Brill said he had read the Citizens' Committee report, but that he would not discuss it.

"Our policy is silence," said Brill. "Discussion serves no purpose but to put courage into the strikers who otherwise would return to work. I will discuss it with anyone who is interested if he wants to come to my office and learn how we treat our employes. But the minute anyone says "union" to me I take my hat and leave. Why, if there was a union and we wanted to work a half hour on Saturday afternoon we would have to get the permission of the union."

J. Lionberger Davis was chairman of the Citizens' Committee which reported in favor of arbitration for settling the strike. The other members of the committee were State Senator Michael Kinney, A. L. Shapleigh, president of the Business Men's League, and Mrs. Harry C. January. Shapleigh did not sign the report. He gave as his reason, "Having heard only one side presented in the controversy, I do not wish to sign any report."

Manufacturers Ignore Committee.

Only one side, the strikers', was heard by the Citizens' Committee because the manufacturers ignored the committee's written and verbal requests to send representatives to the sessions of the committee.

Among other things the committee found that the existence of the garment making industry in St. Louis was threatened by the labor controversy; some manufacturers have moved to other cities and many workers have gone elsewhere.

The committee found that wages paid to workers here were not on a definite scale and in some instances they were lower than in other cities, particularly New York. The committee also found a subcontracting system under which workers were not employed directly by manufacturers but by foremen who made contracts with the workers, causing dissatisfaction and inequalities in wages paid.

Organization Recommended.

The committee recommended that each side be more perfectly organized so that agreements could be reached and enforced.

"Working conditions should be such that tuberculosis will not be bred in the factories and prevention against fire hazards should be provided before another Triangle fire teaches us that the lives of our fellow citizens have paid the price of ignorance and neglect," the committee reported. "We are satisfied if St. Louis is to keep this industry it must be regulated on terms of equity and justice by and for the parties to this present strike and for the community at large."

The committee did not investigate complaints of the strikers of abuse of their power by the police, but referred the question to President McPheeters of the Police Board, who said the police would try to protect the rights of both strikers and manufacturers.

PROCLAMATION BY MAJOR

Governor Calls for Observance of Thanksgiving Day.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 8.—In accordance with a general proclamation issued by the President of the United States, Gov. Major today issued a proclamation setting apart Thursday, Nov. 27, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer and a general suspension of labor.

The Governor, in his proclamation, points to the progress in the improvement of State highways and the advancement in education in the past year as things for which to be thankful. Every department of religious, social and industrial life has enjoyed an exceptional degree of progress, says the Governor.

$85 PENITENTIARY GUARD WORTH $10,000 OR MORE

Man, Whose Wife Gets $5000 Alimony, Made Money in Real Estate.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 8.—J. W. Grisham, former penitentiary guard, whose wife obtained a divorce and $5000 alimony at Fulton, owns property in Jefferson City worth over $10,000 and is said to have considerable money besides.

Grisham recently was let out by Warden D. C. McClung. He was appointed as a Democrat from Cooper County 16 years ago when the salary of a guard was only $55 a month. Guards now are paid $85 a month. When the average penitentiary guard, who has contributed to campaigns, retires, he hardly ever has more than enough to buy his railroad ticket home. Grisham made his money by carefully investing his savings in Jefferson City real estate, which has trebled in value in a few years.

Room renting is simply a matter of telling the persons who desire rooms through Post-Dispatch Wants—where vacancies are sought.

Electrically Equipped!

Two-Sixty Standard. The greatest motorcycle value ever achieved. 7 H.P. Twin—Equipped with Electric Head Light—Electric Tail Light—Electric Signal—Two Sets of Storage Batteries—Corbin-Brown Rear-Drive Speedometer. Price, $260.00. See Catalog for detailed description.

Examine the New Indian Features

Thirty-eight Betterments for 1914—Electrically Equipped—Establishing a New Standard in Motorcyle Values

FOR the season of 1914 we will produce 60,000 brand new red machines—a production that no other manufacturer has ever before dreamed of, much less dared to attempt. This 60,000 means much aside from mere numerical preponderance.

It means economy gained by tremendous output. It means 11½ acres of factory facilities—exclusive quality-producing and cost-cutting machinery—efficient sales-organization which has reduced distributing cost to a minimum.

1914 Indians will be sold on a basis that must completely overturn all contemporary ideas of motorcycle worth!

Indian MOTOCYCLES FOR 1914

The 1914 Indian has been improved at 38 points — Indian manufacturing ability has seen to it that none of the extra cost of this advancement has been put upon its host of riders.

Only the engineering staff which conceived and executed the motorcycle sensation of 1913 — the Cradle Spring Frame — could add to that triumph in 1914 a practical, reliable electric system for motorcycle use which has its final and perfected form in the 1914 Indian.

All standard Indian models for 1914 come equipped with electric head light, electric tail light, two sets storage batteries, electric signal and Corbin-Brown rear drive speedometer.

This equipment is the product of manufacturers of highest repute and has been adopted by our Engineering Department only after exhaustive test.

Yet the Indian does not address you altogether on the strength of its improvements and extra equipment.

Of much greater consequence is its total character, its integrity of every part, its broad service operating through 2,500 Service Stations. Of far weightier import is its worth as a complete whole.

To get a full realization of the 1914 Indian you must make a thorough study of it. An examination of it will profit all motorcycle-interested men.

The 1914 line of Indian Motocycles consists of:

4 H.P. Single Service Model	$200.00
7 H.P. Twin Two-Twenty-Five, Regular Model	225.00
7 H.P. Twin Two-Sixty, Standard Model	260.00
7 H.P. Twin Light Roadster Model	260.00
7 H.P. Twin Two Speed, Regular Model	275.00
7 H.P. Twin Two Speed, Tourist Standard Model	300.00
7 H.P. Twin Hendee Special Model with Electric Starter	325.00

BEST METHOD OF PACKING EGGS FOR HATCHING

Little Danger Accompanies Shipping if They Are Properly Handled and Packed.

Within the next few months thousands of eggs will be shipped for hatching. In order to hatch well and produce good, strong chicks and ducklings, they must be from vigorous, mature fowls, which have been fed a ration intended to produce fertile eggs. Good rations of this character should be given to the breeding pens at all times in order to get good hatchable eggs that will stand shipping.

Eggs for hatching should not be kept over two weeks. In cold weather they should be gathered at frequent intervals to prevent chilling. Even more dangerous than chilling is leaving them in the nests under the hens that have become broody and then taking them out to save for hatching. The fresher they are when incubation begins, the stronger the chicks and ducklings will be.

When eggs are to be kept for several days they should be kept in a room where the temperature will not go below 40 degrees or above 60 degrees. They should be turned once a day and kept covered with a woolen cloth to protect them from sudden drafts and consequent evaporation. Unless eggs are very much soiled it is better not to wash them, and on no account should they be wiped, as that closes the pores.

In selecting eggs, choose those that are of uniform and medium size and shape. As a rule, extra long eggs, round eggs or those having imperfections in the shell do not hatch well. Chicks that hatch from them usually die. If any live they are constitutionally weak and therefore worthless.

There are various kinds of shipping packages and different ways of packing. It is best to pack them in excelsior and ship in light baskets. This requires more but the eggs are less likely to break. Baskets known as quarter bushel, half bushel and bushel sizes are used. The small ones are used for one or two settings of hen eggs or one setting of duck eggs, the medium size for from 50 to 30 eggs and the bushel size for from 100 to 125 eggs. The baskets first are lined with paper, then a layer of excelsior on the bottom and allowed to extend up the sides two or three inches. Take a whisp of excelsior, give it a twist and a turn, shaping it like a bird's nest. Lay the egg into the hollow thus formed, pull the excelsior up over it and wrap the bundle in a piece of paper not too stiff. Pack closely in rows until the bottom of the basket is filled.

If there are to be more layers, place at least one inch of excelsior over the first layer and proceed as before, keeping the sides of the basket lined with excelsior.

When all the eggs are packed, cover with enough excelsior to make the basket rounding at the top after the muslin or burlap is sewed on. They should be labeled "Eggs for Hatching" and tags used for name and address. In the use of baskets with upright handles there is less danger of them being damaged in transportation, it being impossible to pile other packages on them. When eggs are packed as described it is seldom that any are reported cracked or broken.

It is advisable to ship eggs early in the week, so they will reach their destination before Sunday. In many cases they are held in an express office, which is too hot or too cold, and are ruined for hatching. Eggs should be unpacked as soon as they are received by the purchaser and allowed to rest 24 hours in a cool place before putting them in an incubator or under a hen.

Some Peculiarities in Breeding Chickens

Color and Egg Laying Tendencies Transmitted by Well Established Laws.

There are certain charcteristics in all pure-bred varieties of poultry which the fancier desires to eliminate and others which he desires to perpetuate and extend. A considerable number of characteristics have been found to behave differently in the two sexes.

One of the most striking cases of this kind is the barring of the feathers in the barred Plymouth Rocks. If a barred Plymouth Rock male be crossed with a brown Leghorn hen, all of the progeny will be barred like the Plymouth Rocks. But if a barred Plymouth Rock female be mated with a brown Leghorn male, the results are quite different. All of the male offspring will be barred, while the female offspring will be black. The female barred Rock transmits the black color to both the male and female offspring and this black covers the brown Leghorn color; but the barred Rock female transmits the barring only to her male offspring.

The same is true of the high egg-laying capacity in fowls. If a male is pure bred with reference to high egg laying capacity, then he will transmit high egg-laying quality to all his offspring, both male and female. The egg-laying capacity of the male is judged by his female offspring. But a female of high egg-laying quality transmits this capacity only to her male offspring. It follows that a female can inherit high egg-laying capacity only from her sire, while a male may inherit this character either from his sire or his dam, or both.

This shows that in order to develop a strain of fowls having the high egg-laying capacity more attention must be given to the males used than to the females.

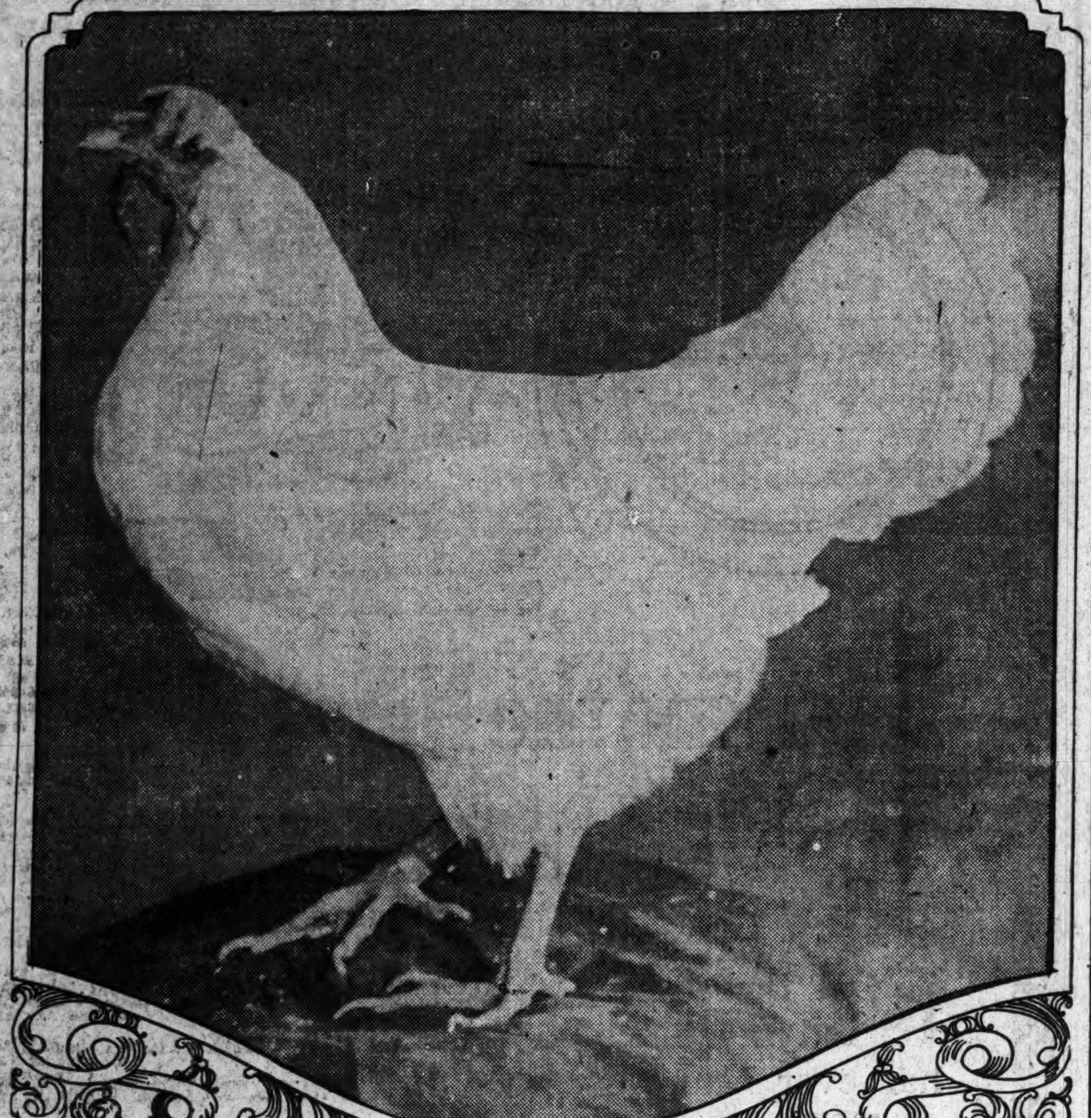
A daughter of a hen with high egg-laying capacity is of no value as a breeder unless this daughter has inherited a high egg-laying capacity from her sire. It is well known that most of our new varieties of poultry, as well as some, if not all, of the older breeds, have been crossed and the application of Mendel's laws have enabled us to understand them better and to explain how the improvements have been made.

A knowledge of Mendelism should enable breeders to extend the excellence already attained, which is of more importance than a knowledge of the way to create new varieties. The more knowledge the breeder has of the history of his particular breed the easier he will recognize the constantly recurring atavistic signs of their previous history and be enabled to combat these tendencies by corrective mating.

When making ready the houses for fall and winter layers, do not neglect the runs. Dress the land with air-slaked lime or with wood ashes, and plow or spade deeply, stirring the soil well. Then sow rye, so that there will be abundant fresh, green growth when the birds are housed for the fall.

The truth concerning the proper methods of rearing and caring for poultry are as important one year as another and they cannot be told too often. Only by constant repetition do we learn a thing thoroughly.

Leading Hen in National Egg Race



This White Leghorn hen, a member of the English pen, is the individual leader in the National Egg-laying Contest at Mountain Grove, Mo. Her record for 11½ months is 258 eggs. The 16 hens in the pen have laid 2070 eggs.

POULTRY PROBLEMS SOLVED.

Room Required.

I want to keep about 30 hens and my shed is 7 feet wide and 10 feet long. Will this be room enough?—G. L. S., St. Louis.

A house of the size you describe is not large enough for 30 hens. It is poor economy to crowd chickens, as lack of space causes disease and cuts down the egg production. Not more than 15 birds should be kept in a house of the size you describe.

Nests.

How often should nesting material be renewed to keep it free from vermin?—Mrs. A. F. W., St. Louis.

It should be renewed once a month. Every two months the nest should be cleaned and thoroughly disinfected.

Scratching Shed.

I have a dozen hens that I am keeping for eggs. Some of them have started to lay and I am told that if I make a scratching shed for the winter they will lay better. What size should this shed be for this number of hens?—R. L. G., St. Louis.

A shed 12x6 feet will accommodate your birds. Face it to the south and leave the front open with wire netting across it to keep the birds in. The shed should stand on the bare earth and the floor covered with straw into which the grain should be scattered. Getting this grain will provide the birds with exercise.

Silver Campines.

Will you please let me know where I can get some improved English silver campines? What they will cost?—J. E. C. Sapulpa, Ok.

See answer to Mrs. R. R. P.

Dislocating the Neck.

In killing poultry for market in Canada I understand it should be done by dislocating the neck instead of using a knife. Can you explain the dislocating method?—A. F. E., Cape Girardeau, Mo.

With the left hand hold the chicken's legs and wings in one firm grasp. Place the first finger of the right hand on the right side of the neck, and the remaining fingers on the left side. Grasp the head in the hollow of the hand with the fork of the fingers behind the head where it joins the neck. The back of the chicken should be upwards. Hold the legs against the left hip and the head near the right knee. Bend the head backwards as far as possible and at the same time stretch the neck. It should be dislocated immediately. Pull the head about one and a half inches from the neck. Hold the wings firmly after killing and allow the head to hang down so that the blood can collect in the neck. The head remains attached to the body by the skin. This method of killing is simple and clean, and is preferred by many poultry raisers.

Roup.

Will you kindly tell me what is the matter with my chickens—they have a slimy substance in their mouths and droop around and will not eat.—Ed. W., St. Louis.

Your chickens have the roup, which is caused by cold and draft. Make their quarters comfortable, clean up and disinfect your house and give them any of the advertised roup remedies as directed.

Sunflower Seed.

Please tell me how much and how often to feed sunflower seed to 30 chickens. Does it assist them in moulting? Also if it is good to put them on growing rye when it is wet with dew or rain? Miss D. L., St. Charles, Mo.

Sunflower seed should be fed mixed with other grain (one part of sunflower seed to 10 parts of other grain) for the evening meal three times a week. It is considered one of the best feather-growing feeds and will assist the birds in getting through the moult. Growing rye makes the best range. If your birds are more than 2 months old and fully feathered, the dew or rain will not hurt them except on cold, raw days.

Gluten Meal.

What is gluten meal, and where can it be obtained? B. M. L., Knobel, Ark.

Gluten meal is a foodstuff that is a by-product of the manufacture of starch from corn. It is good to use in mash feed for chickens and can be obtained from any dealer in feeds.

Black Minorcas.

Will you please advise me where I can get some white-faced black Spanish eggs to hatch? Also some black minorca eggs? Mrs. R. R. P., Tulsa, Ok.

Cannot recommend you to any particular breeder; would suggest that you write to any of the advertisers on this page.

Cull your flocks as the chickens grow. When you note a particularly promising specimen that is full of life and vigor and growing all the time, leg-band it and note how it develops. You ought to know your best breeders from chickhood to maturity. It pays.

POULTRY PRIZES PICKED TO PLEASE FEMININE FANCY

More Than 5000 Chicken Entries Received for Washington Avenue Exhibit.

Entries for the St. Louis Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association show which will be held Thanksgiving week, at 1015-19 Washington avenue, have come in so fast that the officers dispensed with the regular meeting last week to give the time to the classification of the candidates for the $3500 worth of prizes. Space has been asked for 5000 chickens, 2000 pigeons, 200 turkeys, 150 geese and ducks and 100 birds and pheasants.

The last entries mentioned will give novelty to the show. Most of the birds are canaries and finches and their music will be a contrast to the cackling and the quacking of the fowls. One exhibitor will show his finches in a cage large enough for the birds to fly about and display the beauty of their plumage. Pheasants, guineas and peafowls will make part of the show look like a millinery shop.

A space 80x51 feet has been set apart for the State poultry exhibit. Secretary T. E. Quisenberry of the State Poultry Board has arranged to show mechanical devices of interest to chicken raisers.

Careful attention has been given to the selection of prizes that will not be paid in cash. The officers of the organization know that many of the exhibitors raise chickens as they go to church—their wives do the active part, and acting on this knowledge, vacuum cleaners, women's umbrellas, game carvers and other articles sure to please women have been given a prominent place in the list of prizes.

The poultry supply houses of St. Louis have been invited to keep open house at the St. Louis poultry show and space will be assigned to them without charge. Director Joseph J. Blase has been appointed chairman of the Reception Committee for the folk who care to feed chickens from the egg to the ax.

In the midst of their work the managers of the show have taken time to laugh at the entry applicant who said he wanted to enter with the "Jay Show," thinking he might be sure of at least a square deal from men with so many "J's" in their names. All of the main officers, Dr. Jules Baron, J. C. Garrell, J. H. Sentenne, James J. Long, and three of the directors, J. C. Garrell, J. H. Richts and Joseph J. Blase, have at least a "J" each. W. A. Kappey and August Wedekind are the officers without a "J."

The judging at the show will be under the rules of the American Poultry Association and will be by comparison. In the awards on sweepstake prizes and ornamental fowls all judges will concur.

When chickens start feather-pulling, toe-picking and other cannibalism, get them out on a good big green range and keep them busy. Crowding and close confinement combined with heavy graining are apt to lead to the development of bad habits.

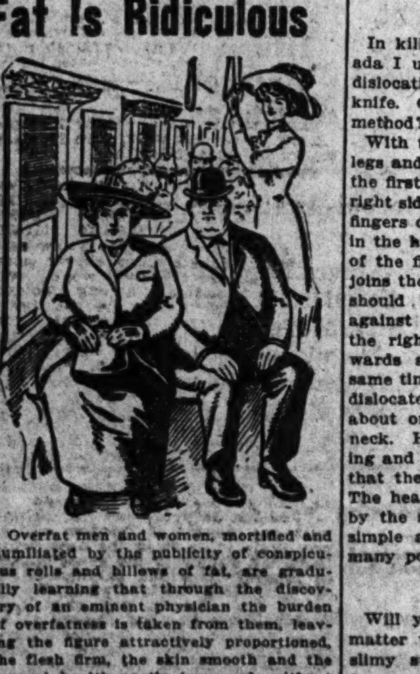
Lean-to board shelters and "pup tents" of old canvas are useful at this season to provide shade and shelter in the open fields. They make a cool retreat from the hot sun and a good place to seek protection from sudden showers and thunder gusts.

Always make the nest boxes easily removable, so that they may be frequently taken out of the house and cleaned, disinfected and treated for the destruction of vermin.

If it is desired to improve any kind of stock, it is well to secure a male of first-class blood and place him in the yard with the females. His impression may be seen the first year.

The chick on good range will eat great quantities of fresh greens and large numbers of bugs and worms, but comparatively small amounts of grain. Does this suggest anything to you concerning the ration you are now feeding?

Fat Is Ridiculous



Overfat men and women, mortified and humiliated by the publicity of conspicuous rolls and billows of fat, are gradually learning that through the discovery of an eminent physician the burden of overfatness is taken from them, leaving the figure attractively proportioned, the flesh firm, the skin smooth and the general health vastly improved, without dieting, exercise or resulting wrinkles or flabbiness. There is no equal and no substitute for the famous Marmola Prescription, but there is a new and more convenient form—a tablet form of this safe fat remover. Marmola Prescription Tablets contain the same harmless, effective ingredients as the original prescription that has enabled so many thousands of uncomfortable men and women to reduce their weight evenly and steadily at the rate of a pound or more a day. An exceptionally large case of these Marmola Prescription Tablets is sold by all druggists at 75c or sent you direct by the Marmola Co., Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., on receipt of price.—ADV.

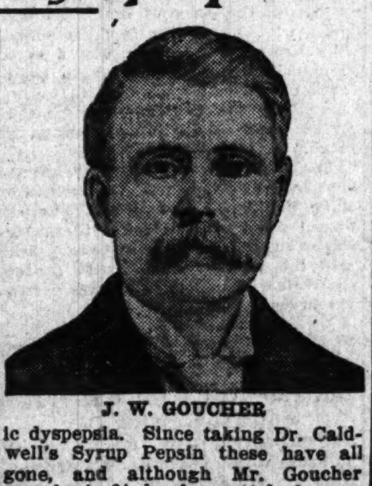
Eats Freely But Does Not Have Dyspepsia

A Little Pepsin in a Mild Laxative Promptly Corrected a Bad Indigestion.

Fortunate is the one who can eat "anything" without suffering the tortures of dyspepsia, but as few are so fortunate, care should be taken in the matter of diet. Eating slowly, masticating the food thoroughly and taking a short walk after the heavy meal of the day will do much towards assisting digestion. Any grown-up person ought to know the peculiar foods that do not agree, and these should be avoided.

When these common-sense aids fail, the next thing to do is to take a mild digestive tonic with laxative properties, and there is none better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains the greatest of all aids to digestion, good pepsin. It has other ingredients that act mildly on the bowels, which together form a combination for the relief of dyspepsia or indigestion that is unsurpassed.

Its action is to tone and strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that they can again do their work naturally without outside aid, and when that happy moment comes all medicine can be dispensed with. It is the best remedy obtainable for any disorder of the stomach, liver and bowels, for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headaches, drowsiness after eating, gas on the stomach, etc. Thousands of users will testify to this, among them Mr. J. W. Goucher, Stites, Idaho, who for several years had all the worst symptoms of chronic dyspepsia. Since taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin these have all gone, and although Mr. Goucher says he is 64, he does not look more than 40.



J. W. GOUCHER

Syrup Pepsin is sure in its results, and a vast improvement over chewing or swallowing tablets and mints, or taking cathartics, salts, etc., all of which are harsh and nauseous and at best do but temporary good You can obtain Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

KIEV JUDGE DENIES JUDAISM IS ON TRIAL

He Interrupts Defense Lawyer's Speech in Ritual Murder Case.

KIEV, Nov. 8.—The case of Mendel Beiliss, the Jew charged with ritual murder in connection with the death of Andrew Yushinsky, the Christian boy, who, in March, 1911, was found dead in a cave near Kiev, is expected to be decided tomorrow.

In his address today, M. Grusenberg for the defense said the Jewish religion was on trial.

The President of the Court interceded: "Neither the Jewish religion nor books are on trial. It is a question of fanatical acts."

M. Grusenberg replied: "Then three days have been wasted analyzing the Hebrew religious teachings."

In conclusion he said he was convinced of the absolute innocence of Beiliss.

The Government has addressed a circular to every Governor in Western and Southern Russia announcing that each will be held personally responsible for order in his respective province following the verdict.

Already there has been bloodshed in Vilna Nodz, chiefly due to children who were accidentally lost, causing an attack upon Jews.

BOY WHO HURT WOMAN AND HIS EMPLOYER SUED

Western Union Company's Lawyers Plead Plaintiff Must Choose One Defendant.

Whether the Western Union Telegraph Co. is jointly liable with one of its messenger boys for injuries inflicted by the latter when he accidentally knocked down Mrs. Leonora M. Phillips of 3815 Utah place, is involved in damage suits filed by Mrs. Phillips and her husband, Gustave W. Phillips. The woman is suing for $30,000 damages and her husband for $7500, the latter suit being based on the loss of the wife's society and services.

The accident to Mrs. Phillips occurred Dec. 28, last, at Grand avenue and Olive street, when she and her husband were waiting for an eastbound Olive car. The messenger boy, it is alleged, carelessly ran into Mrs. Phillips and knocked her down. The petition sets forth she remained in St. Anthony's Hospital for six months and that she was operated on twice on account of broken bones.

Man Who Saved 87 Lives Dead.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Eighty-seven persons had been saved from drowning by William Adams, swimming instructor at Gorleston, who has just died. He was nicknamed "The Human Fish."

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH'S REVIEW OF MARKET CONDITIONS

STOCKS DRIFT LOWER ON THE UNCERTAIN MONETARY AND POLITICAL OUTLOOK

Prices Are About One to Two Points Down on the Week.

LONDON IS A SELLER

Foreign Market Is Considerably Upset Over Mexican Conditions.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial weekly review today, says:

"It is a familiar comment of the day that a cloud of gloom and pessimism has enveloped all the great money markets of the world, and the prevailing inference is that all of them are in the same box, and that the box is an extremely uncomfortable one.

"But this conception of the position of affairs will not bear close examination. There are certain underlying influences which affect all financial communities, but even that is largely because of the influence of some markets upon others.

"The particular distresses which emphasize Europe's troubles are not present in this country in any similar measure; but we feel them here, because we are cut off from the usual access to Europe's resources of capital.

"In America there is absolutely nothing of the apprehension of the early autumn of 1907, for instance, that our large financial interests are caught in a trap.

Money Market Is Easy.

"We are, in fact, already well past the time of year when the cord of credit had absolutely snapped on that occasion, and no one is talking of a crisis.

"The situation has quite as little resemblance to the autumn of 1906, when Wall street gasped with dismay at the intimation that European lenders, to whom we were indebted for prodigious lines of credit, were shutting their doors to the New York borrowers.

"On both of those occasions the machinery of American finance was seriously out of gear; everything was over-exploited; we had used up our own capital and had run to the limit of our command of Europe's capital resources.

"We were the danger point of the whole uncomfortable situation, and nobody knew it better than ourselves.

"Thanks to the retrenchment of the past few years, the prudent finance, the proper utilization of the bounties of nature and the suppressing of extravagant speculation, we are not in an intrinsically weak position today, but in a position intrinsically very strong.

"London does not threaten to refuse us credit, which (as in 1906) we might use in drawing on the Bank of England's gold; it sends us gold to which it admits we are entitled as a matter of commercial settlement, but urges us not to insist upon our rights.

"Paris has not been taking our new securities up to the hilt; it has been taking our gold in unprecedented quantities, on a basis which makes the French market our debtor on the economic balance sheet.

"That Germany is getting on her feet financially is largely due, by her own admission, to the large advances of capital which our market made to her in 1911 and 1912. This is scarcely a situation which can be described as a show of weakness on our part.

Foreign Outlook Clouded.

"But it is equally true that we cannot wholly disentangle ourselves from the embarrassments of Europe, and the European situation is certainly difficult to read.

"How much of the gloom and apprehension which appears in all foreign comments on the foreign situation is a matter of mood and sentiment and how much the result of something radically wrong with European finance one hesitates to say.

"It is at least extraordinary—unprecedented is not too strong a word—that Lombard street should be talking of a 6 per cent bank rate when the Bank of England holds a gold reserve, but once exceeded at this time of the year, and a rate of reserve to liabilities abnormally high for November.

"Such things give a sense of unreality to the situation; whose embarrassments, nevertheless, are extremely real.

"What we know of the tangible factors in that foreign situation, is that capital was in exceptionally active use up to the middle of 1912; that Paris has been lending with rather rash profusion to all the rest of the world; that Berlin and Vienna had been speculating extravagantly in stocks and land; that the Balkan War came like a thunderbolt into that vulnerable position; that ever since the continental public has been sitting on its money, equally distressing banks, governments and investment securities, and that, in the very face of this, the continental governments have embarked on a career of unexampled extravagance in tax requisitions and money market borrowings.

"These are the patent facts; they would of themselves go far to explain the present abnormal condition of Europe's money markets. Exactly what is to be the sequel, is mere guesswork.

Markets of the Past.

"It used to be an accepted maxim that Europe had to go through an economic crisis once every 10 years or so. One of them came with the Paris crash of 1881; another in the Baring trouble of 1890; a third in the 'Boer War panic' of 1899.

"It was not much more than a decade from then to 1912 and 1913.

"Nowadays, crises of this sort (except in the United States) are much more apt to be marked by a prolonged and exacting strain, followed by slow recovery, than by the sharp and sudden credit collapse of earlier years.

"When this is so, the gloom is apt to be deepest just before the horizon brightens.

"It is another fact of economic history of these European crises do not coincide chronologically with our own.

"Perhaps that is because one section of the world equips its 'booms' with the capital released by the liquidation of another.

"Stocks closed the week 1 to 2 points lower than the finals of last Saturday. Yesterday's market was the weakest of the week."

MEXICAN NEWS CHECKS TRADING IN LONDON

Credit Currency in Southern Country Is Not Liked by Bankers.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Our markets are seriously expecting such a thing as war between the United States and Mexico, but the mystery surrounding the relations between the two governments and the knowledge that, if war were to come, it would mean that your markets would take gold largely from Europe puts our markets, so to speak, on the defensive.

Moreover, the recourse of Mexico to a forced currency, which is now confirmed, has had a bad effect.

The Times is now discussing the possibility that Mexico may proclaim a "moratorium" of its debts. If that were to occur it would give an unpleasant jar.

If it were possible to eliminate the possessions of Paris, Brazil and Mexico and the endless pressure of applications for new capital, a slight improvement in conditions would be generally admitted.

Even the indications of a further slackening in trade may bring greater monetary ease later on. But the "if" is a big one.

The trouble with Paris is the prolonged deferment of huge capital creations, with consequent nervousness concerning the success of the first of its flotations.

Bank Reserves Are Fair.

French banks have been advising clients to sell old stocks in order to take up the new issues and this partly explains the depression on the bourse. Hence the immediate outlook at Paris depends on the success attending the first large offering.

Under the circumstances our bank's gold holdings and banking reserves are still regarded as only moderately strong. The relatively high reserve ratio is largely explained by the great reduction in Government deposits at the bank, which are now £3,000,000 below 1912, and £2,600,000 less than a month ago.

The bank is strongly endeavoring to avoid a 6 per cent rate, which, however, is still possible. It is contended that your demands on us for gold will, in the aggregate, be small, but it is nevertheless noticeable that gold goes out at the barest profit on exchange.

The situation, taken as a whole, is little changed from last week and each day that passes without trouble improves the position. Still, the margin for accidents is small.

The defensive attitude adopted by all interests here is a good sign in itself; nevertheless, one solid fact is clear—namely, that although securities generally are at the lowest price on record, neither the public nor high financial circles are acquiring stocks and apparently similar conditions exist with you.

There is a growing sentiment of concern over your legislators' attitude toward banking reform. This is due largely to the feeling that hasty adoption of sweeping provisions might bring trouble.

A West Australian loan for a million sterling is just announced and other large capital issues are impending.

Bank Reserves Show a Gain of $10,668,050.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week (five days) shows that they hold $10,551,000 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $10,668,050 from last week.

Actual condition: Loans $1,902,040,000, decrease $33,657,000; specie $324,812,000, increase $4,376,000; legal tenders $76,115,000, decrease $457,000; net deposits $1,729,738,000, decrease $30,787,000; circulation $44,882,000, decrease $90,000; banks' cash reserve in vaults $337,452,000, trust companies' cash reserve in vault $63,475,000, aggregate cash reserve $400,927,000; excess lawful reserve $10,551,000, increase $10,668,050; trust companies' reserve with clearing house members carrying 25 per cent cash reserve $45,866,000.

Summary of State banks and trust companies in Greater New York not included in clearing house statement: Loans $556,885,300, increase $1,287,000; specie $61,251,700, decrease $409,300; legal tenders $8,079,100, increase $246,600; total deposits $609,795,400, decrease $258,800.

CROP ESTIMATES PARAMOUNT IN COTTON MARKET

Prices Are Being Made on Supply and Demand Prospects for the Season.

Cotton Ginned to Nov. 1 Was 8,835,913 Bales.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The fourth cotton ginning report of the season, compiled from reports of Census Bureau correspondents and agents throughout the cotton belt, and issued at 10 a. m. today, announced that 8,835,913 bales of cotton, counting round as half bales, of the growth of 1912, had been ginned prior to Nov. 1. To that date last year 8,869,222 bales, or 65.8 per cent of the entire crop, had been ginned; in 1911 to that date 9,970,905, or 64.1 per cent of the crop had been ginned; in 1908 to that date 8,191,557 bales, or 62.6 per cent of the crop had been ginned, and in 1906 to that date 6,906,395 bales, or 53.2 per cent of the crop had been ginned.

Included in the total ginnings were 61,820 round bales, compared with 54,539 bales last year, 68,313 bales in 1911, 81,183 bales in 1910 and 109,621 bales in 1909.

The number of Sea Island cotton bales included was 42,769, compared with 28,887 bales last year, 56,563 bales in 1911, 40,504 bales in 1910 and 55,237 bales in 1909.

The cotton market seems to have reached a level of prices where there is room for considerable discussion as to its future course folowing yesterday's drop of $2 per bale on the ginning report, the crop estimates from private sources are at wide variance. In some cases these estimates are so extreem as to lead to the belief that they are entirely prejudiced. One prominent estimater, who has been extremely high in his ideas as expressed in figures, says that he found conditions in Arkansas the best in five years. This is directly contrary to what nearly every other estimator has thought, the most optimistic of them claiming no more than last season for that state.

Probably the market is altogether dependent on supply and demand in the making of prices, a highly satisfactory condition of affairs, and one who leads needs be careful in making calculations of future supply and of future prices.

What Ginning Will Mean.

This year the ginning will compare with 8,849,898 last year, and 9,970,905 in 1911, 7,345,953 in 1910 and 7,017,349 in 1909. Last year in the period from Oct. 18 to Nov. 1 Texas ginned, in round figures, 480,000 bales, Oklahoma 200,000 and Georgia 319,000. The extremes of comparison probably will be seen in the returns from these three states. Last season Texas made a very large crop, the largest on record, 4,888,623 running bales; Oklahoma made 1,057,125 bales, a crop second only to the large crop of 1911; Georgia made a small crop, 1,888,963 bales, but very little larger than the crop of 1910. This season, according to popular estimate, these conditions are reversed—Georgia will make a crop nearly, if not quite, as large as the record crop, while Oklahoma and Texas are expected to make very small crops. It is likely that the total will not be very enlightening but the ginning by states should be highly interesting.

In comparing this with last season, in making estimates of cotton yet to be ginned, the unusually early frost should not be forgotten.

In the spot markets west of the Mississippi the conditions seem very much mixed. The unusually large proportion of very low cotton makes quotations difficult because much of this cotton is too low to grade. From low middling down the color is so bad and, in many instances, the staple is so poor that the cotton will have to be sold on actual samples. The result will be a long drawn out season with this low cotton hanging over the market most of the season while the beter grades command an unsatisfactorily high premium.

Eastern Crop Normal.

East of the Mississippi the crop is a normal one, if anything better in grade than usual, and a normal condition exists except that competition is rather keen on account of Western buyers entering the Eastern markets. Prices are slightly lower, but generally steady.

Sterling and other exchange has declined to an uncomfortably low level for shippers of cotton and this has further added to their difficulties in making ends meet in their transactions with Europe, which are confined entirely to the better grades. American spiners are rather inclined to be finical in their purchases. The situation in the yarn market is favorable to steady buying by spinners, however, as they are not overstocked with either cotton or yarns. An unusual condition is said to exist in the yarn markets. Dealers are selling spot yarns cheaper than are the spinners. This condition is supposed to be the result of purchases made on a much lower basis and dealers are realizing profits without regard to their ability to replace. On the other hand, spinners, knowing that only a limited supply can be disposed of on this basis, show no inclination to lower their spot prices because their stocks are small and they have as much as they can do to keep abreast of their orders.

Business in all lines is satisfactory except for export and a dullness just now in that branch may be laid to the ebb and flow of trade.

CATTLE PRICES UP AND DOWN ON LIGHT RECEIPTS

Early Week Advance Is Almost Wiped Out by Small Demand for Beef Stock.

Receipts National Stock Yards.

	This Week	Last Week	Year Ago
Cattle	27,500	35,047	29,333
Hogs	42,500	44,561	29,427
Sheep	20,000	17,821	14,259
Horses and Mules	4,750	4,682	1,035

While receipts of cattle the past week lacked a great deal of being as heavy as they were the preceding period, yet there was little improvement to the general trade, excepting during the fore part of the week. It seemed all during the week that the market was convalescing very slowly from the serious condition it was in two weeks ago. There was a liberal supply of beef steers on hand at all stages of the week, but prime beeves were a rarity, less than half a dozen loads being received. Prices advanced 25@40c the first two days of the week, but the advance was cut down to 10@15c by a late week slump. The week's top was $9 and bulk cleared at $8@8.90. The clearance each day was late and the market was slow at all times.

Trade in heifers showed very little improvement over the previous week. The supply was of good proportions and there were a few prime heifers on sale each day. Market showed signs of strength during the early stages of the week, but toward the close killers eased up and what advance was made early was lost. Steers and heifers on the yearling order sold as high as $9.10 but bulk of the heifers cleared in a range of $5.75@$8.

Cow Trade Irregular.

The cow market was spotted during the week. Some sellers called it a steady trade while others reported losses. Advances of 15@25c moved the big end of the cows early in the week but late prices broke 10@15c, cutting the week's advance to a dime at the outside. A few beef cows sold up to $7.25, bulk going at $4.75@6.

Bulls fluctuated slightly during the week but at the close there was very little change compared with the previous week.

Vealers were generally steady throughout the period, although some of the prime kinds sold a quarter higher, with a top of $10.50.

Stockers and feeders were on a very slow and draggy basis throughout the week, as there was a very light inquiry for them from country sources. Market was barely steady during the early part of the week, and toward the close losses of 25@40c moved the bulk of the showing.

Receipts in the quarantine division were only moderate in volume. There was a fair showing of steers from Oklahoma, although bulk of the receipts came from canner territory. There was a good demand for what steers were offered, although there was very little change in prices, some steers going at strong figures while others were only steady. Most of the steers moved in a range of $5.85@6.40.

Practically the entire showing of cattle from canner territory moved along a steady basis with the previous week, although some of the better grades of fleshy she-stock were a shade higher.

Hogs Lowest Since January.

Only a fairly good number of hogs was received, but the market was on the decline most of the week and prices reached the lowest basis they have been since the fore part of the year. The top dropped under $8, and not since January has this happened. Good grade hogs with a little weight were very scarce and they are in extra good demand and sold readily at top prices.

At the outset of the week the top was $8.20 and the bulk of the hogs sold at $7.85@8.10, but later the top was down to $7.80, and the bulk went at $7.40@7.70, which placed the market on the lowest basis it has been since last January. Packers took plenty of hogs at $7.25@7.50 at the low time and some of them were pretty poor grades. Part of the decline was regained later in the week.

Pigs and lights were hit fully as hard as [illegible] heavier hogs and were also very slow sale at all times. The demand from the East was very small and this was the cause of the poor trade. Best went at $7.25@7.65, good pigs weighing less than 125 lbs. $7@7.25, fair grades $6.35@6.85, and common kinds $5.50@6.25. Throwout rough heavy packers sold largely at $7.30@7.50.

Sheep Do Not Hold Advance.

A good, liberal supply of sheep and lambs was received last week and as the supply the preceding week was very small, buyers were in need of a good number which caused the market the first half of the week to be in good shape and prices were even better than the preceding week, but the later end of the week was on a slightly lower basis than the best time.

The offerings included several cars of Western lambs fed in Iowa that sold at $7.50@7.60, but the top of the market was $7.75 paid for natives. Plenty of good lambs sold at $7.50 and a pretty fair sort went to the killers at $7.25@7.40, and plain, half-fat grades $6.75@7.10, and the culls $5@6.25. Buyers did not sort the lambs very deep. Some yearlings sold at $6, which was considered a pretty good price.

Most of the sheep that were purchased by the slaughterers brought $4.40, with some that were hardly as fat as they should have been at $4.25@4.35. Good stockers and choppers sold at $3.35@3.85, fair grades went at $2.60@3.25 and old cull sheep and canners $2.25@2.50. Bucks sold largely at $3.50@3.75.

Horses and Mules Slower.

A few slight changes were made in the horse trade; prices were a little off but not enough to affect shippers who had bought their material at the right prices in the country. There was a good representation of buyers on hand from the Southern states, but they, like other purchasers, came for bargains. They cut prices slightly but not a great deal, and all kinds sold at prices which were quoted as being nearly steady. Eastern states were well represented, but the buyers were like those from the South and did not show that active spirit in buying at fully steady prices and the general trade can be quoted only as steady to a shade lower.

Mules sold a little slow compared to the previous week. The slackened demand was the cause advanced for the sudden let-up in prices.

Wheat moved over an irregular price range the past week and closed showing only minor changes from last Saturday's final figures. The trend of the market was slowly upward, although most of the buying came from shorts and professionals, who oversold the active futures while the recent decline was on.

Much of the demand was based on unfavorable crop reports from the Argentine, where the wheat plant is said to need rain over a considerable area of the growing belt.

It was almost impossible to place credence in the Argentine dispatches received, however, as for 6 days the crop was reported good one day and bad the next.

While this condition lasts, the trade is shy of the bear side of values, as a crop scare in the Argentine, with domestic wheat prices at the present low level of 85c, would cause a ready advance in all futures.

Statistics Are Mixed.

From the statistical standpoint there was not much change in the market situation. Supplies are large in all markets, but the run of wheat in the Northwest seems to have more than passed the flood tide and from now forward receipts should be lighter.

World's shipments of wheat last week were lighter than in some time, totaling only 10,553,000 bu, against 12,688,000 bu. the preceding week and 11,504,000 bu last year.

Chances are that shipments will be heavier in the week's figures of Monday, but the total will be augmented largely by the excessive American exports, which totaled 7,837,000 bu, compared with 4,118,000 bu last week and 5,768,000 bu last year.

The domestic wheat visible supply totals 55,105,000 bu, against 41,712,000 bu a year ago, but the time is approaching when these stocks usually run down and best-posted traders look for a smaller visible very shortly.

The European wheat visible supply is under last year's, totaling 77,196,000 bu, compared with 81,200,000 bu. The Canadian total, however, is 18,585,000 bu, against 16,094,000 bu a year ago.

The demand from millers, practically for all varieties of wheat, has been fair. Eastern exporters seem to feel that the values of Canadian wheat are very reasonable and are likely to advance, in fact they show that disposition already and prices in the United States are beginning to look more reasonable in comparison.

The premiums which Duluth has been asking for wheat have been materially reduced recently, and are coming now within what seems to be a reasonable reach of the prices of other varieties of wheat.

The Mexican situation is receiving some attention from the trade, as is also the uncertain business outlook and depression in securities and investment markets.

The former, however, should have more bearing on oats than corn and wheat, as in times of war oats are usually the first supplies purchased. War with Mexico could hardly directly stimulate wheat, although it might the coarse grains, and, sentimentally, the fine cereal.

The liquidation in corn futures seems to be temporarily over, and the market meets support on all declines. The Government report, to be issued Monday, will probably show a heavier yield than estimated a month ago. The trade is looking for figures in the neighborhood of 2,400,000,000 bushels.

Sentiment on the coarse grain still favors higher prices, which, unfortunately, keeps the trade from getting short the market. Some of the best-posted traders on the Merchants' Exchange still predict very high-priced corn before the May option goes out.

The domestic wheat visible increased 1,608,000 bu for the week; corn increased 389,000 bu; oats, 155,000 bu.

The total visible supply showed:

	Today.	Last Year.
Wheat	55,105,000	41,712,000
Corn	6,306,000	3,689,000
Oats	31,664,000	10,552,000

The Liverpool weekly review said:

"Most markets have shown small net advances for the week, with growing steadiness among holders. The principal factors are the lighter Canadian offers, unfavorable crop outlook in India and less favorable advices from Argentina. The continuance of light shipments to United Kingdom are beginning to attract attention, for during past two weeks shipments to this center have been fully 800,000 bu weekly below requirements, and stocks must shortly have a good decrease under this condition, although stocks now are fairly liberal, while on the other hand the amount on passage is moderate.

"Russian shippers are not offering with any degree of freedom and are not likely to do so in the near future. Canadian supply is the great standby at present time and takings of this are enormous, and it is generally conceded that Canada will ship freely during November and December, but then without good assistance from the United States, North American shipments will not be excessive.

"Canadian exportable surplus when compared with world's requirements is quite moderate, and growers have already marketed a considerable portion of the crop and without help from other countries. As other exporting countries are shipping lightly, Canada can continue to do but little to supply the demand. United States seems not inclined to ship at present prices and India and the Southern Hemisphere are not in a position to ship.

"I predict that both India and Argentine will export less during the next calendar year than this. It is generally expected here that the visible supply in North America will shortly show a falling off and will probably be under last year and this is especially true of Canada, where shipments are believed will continue very heavy until the close of navigation.

"Indications point to the fact that United Kingdom has waited too long to purchase and will of necessity have to buy at advancing prices. The Continent continues to take freely."

According to Bradstreet's, the exports of flour from the United States during the past four weeks were 905,255 barrels, and of wheat 14,368,658 bu—equal to 18,442,756 bu. Exports from Canada for the same period were 325,055 barrels flour and 4,501,673 bu wheat—equal to 5,964,420 bu. Total for four weeks equals 24,407,176 bu.

the Glass bill (new currency) becomes a national law it will enable banks to obtain an issue of bank notes on the security of discounts, acceptances and all forms of commodity credit. In this event, $1 of lawful money will equal $5 of credit. This method is proposed as a plan to release a vast amount of money now hoarded in vaults, and, therefore, will bring to brokers a large investment clientele heretofore unknown. While this currency bill is pending passage at Washington there is no better time for St. Louis brokers to advertise stock and bond bargains, and there is no better medium than the Post-Dispatch, the one newspaper in every home—the only newspaper in many homes.

Pick Out the Dyspeptic

You Can Tell Them Anywhere and Especially If You See One Eat.

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet Will Digest Any Meal.

One of the saddest sights at a royally rich dinner is to see a man or a woman unable to eat because of dyspepsia.

It is really a crime to continue this martyrdom when all one has to do is to eat a little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

"Too Bad."

Just carry a Tablet in your purse and after each meal eat it as you would a peppermint. It will digest the meal and surely convince you that food will not hurt you.

One grain of the ingredients which compose a Stuart's Tablet will digest 3,000 grains of fish, soup, coffee, ice cream, meats, vegetables and pastries. The whole idea of this great natural digester is to aid nature to do her work without exhaustion and it certainly accomplishes this result.

"I Used to Be Like Him."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are our best known remedy for all stomach and dyspepsia troubles. It is positively wonderful to see the way one of these little tablets will digest a meal. And no one can realize it until one has used these tablets.

"I Know I'll Be Sick."

Every drug store sells Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and sells them in huge quantities. No matter where you are located you may go to any druggist and buy a 50c box that will last you a long time. Absolutely convince you dyspepsia can be prevented.

Many thousands of people use these tablets occasionally just to keep their digestion always perfect. If you stay up late or overeat, then take a tablet before bedtime; there will be no horrible dreams or bad mouth taste. Go to your druggist now and buy a 50c box and go armed against any kind of stomach trouble.—ADV.

MEXICO REFUGEES IN NEW YORK TELL OF FLIGHT OF DIAZ

Transfer at Sea "Had Washington Crossing Delaware Beaten to a Frazzle," Says One.

FRIENDS RELATED PERILS

Police Gathering at Hotel Just as General Departed for Gunboat Wheeling.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Ward liner Esperanza, to which vessel was transferred Gen. Felix Diaz and his three companions, on his flight to Havana, arrived here with a score of refugees, principally from the La Aurora Mine, in the State of Pueblo, who made their escape "rifle in hand."

From Capt. James R. Curtis to the smallest refugee child aboard the Ward liner, all agreed that the transfer of the late Mexican candidate for President to the Esperanza on a dark night, in a rough sea, with the searchlights of the battleship Michigan playing upon the waves was picturesque. In the language of Lio B. Jolidon, a refugee: "The scene had Washington crossing the Delaware beaten to a frazzle."

Although the United States Government had given permission for Gen. Diaz to take shelter on the gunboat Wheeling, arrangements could not be made ashore for shifting the Mexican leader to the Esperanza, a member of the crew said, because if this had been done, the Mexican gunboat Zaragoza would have been justified, according to international law, in taking Diaz off the American steamship.

Arrangements Made by Wireless.

Consequently, he said, the arrangements were made by wireless, instructing Capt. Curtis to lie by off Progreso and take Gen. Diaz from the battleship Michigan. After fleeing from Vera Cruz on the day preceding, Diaz had been put aboard the Wheeling in a launch. Then he was transferred to the battleship Louisiana, whence it had been planned to shift him to the cruiser Tacoma, but the latter vessel, while swinging at her mooring buoy in the harbor of Vera Cruz, got a line entangled with her propeller and could not move.

So the General was transferred from the Louisiana to the Michigan, which proceeded to a point 20 miles off Porgreso to wait for the New York steamer.

The Esperanza left Vera Cruz on Oct. 30 and Progreso at 7 p. m. Nov. 1. The searchlights of the Michigan could be seen for miles across the seas. Capt. Curtis took the Esperanza to a position to leeward of the battleship. At 8:50 o'clock a surfboat, with a boatswain and six jackies, was lowered from the Michigan. Gen. Diaz, with Cecilo Ocon, editor of La Tribuna, the Felix Diaz organ, published at Vera Cruz,; the General's secretary, Bolales Sandoval, and Williams, an American correspondent, descended the battleship's companion ladder, and were skilfully transferred. They climbed a sea ladder on the starboard side of the Ward liner.

Returned to Comply With Law.

In reply to questions of the passengers of the Esperanza, Gen. Diaz said that his only object in returning to Mexico had been to comply with the law of his country, which requires the personal presence within its borders of a candidate for the presidency. His comrades talked freely. All recognized, they admitted, that if they had remained in Vera Cruz their lives would have been forfeited.

Diaz, they said, had decided that safety lay in flight, and on Oct. 30, seizing his hand luggage, had left the Hotel Alleman, next door to the American Consulate, and rushed for the quay, where the Wheeling's launch was waiting. His three friends insisted on accompanying him, and also for their own personal safety.

The quartet outside the hotel rapidly passed a platoon of policemen, which soon afterward was augmented through the arrival of other policemen. They reached the launch just in time.

"I knew I was going to be arrested," said the General.

The officers of the Esperanza gave Williams credit for being "the bravest correspondent in Mexico."

There was much curiosity on board the Ward liner to know what had happened to Diaz in Cuba. The report had reached the ship that he had been shot instead of stabbed in Havana.

MRS. C. C. CARPENTER DIES

She Was Widow of Wealthy Real Estate Dealer.

Mrs. Carry Clarkso. Carpenter, 74 years old, widow of James M. Carpenter, who was a wealthy real estate dealer, died yesterday morning at the home of her son, James M. Carpenter Jr., 4930 Berlin avenue, after a three weeks' illness with heart trouble.

Two members of the St. Louis police force, which is driving clairvoyants, under a new ordinance, out of the city and into St. Louis County, aided Chicago officers at noon yesterday in capturing Walter Haines, alleged head of the "Clairvoyant Trust," in the Postal Telegraph office, at Fourth and Olive streets. He was taken to Chicago on an afternoon train.

Two of the "trust" are now on trial in Chicago on fraud charges. They are James Ryan, or "Prof. Crane," and Barney Bertsch, a political character, who is said to have guaranteed police protection to the gang.

The telegraph code of the "trust," some of whose odd terms had already been learned, with their definitions, through testimony given in Chicago, was found in full on a typewritten sheet in Haines' pocket, when he was searched at police headquarters. A telegram in this code, telling him of arrests made in Boston and Columbus, O., and warning him to flee to South America, was found in his room at the Planters Hotel.

On information that Haines would call at the telegraph office to ask for a message, the three visiting Chicago officers and Detective Sergeants McKenna and Stevenson went there, and at noon Haines appeared. When he saw the Chicago men, whom he knew, he walked away, and was seized by McKenna and Stevenson. He fought savagely and was subdued only when Stevenson used a jiu-jitsu elbow-and-wrist hold on him. When he was placed in a taxicab he started another fight and was again overpowered.

He at first said he was a business man, and that he had not been in Chicago, but later admitted his identity, and agreed to return without extradition.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The methods of the "Clairvoyant Trust" were illustrated by testimony given today before Judge Walker against "Prof. Crane" and Barney Bertsche by Mrs. Hope L. McEldowney of West Salem, Wis., who was fleeced out of $15,000 when she consulted Prof. Crane as a clairvoyant, he pretending to fall in love with her, and at the same time persuading her to "invest" all her money in imaginary deals on the Board of Trade.

"We were in an automobile one evening when Ryan proposed," Mrs. McEldowney testified. "It was in early spring. He said he had loved me since the first day of our meeting, and that life would be empty for him unless I would marry him. I said I would marry him, and he told me he was the happiest man on earth."

Plaschke's Bronze Bust of Joseph Pulitzer Is Placed

Stands in the Post-Dispatch Office

Image of Newspaper's Founder Made by Hungarian Artist Is Set on Pedestal of Missouri Granite Where Many Visitors See It.

A bronze bust of the late Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the Post-Dispatch, has been placed on a pedestal of red Missouri granite in the Post-Dispatch business office, facing the front door on Broadway. The bust is the work of Frederick Plaschke of Budapest, Hungary, and has three duplicates, one of which will stand in the New York World office, another in the Pulitzer home in New York, and a third in the National Museum in Budapest.

The bust has been praised by many of Mr. Pulitzer's St. Louis friends as a remarkable likeness, and as an unusually fine work of art. Many have visited the Post-Dispatch office in the last few days to see it.

The total height of the pedestal and bust is 8 feet. The granite monolith, 16 inches square, is supported by a circular plinth of the same material, having a diameter of 44 inches. The pedestal is 5 feet 8 inches high. On the front is a tablet of solid bronze, on which is incised, in Roman letters, the Post-Dispatch Platform, as announced by Mr. Pulitzer April 10, 1907, and appearing daily in the leading position on the editorial page.

Barnett Designed Pedestal.

The T. P. Barnett Architectural Co. of St. Louis designed the pedestal.

In the difficult task of modeling the face, Sculptor Plaschke had the aid of a death mask, made on the arrival of Mr. Pulitzer's body in New York after his death at sea in 1911. He also had the use of photographs and paintings, and of his remembrance of Mr. Pulitzer's appearance, he having met Mr. Pulitzer at Monte Carlo three years before.

The first copy was made on the order of the City Council of Budapest, sent by cable as soon as the news of Mr. Pulitzer's death reached the Hungarian capital. After completing the clay model, the sculptor invited Mrs. Pulitzer to inspect it, and she visited his studio in Yonkers, accompanied by her son, Ralph Pulitzer. They admired the model, and made suggestions for slight changes. The three busts, for the World and Post-Dispatch offices and the home, were then ordered.

Frederick Plaschke, the sculptor, is 37 years old, and is the son of a member of the Hungarian Diet. He studied sculpture for six years in the Hungarian Eyzetan, a preparatory art school, and the Royal Institute in Budapest. In the latter school he was one of the four out of 100 students who were able to pass the rigid examination for diplomas. His work for his diploma was a bust of the Empress Elizabeth, who was assassinated a few years later.

After completing his course, he did his required two years military service, and was mustered out with a second lieutenant's commission. He then went to Vienna and studied under Prof. Zumbusch, and later, for six months in Paris, was a pupil of Rodin.

From Paris he went to the Carrara marble quarries in Italy to study the formation of the marble and to learn the manner in which it could be best treated with mallet and chisel. His progress by this time enabled him to win in competition a government scholarship in advanced study of sculpture.

Two Years' Study in Munich.

From Vienna he went to Munich for two years more of study and hard work, after which he returned to Budapest and entered and won in a competition for a bronze group typifying liberty, erected in a park in the Tranchiem. He worked two years on this group of three figures.

At the time of the assassination of Queen Elizabeth he was working on a statue of Crown Prince Rudolph, victim of the Meyerling forest tragedy, in hunting costume, on the Queen's order. This was completed in 1900, and now stands in a park in Vienna. He established a studio in Budapest, and remained until 1903, when he was recalled to the colors for the army maneuvers. Soon after the Russian-Japanese war began, thinking it likely that he would be called out with the reserves to patrol the Austria-Russia frontier, he decided to come to the United States. He arrived here in 1905, and in 1908 visited Paris. At Monte Carlo he was introduced to Mr. Pulitzer by Franz Herzog, a Budapest editor.

FLAGSHIP OF U. S. FLEET CHEERED ON ARRIVAL AT MALTA

American Sailors Treated So Well That They Declare They Feel at Home.

By Associated Press.

MALTA, Nov. 8.—The Wyoming, the flagship of the United States Atlantic battleship fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, steamed into port today and was heartily cheered by great throngs of spectators. The Wyoming is the largest and most powerful warship yet seen at Malta. She will remain here until Tuesday next, when she will proceed toward Naples.

A large number of the crew swarmed ashore a short time after the arrival of the battleship, and were met by groups of British sailors and soldiers, the men fraternizing cordially and making the streets lively.

The Americans expressed themselves as feeling quite at home. They began to enjoy the visit, as the American Government had particularly requested that authorities at the points which the fleet is visiting dispense with any formal entertainment, the cruise being in no wise ceremonial or official, but educational. The men will be allowed as much liberty as possible, so that they may utilize their opportunities to the best advantage.

The men left aboard the Wyoming spent their time in cleaning the ship, which didn't seem to need it, as it looked spick and span in spite of the long voyage. The American bluejackets are characterized as the smartest looking set that ever came to Malta.

Fine Weather for Voyage.

Commander Todd said the voyage was uneventful. Since leaving Hampton Roads the fleet had been favored with beautiful weather and a large part of the time was spent in carrying out tactical and other evolutions. The colliers and hospital ships remained with the battleships, which coaled several times.

Off Gibraltar the battleships separated, proceeding for designated points, according to the program, so as to arrive at their respective destinations this morning.

Impressive Ceremony.

Springing at attention from their work, the bluejackets saluted the flag as it was lowered at the sunset gun tonight while a band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and the British anthem. During the impressive ceremony the Wyoming was surrounded by boat loads of interested sightseers.

Rear-Admiral Badger and the other superior officers have been made honorary members of the Union Club and the Casino, the latter being the leading club of the Maltese. Tomorrow the commander-in-chief and other officers and the American Consul will lunch with the Governor of Malta, General Sir Henry MacLeod Leslie Rundle, at the palace. There will be a massed band concert Monday which will be attended by Gov. Rundle, all the British officers and the American officers.

BIGAMY SUSPECT'S BRIDE IS GLAD HE ESCAPED

Loyal Wife Does Not Want Him to Meet Other Woman Who Calls Him Husband.

Charles Cleveland Phelps, arrested as a bigamy suspect, was still at large last night, having escaped Friday night clad only in a nightshirt, from the city hospital where he had caused himself to be taken as a patient under the plea of illness. Mrs. Tillie Phelps of 8341 Harney avenue, was to have gone to police headquarters yesterday to see whether, as she believed, Phelps was her husband, who deserted her seven months ago.

Phelps was married in August to Miss Jessie Pearson, 20 years old, daughter of James Pearson whose persistence in preaching on the streets gained him two workhouse sentences within the last few years. Mrs. Jessie Phelps, who is in the matron's care at the Central Police Station, expressed approval of her husband's flight and her conviction that he is innocent. They were taken to headquarters Friday night from their home at 920 North Fifteenth street.

Mrs. Tillie Phelps' suspicion was aroused when she read that a marriage license had been issued to Charles Phelps and Jessie Pearson. Although her husband was usually known as Cleveland Phelps, she told the police, his first name is Charles.

Child Finds Mother Dead.

Mrs. Sophia Steffen, 38 years old, was found dead at her home, 906 South Vandeventer avenue, yesterday by her 10-year-old daughter, Helen. An autopsy will be held. The police say death was due to heart disease. She recently came to St. Louis from Franklin County, Missouri.

Auto and Motor Cycle Collide.

Walter Kress, 18 years old, suffered a broken leg and probable internal injuries yesterday, when he collided with the automobile of William P. Hawkins, 2856 Russell avenue, while he was riding his motor cycle south on Grand avenue, at the west approach of the viaduct.

DEATHS.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of my dear husband and our loving father, Ulysses S. Limecooly, who passed away one year ago, Nov. 11, 1912.

Though you are gone, you shall never be forgotten; you will live ever in memory of the ones who loved you. Sadly missed by

WIFE, SON AND DAUGHTER.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear beloved mother and grandmother, Caroline Hoffmann, who departed from us two years ago, Nov. 7, 1911.

Just two years that God has called you to live with him in heaven above. You are gone, but not forgotten. Sadly missed by dear

CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In Memoriam.

In memory of our dear father, Louis Bitsch, who passed away suddenly one year ago, Nov. 6, 1912.

Just one year ago you left us,
Broken-hearted and all alone;
All is dark within our home,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the father we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of my beloved daughter and our dear sister, Agnes Connolly, who departed this life four years ago, Nov. 12, 1909.

Although her hands we cannot clasp,
Her face we cannot see,
Let this little token tell
That we always remember thee.

Sadly missed by
PARENTS, BROTHER AND RELATIVES.

In Memoriam.

In memory of my dear beloved husband and our father, Joseph A. Poelling, who died Nov. 5, 1912.

Father dear, oh how we miss you,
Miss your love, advice and care;
And as the shades of night are falling
Around our lonely cottage door,
They always bring before us
That dear face we see no more.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In Memoriam.

In remembrance of my dear grandchild, Toodlums Alice Garrett, who passed away one year ago today, Nov. 10, 1912, whom we tried so hard to save, but God knows best. Bright in memory as if though it were today, one little angel has gone to heaven. One little chair and buggy still stand empty, that can't be filled by our darling's smiling face, that was loved so well. Gone but not forgotten. Sadly missed by FATHER, MOTHER AND GRANDMA LOTTRIDGE.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of my dear husband and our dear father, George H. Zollmann, who departed this life four years ago, Nov. 5, 1909.

Silently the shades of evening
Gather 'round our lonely door;
Silently they bring before us
That dear face we see no more.
Four long years have passed,
Still we are grieving for you;
Happy without you we cannot be,
So we go often to your grave,
Lingering there trying to be brave;
But oh, 'tis hard to bear,
To go away and leave you there.

Sadly missed by your WIFE AND CHILDREN. (c)

In Memoriam.

In memory of my dear beloved wife, Mrs. Marguerite Kuhlmann (nee Burgart), who departed this life Nov. 12, 1912.

You are gone, but not forgotten,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.
We laid her in the family plot,
Where none was laid before;
In solitude but not forgot
She sleeps forever more.
By day her spirit hovers near,
By night it calms our rest,
And to us says be of good cheer,
The way of our Lord is best.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

Lost and Found

Solid agate, 10c line; minimum 20c.

THAT LOST ARTICLE
MAY NOT BE FOUND TODAY

Or tomorrow or next week. In fact, a month or more may elapse before it turns up. A little persistency may be necessary. Often the article remains unfound; often fear of prosecution or hope of more satisfactory reward may delay the restoration. Then the belated awakening of the finder's conscience explains many delays. But persistency and Post-Dispatch wants will usually recover a lost article if an honest person finds it. The service of the Post-Dispatch Lost and Found Bureau is also enlisted in behalf of advertisers. (93)

Removal Sale of Motor Cars

Next week we move to our new building at 2315 Locust st., and to close out every used car we have before moving we will, for this week, sell our used cars at a tremendous sacrifice.

Values and costs have been forgotten, and only the fact that we must sell them this week has been taken into account in making the prices.

THE ASSORTMENT is the finest ever shown. Never before have we had such a complete lot of really first-class cars. There are cars to suit almost every possible requirement, from small roadsters to 7-passenger touring cars of such well-known makes as HUDSON, Dorris, Moon, Oldsmobile, Mitchell and numerous others, and including 1913 model HUDSON, both fours and sixes, in touring cars and coupes. Most of these cars are 1912 and 1913 models.

GUARANTEE.—Every used car we sell is accompanied by a written guarantee. We value the customer purchasing a used car as highly as the one purchasing a new car and treat him accordingly.

THIS OPPORTUNITY to secure a really good car at a sacrifice price is the greatest ever offered in St. Louis—and if you want a car at all you can not afford to overlook it.

GUARANTEED REBUILT LOCOMOBILES

We must move the following cars to make room for cars coming in. Anyone interested in a high-grade, used car, will find the cars listed below exceptional values. All locomobiles are thoroughly rebuilt, both outward and inwardly, and cannot be distinguished from new cars:

1912 type "M," 6-cylinder, 7-passenger touring car, brand-new tires, new top, demountable rims, fully equipped in every way; a car identically the same paid for itself twice over in the livery business in St. Louis last year; would make ideal private car, as well as livery; electric starter and lights furnished, if desired

1912 type "M," 6-cylinder, 4-passenger Locomobile, new tires, new top, fully equipped; our 1912 demonstrating car; never has been out of our hands and has been driven less than 10,000 miles; exceptionally fast; electric starter and lights furnished if desired.

1911 type "L," 4-cylinder, 5-passenger car, thoroughly renewed; same as above car; full equipment; price very low, $1450.

1911 type "L," 4-cylinder, 5-passenger; not rebuilt, but in excellent condition; to move quickly, $1100.

1913 demonstrators cannot be distinguished from new cars. Both cars look and run like new and are fully equipped with electric starter and lights:

1913 Big Six 7-passenger car.

1913 Little Six 4-passenger car.

Make us an offer on these two cars.

1910 Ohio electric; batteries six months old, just rewashed; motor overhauled, rewired, repainted; best electric buy in the city.

1911 Lozier, complete with 7-passenger touring body and Berline limousine; most handsome used car in St. Louis; would make ideal livery car in this section of the country.

We will consider terms on all of the above cars.

Remember, used Locomobiles carry the standard Locomobile warranty, the same as a new car.

LAND AND ORCHARD STOCK

THE BEST SAVINGS BANK

75,000 acres to be offered for sale under the Contract Plan of Sale, to be divided into 5000 units, and each unit will consist of a tract of land from 10 to 640 acres, three town lots and 300 Shares of Preferred Co-operative Orchard Company Stock for only $300. $5 cash and $5 monthly. No interest. No taxes. No commission. No charges of any kind.

Permanent permission to do business in Kansas has been granted our company by the State bank commission after a careful inspection of our land and investigation of our company.

$5 Cash and $5 Monthly for 59 months means independence and a competence for YOU.

PAYMENTS STOP IN CASE OF DEATH

In case of your death a fully paid certificate will be issued to your heirs, regardless of how many payments you have made. This is life insurance in the best and truest sense. Its value was illustrated in the recent unfortunate death of Mr. Raymond F. Arnold, who dropped dead while at work in The Gazette office. Mr. Arnold purchased one of our contracts on July 26th, making the first payment of $10. By his death his heirs became entitled to a fully paid certificate of purchase without further payments.

WE WILL LOAN MONEY

When our customers have their farms paid for we will loan them money for improving them. This agreement is embodied in our contracts.

IF SICK OR OUT OF EMPLOYMENT

If you are unable at any time to make your payments on account of sickness or loss of employment we will allow you ample time for the resumption of payments.

PERFECT TITLE

Title to every acre of this land has been subjected to the searching scrutiny of several eminent attorneys, including Mr. George M. Groves of St. Joseph.

SEND NAME AND ADDRESS ON A POSTAL CARD for a copy of our large 32-page pamphlet, containing dozens of photographs made in our district, and all the detailed information you want in regard to our country.

FREE TRIP

TO INVESTIGATE OUR PROPOSITION

We want no man to patronize us "sight unseen," and will pay the railroad fare of every purchaser from his home to Hunter and return. At Hunter we have an ample supply of conveyances and you can stay just as long as you wish, riding over our land and investigating every detail of our proposition. After a thorough inspection, if you can show a single misrepresentation in our printed literature, every dollar you have paid will be promptly and cheerfully refunded to you.

Send your name and address today for copy of our large pamphlet and full particulars of our liberal Free Trip Offer.

MRS. BAHRENBURG ON SUFFRAGE DIRECTORATE

Belleville Woman Elected at Peoria Convention Which Urges Full Franchise.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 8.—The first annual session of the Illinois Equal Suffrage Association closed here this afternoon with an election of officers and the adoption of many resolutions, the most important of which urges Gov. Dunne to call a convention to consider a new Constitution for the State, which will fully enfranchise women.

The new officers are: Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president; Jane Addams, first vice-president; Mrs. H. M. Brown, Peoria, second vice-president; Mrs. James W. Morrison, recording secretary; Mrs. Edward L. Stewart, corresponding secretary; Miss Jennie Johnson, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. McGraw, auditor. Mrs. Sherman Booth, Annie Wallace Hunt, Miss Margaret Dobyne, Mrs. Mary C. Bourland of Pontiac, Mrs. Charles H. Webster of Galesburg, Mrs. Carrie Alexander Bahrenburg of Belleville, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Mrs. H. C. Newton and Mrs. Moses Purvin, Board of Directors.

When the name of Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout was put in nomination for re-election, there was a tremendous demonstration. Women marched up and down the hall, cheering and singing. Some wept while the nominee herself shed tears. Sarcastic references from members of the "Old Guard," led by Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, drew hisses for that woman at one period, but half an hour later the convention passed a vote of thanks for her amid hysterical applause.

G. O. P. MEETING LIKELY

Party May Call Convention Next Spring to Revise Rules.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Republican National Committee's law committee next Tuesday will discuss reorganization plans to be submitted to the National Committee in Washington Dec. 15. Changes in the basis of representation at the Republican National convention and in the manner of choosing delegates will be discussed. The committee may suggest that the National committee call a special Republican convention to settle the matter next spring.

The committee consists of Charles B. Warren, Michigan, chairman; Representative Mann, Illinois; Senator Jones, Washington; Roy West, Illinois and James A. Fowler, of Tennessee, former "trust buster" of the Taft administration.

To Speak at Churches on "The Girl."

Joseph L. Garvin, president of the William Woods College at Fulton, Mo., will speak at the Fourth Christian Church, 1501 Penrose street, this morning on the subject: "The National Problem—the Girl." He will repeat the address in the afternoon at the Maplewood Christian Church.

SCHOLLMEYER AND SCHIELE TO AUCTION $4,000,000 REALTY

Sale, to Be Conducted at Real Estate Exchange, Will Dispose of Holdings in City and County, One Contract Already Having Been Signed.

ONE ESTATE LISTED IS VALUED AT $1,000,000

Wide Publicity to Be Given to Project — Former Auction Conducted by These Men Was Highly Successful.

Sidney Schiele and A. R. Schollmeyer are planning an auction sale of St. Louis realty which promises to eclipse the largest ever held west of the Mississippi River. In addition to 100 pieces belonging to an old estate which will form the nucleus, the list, according to Schiele, who made the announcement, will take in several hundred others of different ownerships.

Attorneys acting for the estate yesterday signed a contract with Schiele and Schollmeyer in connection with this project. Incidentally, the value of the holdings of the estate alone is estimated at more than $1,060,000. The value of the entire listings will approximate $3,000,000 or $4,000,000.

Property in both the city and the county may be listed for this auction, which will be open to any property holder who will abide by its conditions and requirements.

Gives Sale Wide Publicity.

Through the advertising columns of the Post-Dispatch the project will be given national publicity, Schiele declares. The auction will be held at the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, of which Schiele was secretary for 10 years, and of which Schollmeyer was formerly president.

The proposed auction will be similar in character to the one conducted by them in the spring of 1908, when 100 different holdings were disposed of to the highest bidder. As a whole, that sale, which was also held at the Real Estate Exchange, and which consumed three days, was regarded as a distinct success. One million dollars' worth of property changed hands, the sale attracting an unprecedented number of outside investors.

The agents issued a pamphlet of testimonials from various owners who had taken advantage of this expeditious method of converting their holdings into cash.

The property to be disposed of at the forthcoming auction will be catalogued with cuts and detailed description as soon as the list is completed.

Schiele and Schollmeyer will hold conferences with other agents this week, with a view to winning the co-operation and moral support of the fraternity in this enterprise.

Similar Sale Successful.

Schollmeyer was largely interested in Hillcrest, which recently was disposed of by auction and which now promises to be built up in record time. The proceeds of the sale netted the owners, it is said, a profit of $40,000, notwithstanding the fact that conditions were not conducive at that time to the sale of real estate. Just before the sale Theodore Hemmelman offered Schollmeyer a profit of $25,000 for his interest in Hillcrest, foreseeing the demand for this attractive property.

The Hillcrest sale was made under the auspices of the Title Guaranty Trust Co., the financial agent, which had a substantial interest in the tract.

University City Lot Sold.

Acting for a client, J. A. Mayhew, agent, has closed the sale of a 55-foot lot on the south side of West Portland place. The purchaser, a Mr. Bagot, will erect a handsome residence. The Barr Building, seven miles distant, can be seen from this site, Mayhew declares.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Remedy

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.00.

This plan makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually conquers an ordinary cough in 24 hours. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, spasmodic croup and bronchial asthma.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly.

Pine is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

The prompt results from this mixture have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—ADV.

WEEK'S SALES OF REALTY INSURE NEW BUILDINGS

Structure at Sixth and Franklin to Be Raised From Three to Five Stories.

MARKET'S TONE STRONG

Closing of Numerous Deals Is Taken to Indicate Larger Volume of Business.

Activity in realty and building the last week was diversified, but transactions were not of large caliber. The market exhibited a strong tone, the indications being, according to realty men, that the volume of business soon will be of substantial proportions.

The large purchase of the week was that by which the Perry estate acquired of the Normandy Building Co. the 50-year leasehold of the northwest corner of Sixth street and Franklin avenue for $50,000.

This purchase, which was negotiated by William T. Mathews, of the Mathews Realty Co., provides for the extension of the present three-story building of the site to five stories. The site has 127 feet on Franklin avenue, 62 feet on Sixth street, and is owned by Ephron Catlin, a client of Charles H. Bailey.

The larger building is to represent an investment of $75,000, the annual rental from which will be $12,500.

Incidentally the two-story building, combining stores and flats at 4267-69-71 Easton avenue, was purchased by the Mathews Realty Co. of John D. Harris for $15,000.

Another New Building.

Another purchase that insures a new building was that by the Burdeau Real Estate Co., of Louis Crecella, of 2922 Locust street. Ground in this block is quoted at $200 a foot. The Burdeau company will erect on the site a building for the exclusive use of the McGuire Oil Co., with which contracts have been signed for a long lease.

Burdeau and Davis have been powers in the development of Locust street, especially in that section which is being claimed by automobile interests.

The Gaynor-Barnett Dress Goods Co. of Kansas City, with plans for removing to St. Louis, has leased quarters at 1525-27-29 Washington avenue. The Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co. effected this lease on behalf of Adolph Glaser. The building is owned by the Lindell Real Estate Co., a client of the Mississippi Trust Co. The rental to be paid is $8000 a year. The size of the space is 67x137 feet, which includes the first floor and basement of the premises.

The Gaynor-Barnett company deals in silk, wool and cotton goods. It comes to St. Louis, has leased quarters at iaunication with the commercial world. Its officers are G. W. Gaynor, president, and W. H. Barnett, secretary, both of whom will move with their families to St. Louis.

Another salient feature was the purchase by Gustave Thal, president of the National Molasses Co., of Augustine C. Cicardi, restaurateur, of the new two-story building at 4916-18 Delmar boulevard. The price paid, it is understood, was $27,500. The Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co. negotiated this transaction, which marks a succession of large investments by Thal in this locality. The building occupies a lot 40x155 feet. The first floor is divided into stores. One of them has heen leased to Mrs. L. Virginia Fisher, who has plans for a shop of curios or antiques and artists' supplies.

From the stores alone there is derived an annual rental of $2000. The rental for the entire premises aggregates $2900.

The Lorelle Amusement and Realty Co. has been incorporated to erect a two-story natatorium and music hall building at 4521-29 Olive street. The building, which will be of ornate construction, will be a revelation, its promoters say. The company is composed of William A. Harvey, president; R. J. Gebhart, vice-president; P. J. Lawson, secretary; John Schmoll, treasurer, and Max F. Ruler, counsel.

With a view to its completion by Jan. 1, 1914, construction is being vigorously prosecuted on the new Park Theater, on the north side of Delmar avenue, just west of Hamilton. Delmar avenue west of King's highway is the scene of several new building ventures. It is being built by a syndicate headed by John Cafferata, whose cafe adjoins on the east. The Hagerman-Fitzsimmons Realty Co. controls the building, which promises to form the crowning feature of the galaxy of high-class theater projects that have been introduced by this concern.

Delmar avenue west of King's highway is the scene of several new building ventures, which are lending animation to the thoroughfare.

University City Activity.

Many sales of University City lots are being closed by J. A. Mayhew, a live realty agent, with offices in the Liggett Building. The latest sale includes 55 feet on West Portland place to a Mr. Baggot, who will erect a handsome residence. A week ago Mayhew sold a block of lots in this locality to the Gerling Realty Co., which has extensive plans. The indications are, according to Mayhew, that this section will be the scene of a boom the coming spring and summer. Accordingly, he is urging prospective purchasers to make their selections now.

The Delmar Manufacturing Co. acquired, through the Weisels-Gerhart company, a long lease of the new Salveter Building, at 415 North Eighth street. The floor area is 60x127 feet. This lease provides for the extension of the Delmar Manufacturing Co., which now has the fourth floor of the building and makes ladies' hats and caps.

The South Broadway Athletic Club leased through the Ketsreap Althenn Real Estate Co. the building at the southwest corner of Seventh and Shenandoah avenue. The lessor is the N. O. Brown Real Estate Co. The premises includes 115x105 feet. The building has modern improvements and is well adapted for club quarters.

COURT APPROVES ONLY TWO SALES IN PEPER ESTATE

B. A. Thompson's Purchase of Homestead and Other Piece All That Stand.

GOOD OFFERS REJECTED

Refusal of Heirs to Sign Deed Blocks Sale at Better Than Auction Prices.

The court approved only two sales of the extensive Peper properties which were recently made by auction at the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. These include the Peper homestead, embracing an entire block at San Francisco and Taylor avenues, and 55 feet on the south side of Washington avenue between Newstead and Taylor avenues. The former was knocked down at $21,600 and the latter at $75.50 a front foot. B. A. Thompson, a realty dealer, was the purchaser in both instances.

Good Offers Rejected.

A few days prior to the auction, according to Col. Nicholas M. Bell, whose wife was a Peper, A. O. Rule of the Kilgen-Rule Real Estate Co., submitted an offer of $25,000 for the homestead site, while the day after the sale an offer of $23,600 was forthcoming for it.

The Washington avenue site was sold by Cornet & Zeibig last spring for $80 a front foot, but one of the heirs declined to sign the deed.

Among other sales which were not confirmed was half a block at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Market streets. This price was knocked down to Paul Brown, vice-president of the Mercantile Trust Co., at $156,000, but before the sale it had been appraised by experts at $290,000. Brown had plans for building a hotel or a theater on the property, it is understood.

Another Sale Disapproved.

The sale of the northeast corner of Twelfth and Walnut streets, also disapproved, was knocked down to Henry L. Cornet of Cornet & Ziebig for $20,000. The auction was held under the direction of Attorney Charles Cummins Collins, the commissioner appointed by the court, and was liberally advertised and well conducted, but there obviously was a dearth of buyers for this class of property.

Thompson has not announced his plans for the improvement of his purchase.

NEW BILLIARD HALL ON SIXTH STREET PLANNED

Renewal of Lease Also Is Taken by Louis Caeser for Restaurant.

Ollie E. Miller has leased through the Martin-Breitt Real Estate Co. the entire second floor of the building at 208 North Sixth street for five years at $1800 a year. The lessee wil conduct a first-class pocket billiard and billiard hall. The lessor was Joseph A. Marre.

Louis Caeser who operates a high-class restaurant has renewed his lease on his present quarters at 208-10 North Sixth street. This property was recently sold by Ellis Wainwright to Joseph A. Marre, through the Martin-Breitt Real Estate Co.

SALES AND LOANS FOR ONE WEEK ARE $85,000

M. O'Connor Company Reports Active Demand for High Class Investments.

The M. O'Connor Real Estate Co. closed sales and loans during the week aggregating $85,000. This concern reports an active demand for high-class investment properties, especially combination business and apartment, in North and South St. Louis.

Among its deals were several large sized trades, the concern making a specialty of transactions of this character.

ADVERTISE HOUSES HONESTLY, AGENT TELLS SALESMEN

James P. Blake Says Old Phrases Are Overworked and Do Not Tell Anything.

James P. Blake is one real estate man who is tired of the old "canned" phrases used by many writers of real estate advertisements, circulars and announcements. He believes the public is tired of them, also. He thinks that such phrases as "great bargain," "wonderful opportunity" and the like have been overworked and that it is better to tell why a certain offering is a bargain than to keep reiterating the assertion that it is one.

"Why waste space telling your readers that the house has a bath?" Blake said to the Salesmen's Association of the Real Estate Exchange in a talk a few days ago. "Every house that amounts to anything has a bath. The thing people want to know is what sort of a neighborhood a house is in, what schools, churches and business places are near, what the house has that some other house does not have.

"Tell of the trees, pavements, neighborhood improvements, and if the neighborhood is a new one, tell how it has grown in a few years from a pasture to a site for attractive homes. And don't say a house has eight rooms when it has only six or seven, or misrepresent it in any way merely with the idea of getting people to look at it. They will see the deception at once, and will not wish to do business with you."

REAL ESTATE AGENTS' REPORTS OF THEIR SALES

WEISELS-GERHART R. E. CO.

The Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co. reports the following sales:

Sold to Gustav Thal, president of the National Molasses Co., 4916-4918 Delmar boulevard, for Augustin J. Cicardi, for $27,500. The property is located in the center of the White Way immediately west of and adjoining the Langan & Taylor eight-story office building. The building is leased for a long term of years to three tenants at a rental of $2900 per annum.

Also leased to the Gaynor-Barnett Dress Goods Co. of Kansas City, 1125-27-29 Washington avenue, for Adolph Glaser, for a term of years, at an annual rental of $8000. The leased premises cover a floor area of 69x137. The officers and 30 employes will remove to St. Louis on Jan. 1 and take possession of their new store. The Gaynor-Barnett Co. specializes in silk, wool and cotton dress fabrics.

Also leased to John A. Haskell the new residence of William A. Baker of the Hannan-Baker Shoe Co., 4453 West Pine boulevard, at a rental of $2100 per annum. Mr. and Mrs. Baker will remove to New York.

Also leased to Charles M. Hay of the law firm of Cullen, Fauntleroy & Hay, the residence of Mrs. R. Lazar, 5318 Bartmer avenue.

Also leased to the Delmar Manufacturing Co. the fifth floor of the Salveter building, 415 N. Eighth street. The floor is 60x127, which will be used by the lessee for the manufacture and jobbing of women's and children's hats and caps.

Also leased to Mrs. L. Virginia Fischer, store room, 4916 Delmar boulevard, at a rental of $1000 per annum.

Also leased to the Baldwin-Urquhart Decorating Co., the store room at 4918 Delmar boulevard at a rental of $1000 per annum.

SALVATION ARMY OFFICER'S WIFE GIVES SOME GOOD ADVICE HERE

One of the Most Popular Workers in the Army in Missouri Tells About Plant Juice.

MRS. HATTIE WEST.

Among the many well-known ladies of Kansas City who have made personal tests of Plant Juice is Mrs. Hattie West, wife of Sergeant Major of Salvation Army Corps No. 1 of that city. Mrs. West has been identified with the army for twenty-one years, and has many friends in all parts of the country who will be interested in the following statement from her:

"I have suffered greatly for several years with stomach trouble. The past few months I was a great deal worse. Everything I ate seemed to disagree with me; gas would form in my stomach and cause me great distress, and my throat was also in bad condition due to catarrh. This interfered greatly with my work, especially singing in the open air, and my nerves were in bad shape also. I tried Plant Juice and have found it just fine. My stomach is much better and so is my throat; my nerves are stronger and I feel better in every way and am very glad to recommend Plant Juice to others."

As a tonic and invigorator Plant Juice is the best to be had. It clears the blood of all impurities, strengthens the nerves, tones up the stomach, corrects constipation, stimulates the liver into healthy action—in fact, it restores and revitalizes the entire system, and is thus one of the very best constitutional treatments for catarrh. It keeps the mucous surfaces of the body in clean and healthy condition. Those who have headaches, indigestion, pains in the back or joints, or who feel tired and worn out, should get a bottle of Plant Juice from the Plant Juice man at the Wolff-Wilson Drug Company's Store. If it does not help you he will refund your money.—ADV.

To Beat a Cold

Just a Five-Minute Treatment of Virgin Oil of Pine Will Put the Worst of Colds "On the Toboggan."

DON'T WAIT—ACT NOW.

Nearly everybody is subject to colds. Surely half the ills of humanity start with a cold. Colds lead to rheumatism, lumbago, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption and various other ailments.

Give Your Cold a Start and Tell It Good-bye.

Don't aggravate your cold by taking strong drugs, cathartics and such "dope." There is a far easier, better, surer, quicker and more pleasant way to cure it. Just drop a little pure Virgin Oil of Pine on a lump of sugar and eat it. Relieves a cough almost instantly.

If you will use this simple and pleasant remedy just once, you will never go back to any of the old nauseous and tedious treatments.

When you get the Virgin Oil of Pine, be sure to insist upon Leach's (Compound Pure). Cut this out and take it to any drug store anywhere. The price is 50 cents. And if the druggist won't supply you, send the price to the Leach Chemical Co., at Cincinnati, Ohio, and the package will be mailed you direct with all charges prepaid. Money back if your cold isn't cured.

WADE ALMOST TELLS WHO WILL SUCCEED M'MILLAN

Reporter "Gave His Word," but Name of New Vice-President Still Is Unknown.

A Post-Dispatch reporter asked Festus J. Wade yesterday for the name of the successor of C. H. McMillan, vice-president of the Mercantile Trust Co., in charge of the real estate department, who has resigned to take his family to Europe for a long stay.

"If I tell you, you'll print it," said Wade.

"Not until you say so," the reporter promised.

"You give me your word that you won't print it before Monday?"

"Yes, indeed."

"Well, then," said Wade, "I'll tell you. I don't know who it will be."

Realty Company Removes.

The North Side Realty Co. has taken quarters at 2029 East Grand avenue. The new location is near the Water Tower and advantageously situated for a North Side realty agency.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR $15,000 RESIDENCES

Scores of Other Buildings of Similar Character Contemplated at Hillcrest.

W. A. Geraldin of Geraldin Bros., it is understood, is having plans made for the erection of several handsome residences on Arundel avenue, between Skinker road and De Munn avenue. The buildings will cost about $15,000 each, and will be ready for the market next summer.

While he has made no announcement, it is believed that one of the houses will be used by Geraldin as his residence, as he is much pleased with that locality.

Scores of other buildings of this character are under contemplation for Hillcrest, and most of them will be built this winter. The indications are that the subdivision will be built up quickly.

The location of Hillcrest insures its future as a high-class residence park, realty agents affirm.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

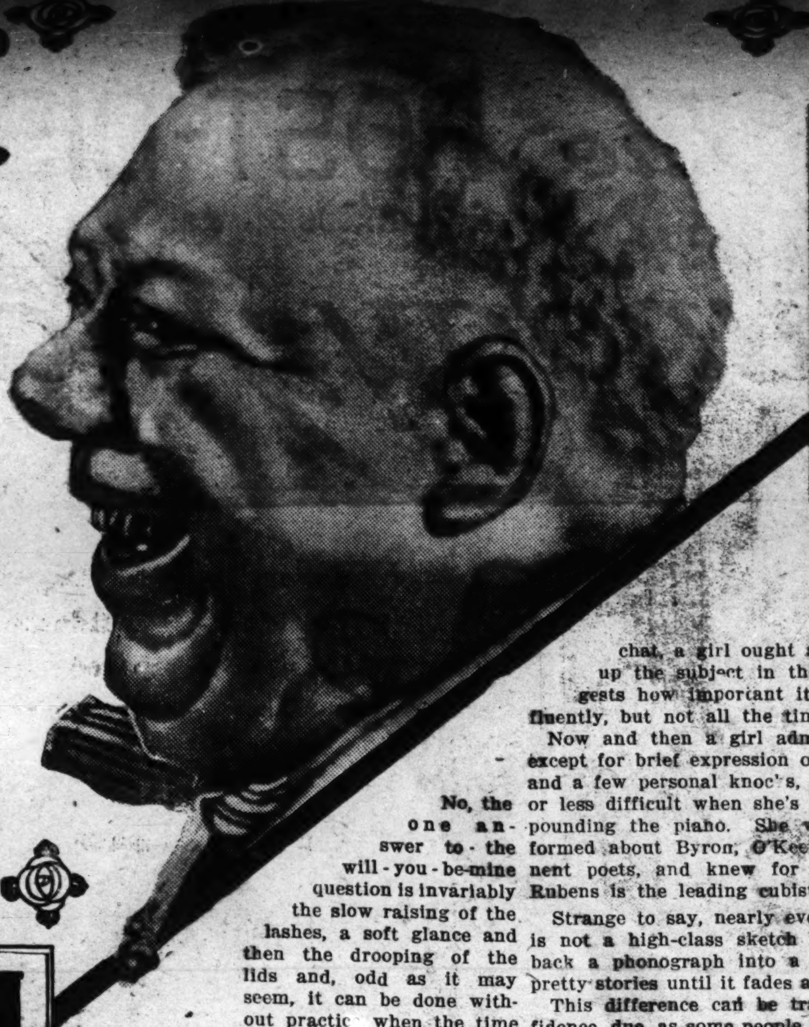
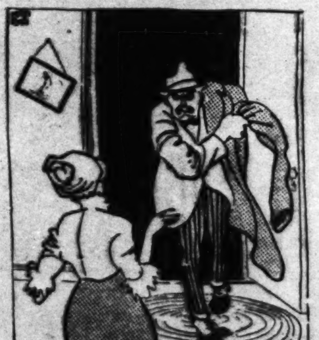
Bunny's Beauty Hints



This Is the First of a Whimsical Series by the Noted Moving-Picture Comedian, Whose Face Is His Fortune—He Gives Timely and Authoritative Hints a la Betty Vincent—Intended Not Only for the Girls to Read, but as Advice for All

THE hand is one of the most popular members of the club. Girls ought to remember this. When a chap has been a regular caller for a couple of winters, and on a certain Wednesday night about 11 o'clock plucks up enough courage to propose, what does he do? He asks the girl's hand in marriage.

I have never heard that this all-important question is asked of a particular hand and I suppose it may depend, more or less, upon whether the girl is right-handed or southpaw. Still, the fact remains that he asks her for her hand, and, I may as well add, he usually gets it. Even before that—sometimes it's after, but never mind—when he drops in upon paw and slips him a cigar with a bright yellow band, and breaks the ice with a little weather talk, what does he do? He asks paw for the girl's paw, being wise all the time to the fact that it isn't his to give away and knowing that if daughter herself wants to dispose of it there's no stopping her. The point of this is that hands are important, and if a girl would have beautiful hands so that a young fellow will not be stung when he comes around for one, she should give both the left and right the care they deserve.



Can tell at a glance which team lost.

Some girls may imagine that a hand is made just for palmistry, or simply as a support for an engagement finger, and think that if the diamond is of the right size and good for a dazzle clear across the room, and the setting is of approved design, the rest of the hand may be overlooked in the general excitement. In a way, this may be true; but the pinky is entitled to a like consideration, and a girl should not forget it.

The nails should be carefully manicured, so that the cute little quarter moons may be seen rising out of the second joints.

Two rules for the care of the hands ought always to be strictly observed:

First, a girl never should permit her hands to be frost-bitten. It doesn't do them any good and may prove harmful; and,

Second, in holding hands, a girl should not permit a lad to play favorites. After he has held the right for a few minutes he ought to give it back and take the left for a while. Generally speaking, a hand should not be held longer than 15 minutes at any one time, and, changing about, an hour ought to answer for two hands on any one evening.

Now a word or two about the eyes—the orbs through which the human soul finds expression, as the poets say. The eyes are some orbs, believe me, and the eyelids, properly under control, are more important than any other kind of lid, no matter who your milliner may be.

I have heard the story of many girls' romances and I do not recall one instance where, when a girl has been asked soft and low-like for her lily-white hand, she has found it necessary to say as much as "sure," "quit your kiddin'," or "the pleasure is all mine."

No, the one answer to the will-you-be-mine question is invariably the slow raising of the lashes, a soft glance and then the drooping of the lids and, odd as it may seem, it can be done without practice when the time arrives.

Nothing more is important. A fellow knows right away what the answer is without a short or a long line of conversation, and he can open an account at a furniture house the next morning in the full knowledge that a certain girl is downtown with her mother looking for bargains in wedding veilings and other things at the white goods counter.

There is a little of the mischevous in every pair of girlish eyes, a little sparkle which no one can fully understand, not even the girl herself. And it is impossible to control, no matter how a girl tries—which she doesn't.

Why some girls imagine they can improve on their eyes by the use of lash tippers, brow paints and lid tinters, I cannot understand. Eyes don't need these things. Give a good pair of black, chestnut, navy blue or postal gray eyes about eight hours' rest a night and they're ready for business the next day—ready for a continuous optical performance in a repertoire embracing all the emotions, but particularly strong in love and innocence and full-length mirrors.

What is true of girls with respect to their eyes is also true of married women. When hubby comes home after a hard, headachy afternoon in the grand stand at a football game, the missus can tell at a glance which team lost, where hubby stopped to talk it over and just how much he has been set back, and what he has left—if anything.

Good healthy eyes are important to girls, but they are absolutely necessary to wives. Never mind the argument the men folks put up to prove it isn't so.

When the eyes get through with their part of a little chat, a girl ought always to be ready to take up the subject in the regular way, which suggests how important it is to be able to converse fluently, but not all the time.

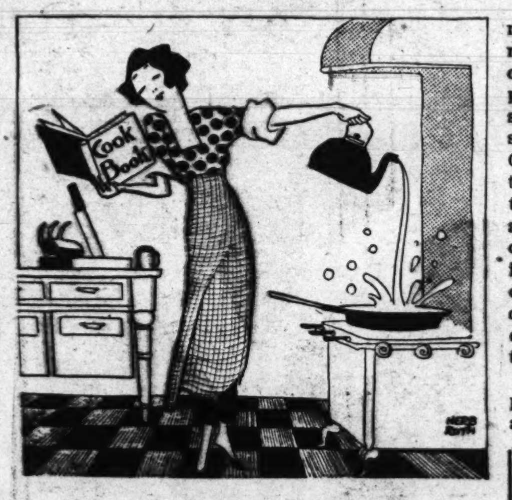
Now and then a girl admits with deep regret that, except for brief expression of commonplace pleasantries and a few personal knocks, conversation becomes more or less difficult when she's in company, and no one is pounding the piano. She wishes she were better informed about Byron, O'Keefe, Shelley and other eminent poets, and knew for certain whether Roth or Rubens is the leading cubist.

Strange to say, nearly every girl who feels sure she is not a high-class sketch in parlor conversation can back a phonograph into a kitchen corner and tell it pretty stories until it fades away.

This difference can be traced to a lack of self-confidence, due, as some people believe, to foot contact with brussels carpet, and in part to the lack of cultivation of the art of conversation.

If a girl is booked early for the wedding ring she need spend no time in cultivating the art of conversation. Any little break a girl may make after she's engaged doesn't count against her. After she's married, ability to hold her own in monologues, debates and arguments will come to her without effort. It always does.

A selected course in reading has been found of material benefit in enriching one's vocabulary. Good books are always a help. One may improve the mind, the biscuit and help some with angel cake, by a short course with recipe book.

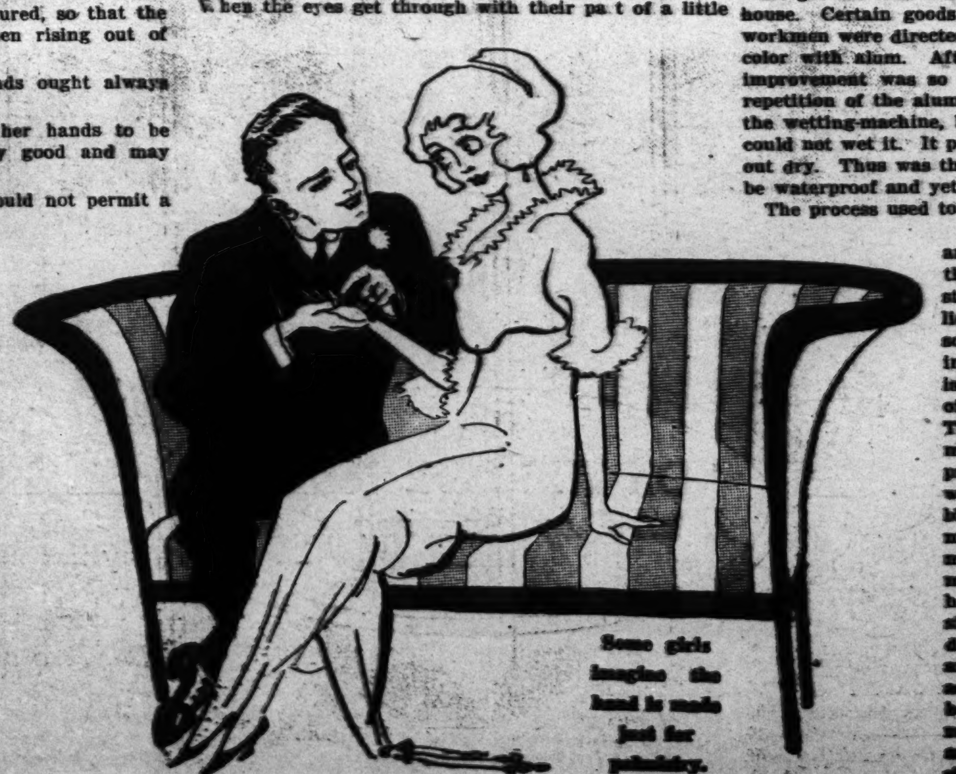


Good books are always a help.

One thing more comes to my mind in this general connection. Every girl, I think, ought to be able to play the piano, whether she knows the scales or not. The gift of music is a present worth having. Once a girl has learned that there's no great difference between the front row of keys and the back row, except in color and tone, and goes to it for a nocturne, a rhapsody or a bit of rag, she's bound to cheer up the flat and get acquainted with the neighbors through the janitor.

As a company coaxer a piano in the home is worth a dozen chafing dishes.

Next Week: How every girl can have the figure of a Venus—by Bunny.



Some girls imagine the hand is made just for palmistry.

RAINPROOFING CLOTH

THE waterproofing of cloth, so universal today, was unknown twenty-five years ago. In 1890 Thomas Fearnley Wiley of Bedford, England, took out the first patent for the process known as "cravenette."

He got the idea from an accident in a Yorkshire dyehouse. Certain goods had been wrongly dyed and the workmen were directed to wash out the surplus logwood color with alum. After the goods had been dried the improvement was so marked that the dyer ordered a repetition of the alum washing. The cloth was sent to the wetting-machine, but the workmen found that they could not wet it. It passed through the water and came out dry. Thus was the discovery made that cloth could be waterproof and yet remain porous.

The process used today is as follows:

Cloths intended for rainproofing are first freed from grease and are then saturated in specially constructed machines with the clear liquor obtained in adding together solutions of pure sulphate of alumina and acetate of lead. The lead is precipitated out and the acetate of alumina is dried in the fabric. The cloth undergoes further treatment with wax, and in the system principally relied on by Wiley the wax is applied frictionally from a block under the pressure of a pneumatic roller. Under the method more generally used, the wax, or mixture of waxes, is melted by heat and applied in an infinitesimally fine film by the action of a doctor roller. The process is in any case not complete until the acetic acid present in the cloth has been dissipated by heat, when a residue of insoluble alumina salts and a protective coating of wax should remain.

NEW and ODD THINGS in SCIENCE

Could We Talk if We Had No Chins?

IN the recent disputes of scientific men over the so-called Piltdown skull, it was said, and seemingly accepted as a fact, that the owner of that skull could not have talked, because he had no chin. Yet a parrot has no chin, but it can talk.

Whether the possession of a chin enabled man to talk or the practice of talking produced the chin is a moot point. Two of the scientists at the British Association meeting in London last month debated it without reaching any definite conclusion.

Dr. L. Robinson, in a paper on "The Relations of the Lower Jaw to Articulate Speech," said his object was to try to explain why man had a chin, and to show whether man's peculiar gift of articulate speech would not throw some light on the extraordinary differences between man and the anthropoids. In man they had such differences in the outline and structure of the lower jaw from that of any animal that there must be some very strong reason for them. It had been said that man's chin was of aesthetic value, and that in sex selection those people were considered to be the best looking who had chins. There might be something in that, but they must go further to explain the presence of a chin.

The advantage of a chin was not outside, but inside. In the jaws of Europeans there were distinct tubercles. First of all, the whole jawbone had dropped downward and then on the inner side tubercles had developed. Dealing particularly with the genio-glossal muscle, he showed a number of plaster casts illustrating its general evolution. That muscle had not been very fully recognized by anatomists as one which had to do with articulate speech, but he thought it had more to do with it than anything else. In almost every sound uttered by the tongue it came into play, and if a man was speaking at the rate of 150 words a minute they would find that the tongue movements were from 400 to 500 a minute.

Among the lower races, and particularly those with imperfect speech, the tubercle was practically absent.

Electricity Takes Off Fat

THE usual remedy for obesity is underfeeding or muscular exercise, and either may have bad effects in the enfeebled condition of many fat persons. French experiments, having shown that electric stimulation may give automatic exercise of the muscles without fatigue, Dr. Nagelschmidt, a German physician, has had built a specially designed apparatus for applying such treatment to the obese.

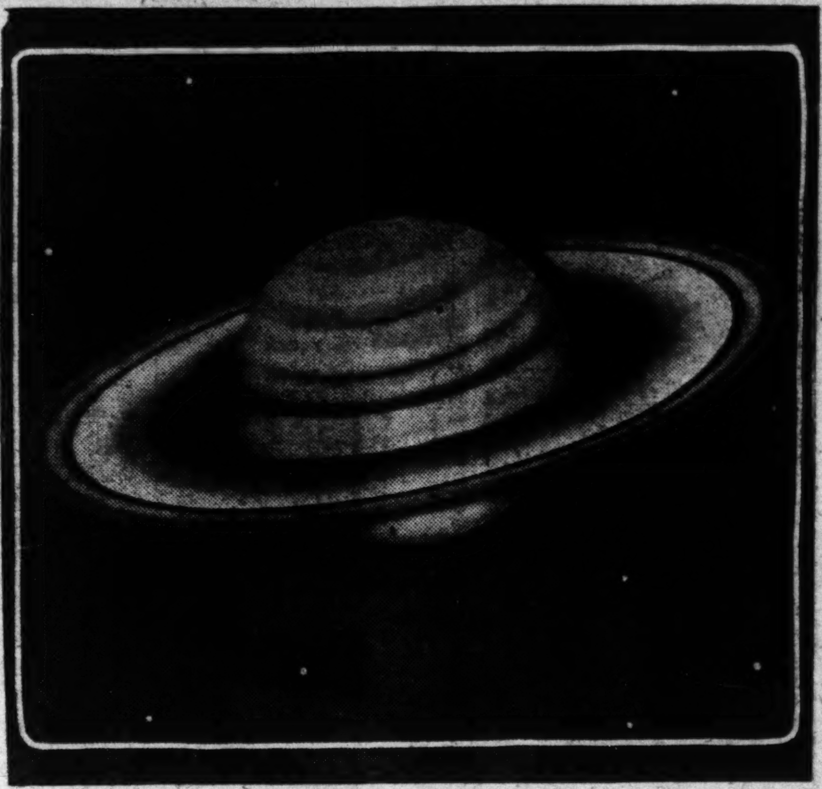
As described by Dr. A. Gradenwitz, this apparatus consists of a strong wooden reclining chair, with insulated metal surfaces serving as electrodes, two electrodes for the patient's back being adjustable by racks, two being placed on the seat, two for the calves arranged on an adjusted foot rest and two others for the abdomen and two for the thighs or chest on special side supports. By 10 small commutators a switchboard connects each electrode either to a positive or a negative pole, each electrode having its regulated resistance.

By a special commutator, driven by a little electric motor, the supply current is transformed into an alternating current, and this for muscular stimulation may reach a frequency as high as 7000 periods a minute. The electric treatment has the same effect in reducing flesh as ordinary muscular exercise, with no harmful consequences. Besides its use for producing muscular contractions the intermittent current is adapted for other purposes and may be made to give local or even general anesthesia.

Chinese Have a New Alphabet

AN educational conference sitting in Pekin has devised a new alphabet for expressing the sounds of the Chinese language. This alphabet consists of parts of Chinese characters which represent fixed sounds, there being 24 initials and 15 finals, making an alphabet of 39 letters. It may be called a Chinese-Roman alphabet, as the method of combination is similar to the Roman. One of the greatest difficulties encountered was the fact that many of the Chinese sounds have different meanings for different intonations.

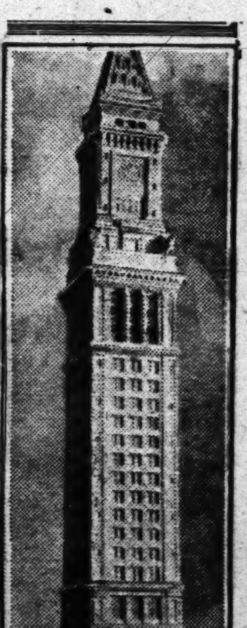
Saturn, His Rings and Eight Largest Satellites



CONCERNING his drawing, which shows Saturn and his rings in January, 1911, Mr. Scriven Bolton writes: "This beautiful planet is composed of such light material that it would float like oak on water. Hence the conditions of existence are, as Sir Robert Ball has it, 'so unlike our own as to render conjecture hopeless.' To view our Earth at a distance, her land and seas would at once be recognized. On the other hand, no such tracts exist on that mighty Saturnian globe, nine times greater in diameter than our Earth. We discern simply a vaporous atmosphere, tormented by an intensely heated core forever hidden from mortal gaze. Cloud-vapor is incessantly shot vertically into the upper atmospheric layers by internal convulsions, and the planet's swift axial rotation distends it into light and dark parallel bands, which encircle the globe, as depicted above. The rings are composed of nothing more than a flight of myriads of small particles round their primary, the inner ones revolving once in 5 hours 50 minutes, and the outer ones in 10 hours. The globe, it will be noticed, is visible through the innermost ring, since the particles here are but sparsely scattered. Not improbably we are witnessing another satellite in process of formation."

Tower Buildings Fashionable for Municipalities

Oakland, (California's) City Hall has a jail on the top floor.



Boston's new Custom House rises 505 feet from a replica of its Doric predecessor

TOWER buildings are apparently fashionable among architects of public buildings. Boston's new custom house is a tower 505 feet high, and the Oakland (Cal.) city hall is a tower 300 feet high. The Boston building takes the place of a beautiful Doric structure, which has been reproduced as the base of the tower.

Oakland's municipal building will be 14 stories and the top floor will be the city prison, whence can be seen, on a clear day, 19 cities and towns. The elevated jail is believed to be unbreakable and thoroughly sanitary. The elevation is also expected to assist the moral regeneration of prisoners, who looking out upon the Golden Gate, and around the circle of 19 towns will feel uplifted. The ventilation of their lofty prison will promote health.

WELDING SUPERSEDES RIVETING

FLAME welding is slowly coming into use in our shops, though not in a way to attract special attention as a shop process with great possibilities. But the visitor to some German machine shops begins to be impressed with the idea that riveting and soldering as means of fastening together two pieces of metal are fast passing away, says the American Machinist. Not only is flame welding used for the operations with which we are familiar, but for others. Aluminum tanks, pipes, etc., for brewers' and chemical manufacturers' use are flame-welded. Nickel is successfully handled under the torch.

SAFETY FOR SWITCHMEN

THE number of times railroad men have lost a foot by having it caught in a switch when a train was approaching has caused a French inventor to design a shoe having a removable sole and heel, says Popular Mechanics. The inner sole and heel of the shoe in question is provided with two steel-lined T-grooves into which little steel rails of corresponding size and form, attached to the outer sole and heel, slide, holding the two firmly together. Should the foot be caught in a switch, the trainman quickly and easily gets out of trouble by jerking his foot forward, leaving the outer sole and heel behind.

Stimulants—Harmless and Intoxicating

THERE are stimulating beverages which are nutritious and exhilarating, and have no injurious effects on the system, says D. L. Field, M. D., in the Medical Fortnightly. I may be criticised as being mistaken when I assert that coffee and tea drinking are not injurious to the nervous system. I have as good health and as good digestion as any man of my age—and I am not young—but I have been drinking coffee for over fifty years, and am a sound sleeper. I drink two cups of coffee at every evening dinner, and my sleep is not disturbed thereby. And, by the way, I have smoked a great deal ever since I was 15 years old. With all this, I am considered by those who know me, to be about the youngest looking man in the city, for my age. While I was old enough to vote for Lincoln in 1864, I have hardly any gray hairs.

I am digressing from my subject, but I will proceed to come to it.

Statistics show that tea is drunk by over five hundred millions of people; hashish is eaten or smoked by over three hundred millions; cocoa is drunk by over a hundred millions; coffee is used by as many as all these added together. In addition to all these beverages there is a propensity for intoxicants. Alcoholic spirits is the leading article of trade and commerce, the world over; and more capital is invested in it, and more money spent in its consumption than in any of the breadstuffs so necessary to feed mankind. The universal demand for malt and spirituous liquors, is not for the purpose of supplying a physiological want, but is followed by a perversion of function, and organic structure, which is only produced by narcotic poisons. Anything which so acts is poison.

Wireless Phone 310 Miles

WIRELESS telephone messages have been exchanged successfully between the famous wireless station at Nauen, a village near Berlin, Germany, and the Technical Museum at Vienna, Austria, 310 miles away. With a new machine that has been perfected newspaper articles read in the Nauen station could be heard distinctly at Vienna and other intermediate stations. It is prophesied that still stronger machines will make it possible to talk across the Atlantic.

Power From Wasted Heat

IN England, at West Hartlepool, is a municipality which, it is understood, is the first to produce electricity by means of waste heat. The two turbo-generators, each 1600 kilowatts, will be driven by exhaust steam from the furnace-blowing engine of the Seaton Carew Iron Co., adjacent to whose works the station is built. In return for their exhaust steam, which has hitherto been blowing to waste in the air, the Seaton Carew Iron Co. will receive current free from the corporation, comments Power. Expenditure on coal will practically be eliminated. The coal bill for the present electricity station is about $20,000 a year.

Filipino Cure for Leprosy

FILIPINO doctors think they may have discovered a cure for leprosy in the administration of an oil called chaulmoogra. Experiments carried on at the San Lazaro Hospital by the Philippine Bureau of Health resulted in the discharge as cured of two patients. In both cases, according to the report of the director of the bureau, after the administration of chaulmoogra oil for some time, all treatment was discontinued for the period of one year, the final microscopical examinations showing negative results.

Elianite a New Metallic Alloy

ELIANITE is a new alloy, prepared in the electric furnace, which is particularly resistant to acids. It is not attacked by chloride or bromide in a free condition, by hydrochloride or nitric acids, or by aqua regia made up of three parts of hydrochloride acid to one of nitric acid. The specific gravity of elianite is [illegible] and its melting point is 1250 degrees centigrade (2282 Fahrenheit).—American Machinist.

ON this page the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine reproduces old daguerreotypes, showing some prominent St. Louisans in childhood or early adult life. It is interesting to compare these likenesses of many years ago with the subjects as they are today.

Those who know David R. Francis, ex-Mayor, ex-Governor and ex-Secretary of the Interior, cannot fail to note striking points of resemblance between the small-boy features and those of the elderly man of today. Mr. Francis was born at Richmond, Ky., Oct. 1, 1850. The childhood likeness of Mrs. Francis, who was Miss Jane Perry of St. Louis, is an appropriate companion picture.

Robert S. Brookings, president of Washington University, probably was not dreaming of becoming a college president when he stood for his picture in a group with his little brother and sister. Only the head-and-bust likeness of Mr. Brookings is reproduced here. In the original group he was shown at full length, carrying a slender cane. Mr. Brookings came to St. Louis from Maryland, his native State, in 1867. For many years he was general manager of the Samuel Cupples Woodenware Co.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel J. Niccolls, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, was daguerreotyped in the long-gone days when young men wore fringe whiskers and men, young and old, wore shawls instead of overcoats. Dr. Niccolls, who is a native of Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, now is in his 76th year.

Daniel M. Houser, president of the Globe Publishing Co., was born Dec. 23, 1834 in Washington County, Maryland. He is shown as a young man in the garb of ante-bellum days.

Henry L. Blossom, insurance man, was steamboating on the Missouri River about the time he sat for the picture reproduced here. He quit the river in 1860. Mr. Blossom is the oldest of the group represented here, having been born March 6, 1833, at Madison, N. Y.

Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., is shown as a small boy shortly after he came to St. Louis from Limerick, Ireland. Mr. Wade has entered his fifty-fifth year.

J. C. Strauss, St. Louis, photographed the original daguerreotypes, and from these photographs the reproductions printed on this page are made.

THINGS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

How to Dodge Stroke of Lightning

EVERY year many persons are killed by lightning because they did not know what to do in a thunderstorm. First of all, it is safer to be indoors than out. Most persons are killed when in the open. If you are caught in a thunderstorm don't be afraid of sheltering under a tree just because you have heard that it is dangerous. It is dangerous to shelter under a solitary tree, because lightning likes to strike the highest point as a rule for some distance round. But you are pretty safe if you take shelter in a wood. A tree in a wood is seldom struck. Certain trees are more dangerous than others. A far greater number of oak trees are struck than beech trees. Elm trees are nearly as dangerous as oak trees. Avoid big crowds and collections of animals. For some reason—probably the warmth that rises from their bodies—crowds of animals and persons are liable to be struck by lightning

Why the Glow Worm Glows

MANY animals possess the power of becoming luminous at will. Glow worms are the most striking example of this curious phenomenon. Many fish that live in the deep seas possess this same power of becoming luminous. Scientific men have vainly tried to explain the mechanism of this luminosity. Prof. Armand Gautier of Paris has just communicated to the Academy of Sciences a notice of MM. Ylle and Denien of Montpellier, who explain this production of light by the exidation of a substance secreted by luminous animals, called lophine. This organic azoted substance, under the influence of oxygen, emits a visible luminosity. Potash, in the presence of catalytic elements, such as the ferruginous matters of the blood, likewise provokes the oxidation of the lophine, and consequently forms light. Oxygenated water has also the same property. In the organisms it is unstable oxygen of the tissues catalyzed by the ferruginous elements of the blood that produces the oxidation of the lophine and renders animals luminous.

Eclipse of Male Ducks

ALMOST without exception among the ducks, the male is more gaily apparelled than his mate. And where this is the case the poor male has to undergo a period of humiliation. This begins as soon as his mate has settled down to the doubtful delights of rearing a family. He then betakes himself to some quiet retreat where he may undergo the inevitable with as little hurt to his vanity as circumstances will allow.

His glory returns with the splendors of autumn. But its attainment is not to be hastened by outbursts of impatience. Feather by feather he comes into his own again, and at last may show himself to the world, with just a suspicion of embarrassment, born of the consciousness of the sorry plight from which he has emerged!

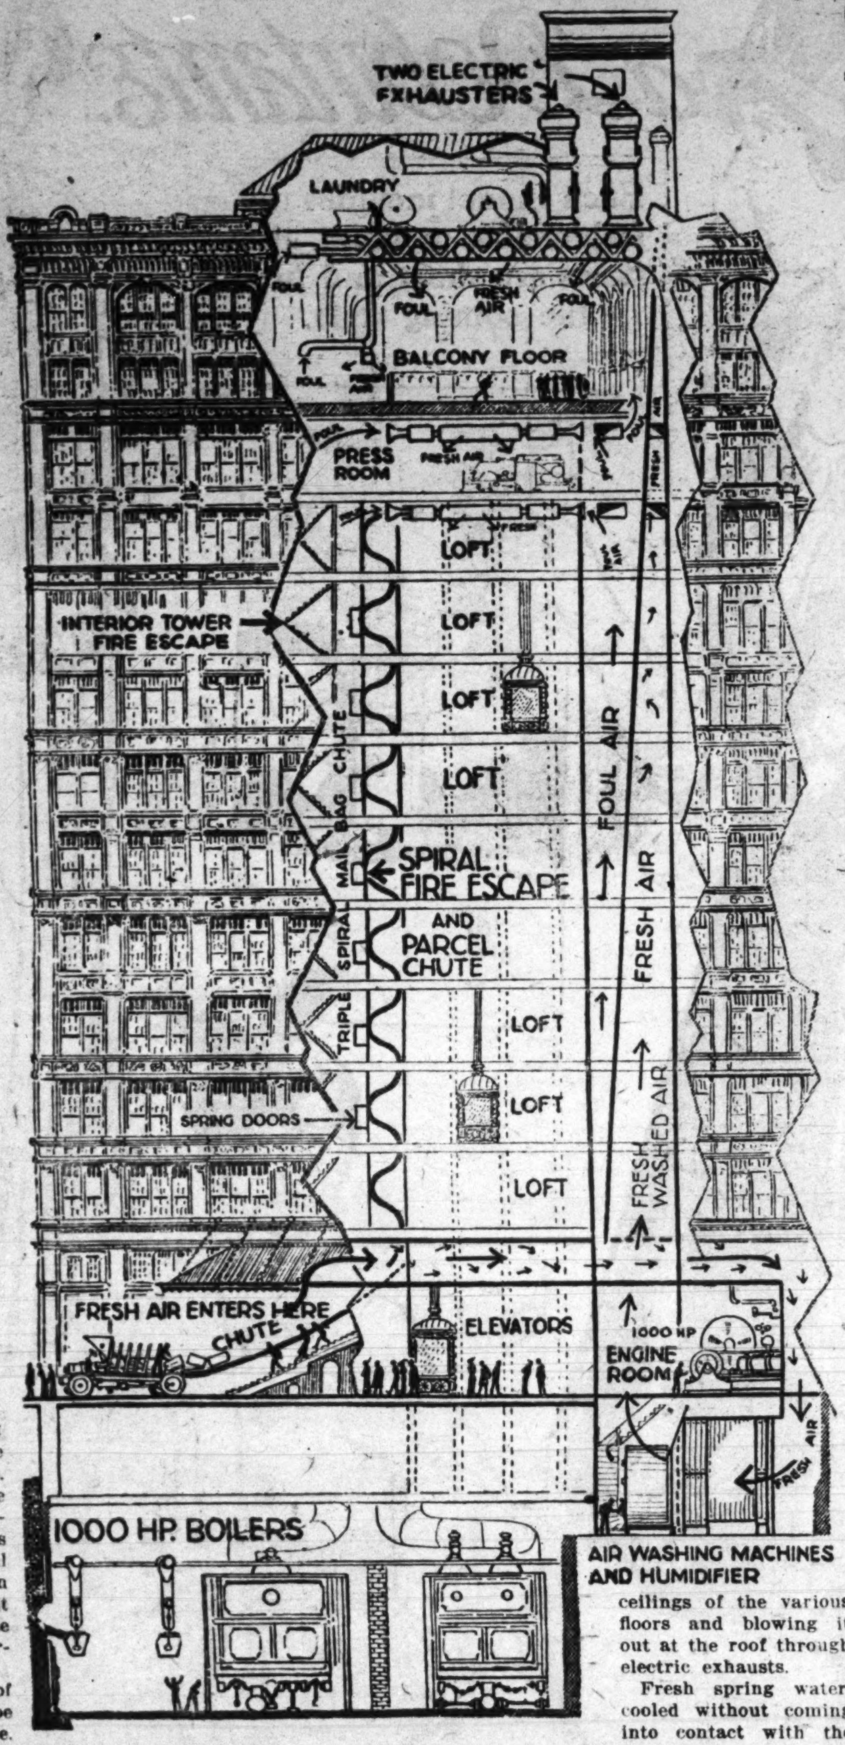
Mushroom Fallacies

UNDER the head of "Mushroom Fallacies" it is asserted editorially in the Journal of the American Medical Association that the traditional test of the comic paragrapher is really the only way to tell a mushroom from a toadstool. This test, it may be remembered, is simply to eat the object. "If it kills you, it's a toadstool; if it doesn't, it's a mushroom." Furthermore, even the most nutritious mushrooms have little nutritive value. Their chief use, the writer thinks, is as condiments; and as a condiment that may poison the eater is an undesirable one, the conclusion is obvious.

A Film City

UNIVERSITY CITY, in California, is a very remarkable town, every man and woman in it depending upon moving-pictures for a living. A cinematograph actress is Mayor, and scenic artists and plot-writers hold important positions in the municipal life. Its policemen and dustmen take minor parts in photo-plays, whilst even the dogs and other domestic pets are made use of. The population numbers several thousand.

Skyscraper Built of Glass Is Tightly Sealed



HERE'S a skyscraper revolutionary—all glass except the skeleton of steel and not a window in it.

Paradoxical as this may seem, it is true. Though 78 per cent of New York's newest building will be glass you can't lift a single window sash on any of its 12 floors. The shining pile is to be sealed tight as a drum; but its ventilation will be perfection. Workers within will get their air freshly washed and dried out at the proper temperature year in and year out, no matter the heat or the cold on the other side of its four glass walls. In winter the fresh atmosphere sucked in from without will be heated, in summer it will be cooled. It will be purified at all seasons of the year. No germs need apply.

The glass building is 12 stories in height, but it will be the tallest 12-story building in the world. Its interior will be built to be noiseless, dustless, draughtless, thanks to the sealing of it. It is being built to house the plant of the Hill Publishing Co. Its cost, $1,500,000, of which $300,000 is for the power plant alone.

Fresh air enters at the second floor and is washed and dried, passing through a shower chamber, where a blinding downpour of artificial rain rids it of its impurities. Thus washed, the air is sucked through cooling chambers into a huge flue reaching to the top of the skyscraper. This flue is divided into two wedge-shape sections, one taking up the clean air and sending it out on every floor and the other gathering in the foul air from the ceilings of the various floors and blowing it out at the roof through electric exhausts.

Fresh spring water, cooled without coming into contact with the ice, is piped through the building to sanitary fountains on each floor.

A hot water heating system, independent of the air supply, automatically regulated, keeps the building at an even temperature always.

Rubber floors obviate all noise from within, working in conjunction with electric carriers to each desk, noiseless typewriters and dictaphones.

Vibration is obviated by a new process of construction. Each floor supports 300 pounds a square foot.

The mail bag chute is also a fire-escape. It is built in the shape of a huge tube with three spirals seven feet in diameter. You just hop into it as a helper might toss a mail bag, and, presto! you are down to the street in the blink of an eye.

Ink is piped to the press room by automatic air pressure. Coal and ashes are handled by gravity and automatic machinery without a single manual operation.

Besides the spiral escape there is a stair tower within the building from roof to basement. Inclosed in brick are two sets of escape stairs, one over the other, to provide the maximum of stair room in case quick escape is necessary.

On the roof is a sun parlor for the women employes and a morning room for the men. A steam laundry is here, too, where all the uniform overalls worn by workers will be washed, as well as towels and other necessary linen. Six passenger elevators and two for freight make the trip to the roof at express speed.

Household Science

COFFEE stains (with cream) may be removed by applying pure glycerine. Rinse in lukewarm water and press on the wrong side until dry.

TO clean jewelry, rub it with a cloth wet with alcohol diluted one-half. Rub dry with a soft cloth.

WHEN washing black stockings add a tablespoonful of vinegar to the water in which they are to be rinsed, and they will keep their color well.

SILVER dress trimmings may be cleaned by covering them with powdered magnesia and leaving them for two hours. Rub magnesia in and brush off with a stiff brush.

WHEN washing a fringed bedspread, never put it through the wringer after the last rinsing water, but hang on the line dripping and it will dry without a crease or wrinkle, will not require ironing and the fringe will be as fluffy and straight as when new.

GREASE spots can be removed from woolen cloth by a paste made of fuller's earth and turpentine. This should be rubbed upon the fabric until the turpentine has evaporated, and a white powder remains. The latter can be brushed off and the grease will have disappeared.

MANY housewives use chamois skins for cleaning windows, but when the skins become soiled and stiff they do not know how to restore them. Soak the chamois skin in a weak solution of washing soda, then in soapsuds for two hours; then rinse thoroughly in water and finally in a solution of soap and soda and dry.

ONE woman keeps her carpets and rugs bright and clean by removing the brush from her carpet sweeper and dipping it into hot water in which she has dropped a teaspoonful of turpentine. This is also a good preventive of moths. Of course the inside of the sweeper should be wiped dry after using and the brush should be cleaned and dried.

IF you wish to save time and labor for yourself or your waitress put two or three cubes of gum camphor in your silver drawer or chest. Silver that is bright when the camphor is put in will remain bright for months. Of course, egg or other stains must be rubbed off at the first washing. The camphor device was told me by a clerk in a silver shop who declared that their silver was never rubbed or brightened, the camphor saving them all the trouble and work.

Evil of Tobacco

DISCUSSING the evil effect of over-indulgence in tobacco smoking, at a meeting of the Life Insurance Medical Officers' Association in London, Dr. Horace G. Turney said it aggravated neuralgia and migraine, injured the muscles of the heart, caused hardening of the arteries and contraction of the unstriped muscular fiber in both bowels and arteries. But he professed to a feeling of astonishment that the life-long absorption of so potent a drug as nicotine by a large proportion of the male population should not be accompanied by more obvious results in the way of serious injury to the muscles of the heart than appears to be the case.

A Girl You Know

— Number 4 —

THE ALL-ENDURING MOTHER

DOROTHY, after spending three hours and eleven minutes dressing (she doesn't eat luncheon, so that time was saved for primping!) is now off to the matinee. Her lovely appearance more than atones for the frightful waste of time at the cheval-glass, as is proven many times this afternoon on her walk home by the number of poor wretches who, in staring at her as she passes, maim themselves by walking into taxicabs and lamp-posts.

Dorothy at the present instant is saying to her mother: "Now, mother, DO have that frock finished for me in time for this evening; it's terribly important!"

Mother, by the way, has been workng for days on the darn thing, till she has made her finger-ends look like Turkish toweling. She has slaved and waited on her pretty daughter continually since she "came out;" has been, in fact, a maid to her. All of which Dorothy has accepted as her due—that's the maddening part of it.

The size of Mr. Perkins' income makes it necessary for him and his wife to use the street cars so that daughter may take taxis. And Mrs. Perkins covers her best summer hat with silk for the fall because Dorothy has to have seven or twelve new "dreams." It really isn't all Dorothy's fault that she considers Dorothy almost exclusively. It is more or less forced upon her by poor idiot mother! Father, of course, follows mother's lead—protesting manfully!

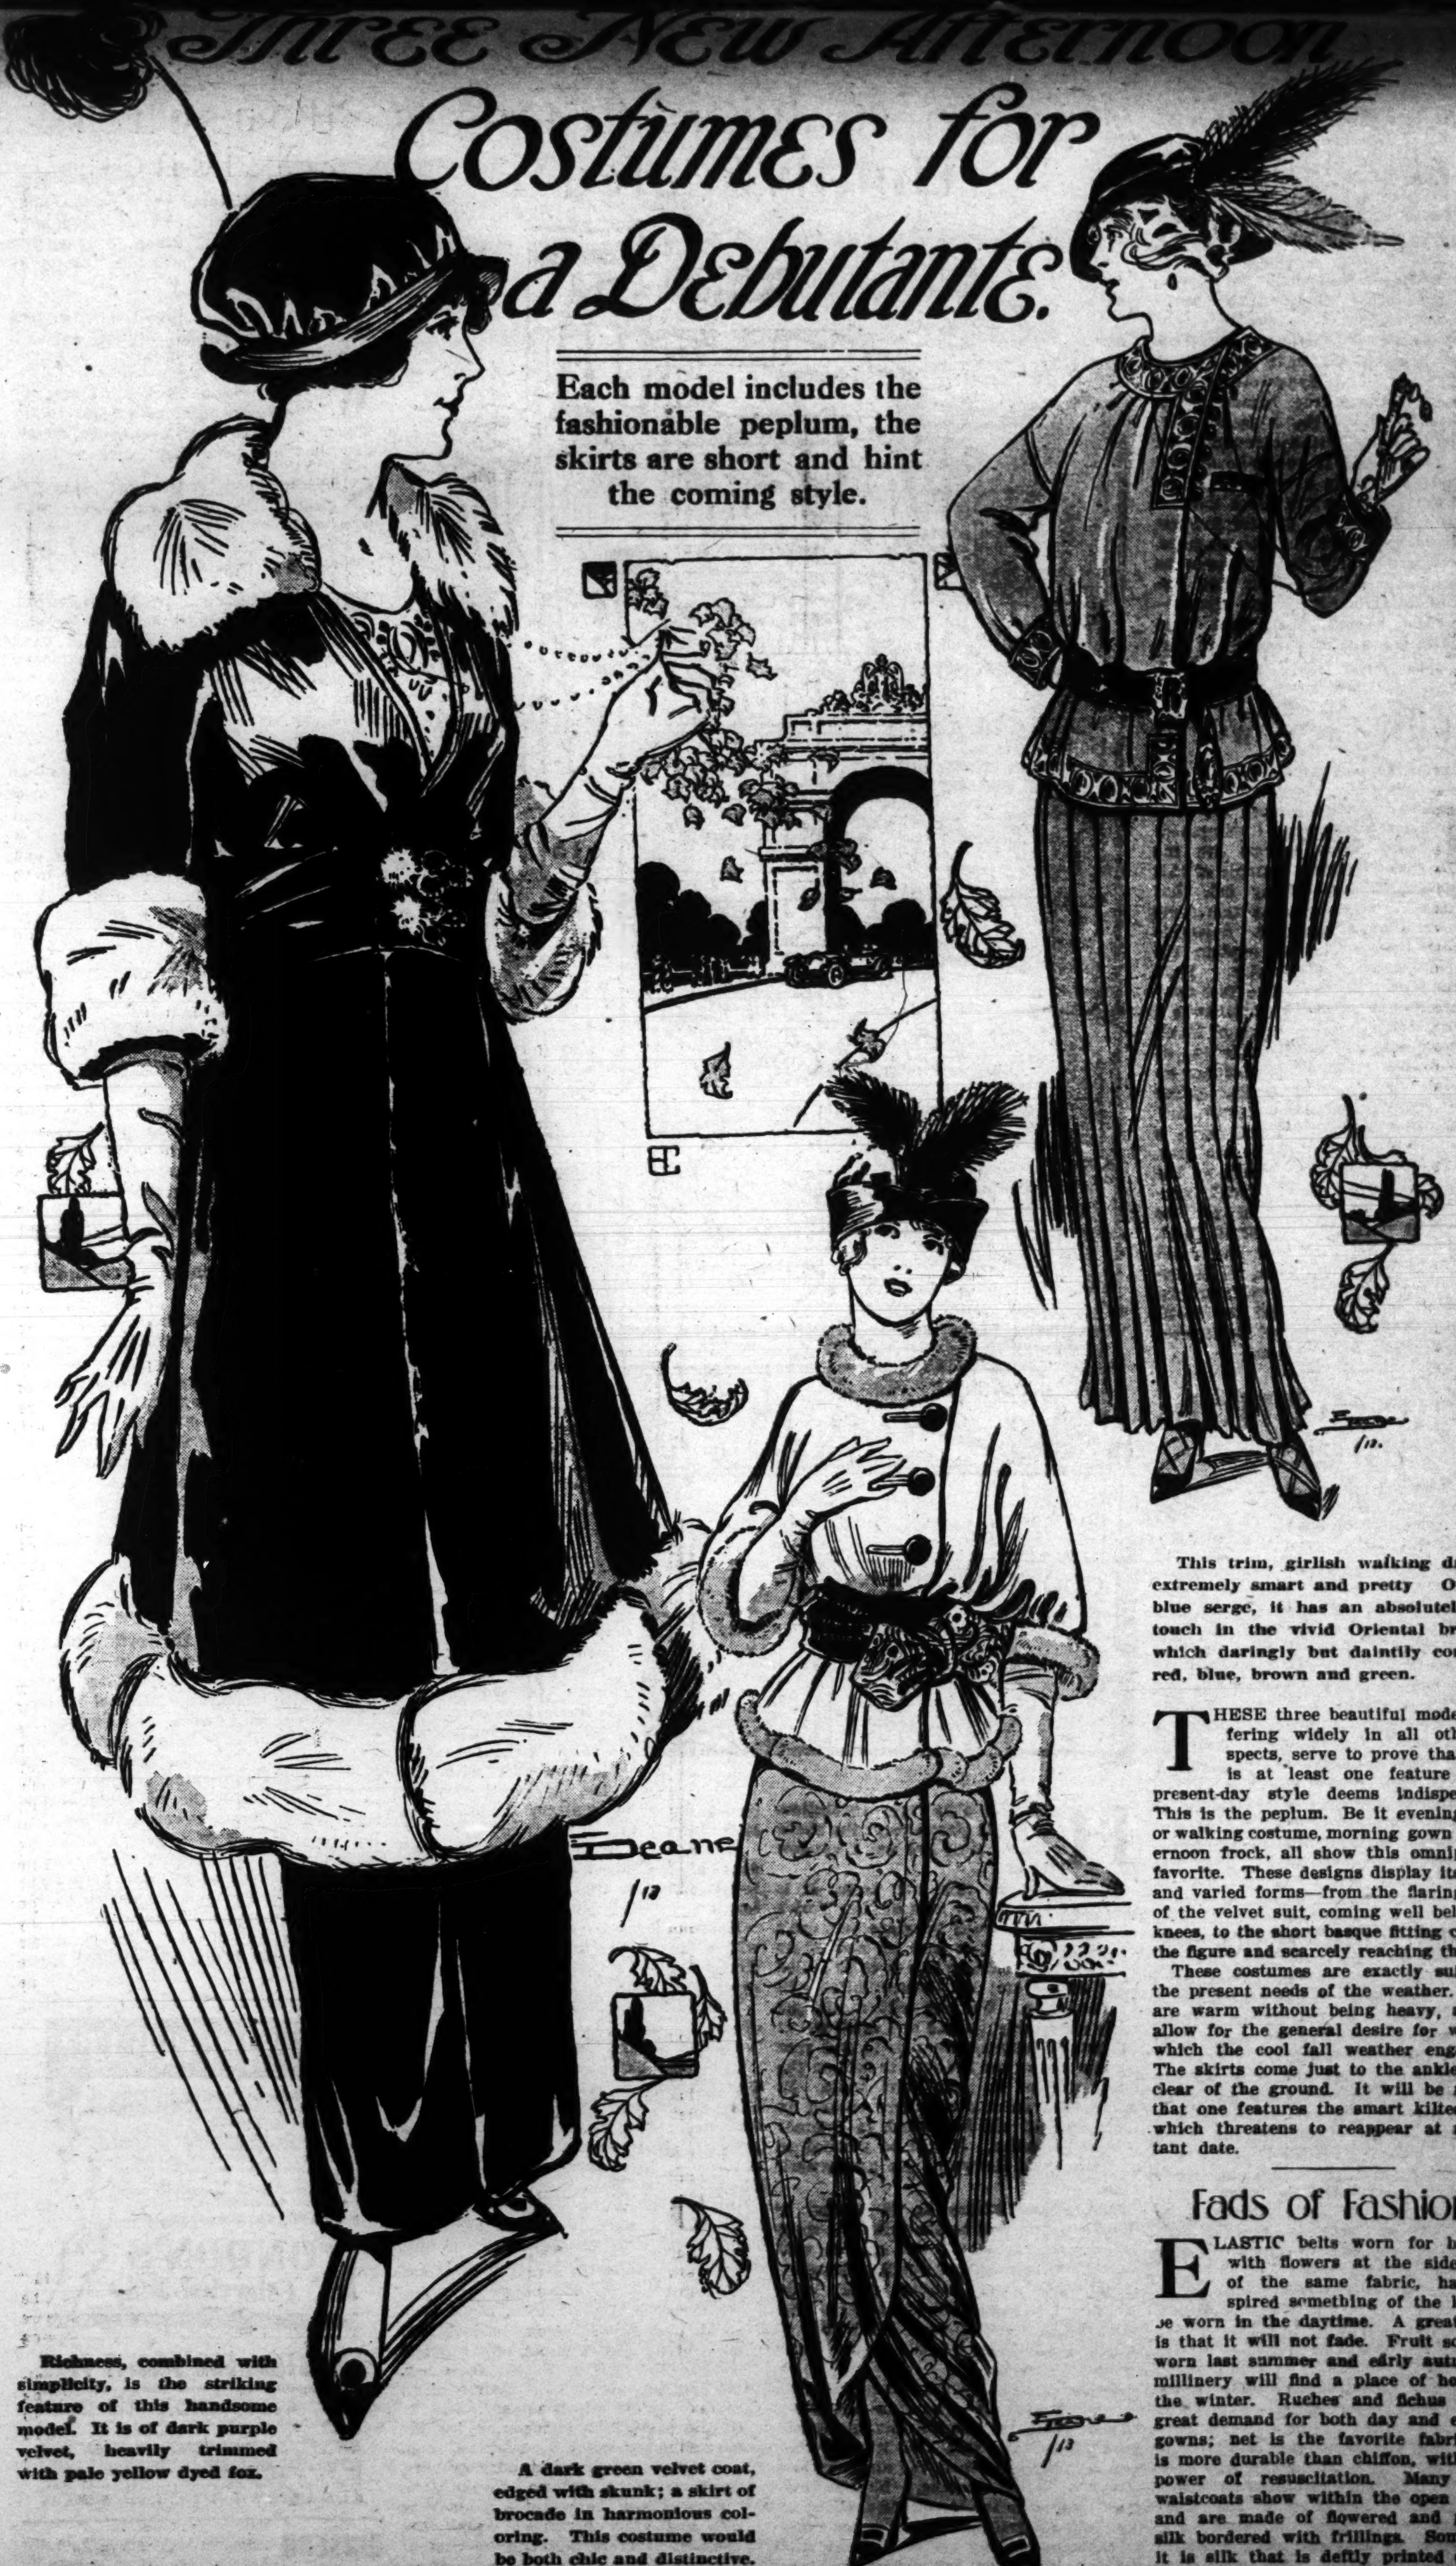
Just Like "Pinafore" She Mixed

Three New Afternoon Costumes for a Debutante.

Each model includes the fashionable peplum, the skirts are short and hint the coming style.



Richness, combined with simplicity, is the striking feature of this handsome model. It is of dark purple velvet, heavily trimmed with pale yellow dyed fox.

A dark green velvet coat, edged with skunk; a skirt of brocade in harmonious coloring. This costume would be both chic and distinctive.

This trim, girlish walking dress is extremely smart and pretty Of dark blue serge, it has an absolutely new touch in the vivid Oriental braiding which daringly but daintily combines red, blue, brown and green.

THESE three beautiful models, differing widely in all other respects, serve to prove that there is at least one feature which present-day style deems indispensable. This is the peplum. Be it evening dress or walking costume, morning gown or afternoon frock, all show this omnipresent favorite. These designs display its many and varied forms—from the flaring tunic of the velvet suit, coming well below the knees, to the short basque fitting close to the figure and scarcely reaching the hips.

These costumes are exactly suited to the present needs of the weather. They are warm without being heavy, and all allow for the general desire for walking which the cool fall weather engenders. The skirts come just to the ankles, well clear of the ground. It will be noticed that one features the smart kilted skirt which threatens to reappear at no distant date.

Fads of Fashion

ELASTIC belts worn for bathing, with flowers at the side made of the same fabric, have inspired something of the kind to be worn in the daytime. A great merit is that it will not fade. Fruit so much worn last summer and early autumn in millinery will find a place of honor in the winter. Ruches and fichus are in great demand for both day and evening gowns; net is the favorite fabric, and is more durable than chiffon, with more power of resuscitation. Many fancy waistcoats show within the open bodice, and are made of flowered and printed silk bordered with frillings. Sometimes it is silk that is deftly printed or brocaded with flowers.

Just · Like "Pinafore" She Mixed the Babies Up

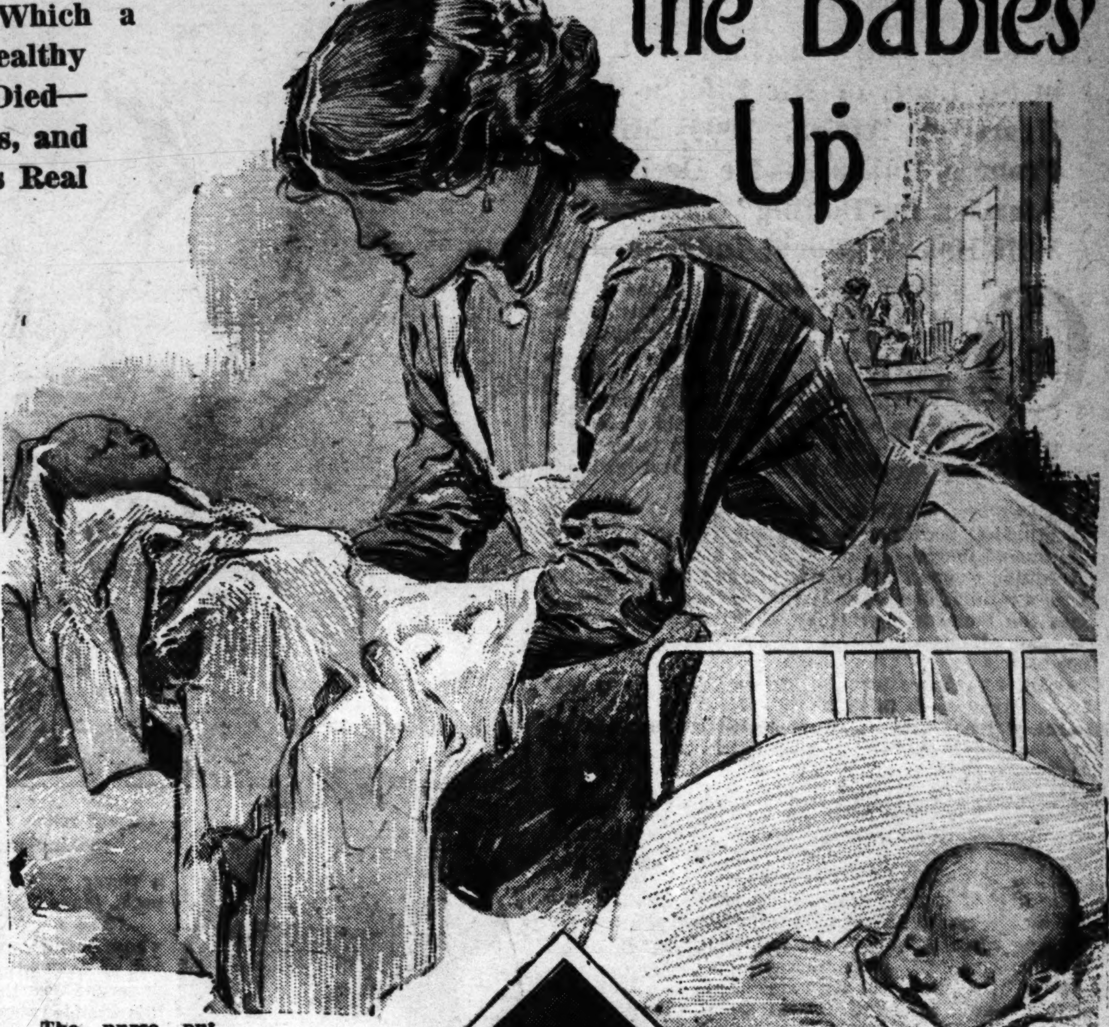
Remarkable Case in Real Life in Which a Nurse Substitutes a Poor but Healthy Child for a Rich Baby Who Had Died—Truth Revealed After Four Years, and Love for the Living Baby Brings Real Mother's Sacrifice

Oh, bitter is my cup!
How ever could I do it?
I mixed those children up,
And not a creature knew it.

Two tender babes I nussed.
One was of low condition,
The other upper-crust,
A regular patrician.

Chorus:
How ever could she do it?
Some day, no doubt, she'll rue it,
Although no creature knew it
Many years ago.

—From the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore."



The nurse put the rich woman's dead baby in the place of the poor widow's living child.

WHEN William S. Gilbert, almost a generation ago, wrote the foregoing lyric for which Sir Arthur Sullivan, his collaborator, composed the music, he was creating unwittingly a situation which only the other day was brought to light in real life on this side of the ocean.

A trained nurse in a children's hospital in Reading, Pa., made a confession on her deathbed which revealed a mixing up of babies with a result that has gone far beyond the humorous situation set forth in Little Buttercup's song in "Pinafore." When she was about to die she called to her bedside two mothers, one "of low condition," the other "upper-crust," and told a secret which had weighed upon her conscience for four years. During these years the first mother, a poor young widow, had believed that a tiny grave in a Reading cemetery contained the mortal remains of her baby. The other mother, a happy wife, had cherished all this time a child whom she believed to be her own. Both mothers were mistaken. The dead baby was the offspring of the well-to-do woman. The living child is the daughter of the poor widow.

The latter is Mrs. Beatrice Gaddes-Harris, who for the past year has been living with the family of Thomas Schiller at Bridgeton, N. J., where she is employed. The other woman's identity she refuses to divulge for the sake of the child—her own child—who since the revelations made by the dying nurse she has given over to the foster mother for adoption. Mrs. Harris desires that little Mary, whom she is unable properly to support, shall grow up surrounded by the luxuries provided by the woman she believes to be her mother, without becoming aware that she is the child of another woman.

Beatrice McLaughlin—her name was Bridget, but her friends called her Beatrice and she adopted the name—first married Samuel Gaddes, who took her from Lansford, Pa., to the mining town of Nesqueshoning in the same State. Gaddes was a miner for the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Co. They lived in a rude cottage in the miners' village, where one day a black wagon drove up to the door. Mrs. Gaddes knew what that meant. There had been an explosion in the mine. She had hoped that her husband had escaped. She shared the sudden bereavement of many miners' wives. George Gaddes was brought home and buried.

Mrs. Gaddes returned to her old home at Lansford. She was destitute, but still young. After a little while suitors came. Within a year the young widow married Marshall Harris and life once more began to assume a rosy radiance.

A baby daughter was born to the Harrises Oct. 2, 1909. They named her Mary. She was a delicate child, but the proud young parents adored and cherished her, in the fond hope of having her grow up as a strong and beautiful woman.

Once more tragedy intervened. An accident cost Marshall Harris his life when the baby was but a few weeks old. Widowed again, left practically penniless for the second time, Beatrice McLaughlin Gaddes-Harris was in sore distress. In her sorrow she visited Father Bowen, her parish priest, of St. Ann's Church in Lansford. She had sought employment in vain, she told him. Nobody cared to employ a woman with a puny baby in her arms. Little Mary was ailing and needed care which the mother was unable to bestow.

Father Bowen recommended that Mrs. Harris place her baby in the children's hospital at Reading. She carried the child there and left it in care of a nurse assigned by the nuns in charge. In the same room, on another little bed at Mary's side, was a baby girl of almost the same age to a day. This child belonged to a family of means. When it became ill and required careful nursing and medical attention it was taken to the hospital, but it was not a charity patient.

Side by side the two infants struggled for their lives. The nurse, a young woman of motherly instincts, attended them devotedly. She knew the antecedents of each—that one was the poverty-stricken widow's child, the other from a home of wealth and ease. She knew also that Mrs. Harris had gone away and found work which she could not do if she had a baby to look after.

The tender care of doctors and the nurse worked wonders with the widow's baby, little Mary Harris. The child began to mend, she grew chubby, she took on rosy cheeks. The other baby grew paler and thinner. She pined away. Science, tender nursing, could not stay the progress of the ailment that was wasting away the puny frame.

The nurse, from day to day, watched the progress of her two little patients—one toward health, the other toward death. She was a warm-hearted nurse. She thought of the two mothers. One of them could provide every comfort, even luxuries, for her child, and could bring her up an educated woman, capable of living a happy life. The other was struggling for subsistence—a working woman, one who must place her baby in some orphanage merely that she might continue earning a living for herself. Her child must grow up in an "institution"—and the nurse knew what that is: A dull, drab childhood, adoption into some family where she might be mistreated, in any event a life devoid of a mother's immediate care.

So the nurse forecast the horoscope, considered the probabilities, of the child who was going to survive. The prospect obsessed her. She could think of little else. Would not Beatrice Harris be far better off with her baby lying in its grave, and would not the baby itself be far better off thus than to become a drudge for some family of strangers? And would it not be easy for her—the nurse—to make it appear that little Mary Harris had died and the other baby was the one that survived? This idea came to her as the other baby gasped out its little life.

It was not an idea of evil intention. The nurse, at the time, felt that to do this would be to do the best thing for the surviving child and for both the mothers.

Mary Harris as she looked when her own mother took her to Reading, Pa., early in 1910.

Mrs. Beatrice McLaughlin-Gaddes-Harris, mother of "Little Mary."

The idea having taken such a powerful hold, she could not resist it. She was alone in the room with the dead baby girl and Mary Harris, living and recovering rapidly. She placed the dead baby in the living baby's cot, rearranged the bedding in the other cot and placed little Mary there. Then she reported and recorded the death of Mary Harris.

A message was flashed to Beatrice Harris: "Little Mary died this morning." The next day Mrs. Harris arrived at the hospital. She gazed long and tearfully upon the little dead face. Her child was but a few weeks old. Sickness had altered its features so that she could not be expected to realize the deception that had been practiced. Weeping, she saw what she believed to be her own little daughter buried in the neighboring churchyard. Then, sorrowfully she took up again her arduous workaday life.

The other mother was notified, a few days later, that her baby had quite recovered. She visited the hospital and joyously took Mary Harris to her bosom, calling her by the name she had bestowed upon her own child. Henceforth Mary Harris was to be known by that name and not her own.

All this, as it has been stated, took place four years ago. Since then Mrs. Harris, when occasion has permitted, has visited the grave of the other woman's child and laid flowers upon it. Since then the other woman has taken delight in providing pretty clothing and toys for the child who once was Mary Harris, and her husband, believing himself to be this child's father, has shared her joy in cherishing the little girl

When the nurse called the two women to her deathbed and made her solemn confession the well-to-do woman was accompanied by the child, who called her "mamma" and clung to her. Beatrice Harris looked at the little girl with the mother-hunger in her eyes.

"Please don't take her from me!" pleaded the other woman. "I have had her so long that I could not live without her. She is very happy with me. I can give her so much in love, in comfort, in luxuries."

So, for the sake of her child, Mrs. Harris agreed to sign adoption papers. She has gone back to her work.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT'S STORY of HIS LIFE:

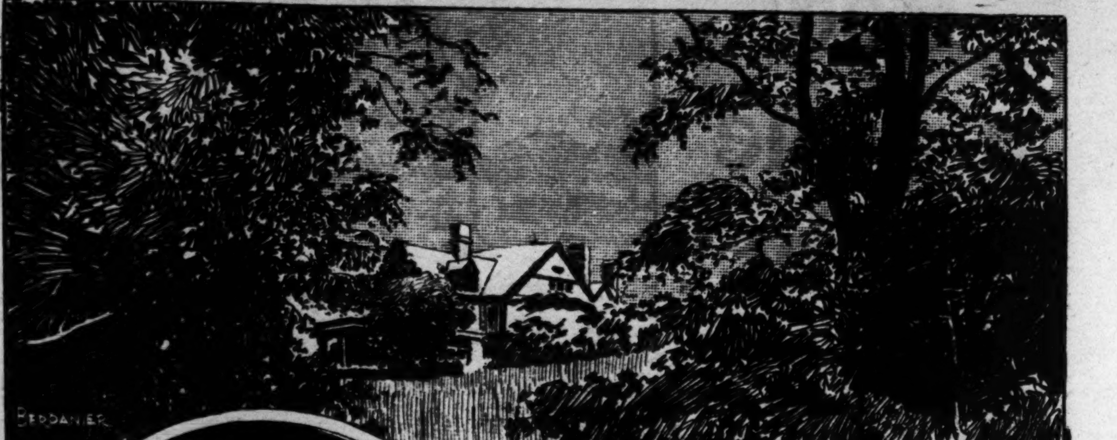
An Intimate View of Home Affairs at Sagamore

The Ex-President Tells of Pictures, Statuary and Other Trophies From Friends and Admirers Which Adorn His House—A Remington Bronze, "The Bronco Buster," One of His Most Cherished Possessions—Shoe Worn by Dan Patch When He Paced a Mile in 1:59 a Good Luck Omen :: :: :: ::



SAGAMORE HILL takes its name from the old Sagamore Mohannis, who, as chief of his little tribe, signed away his rights to the land two centuries and a half ago. The house stands right on top of the hill, separated by fields and a belt of woodland from all other houses, and looks out over the bay and the sound. We see the sun go down beyond long reaches of land and of water. Many birds dwell in the trees round the house or in the pastures and the woods near by, and of course in winter gulls, loons and wild fowl frequent the waters of the bay and the sound.

We love all the seasons—the snows and bare woods of winter, the rush of growing things and the blossom spray of spring, the yellow grain, the ripening fruits and tasseled corn and the deep, leafy shades that are heralded by "the green dance of summer;" and the sharp fall winds that tear the brilliant banners with which the trees greet the dying year.

At Sagamore Hill we love a great many things—birds and trees and books and all things beautiful, and horses and rifles and children and hard work and the joy of life. We have great fireplaces, and in them the logs roar and crackle during the long winter evenings. The big piazza is for the hot, still afternoons of summer. As in every house, there are things that appeal to the householder because of their associations, but which would not mean much to others. Naturally, any man who has been President, and filled other positions, accumulates such things, with scant regard to his own personal merits.

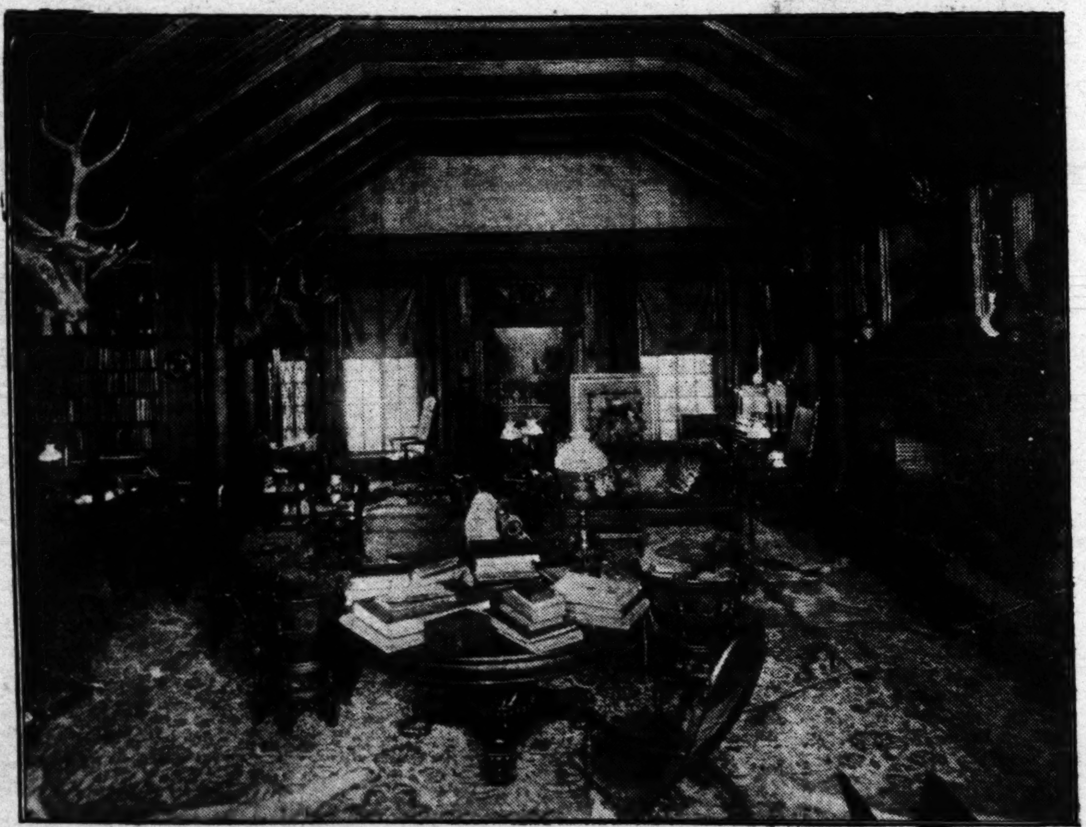
Perhaps our most cherished possessions are a Remington bronze, "The Bronco Buster," given me by my men when the regiment was mustered out, and a big Tiffany silver vase given to Mrs. Roosevelt by the enlisted men of the battleship Louisiana after we returned from a cruise on that vessel to Panama. It was a real surprise gift, presented to her in the White House, on behalf of the whole crew, by four as strapping man-of-war's-men as ever swung a turret or pointed a 12-inch gun.

The enlisted men of the army I already knew well—of course I knew well the officers of both army and navy. But the enlisted men of the navy I grew to know well only when I was President. On the Louisiana Mrs. Roosevelt and I once dined at the chief petty officers' mess, and on another battleship, the Missouri (when I was in company with Admiral Evans and Capt. Cowles), and again on the Sylph and on the Mayflower, we also dined as guests of the crew. When we finished our trip on the Louisiana I made a short speech to the assembled crew, and at its close one of the petty officers, the very picture of what a man-of-war's-man should look like, proposed three cheers for me in terms that struck me as curiously illustrative of America at her best. He said: "Now then, men, three cheers for Theodore Roosevelt, the typical American citizen!" That was the way in which they thought of the American President—and a very good way, too. It was an expression that would have come urally only to men in whom the American principles ernment and life were ingrained, just as they rained in the men of my regiment.

arcely add, but I will add for the benefit do not know, that this attitude of self- cation of interest and purpose is only can only exist when there is fine thorough and genuine as the discipline that has always obtained in the most formidable fighting fleets and armies. The discipline and the mutual respect are complementary, not antagonistic.

The Mistress of Sagamore Hill.

During the presidency, all of us, but especially the children, became close friends with many of the sailor men. The four bearers of the vase to Mrs. Roosevelt were promptly hailed as delightful big brothers by our two smallest boys, who at once took them to see the sights of Washington in the landeau—"the President's land-ho!" as, with seafaring humor, our guests immediately styled it.



The North Room at Sagamore Hill.

Once, after we were in private life again, Mrs. Roosevelt was in a railway station and had some difficulty with her ticket. A fine-looking, quiet man stepped up and asked if he could be of help; he remarked that he had been one of the Mayflower's crew and knew us well; and in answer to a question explained that he had left the navy in order to study dentistry, and added—a delicious touch—that while thus preparing himself to be a dentist he was earning the necessary money to go on with studies by practicing the profession of a prizefighter, being a good man in the ring.

There are various bronzes in the house: Saint-Gaudens' "Puritan," a token from my staff officers when I was Governor; Proctor's cougar, the gift of the Tennis Cabinet—who also gave us a beautiful silver bowl, which is always lovingly pronounced to rhyme with "owl" because that was the pronunciation used at the time of the giving by a valued friend who acted as spokesman for his fellow members, and who was himself the only non-American member of the said Cabinet.

There is a horseman by Macmonnies and a big bronze vase by Kemys, an adaptation or development of the pottery vases of the Southwestern Indians. Mixed with all of these are gifts from varied sources, ranging from a brazen Buddha sent me by the Dalai Lama and a wonderful psalter from the Emperor Menelik to a priceless ancient Samuari sword coming from Japan in remembrance of the peace of Portsmouth, and a beautifully inlaid miniature suit of Japanese armor given me by a favorite hero of mine, Admiral Togo, when he visited Sagamore Hill.

There are things from European friends; a mosaic picture of Pope Leo XIII in his garden; a huge, very handsome edition of the Nibelungenlied; a striking miniature of John Hampden from Windsor Castle; editions of Dante, and the campaigns of "Eugenio von Savoy" (another of my heroes, a dead hero this time); a Viking cup; the State sword of a Uganda King; the gold box in which the "freedom of the city of Paris" was given me by the French authorities after my speech at Sorbonne; and many other things from sources as diverse as the Sultan of Turkey and the Dowager Empress of China.

Then there are things from home friends; a polar bear skin from Peary, a Sioux buffalo robe with on it, painted by some long-dead Sioux artist, the picture story of Custer's fight; a bronze portrait plaque of Joel Chandler Harris; the candlestick used in sealing the treaty of Portsmouth; sent me by Capt. Cameron Winslow; a shoe worn by Dan Patch when he paced a mile in 1:59, sent me his owners. There is a picture of a bull moose by Rungius, which seems to me as spirited an animal nting as I have ever seen.

"And this man," said Farallone, "will do as he's told."

There was nothing for it. We left them alone in the meadow and descended the cliff to the river. And there we stood for what seemed the ages of ages, listening and trembling.

A faint, far-off detonation, followed swiftly by louder and fainter echoes, broke suddenly upon the rushing noises of the river. We commenced feverishly to scramble back up the cliff. Halfway to the top we heard another shot, a second later a third, and after a long interval, as if to put a quietus upon some final show of life—a fourth.

A nebulous drift of smoke hung above the meadow.

Farallone lay upon his face at the bride's feet. The groom sprang to her side and threw a trembling arm about her.

"Come away," he cried, "come away."

But the bride freed herself gently from his encircling arms, her eyes still bent upon Farallone.

"Not till I have buried my dead," she said.

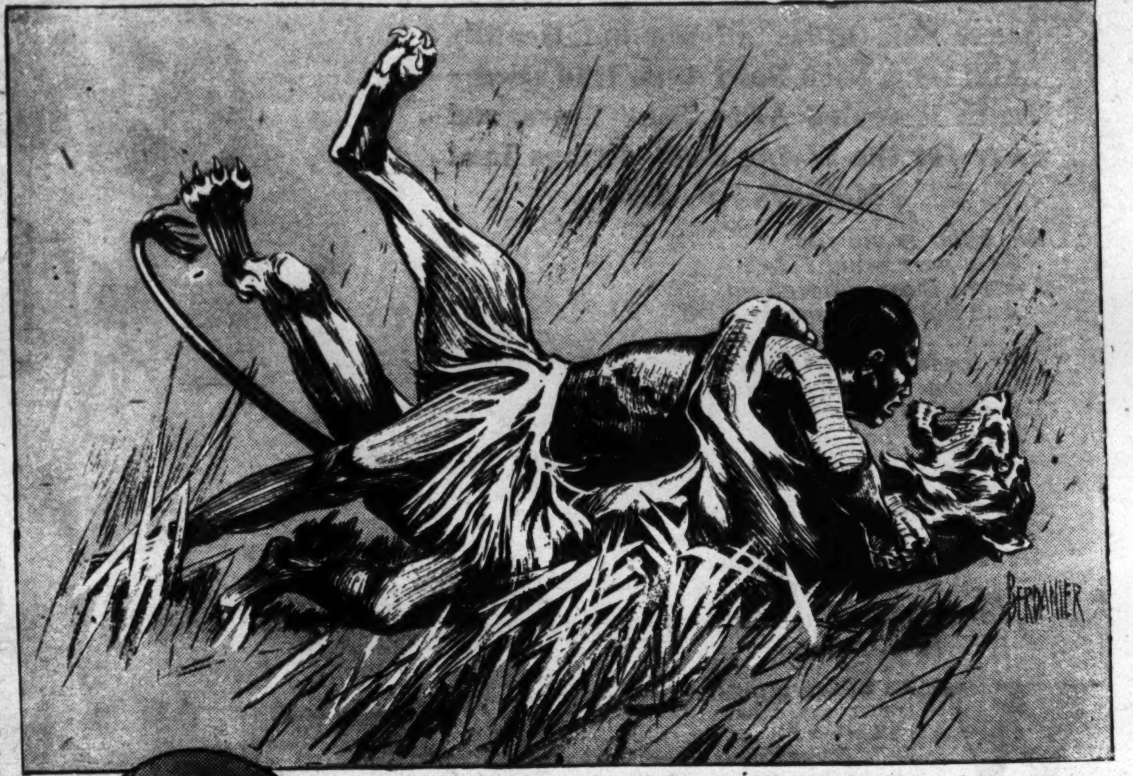
Twenty-Three Years in Cannibal Land, Where Men Throttle Lions in Bare-Hand Combat

Missionary Dan Crawford Will Tell in St. Louis of His Life in the Heart of Africa, 1000 Miles From a Railroad—He Declares America Is "Bolting" Life and Will Have National Indigestion



''They rolled over in a whirl of man and lion * * * there was a choking gurgle and the beast collapsed—choked stone dead.''

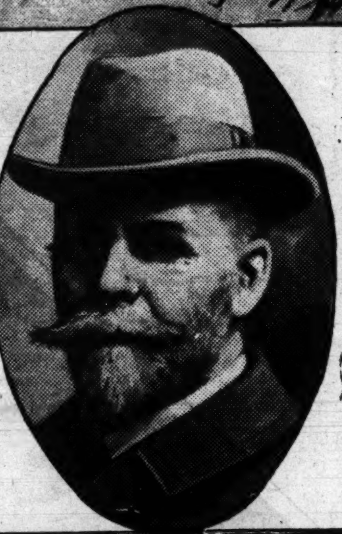
ON Dec. 8 there will appear before the St. Louis Contemporary Club an English explorer and missionary who returns with fabulous tales from a land almost as remote as mythology—a land where Homeric Kings rule by atrocity and craft, where anthropopagi still hold their banquets of human flesh, and where Hercules today grapples with lions bare-handed and slays them with his fingers.

The traveler is Dan Crawford, a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, who spent 23 continuous years in the inmost jungles of Central Africa and completed the expedition planned by Livingstone; and who, 1000 miles from a railroad or a shop, learned to bore so profoundly into the fantastic psychology of the savage negro as to acquire the faculty, in his own vivid phrase, of "thinking black."

Crawford plunged into the African savannahs in 1889 and emerged again in 1912. He entered the Dark Continent at the Portuguese trading post of Benguella on the west coast, pierced into the wilderness along the tortuous goat trail, which is the main highway of Central Africa, and founded a missionary station in a cliff-perched house overlooking Lake Mweru. Thither he plans soon to return, for the madly rushing civilization which he found on his return, in England and America, fills him with repugnance.

The first of a series of his encounters with lions began as his caravan was toiling towards Lake Mweru. Warning came to him in the metaphoric phrase, "the forest is on fire." Soon, indeed, the party was surrounded by a roaring of the royal beasts like that of a conflagration. Crawford relates these adventures in his recently published book, to which he gives the title, "Thinking Black."

The only alarming incident of the first night after the warning, he tells, was the rushing past of a troop of elephants, with a noise like thunder. They bathed for an hour in the fens nearby, trumpeting with glee.



DAN CRAWFORD

English missionary, who spent 23 years in the heart of Central Africa.

But the next morning, on nearing the little town, he found the villagers outside, frantic with excitement and gravely roasting a lioness, which, driven by the famine which then oppressed the country, had daringly leaped the 15-foot stockade and killed a woman.

Just as the travelers entered at one gate, down smashed the portcullis at a nearby entrance, breaking the leap of a great male lion and two small ones apparently bent on avenging the lioness. All day and all night the drums kept up a deafening roar to frighten the lions away. Nevertheless the hungry lions attempted twice to jump the stockade but were driven away

Skulls on poles—ghastly relics of a village wiped out in one of Mushidi's raids.

Farther along, in the same valley, Crawford's guide, Mbayo, pluckily killed a big male lion with an elephant spear. "Well primed with liquor," says the missionary, the tall native met the man eater, and, as the beast sprang, fixed his spear as an infantry soldier does his bayonet to meet a cavalry charge, so that the lion transfixed itself upon the point.

On the first night that the expedition reached Lake Mweru they heard a crunching noise on the waterside and found that lions were devouring their skin canoes. At random Crawford aimed for the matted clump of brush and the guess shot caused the sound to stop with an alacrity too sudden for it to have been a miss. Then came daybreak, and the finding of one canoe crushed to pieces and a trail of blood showing that one of the lions had been wounded.

Shimpauka, one of the natives, followed the trail, but it disappeared in the jungle. Presuming he had lost the lioness, he let off his best charge of powder at a buck.

Hardly had the gun spoken when he saw the lioness only a dozen paces ahead. She was far from dead, and was merely nursing a broken leg. The negro could not retreat because of the dense growth. He let fly his last pinch of powder, and the poor squib only provoked the desperate brute to spring.

"Then," writes the author, "a duel began in which the wrath of man was matched against the wrath of a lioness. Their blood is up. On rushes the beast and on rushes the black! The strong, strapping fellow, in a frenzy of determination, and longing to get it over, hugs the huge lioness in a strangling grasp, and over they go on the ground in a whirl of man and lion.

"The lioness had dug her claws into the mass of muscle on the man's back; and the man, smarting with pain, grips at the lion's carotids like a vise, only to get three fingers crunched off. But his right hand is intact, and he clings with all the tenacity of terror to the beast's throat—yes, clings to conquer.

"A gasp, a dying gurgle, and the lioness owns up to the lordship of man—choked stone dead!"

"Incredible as it may seem," the missionary continues, "this getting into grips with Felis Leo is not at all uncommon. Here is my man, Kasansu, who had almost the identical experience, only in his case no shot was fired. The same long grass did it, for, although doubly armed with spear and gun, the man and lion were clinched before the former even remembered he was armed—disarmed, rather, for in panic both spear and gun were thrown to the winds.

A Luban belle arrayed for irresistible conquest.

"The beast was too terribly fresh to succumb to a mere throttling, so, when they rolled over, Kasansu, by a clever wriggle, got on its back, and, gripping the nape of the lion's neck, pinned its hairy head on the ground.

"The man's roaring for succor brought on the scene a young fellow whose only weapon was a hoe handle. The lad's terror was that Kasansu, out of exhaustion, would let go his grip on the lion. But it ended in victory. Crack! crack! crack! and the lion's skull was broken with this simple wooden hoe handle."

Escaping by such prehistoric feats of prowess from the labyrinth of lions, the party, on embarking for the first voyage in dugouts across the great expanse of Lake Mweru, found itself beset by human foes scarcely less perilous.

These were Arab pirates, inspired both by hope of plunder and religious hatred of the Christian teacher. Someone spied suspicious specks of black far out over the water, and at once identified them as boats belonging to Shimba, the buccaneer chieftain. Mutiny broke out among the missionary's boatmen, who wished to flee back to shore. But he persuaded them to push on.

Half an hour passed and then the hostile canoes were bearing down upon them. But they proved too few to make an attack, being only corsair scouts. Having learned who and how many the party were, the scouts darted back with the information to the pirate headquarters on an island on the lake. But before the main forces could come up Crawford's boats were so far away that pursuit would be fruitless.

"When Shimba saw that we had given him the slip," says the traveler, "he swore vengeance, put to sea with a flotilla of dugouts, cut across the lake to my old fisher friend who grudgingly gave me the canoes yesterday, burned his village to the ground and dragged him off in chains."

Thirty-two months after the beginning of his journey, Crawford arrived at the "great negro London, Bunkeya," the capital of the Emperor Mushidi, a sort of black Nero. This adventurer, years before, had entered the valley of the Lualaba River with only three followers, and by craft, valor and atrocious cruelty made himself the despot of a wide region. The patronizing title by which he addressed Crawford, during the years he was detained in the swarthy metropolis, was "my white slave."

The Arabs built for him a huge mud palace with a roof of grass, and there he lived with his 500 wives. One of these was a white woman, a Portuguese, whom

Where Writing Means "Imprisoning Words"

"IN Africa," writes Missionary Dan Crawford, "the land is full of festooned vegetation, and those luxuriant palms and festoons have invaded the black brain. Talking to a native boy one day, I used the poor little phrase, 'Heaven is beyond the stars.' I spoke that platitude, I say. The boy seized it and poured it into his melting pot of thinking black.

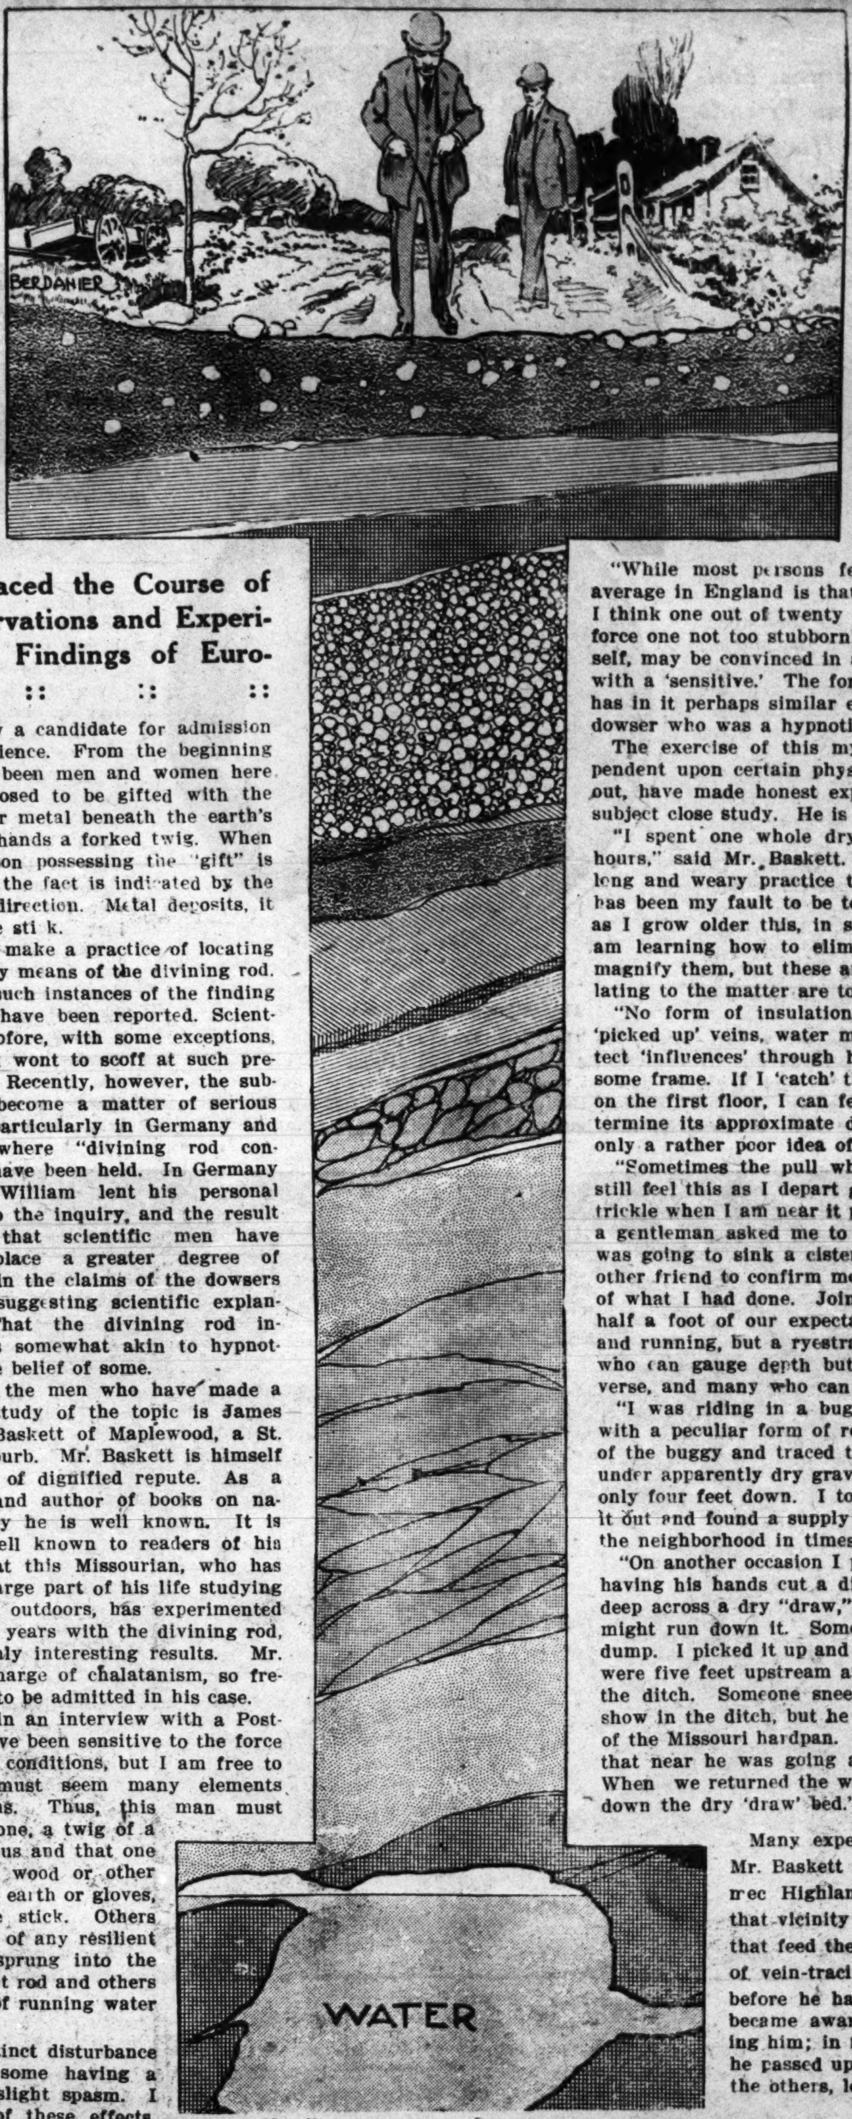
"Three hours later he came to me and gave me his own translation—his own, mind you. It was:

"'The stars are the lights He has left burning along the dark road that leads up to His city.'

"Another time a native saw me writing. At last an idea of what I was doing penetrated his brain. With surprise, a hurt note, a sound of pity and sorrow in his tone, he asked:

"'Are you imprisoning words?'"

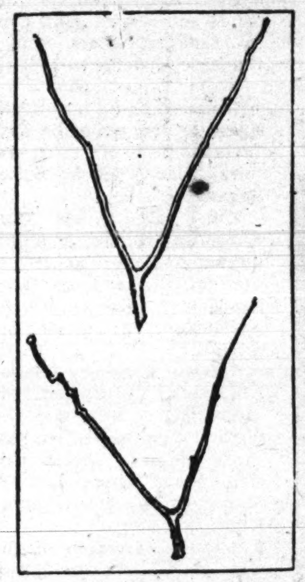
St. Louis Scientist Believes Divining Rod a True Prophet



James Newton Baskett Tells of Many Manifestations of the "Influence" of the Forked Twig, by Means of Which He Has Found Water for Wells and Springs and Traced the Course of Veins for Miles—His Observations and Experimentations Uphold Recent Findings of European Scientists :: :: :: ::

THE divining rod is just now a candidate for admission to the domain of exact science. From the beginning of civilization there have been men and women here and there who were supposed to be gifted with the power of locating water or metal beneath the earth's surface by holding in the hands a forked twig. When the "dowser," as the person possessing the "gift" is called, passes over or near a water vein the fact is indicated by the turning or twisting of the twig in that direction. Metal deposits, it is held, cause a similar movement of the stick.

Various communities have men who make a practice of locating veins of water for the digging of wells, by means of the divining rod. For ages such instances of the finding of water have been reported. Scientists heretofore, with some exceptions, have been wont to scoff at such pretensions. Recently, however, the subject has become a matter of serious inquiry, particularly in Germany and France, where "divining rod congresses" have been held. In Germany Emperor William lent his personal support to the inquiry, and the result has been that scientific men have come to place a greater degree of credence in the claims of the dowsers and are suggesting scientific explanations. That the divining rod influence is somewhat akin to hypnotism is the belief of some.



Forked twigs — often of hazel—used for divining rods.

Among the men who have made a lifelong study of the topic is James Newton Baskett of Maplewood, a St. Louis suburb. Mr. Baskett is himself a dowser of dignified repute. As a novelist and author of books on nature study he is well known. It is not so well known to readers of his books that this Missourian, who has spent a large part of his life studying the great outdoors, has experimented for many years with the divining rod, with highly interesting results. Mr. Baskett's reputation is such that the charge of chalatanism, so frequently brought against dowsers, is not to be admitted in his case.

"From childhood," Mr. Baskett said, in an interview with a Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine writer, "I have been sensitive to the force exerted by a forked stick under certain conditions, but I am free to assert that to the onlooker there must seem many elements of humbuggery in the manifestations. Thus, this man must have a fork from a peculiar tree; this one, a twig of a certain season; this one must hold it thus and that one so; another can do nothing if he has wood or other insulating material between him and the earth or gloves, silk, etc., between his hands and the stick. Others find no restrictions if they have a fork of any resilient material or anything which may be sprung into the semblance of a fork. Some use a straight rod and others require nothing to perceive the effects of running water beneath them.

"In many persons there is a very distinct disturbance of the system at the manifestation, some having a higher pulse, or a nausea, or even a slight spasm. I have never seen or experienced any of these effects, but since in me and others there is evident some nervous or muscular expression which moves the rod, this ill-balancing effect may, in a slighter degree, prevail in all persons in whose hands the twig turns.

"In spite of all this, no fair-minded investigator can fail to find a peculiar force manifested by some persons under proper conditions, though the devotees may not always be able to accomplish what they may broadly profess. But no matter whether it be muscular or nervous, electrical, magnetic, raido-active, psychical, reflex or subliminal, it is there, and in the light of our habits in trying to account for everything, it is always a candidate for attention."

Mr. Baskett cites the reports of the English Society of Psychical Research, that body having studied the divining rod as bearing upon psychical manifestations. These reports show hundreds of records of wells found by means of the twig, after geologists had failed.

"And these," Mr. Baskett comments, "are not the thousandth part of such successes. All over Europe and our own land there are innumerable instances. It may be asserted confidently that in dry times the indications of the dowser are as reliable as those of weather service.

"While most persons feel no effect from the forked stick, the average in England is that about one out of forty does. In America I think one out of twenty would be nearer. That there exists such a force one not too stubbornly skeptical, though not possessing it himself, may be convinced in a moment if he grasps a rod in connection with a 'sensitive.' The force is as certain as that of hypnotism, and has in it perhaps similar elements. However, I have never known a dowser who was a hypnotist."

The exercise of this mysterious power, Mr. Baskett says, is dependent upon certain physical conditions. Many dowsers, he points out, have made honest experiments upon themselves and given the subject close study. He is one of these.

"I spent one whole dry summer experimenting, often alone for hours," said Mr. Baskett. "I found myself grow so sensitive with long and weary practice that my indications became unreliable. It has been my fault to be too sensitive for reliable water finding, but as I grow older this, in some measure, is passing away. Besides, I am learning how to eliminate the milder attractions and how to magnify them, but these and many other almost incredible things relating to the matter are too technical to discuss here.

"No form of insulation has ever interferred with me. I have 'picked up' veins, water mains, etc., while riding rapidly. I can detect 'influences' through hundreds of houses in a row, some brick, some frame. If I 'catch' the water pipe in the basement while I am on the first floor, I can feel it clearly on the fifteenth floor and determine its approximate distance away in either case. But I have only a rather poor idea of the quantity of the flow.

"Sometimes the pull when near and the distance at which I can still feel this as I depart gives me an idea, but at times the faintest trickle when I am near it pulls like an underground river. Years ago a gentleman asked me to point out an indication for him, since he was going to sink a cistern anyway. I did so, and then he got another friend to confirm me. This the latter readily did, in ignorance of what I had done. Jointly we then estimated the depth. Within half a foot of our expectations the stream was found, well defined and running, but a ryestraw might have carried it. There are those who can gauge depth but not quantity, others who can do the reverse, and many who can do both.

"I was riding in a buggy one day near a stream, experimenting with a peculiar form of rod, when I felt an unusual pull. I got out of the buggy and traced the 'streak' to the bed of the creek, where, under apparently dry gravel, the indications were that the water was only four feet down. I told some nearly farmers of it and they dug it out and found a supply at the depth indicated, which has watered the neighborhood in times of drouth for 20 years.

"On another occasion I passed with a farmer a place where he was having his hands cut a ditch about sixteen feet long and eight feet deep across a dry "draw," in the hope of intersecting any veins that might run down it. Someone had left a forked switch lying on the dump. I picked it up and quickly said that the indications for a vein were five feet upstream and six feet deep and running parallel with the ditch. Someone sneered that if the water was there it would show in the ditch, but he underestimated the water-holding qualities of the Missouri hardpan. Another grabbed a pick and said if it were that near he was going after it. The farmer and I went hunting When we returned the water had filled the trench and was running down the dry 'draw' bed."

Many experiments in "dowsing" have been made by Mr. Baskett in St. Louis County, in the region of Meramec Highlands. Some of the well-known springs in that vicinity he has located and he has traced the veins that feed them for miles. He tells how on a recent trip of vein-tracing he went over ground where some time before he had found four distinct veins. This time he became aware that some slight attraction was confusing him; in fact, he found five veins. On his way home he passed up a slope and found the fifth vein, far above the others, leaking a trickle.

Some Opinions About the Divining Rod.

PROF. CARL ROTH, a European scientist, says: "It would be difficult to deny that there is an intimate connection between the divining rod and water."

Alfred Russel Wallace, who worked out the theory of evolution simultaneously with Darwin, though independently, expresses belief in the efficacy of the forked stick as a water finder.

At the recent experimentation in Germany, Kaiser William found that he is not a "sensitive," but Von Buelow, the former Chancellor, discovered that he is one, and he found some springs.

Prof. Barrett of Dublin cites hundreds of pages of certificates to the success of divining rod experiments in England.

The conclusion reached by the Paris Academy after a recent study of the subject was that operators of the rod "may be living galvanometers, extremely susceptible to the radio-active emanations of mineral and water."

her rascally brother sold to the black potentate for a few hundred pounds, representing that by this alliance he had joined himself in marriage to the crowned heads of Europe. The white Queen was a termagant, according to the missionary, who held her royal spouse under her thumb and commonly addressed him as "Pig!" Her name was Maria de Fonseca.

"Her favorite affectation in dress," relates Crawford, "was the wearing of loud velvets in voluptuous folds; blue, red or yellow one day, and brown or green the next.

"Arriving in the interior, by no means in her first youth, here she was frivoling about the capital and hating the whole harem of rivals. Many an envenomed glance she shot at an enemy, and many a plot she hatched for the downfall of harmless souls. Talking Chiluba with a fierce flippancy, she it was who, Lady Macbeth-like, urged Mushidi to his deeds of blood.

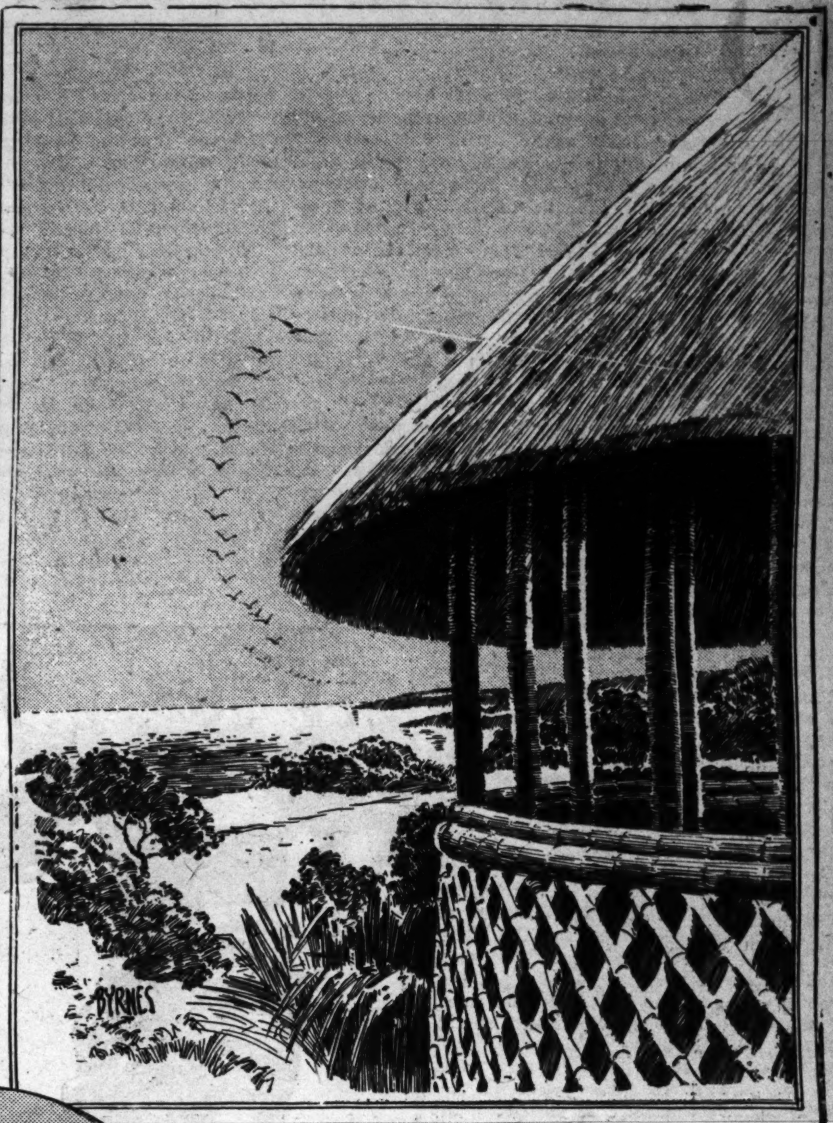
"Aggressively self-conscious to the end, her dying charge to me, her 'uncle,' was that her white skin should be buried in a white coffin. Preached to, rain or shine, many a weary day, she spurned Christianity. Once she patted Heaven approvingly on the back for having a toilet of white robes. One day, with tears in her eyes, she broke down and sobbed: 'A slave! Yes! They sold me like a chattel when I was a young girl.'

"You must think of this black Babylon as a raging sea of slavery," Crawford goes on. "Lubans from the north, Lama people from the south, Lunda from the east, Ushi and Vemba from the southeast—the flotsam of negro humanity, washed up on the shores of the capital, all jabbering their own patois, but all daily taking on more local color and simulating a sort of black cockneyism.

"The days pass, these polyglot slaves swarming about the King like garflies. Never before has such a mass weltered in Central Africa. A born linguist, Mushidi day by day pours out cataracts of vituperation on the bowed heads of his population. 'Son of a dog!' and 'Son of the dust!' are the customary compliments he pays to his elder brother, Likuku.

"The real danger is when he opens his mouth wide and then surprises his hearers with a shrill falsetto treble. Then it is the death warrant is shrieked: 'Die, son of a dog!'"

The missionary describes a triumph at Bunkeya of one of Mushidi's victorious Generals, which the writer witnessed. With the jealous policy of a Roman Emperor, the King kept the General waiting for weeks on the remote outskirts of the city, simulating a yawn at every mention of his name. The Lunsala River was marked off as the General's Rubicon, which, unlike Caesar, he did not dare to cross. But at last Mushidi yielded.



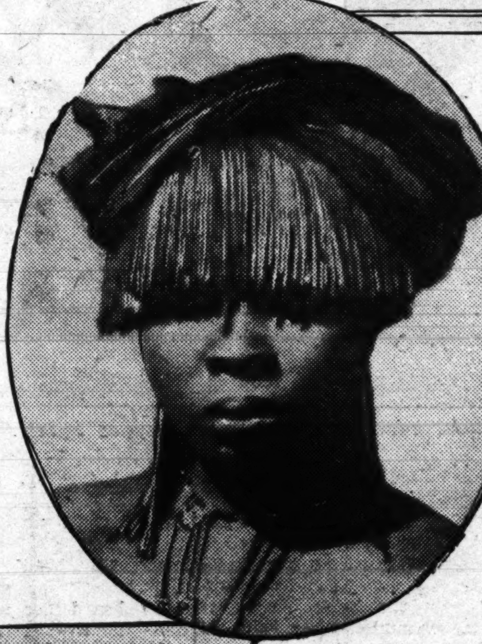
Missionary Crawford's "Gospel Hut" on Lake Mweru.

He was dressed for the show in 30 yards of fine linen, and as his special royal jewels, hung about his neck a series of scissors, looking glasses and curious sundries. He was carried aloft on a palanquin borne by 100 slaves.

Throngs of warriors marched in, each carrying the putrifying skulls of the enemies they had slain, one brute carrying three dangling from his mouth. Upon the heap of heads the King placed his foot in token of victory. There were thousands of slaves, women and children, mostly.

Mushidi greeted the General who had won for him with ostentatious contempt, and then, says Crawford:

"Like Nero, who was vain of his music, Mushidi has the vanity to believe he can dance. You, a spectator, can scarcely believe your eyes when the old man is seen to descend and begin his rheumatic shuffles. Have you caught the picture? An old man trying to dance with 30 yards of loin cloth artistically bunched out in flounces round him, and worn just as the planet Saturn wears his rings."



This "mop" headdress is considered as effective as a slit skirt in St. Louis.

Madly jealous of his mob of wives, Mushidi was continually putting them to death, on the score of infidelity. He selected the victims by "dreaming" them; that is, those were doomed who he dreamed were unfaithful. "Skulls heaped on long rustic tables," exclaims Crawford, "skulls hanging upon trees like hatpegs, skulls with yawning mouths, putrefying skulls and clouds of blue bottle flies! This Bluebeard business is a frightful one!"

It was in this connection that the traveler made the astounding discovery that a woman's secret society of suffragettes existed in the heart of Central Africa. "Budindu" is the name of this movement for women's rights.

It was gossiped about the court that one of Mushidi's wives had dared to preach rebellion against his husbandly authority. Frightened in spite of himself at the formidable name of "Budindu," Mushidi took no revenge save that of upbraiding the amazon as a "goat." She replied: "Even the goats have model marriages, for the female has as good a pair of horns as the billy."

The royal suffragette informed Crawford that the secret order of women was founded by a woman whose brother, a King, flayed her son to make a carpet of cuticle for his throne. Enlisting a number of other women, she succeeded in organizing a plan by which a rival tribe was called in to avenge her.

"No man dares penetrate into this great secret society," the missionary says. "These black women let their unfettered fancies roam over the vast sphere of their sex's wrong. Often a husband goes foodless if Mrs. Suffragette is attending a club meeting, and oftener the happy and harmless wife becomes, after initiation, a 'new woman' indeed.

"The general idea is that of a general benefit society, whose supreme function is to scrutinize the cause of death of any of its members. As African men often play their women the scurviest of tricks, it is absolutely necessary that the women combine in some sort of defense.

"Some of these female club decisions have assumed portentous proportions in the high politics of Central Africa, a notorious instance being the ceding of the whole north shore of Lake Mweru to satisfy a Budindu Club claim. This was the biggest legal fish the club ever fried, and the ladies clothe themselves with impressiveness as they tell the twice-told tale of this, the Marengo of their club."

Crawford was held a sort of prisoner by Mushidi, whose violent death, Crawford believes, eventually preserved him from murder. The King attempted to play politics by flirting with both the Belgian and English soldiers, the former coming from the west and the latter from the south. An English officer shot Mushidi to death with a revolver in his palace and was himself killed by the King's soldiers. This great smash-up of the "negro London" enabled the missionary to escape.

In Crenda, a cramped stockade town on the trail, Crawford lived for months cooped up with the blacks, breathing the stale and sour air, dwelling in a beehive hut and learning the language. A beaming old granny of 70, who boasted she was the champion cook of the country, served as his chef. She was famous for frying fat snakes and snails, but her specialty was boiled dog.

Crawford almost forfeited her good graces when she learned he ate eggs, a very debased diet for a Luban. In the egg is not the chick still unborn? And if one must eat eggs, why not wait until they are old enough just to hint that there is a semblance of a chick inside?

However, she consented to try to cook an egg and listened carefully to the instructions. She broke the egg, and then, with kindly concern, washed the shell. Taking a stout stick, she beat up egg and shell carefully together, and the result was an omelette studded all over with jagged shells sticking out like carpet tacks.

The killing of a pig is a great function in a Bihean family, and the roar of rejoicing is such, says the explorer, that they even beat the Chicago packer's boast that everything about the pig is tinned except the squeal. In Africa the noise is so loud that the negro seems to have swallowed the squeal along with the pig.

"Thinking Black," the author elucidates, "is thinking topsy-turvy. The negro wielding a spade digs towards himself and not away from himself. When it rains he immerses himself in a lake or river to get out of the wet. When it is cold he goes naked; when the sun is scorching he dons two sets of clothes surmounted by a blanket. Ask him for a drink of water, and he politely takes the first drink from the gourd, thus guaranteeing that the water is free from poison, for their proverb says: 'Drink first, die first.'"

Civilization "Making Enemy of God"

EXPLORER CRAWFORD'S 23 years of life in the deepest fastnesses of Central Africa make him a severe critic of European and American civilization as he saw it on his return. During an interview in New York recently he said:

"Oh, you blessed beggars a la Fifth avenue! You and your cooped up, water-tight apartments! The imagination has all gone out of you; there is no change; it is all the same, from London to Paris, from Paris over into the Latins—the same hobble skirt, the same little tin gods.

"And from San Francisco to New York it is all the same—the same Anglo-Saxon, the same ideals. You are living too fast. It is all hurry—hurry—hurry. You take life with a zip. If you bolt your food you upset the gastronomical apparatus, and then you have indigestion. Your nation is bolting its life, and sooner or later it is in for national indigestion.

"This silly thing overhead!"—he swept his hand in a gesture toward a cluster of incandescent globes—"you shut yourself in and then try to bring in the light. As the native says: 'You are making an enemy of God.'"

Good measure, pressed down and shaken together and running over, shall men give into your bosom.—Luke VI: 38; Deuteronomy XXV: 14-15; Micah VI: 10; Revelations VI: 6.

THE Bible description of giving good measure is seen in its literal form in this Bethlehem grain market where the customs have remained the same through all the centuries. The measure is filled and pressed and shaken and then heaped up. Every grain that will stay on is given. The customer carries away his purchase not in a basket nor in a paper sack, but in a big, pocket-like fold of the loose robe that covers his bosom.

THE BRIDE'S DEAD

By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS

Copyright, 1913, by the Post-Dispatch.

ONLY Farallone's face was untroubled. His big, bold eyes held a kind of grim humor, and he rolled them unblinkingly from the groom to the bride and back again. His duck trousers drenched and stained with sea water, clung to the great muscles of his legs, particles of damp sand glistened upon his naked feet, and the hairless bronze of his chest and columnar throat showed through the opening of his torn and buttonless shirt. Except for the life and vitality that literally sparkled from him, he was more like a statue of a shipwrecked sailor than the real article itself. Yet he had not the proper attributes of a shipwrecked sailor. There was neither despair upon his countenance nor hunger; instead a kind of enjoyment and the expression of one who has been set free. Indeed, he must have secured a kind of liberty, for after the years of serving one master and another, he had, in our recent struggle with the sea, but served himself. His was the mind and his the hand that had brought us at length to that desert coast. He it was who had extended to us the ghost of a chance. He who so recently had been but one of 40 in the groom's luxurious employ; a polisher of brass, a holystoner of decks, a wage-earning paragon who was not permitted to think, was now a thinker and a strategist, a wagetaker from no man and the obvious master of us three.

The bride slept on the sand where Farallone had laid her. Her stained and dreggled clothes were beginning to dry and her hair to blaze in the pulsing rays of the sun. Her breath came and went with the long-drawn placidity of deep sleep. One shoe had been torn from her foot by the surf, and through a tear in her left stocking blinked a pink and tiny toe. Her face lay upon her arm and was hidden by it and by her blazing hair. In the loose-jointed abandon of exhaustion and sleep she had the effect of a flower that had wilted; the color and the fabric were still lovely, but the robust erectness and crispness were gone. The groom, almost unmanned and wholly forlorn, sat beside her in a kind of huddled attitude, as if he were very cold. He had drawn his knees close to his chest and held them in that position with thin clasped fingers. His hair, which he wore rather long, was in a wild tangle, and his neat eyeglasses, with their black cord, looked absurdly out of keeping with his general dishevelment. The groom, never strong or robust, looked as if he had shrunk, and I certainly felt as if I had. But however strong the contrast between us three small humans and the vast stretches of empty ocean and desert coast, there was no diminution about Farallone, but the contrary. I have never seen the presence of a man loom so strongly and so large. He sat upon his rock with a kind of vastness, so bold and strong he seemed, so utterly unperturbed. Suddenly the groom, a kind of querulous shiver in his voice, spoke.

"The brandy, Farallone, the brandy."

The big sailor rolled his bold eyes from the groom to the bride, but returned no answer.

The groom's voice rose to a note of vexation.

"I said I wanted the brandy," he said.

Farallone's voice was large and free, like a fresh breeze.

"I heard you," said he.

"Well," snapped the groom, "get it."

"Get it yourself," said Farallone quickly, and he fell to whistling in a major key.

The groom, born and accustomed to command, was on his feet shaking with fury.

"You damned insolent loafer," he shouted.

"Cut it out—cut it out," said the big sailor, "you'll wake her."

The groom's voice sank to an angry whisper.

"Are you going to do what I tell you or not?"

"Not," said Farallone.

"I'll"—the groom's voice loudened—his eye sought an ally in mine. But I turned my face away and pretended that I had not seen or heard. There had been born in my breast suddenly a cold, unreasoning fear of Farallone, and of what he might do to us weaklings. I heard no more words and, venturing a look, saw that the groom was seating himself once more by the bride.

"If you sit on the other side of her," said Farallone, "you'll keep the sun off her head."

He turned his bold eyes on me and winked one of them. And I was so taken by surprise that I winked back and could have kicked myself for doing so.

II.

FARALLONE helped the bride to her feet. "That's right," he said, with a kind of nursely playfulness, and he turned to the groom. "Because I told you to help yourself," he said, "doesn't mean I'm not going to do the lion's share of everything. I am. I'm fit. You and the writer man aren't. But you must do just a little more than you're able, and that's all we'll ask of you. Everybody works on this voyage except the woman."

"I can work," said the bride.

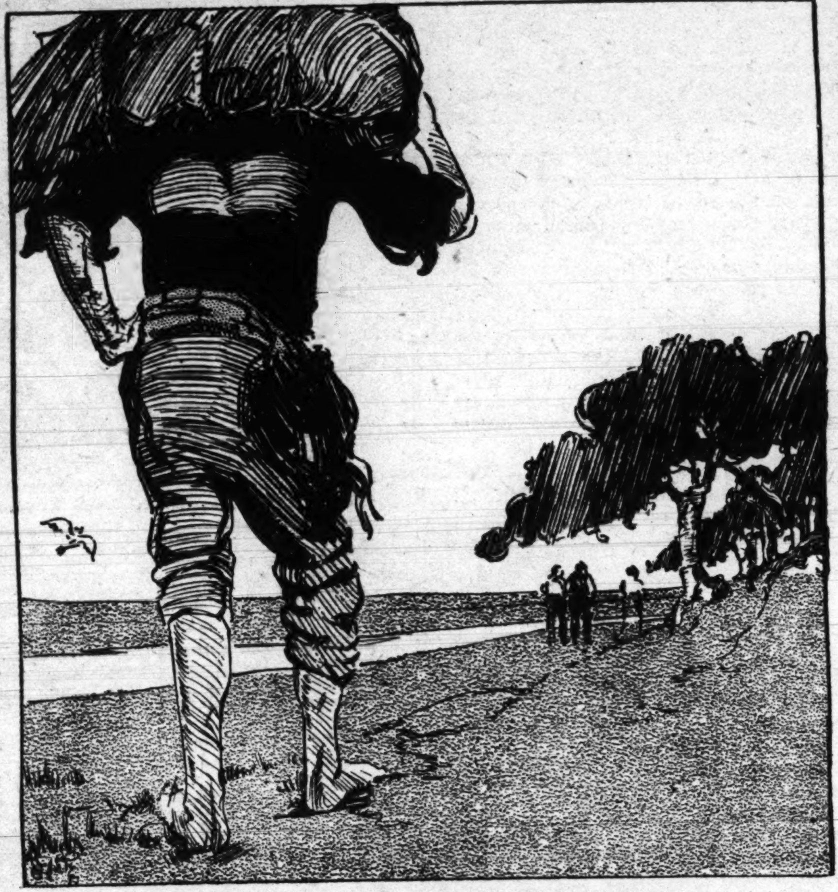
"Rot!" said Farallone. "We'll ask you to walk ahead, like a kind of North Star. Only we'll tell you which way to turn. Do you see that sugar loaf? You head for that. Vamoose! We'll overhaul you."

The bride moved upon the desert alone, her face toward an easterly hill that had given Farallone his figure of the sugar loaf. She had no longer the effect of a wilted flower, but walked with quick, considered steps. What the groom carried and what I carried is of little moment. Our packs united would not have made the half of the lumbersome weight that Farallone swung upon his giant shoulders.

"Follow the woman," said he, and we began to march upon the shoe-and-stocking track of the bride. Faralone, rolling like a ship (I had many a look at him over my shoulder) brought up the rear. From time to time he flung forward a phrase to us in explanation of his rebellious attitude.

"I take command because I'm fit; you're not. I give the orders because I can get 'em obeyed; you can't." And again: "You don't know east from west; I do."

All the morning he kept firing disagreeable and very personal remarks at us. His proposition that we were not in any way fit for anything he enlarged upon and illustrated. He flung the groom's unemployed ancestry at him; he likened the groom to Rome at the time of the fall, which he attributed to luxury; he informed me that only men who were unable to work or in any way help themselves wrote books. "The woman's worth the two of you," he said. "Her people were workers. See it in her stride. She could milk a cow if she had one. If anything happens to me she'll give the orders. Mark my words, she's got a head on her shoulders, she has."



"His great bulk under its mighty pack tripped lightly."

The bride halted suddenly in her tracks and, turning, faced the groom.

"Are you going to allow this man's insolence to run on forever?" she said.

The groom frowned at her and shook his head covertly.

"Pooh," said the bride, and I think I heard her call him "my champion," in a bitter whisper. She walked straight back to Farallone and looked him fearlessly in the face.

"The bigger a man is, Mr. Farallone," she said, "and the stronger, the more he ought to mind his manners. We are grateful to you for all you have done, but if you cannot keep a civil tongue in your head then the sooner we part company the better."

For a full minute the fearless eyes snapped at Farallone, then, suddenly abashed, softened and turned away.

"There mustn't be any more mutiny," said Farallone. "But you've got sand, you have. I could love a woman like you. How did you come to hitch your wagon to little Nicodemus there? He's no star. You deserved a man. You've got sand, and when your poor feet go back on you, as they will in this swill (here he kicked the burning sand), I'll carry you. But if you hadn't spoken up so pert, I wouldn't. Now you walk ahead and pretend you're Christopher Columbus De Soto Peary, leading a flock of sheep to the Fountain of Eternal Youth. * * * Bear to the left of the sagebrush, there's a tarantula under it." * * *

We went forward a few steps, when suddenly I heard Farallone's voice in my ear. "Isn't she splendid?" he said, and at the same time he thumped me so violently between the shoulders that I stumbled and fell. For a moment all fear of the man left me on the wings of rage, and I was for attacking him with my fists. But something in his steady eye brought me to my senses.

"Why did you do that?" I meant to speak sharply, but I think I whined.

"Because," said Farallone, "when the woman spoke up to me you began to bridle and act lion-like and bold. For a minute you looked dangerous—for a little feller. So I patted your back, in a friendly way—as a kind of reminder—a feeble reminder."

We had dropped behind the others. The groom had caught up with the bride, and from his nervous, irritable gestures I gathered that the poor soul was trying to explain and to ingratiate himself. But she walked on, steadily averted, you might say, her head very high, her shoulders drawn back. The groom, his eyes intent upon her averted face, kept stumbling with his feet.

"Just look," said Farallone in a friendly voice. 'Those whom God hath joined together.' What did the press say of it?"

"I don't remember," I said.

"You lie," said Farallone. "The press called it an ideal match. My God!" he cried, and so loudly that the bride and the groom must have heard—"think of being a woman like that and getting hitched to a little bit of a cuss with a few fine feathers"; and with a kind of sing-song he began to misquote and extemporize:

"Just for a handful of silver she left me,
Just for a yacht and a mansion of stone,
Just for a little fool nest of fine feathers
She wed Nicodemus and left me alone."

"But she'd never seen me," he went on and mused for a moment. "Having seen me—do you guess what she's saying to herself? She's saying: 'Thank God I'm not too old to begin life over again,' or thinking it. Look at him! Even you wouldn't have been such a joke. I've a mind to kick the life out of him. One little kick with bare toes. Life? There's no life in him—nothing but a jenny wren."

The groom, who must have heard at least the half of Farallone's speech, stopped suddenly and waited for us to come up. His face was red and white—blotchy with rage and vindictiveness. When we were within 10 feet of him he suddenly drew a revolver and fired pointblank at Farallone. He had no time for a second shot. Farallone caught his wrist and shook it till the revolver spun through the air and fell at a distance. Then Farallone seated himself and, drawing the groom across his knee, spanked him. Since the beginning of the world children have been punished by spanking, and the event is memorable, if at all, as a something rather comical and domestic. But to see a grown man spanked for the crime of attempted murder is horrible. Farallone's fury got the better of him, and the blows resounded in the desert. I grappled his arm and the recoil of it flung me head over heels. When Farallone had finished, the groom could not stand. He rolled in the sands, moaning and hiding his face.

The bride was white as paper; but she had no eye for the groom.

"Did he miss you?" she said.

"No," said Farallone, "he hit me—Nicodemus hit me."

"Where?" said the bride.

"In the arm."

Indeed, the left sleeve of Farallone's shirt was glittering with blood.

"I will bandage it for you," she said, "if you will tell me how."

Farallone ripped open the sleeve of his shirt.

"What shall I bandage it with?" asked the bride.

"Anything," said Farallone.

The bride turned her back to us, stooped and we hear a sound of tearing. When she had bandaged Farallone's wound (it was in the flesh and the bullet had been extracted by its own impetus), she looked him gravely in the face.

"What's the use of goading him?" she said gently.

"Look," said Farallone.

The groom was reaching for the fallen revolver.

"Drop it," bellowed Farallone.

The groom's hand, which had been on the point of grasping the revolver's stock, jerked away. The bride walked to the revolver and picked it up. She handed it to Farallone.

"Now," she said, "that all the power is with you, you will not go on abusing it."

"You carry it," said Farallone, "and any time you think I ought to be shot, why, you just shoot me. I won't say a word."

"Do you mean it?" said the bride.

"I cross my heart," said Farallone.

"I shan't forget," said the bride. She took the revolver and dropped it into the pocket of her jacket.

"Vamoose!" said Farallone. And we resumed our march.

III.

THE line between the desert and the blossoming hills was as distinctly drawn as that between a lake and its shore. The sagebrush, closer massed than any through which we had yet passed, seemed to have gathered itself for a serried assault upon the lovely verdure beyond. Outposts of the sagebrush, its unsung heroes, perhaps, showed here and there among ferns and wild roses—leafless, gaunt and dead; one knotted specimen even had planted its banner of desolation in the shade of a wild lilac and there died. A twittering of birds gladdened our dusty ears, and from afar there came a splashing of water. Our feet, burned by the desert sands, torn by yucca and cactus, trod now upon a cool and delicious moss, above which nodded the delicate blossoms of the shooting star, swung at the ends of strong and delicate stems. In the shadows the chollocate lilies and trilliums dully glinted, and flag-flowers trooped in the sunlight. The resinous paradisiacal smell of tar weed and bay tree refreshed us, and the wonder of life was something strong and tangible like bread and wine.

The wine of it rushed in particular to Farallone's head; his brain became flooded with it; his feet cavorted upon the moss; his bellowed singing awoke the echoes, and the whole heavenly choir of the birds answered him.

"You, Nicodemus," he cried gaily, "thought that man was given a nose to be a tripod for his eyeglasses—but now—oh, smell—smell!"

His great bulk, under its mighty pack, tripped lightly, dancing at the bride's elbow. Now his agile fingers nipped some tiny, scarcely perceptible flower to delight

A VOICE FROM THE GRAVE REVEALS A WONDERFUL SECRET

> "When they were gone he released the mechanism, and listened to the strange story of Francis Tudor, related in Francis Tudor's own voice." . . . .

phonograph, which stood on the table near the safe, was ready for its work of reproduction. Albert started it.

It began to sing in the famous voice of Miss Edna May.

"Stop that!" cried Hugo; and Albert stopped it.

Then came a bundle of disks tied together. Hugo himself fixed the top one, and the ma hine, after whirring inarticulately, began in slow, clear tones.

CHAPTER XVII.

What the phonograph said.

HUGO arrested the action of the instrument. "Go," he said, almost threateningly, to Albert and his wife. "Mrs. Shawn, look after your husband's wound. It needs it. See the blood."

"But"——

"Go," said Hugo.

And they went.

And when they were gone he released the mechanism, and in the still solitude of the bedroom listened to the strange story of Francis Tudor, related in Francis Tudor's own voice.

It occurred to him that the man must have been talking into a phonograph shortly before he died. He remembered the monotonous voice on that fatal night in August.

In case I should die before I can complete my arrangements for the future (said the phonograph, reproducing the voice of Francis Tudor), I am making a brief statement of the whole case into this phonograph.

I am exhausted with today's work, and I shall find it easier and much quicker to speak than to write; and I'm informed that I ought never to exert myself more than is necessary.

Supposing I were to die within the next few days—and I have yet to go through the business of the funeral ceremonies!—circumstances might arise which might nullify part of my plan, unless a clear account of the affair should ultimately come into the hands of some person whom I could trust not to make a fool of himself—such as Polycarp, my solicitor, for instance.

Hence I relate the facts for a private record.

When I first met Camilla Payne she was shorthand clerk or private secretary, or whatever you call it, to Louis Ravengar. I saw her in his office. Curiously, she didn't make a tremendous impression on me at the moment. By the way, Polycarp, if it is indeed you who listen to this, you must excuse my way of relating the facts.

I can only tell the tale in my own way. Besides meddling with finance, I've dabbled in pretty nearly all the arts, including the art of fiction, and I can't leave out the really interesting pieces of my narrative merely because you're a lawyer and hate needless details, sentimental or otherwise. But do you hate sentimental details? I don't know. Anyhow, this isn't a counsel's brief.

What was I saying? Oh! She didn't make a tremendous impression on me at the moment, but I thought of her afterward. I thought of her a good deal in a quiet way after I had left her—so much that I made a special journey to Ravengar's a few days afterward, when there was no real need for me to go, in order to have a look at her face again. I should explain that I was dabbling in finance just then, fairly successfully, and had transactions with Ravengar.

He didn't know that I was the son of the man who had taken his stepmother away from his father, and I never told him I had changed my name, because the scandals attached to it by Ravengar and his father had made things very unpleasant for any bearer of that name.

Still, Ravengar happened to be the man he wanted to deal with, and so I didn't let any stupid resentment on my part stop me from dealing with him. He was a scoundrel, but he played the game, I may incidentally mention. I venture to give this frank opinion about one of your most important clients, because he'll be dead before you read this, Polycarp. At least, I expect so.

Well, the day I called specially with a view to seeing her she was not there. She had left Ravengar's employment, and disappeared. Ravengar seemed to be rather perturbed about it.

But perhaps he was perturbed about the suicide which had recently taken place in his office. I felt it—I mean I felt her disappearance. However, the memory of her face gave me something very charming to fall back on in moments of depression, and it was at this time something occurred sufficient to make me profoundly depressed for the remainder of my life. I was over in Paris, and seeing a good deal of Darcy, my friend, the English doctor, there.

We were having a long yarn one night in his rooms over the Cafe Americain, and he said to me suddenly: "Look here, old chap, I'm going to do something very unprofessional, because I fancy you'll thank me for it." He said it just like that, bursting out all of a sudden. So I said "Well?" He said: "It's very serious, and in 999 cases out of a thousand I should be a blundering idiot to tell you." I said to him: "You've begun. Finish. And let's see whether I'll thank you."

He then told me that I'd got malignant disease of the heart, might die at any moment, and in any case couldn't live more than a few years. He said: "I thought you'd like to know, so that you could arrange your life accordingly." I thanked him. I was really most awfully obliged to him. It wanted some pluck to tell me. He said: "I wouldn't admit to anyone else that I'd told you." I never admired Darcy more than I did that night. His tone was so finely casual.

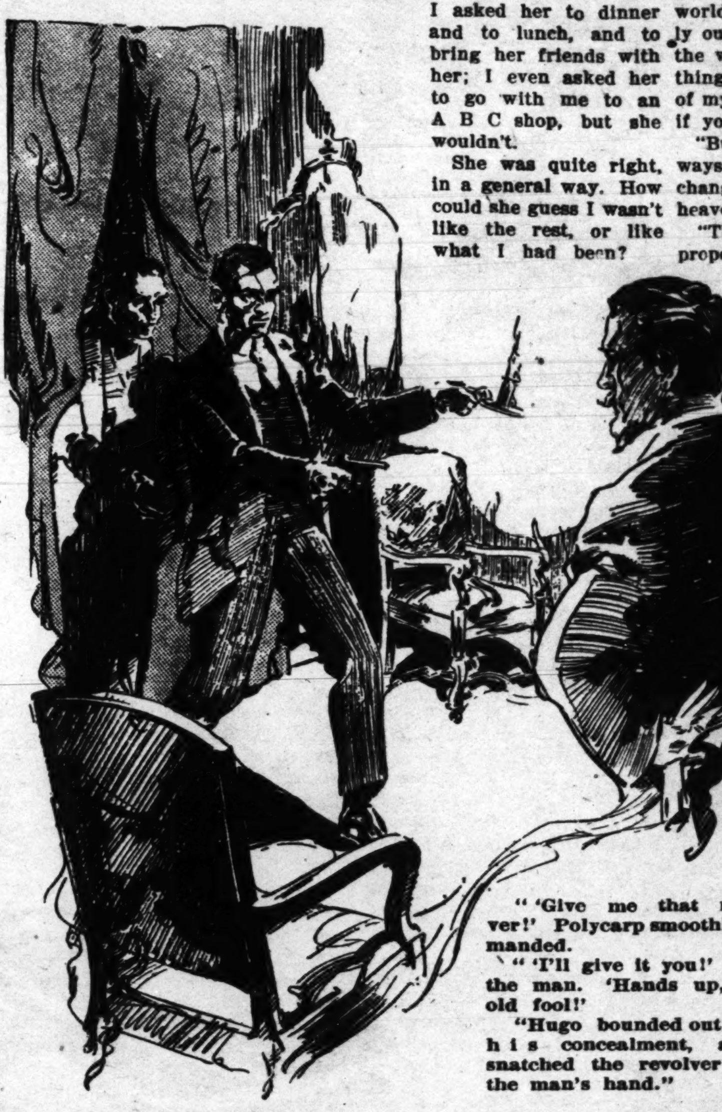
In something like a month I had got used to the idea of being condemned to death. At any rate, it ceased to interfere with my sleep. I purchased a vault for myself in Brompton Cemetery. Then I took this flat that I'm talking in now, and began deliberately to think over how I should finish my life. I'd got money—much more than old Ravengar imagined—and I'm a bit of a philosopher, you know; I have my theories as to what constitutes real living.

However, I won't bother you with those. I expect they're pretty crude, after all. Besides, my preparations were all knocked on the head. I saw Camilla Payne again in Hugo's. She had stopped typewriting, and was a milliner there.

I tried my level best to strike up an intimacy with her, but I failed. She wouldn't have it. The fact is, I was too rich and showy. And I had a reputation behind me which, possibly—well, you're aware of all that, Polycarp. In about a fortnight I worshiped her—yes, I did actually worship her. I would have done anything she ordered me, except leave her alone; and that I wouldn't do.

I dare say I might have got into a sort of friendship with her if she'd had any home, any relatives, any place to receive me in. But what can a girl do with nothing but a bed-sitting-room? I asked her to go up the river; I asked her to dinner and to lunch, and to bring her friends with her; I even asked her to go with me to an A B C shop, but she wouldn't.

She was quite right, in a general way. How could she guess I wasn't like the rest, or like what I had been?



"'Give me that revolver!' Polycarp smoothly demanded.

"'I'll give it you!' cried the man. 'Hands up, you old fool!'

"Hugo bounded out from his concealment, and snatched the revolver from the man's hand."

Once, when she let me walk with her from Hugo's down to Walham Green, I nearly went mad with joy. I think I verily was mad for a time. I used to take out licenses for our marriage, and I used to buy clothes for her—heaps of clothes, in case.

Yes, I was as good as mad then. And when she made it clear that this walking by my side was nothing at all, meant nothing, and must be construed as nothing, I grew still more mad.

At last I wrote to her that if she didn't call and see me at my flat, I should blow my brains out. I didn't expect her to call, and I did expect that I should blow my brains out. I was ready to do so. A year more or a year less on this earth—what did it matter to me?

Some people may think—you may think, Polycarp—that a man like me, under sentence of death from a doctor, had no right to make love to a woman.

That may be so. But in love there isn't often any question of right. Human instincts have no regard for human justice, and when the instinct is strong enough, the sense of justice simply ceases to exist for it. When you're in love—enough—you don't argue. You desire—that's all.

To my amazement, she came to the flat. When she was announced, I could scarcely tell the servant to show her in, and when she entered, I couldn't speak at all for a moment.

She was so—however, I won't describe her. I couldn't, for one thing. No one could describe that woman. She didn't make any fuss. She didn't cry out that she had ruined her reputation or anything like that.

She simply said that she had received my letter, and that she had believed the sincerity of my threat, while regretting it, and what did I wish to say to her—she wouldn't be able to stay long. It goes without saying I couldn't begin. I couldn't frame a sentence.

So I suggested we should have some tea. Accordingly, we had some tea. She poured it out, and we discussed the furniture of the drawing room. I might have known she had fine taste in furniture. She had.

When tea was over, she seemed to be getting a little impatient. Then I rang for the tray to be removed, and as soon as we were alone again, I started: "Miss Payne"——

Now, when I started like that, I hadn't the ghost of a notion what I was going to say. And then the idea stepped into my head all of a sudden: "Why not tell her exactly what your situation is? Why not be frank with her, and see how it works?"

It was an inspiration. Though I didn't believe in it, and thought in a kind of despair that I was spoiling my chances, it was emphatically an inspiration, and I was obliged to obey it.

So I told her what Darcy had told me. I explained how it was that I couldn't live long. I said I had nothing to hope for in this world, no joy, nothing but blackness and horror. I said how tremendously I was in love with her.

I said I knew she wasn't in love with me, but at the same time I thought she ought to have sufficient insight to see that I was fundamentally a decent chap. I went so far as to say that I didn't see how she could dislike me. And I said: "I ask you to marry me. It will only be for a year or two, but that year or two are all my life, while only a fraction of yours. I am rich, and after my death you will be rich, and free from the necessity of this daily drudgery of yours.

"But I don't ask you to marry me for money: I ask you to marry me out of pity. I ask you, out of kindness to the most unfortunate and hopeless man in the world, to give me a trifle out of your existence. Merely out of pity; merely because it is a woman's part in the world to render pity and balm. I won't hide anything from you. There will be the unpleasant business of my sudden death, which will be a shock to you, even if you learn to hate me.

"But you would get over that. And you would always afterward have the consciousness of having changed the last months of a man's career from hell to heaven.

"There's no disguising the fact that it's a strange proposition I'm making to you, but the proposition is not more strange than the situation. Will you consent or won't you?"

She was going to say something, but I stopped her. I said: "Wait a moment. I shan't try to terrorize you by threats of suicide. And now, before you say 'Yes,' or 'No,' I give you my solemn word not to commit suicide if you say 'No.'"

Then I went on in the same strain, appealing to her pity and telling her how humble I should be as a husband.

I could see I had moved her; and now I think over the scene, I fancy that my appeal must have been a lot more touching than I imagined it was when I was making it.

She said: "I have always liked you a little. But I haven't loved you, and I don't love you."

And then, after a pause—I was determined to say nothing more—she said: "Yes, I will marry you. I may be doing wrong—I am certainly doing something very unusual; but I have no one to advise me against it, and I will follow my impulse and marry you. I needn't say that I shall do all I can to be a good wife to you. Ours will be a curious marriage. * * * Perhaps, after all, I am very wicked!"

I cried out: "No, you aren't—no you aren't! The saints aren't in it with you!"

She smiled at this speech. She's so sensible, Camilla is. She's like a man in some things,; all really great women are.

I could tell you a lot more that passed immediately afterward, but I can feel already my voice is getting a bit tired. Besides, it's nothing to you, Polycarp.

Then, afterward, I said: "You will love me, you know."

And I meant it. Any man in similar circumstances would have said it and meant it. She smiled again.

And then I wanted to be alone with her, to enjoy the intimacy of her presence, without a lot of servants all over the place; so I went out of the drawing room and packed off the whole tribe for the evening, all except Mrs. Dant. I kept Mrs. Dant to attend to Camilla. We had dinner sent up; it was like a picnic, jolly and childish.

Camilla was charming. And then I took photographs of her by flashlight, with immense success. We developed them together in the dark room. That evening was the first time I had ever been really happy in all my life.

And I was really happy, although every now and then the idea would shoot through my head: "Only for a year or two at most; perhaps only for a day or two!"

I returned to the dark room alone for something or other, and when I came back into the drawing room she was not there. By heaven! my heart went into my mouth.

I feared she had run away, after all. However, I met her in the passage. She looked very frightened; her face was quite changed; but she said nothing had occurred. I kissed her; she let me.

Soon afterward she went on to the roof. She tried to be cheerful, but I saw she had something on her mind. She said she must go home, and begged my permission to precede me into the flat in order to prepare for her departure.

I consented. When 10 minutes had elapsed I followed and in the drawing room, instead of finding Camilla, I found Louis Ravengar.

A TALE OF SHIPWRECK AND A ROUSTABOUT WHO WAS KING

"I take command because I'm fit; you're not. I give the orders because I can get 'em obeyed; you can't. You don't know east from west; I do." . . .

her eye, and now his great hand scooped whole sheaves of strong-growing columbine and flung them where her feet must tread. He made her see great beauties and wonders; whatever had a look of smelling sweet he crushed in his hands for her to smell.

He was no longer that limb of Satan, that sardonic bully of the desert days, but a gay wood-god intent upon the gentle ways of wooing. At first the bride turned away her senses from his offerings to eye and nostril; for a time she made shift to turn aside from the flowers that he cast for her feet to tread. But after a time, like one in a trance, she began to yield up her indifference and aloofness. The magic of the riotous spring seemed to intoxicate her. I saw her turn to the sailor and smile a gracious smile. And after a while she began to talk with him.

We came at length to a bright stream from whose guileless superabundance Farallone, with a bent pin and a speck of red cloth, jerked a string of gaudy rainbow trout. He made a fire and began to broil them; the bride searched the vicinal woods for dried branches to feed the fire. The groom knelt by the brook and washed the dust from his face and ears, snuffing the cool water into his dusty nose and blowing it out.

And I lay in the shade and wondered by what courses the brook found its way to what sea or lake; whether it touched in its wanderings only the virginal wilderness or flowed at length among the habitations of men.

Farallone, of a sudden, jerked up his head from the broiling and answered my unspoken questions.

"A man," he said, "who followed this brook could come in a few days to the River Maria Cleofas, and following that to the town of that name, in a matter of 10 days more. I tell you," he went on, "because some day some of you may be going that voyage; no ill-found voyage either—spring water and trout all the way to the river; and all the rest of the way river water and trout; and at this season birds' eggs in the reeds and a turtle-like terrapin, and brodeia roots and wild onion, and young sassafras—a child could eat it. Eat that." * * * He tossed me with his fingers a split, sputtering, piping hot trout.

We spent the rest of that day and the night following by the stream. Farallone was in a riotous good humor, and the fear of him grew less in us until we felt at ease and could take an unmixed pleasure in the loafing.

Early the next morning he was astir and began to prepare himself for further marching, but for the rest of us he said there would be one day more of rest.

"Who knows," he said, "but this is Sunday?"

"Where are you going?" asked the bride politely.

"Me?" said Farallone, and he laughed. "I'm going house hunting—not for a house, of course, but for a site. It's not so easy to pick out just the place where you want to spend the balance of your days. The neighborhood's easy, but the exact spot's hard." He spoke now directly to the bride, as if her opinion was law to him. "There must be sun and shade, mustn't there? Spring water?—running water? A hill handy to take the view from? An easterly slope to be out of the trades? A big tree or two * * * I'll find 'em all before dark. I'll be back by dark or late at moonrise, and you rest yourselves, because tomorrow or the next day we go at house raising."

Had he left us then and there, I think we would have waited for him. He had us, so to speak, abjectly under his thumbs. His word had come to be our law, since it was but child's play for him to enforce it. But it so happened that he now took a step which was to call into life and action that last vestige of manhood and independence that flickered in the groom and me. For suddenly, and not till after a moment of consideration, he took a step toward the bride, caught her around the waist, crushed her to his breast and kissed her on the mouth.

But she must have bitten him, for the tender passion changed in him to an unmanly fury.

"You damned cat!" he cried; and he struck her heavily upon the face with his open palm. Not once only, but twice, three, four times, till she fell at his feet.

But that time the groom and I, poor, helpless atoms, had made shift to grapple with him. I heard his giant laugh. I had one glimpse of the groom's face rushing at mine—and then it was as if showers of stars fell about me. What little strength I had was loosened from my joints, and more than half-senseless I fell full length upon my back. Farallone had foiled our attack by the simple method of catching us by the hair and knocking our heads together.

I could hear his great, mocking laugh resounding through the forest.

"Let him go," I heard the groom moan.

The bride laughed. It was a very curious laugh. I could not make it out. There seemed to be no anger in it, and yet how, I wondered, could there be anything else?

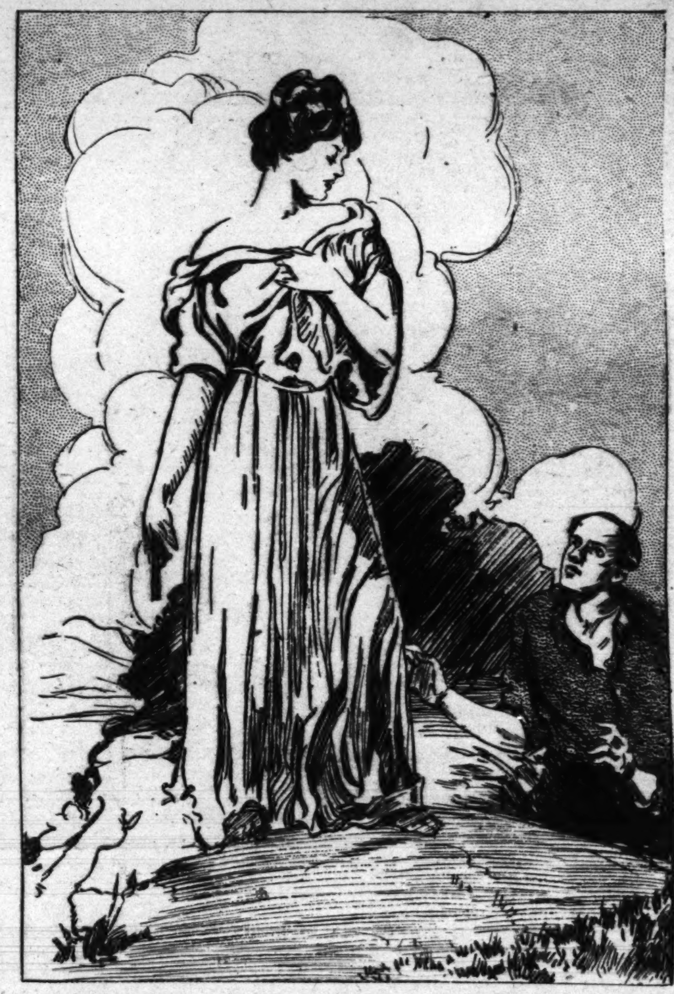
IV.

WHEN distance had blotted from our ears the sound of Farallone's laughter, and, when we had humbled ourselves to the bride for allowing her to be maltreated, I told the groom what Farallone had said about a man who should follow the stream by which we were encamped.

"See," I said, "we have a whole day's start of him. Even he can't make that up. We must go at once, and there mustn't be any letting up till we get somewhere."

The groom was all for running away, and the bride, silent and white, acquiesced with a nod. We made three light packs and started—bolted is the better word.

For a mile or more, so thick was the underwood, we walked in the bed of the stream; now freely where it was smooth-spread sand, and now where it narrowed and deepened among rocks, scramblingly and with many a splashing stumble. The bride met her various mishaps with a kind of silent disdain; she made no complaints, not even comments. She made me think of a sleepwalker. There was a set, far-off, cold expression upon her usually gentle and vivacious face, and once or twice it occurred to me that she went with us unwillingly. But when I remembered the humiliation that Farallone had put upon her and the blows that he had struck her, I could not well credit the recurrent doubt of her willingness. The groom, on the other hand, regained his long-lost spirits with immeasurable rapidity. He talked gayly and bravely, and you would have said that he was a man who had never had occasion to be ashamed of himself. He went ahead, the bride following next, and he kept giving a constant string of advices and imperatives. "That stone's loose"; "keep to the left, there's a hole." "Splash—dash—damn, look out for that one."



"His eyes blazed with a tremendous love and admiration."

All that day, except for a short halt at noon, we followed the river across the great natural park; now paralleling its convolutions and now cutting diagonals. Late in the afternoon we came to the end of the park land. A more or less precipitous formation of glistening quartz marked its boundary, and into a fissure of this the stream, now a small river, plunged with accelerated speed. The going became difficult. The walls of the fissure through which the river rushed were smooth and water-worn, impossible to ascend; and between the brink of the river and the base of the walls were congestions of boulders, jammed driftwood and tangled alder bushes. There were times when we had to crawl upon our hands and knees, under one log and over the next. To add to our difficulties, darkness was swiftly falling, and we were glad, indeed, when the wall of the fissure leaned at length so far from the perpendicular that we were able to scramble up it. We found ourselves upon a levelish little meadow of grass. In the center of it there grew a monstrous and gigantic live oak, between two of whose roots there glittered a spring. On all sides of the meadow, except on that toward the river, were super-impending cliffs of quartz. Along the base of these was a dense growth of bushes.

"We'll rest here," said the groom. "What a place. It's a natural fortress. Only one way into it." He stood looking down at the noisy river and considering the steep slope we had just climbed. "See this boulder?" he said. "It's wobbly. If that damned longshoreman tries to get us here, all we've got to do is to choose the psychological moment and push it over on him."

The groom looked quite bellicose and daring. Suddenly he flung his fragment of a cap high into the air and, at the very top of his lungs cried: "Liberty!"

The echoes answered him, and the glorious, abused word was tossed from cliff to cliff, across the river and back and presently died away.

At that, from the very branches of the great oak that stood in the center of the meadow there burst a titanic clap of laughter, and Farralone, literally bursting with merriment, dropped lightly in our midst.

I can only speak for myself. I was frightened—I say it deliberately and truthfully—almost into a fit. And for fully five minutes I could not command either of my legs. The groom, I believe, screamed. The bride became whiter than paper—then suddenly the colors rushed into her cheeks and she laughed. She laughed until she had to sit down, until the tears literally gushed from her eyes. It was not hysterics, either—could it have been amusement? After a while, and many prolonged gasps and relapses, she stopped.

"This," said Farallone, "is my building site. Do you like it?"

"Oh, oh," said the bride, "I think it's the m—most am—am—musing site I ever saw," and she went into another uncontrollable burst of laughter.

"Oh—oh," she said at length, and her shining eyes were turned from the groom to me, and back and forth between us, "if you could have seen your faces!"

V.

IT seemed strange to us, an alteration in the logical and natural, but neither the groom nor I received corporal punishment for our attempt at escape. Farallone had read our minds like an open book; he had, as it were, put us up to the escapade in order to have the pure joy of thwarting us. That we should have been drawn to his exact waiting place like needles to the magnet had a smack of the supernatural, but was, in reality, a simple and explicable happening. For, if we had not ascended to the little meadow, Farallone, alertly watching, would have descended from it and surprised us at some further point. That we should have caught no glimpse of his great bulk anywhere ahead of us in the day-long stretch of open, park-like country, was also easily explained. For Farallone had made the most of the journey in the stream itself, drifting with a log.

And although, as I have said, we were not to receive corporal junishment, Farallone visited his power upon us in other ways. He would not at first admit that we had intended to escape; but kept praising us for having followed him so loyally and devotedly; for saving him the trouble of a return journey and for thinking to bring along the bulk of our worldly possessions. Tiring at length of this, he switched to the opposite point of view. He goaded us nearly to madness with his criticism of our inefficiency, and he mocked repeatedly the groom's ill-timed cry of liberty.

"Liberty!" he said, "you never knew, you never will know, what that is—you miserable little pinhead. Liberty is for great natures.

'Stone walls do not a prison make,
Nor iron bars a cage.'

But the woman shall know what liberty is. If she had wanted to leave me there was nothing to stop her. Do you think she'd have followed the river, leaving a broad trail? Do you think she'd have walked right into this meadow—unless she hadn't cared? Not she. Did you ask her advice, you self-sufficiencies? Not you. You were the men folk, you thought, and you were to have the ordering of everything. You make me sick, the pair of you * * *"

He kept us awake until far into the night with his jibes and his laughter.

"Well," he said lastly, "good-night, girls. I'm about sick of you, and in the morning we part company. * * *"

At the break of dawn he waked us from heavy sleep—me with a cuff, the groom with a kick, the bride with a feline touch upon the hair.

"And now," said he, "be off."

He caught the bride by the shoulder.

"Not you," he said.

"I am to stay?" she asked, as if to settle some trivial and unimportant point.

"Do you ask?" said he; "was man meant to live alone? This will be enough home for us." And he turned to the groom. "Get," he said savagely.

"Mr. Farallone," said the bride—she was very white, but calm, apparently, and collected—"you have had your joke. Let us go now, or better, come with us. We will forget our former differences, and you will never regret your future kindnesses."

"Don't you want to stay?" exclaimed Farallone in a tone of astonishment.

"If I did," said the bride gently, "I could not and I would not."

"What's to stop you?" asked Farallone.

"My place is with my husband," said the bride, "whom I have sworn to love, to honor and to obey."

"Woman," said Farallone, "do you love him, do you honor him?"

She pondered a moment. Then held her head high.

"I do," she said.

"God bless you," cried the groom.

"Rats," said Farallone, and he laughed bitterly. "But you'll get over it," he went on. "Let's have no more words." He turned to the groom and to me.

"Will you climb down the cliff, or shall I throw you?"

"Let us all go," said the bride, and she caught at his trembling arm, "and I will bless you and wish you all good things—and kiss you good-by."

"If you go," said Farallone, and his great voice trembled, "I die. You are everything. You know that. Would I have hit you if I hadn't loved you so—poor little cheek!" His voice became a kind of mumble.

"Let us go," said the bride, "if you love me."

"Not you," said Farallone, "while I live. I would not be such a fool. Don't you know that in a little while you'll be glad?"

"Is that your final word?" said the bride.

"It must be," said Farallone. "Are you not a gift to me from God?"

"I think you must be mad," said the bride.

"I am unalterable," said Farallone, "as God made me—I am. And you are mine to take."

"Do you remember," said the bride, "what you said when you gave me the revolver? You said that if ever I thought it best to shoot you—you would let me do it."

"I remember," said Farallone, and he smiled.

"That was just talk, of course?" said the bride.

"It was not," said Farallone; "shoot me."

"Let us go," said the bride. Her voice faltered.

"Not you," said Farallone, "while I live."

His voice, low and gentle, had in it a kind of far-off sadness. He turned his eyes from the bride and

HUGO ☙ By Arnold Bennett

Hugo grants Ravengar his life and saves Polycarp from death which he courts. . . . .

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

HUGO owns the most remarkable department store in London; it occupies a large block and part of the building is devoted to luxurious apartments. Hugo lives in a tower. His mother, who is dead, married the father of Louis Ravengar, a great London company promoter and enemy of Hugo. After the death of Hugo's mother the elder Ravengar married a woman who deserted him and married another man after an American divorce. Francis Tudor, who occupies one of Hugo's apartments, was born of that marriage. Camilla Payne was Louis Ravengar's secretary. She left him and became a milliner in Hugo's. She is the only woman Hugo ever loved. She marries Tudor and is pursued by Ravengar, who desires her. Four months after the marriage her death is announced and Francis Tudor dies suddenly. The apartment is sealed up by Senior Polycarp, Tudor's executor. Ravengar tries to destroy Hugo by causing riots in his store during a sale and locking him up in one of his own safe deposit vaults; but he escapes and beguiles Ravengar into his tower where he intends to kill him.

"WHEN is it to be?" Ravengar queried.

"In a few minutes," said Hugo impassively, feeding his mortal resentment on the memory of those hours when he himself had waited for death in the vault.

"Then I shall have time to ask you how you came to know that Camilla Payne, or rather Camilla Tudor, is alive."

"She is not alive," Hugo explained. "The suggestion contained in my decoy letter was a pure invention in order to entice you. As you tempted me into the vault, so I tempted you here on your way to the vault."

"But she is alive all the same!" Ravengar persisted.

Hugo in that instant admired Ravengar, and he replied quietly:

"You are mistaken. Where can you have got the idea that she is not dead? She is dead. I myself—myself screwed her up in her coffin."

The words sounded horrible.

"Then you were in the plot!" Ravengar cried.

"What plot?"

"The plot to persuade me falsely that she is dead. Bah! I know more than you think. I know, for example, that her body is not in the coffin in Brompton Cemetery. And I am almost sure that I know where she is hiding. I should have known beyond doubt before tomorrow morning. However, what does it matter now?"

"Not in the coffin?" Hugo whispered, as if to himself. His whole frame trembled, shook, and his heart, leaping, defied his intellect.

CHAPTER XIV.

Burglars.

WHEN at 11 o'clock that same winter night Hugo stood hesitating, with certain tools and a hooded electric lamp in his hand, on the balcony in front of the drawing room, he knew that Camilla was dead. He had had the very best and most convincing evidence of the fact. He knew that Ravengar's suspicions were without foundation, utterly wrong-headed; and yet those statements of his enemy had unsettled him. They had not unsettled the belief of his intelligence, but they had unsettled his soul's peace.

And that curiosity to learn the whole truth about the history of the relations between Francis Tudor and Camilla, that curiosity which had slumbered for months, and which had been suddenly awakened by Ravengar's lure of the morning, was now urged into a violent activity.

He had struggled hard to keep his resolution to kill Ravengar, but it melted away. He let Ravengar go. He showed him politely out.

It was an anticlimax, but the incalcuable and peremptory processes of the heart often result in an anticlimax.

The night was cold and damp, as the morning had been, and Hugo shivered, but not with cold. He shivered in the mere exciting eagerness of anticipation. He had chosen the drawing room window because the panes were very large. So simple was it to violate the will of a dead man, and the solemnly affixed seals of his executor!

He stood upright in the drawing room, restored the blind and the heavy curtains to their positions, and then ventured to press the button of his lamp.

At the further edge of the carpet, on the parquet flooring between the carpet and the portiere leading to the inner hall, he noticed under the ray of his lamp, footprints in the dust—footprints of a man, and smaller footprints, either of a woman or a child.

In the opposite mirror the hands indicated half a minute past 9; hence the clock was really at half a minute to 3, and if it were actually going, it might be expected to strike immediately.

He waited.

The clock struck 3.

The next instant he walked boldly up to the clock and bent his ear to it. No, he could hear nothing. It had stopped. He glared steadily at the hands for two minutes by his own watch; they did not move.

In the back of his head, in the small of his back, in his legs, little tracts of his epidermis tickled momentarily. He wiped his face, and walked boldly away from the clock to the portiere, which he lifted with one arm. Then he threw the light of his lamp direct on the dial, and glared at it again, fearful lest it should take advantage of his departure to resume its measuring of eternity.

Could a clock go for four months? A clock could be made that would go for four months.

He decided to penetrate first into the bedroom, partly because he deemed the bedroom might contain the solution of the enigma, and partly because his eye had fancied it saw a slight tremor in the portiere leading to the outer hall.

So he stepped stoutly across the space which separated him from the bedroom door. But he had not reached the door before there was a loud, sharp explosion, and a panel of the door splintered and showed a hole, and he thought he heard a faint cry.

But no sooner did he move a foot toward the drawing room than another shot sounded. The drawing room portiere trembled, and something crashed within the apartment. The mysterious will had ardently decided that he should go neither back nor forward.

He dropped gently to his hands and knees, and began, with a thousand precautions, to crawl like a serpent toward the outer hall. The darkered lamp he held between his teeth.

If the mysterious will fired again, the mysterious will would almost to a certainty fire harmlessly over his head. At last his hands touched the portiere.

He hesitated, listened, and put one hand under the portiere. Then, relighting the lamp, he sprang up with a yell on the other side of the portiere, and clutched for the unseen intelligence.

But there was nothing. He stood alone in the outer hall. To his right lay the side passage between the drawing room and the cabinet de toilette, which Camilla had used on the night of her engagement. In front of him was a door, slightly ajar, which led to the servants' quarters.

CHAPTER XV.

Polycarp and Hawke's Man.

THE front door opened, and he heard footsteps in the hall. Then ensued a pause. Then the footsteps advanced, and the newcomer evidently went into the room where the faint light was.

"Come out of that."

Yes; it was Polycarp's quiet, mincing, imperious voice.

"Come out of it yourself!"

The answering tones were gruff, heavy, the speech of a strong, coarse-fibered man.

Hugo peeped cautiously through the portieres. Polycarp was backing slowly out of the room into the hall, followed by a tall, dark, scowling man, who bore an ordinary kitchen candle. Polycarp halted in the middle of the floor.

Polycarp smiled scornfully.

"You're caught," said he. "You're one of Hawke's men, aren't you?"

"Go to thunder!" was the man's ferocious reply.

"Answer my question, sir."

"What if I am?" the man grumbled.

"In five minutes you'll be in the hands of the police. I got wind yesterday of what your rascally agency was up to. You needn't deny anything. You're working on behalf of Mr. Ravengar. You know me! Mr. Ravengar happens to be a client of mine, but after tonight he will be so no longer. What he wants done in this flat I cannot guess, but it's an absolute certainty that you're in for three years' penal, my friend."

Polycarp was in evening dress, and carried a pair of white gloves. Hugo decidedly admired the old dandy as he stood there gazing up so condescendingly at the man with the candle.

"Look here!" said the man. "Let me pass. I don't want any fuss. I want to go. There's more in this flat than I bargained for. Let me pass."

"Give me that revolver," Polycarp smoothly demanded.

"Curse it!" cried the man. "I'll give it you! Hands up, you old fool! Do you think I'm here for fun?"

And he raised the revolver.

"I shall not put my hands up."

"I'll count five," said the man grimly, "and if you don't"——

"Count."

"One! Two! Three! Can't you see I mean it?"

Polycarp disdainfully sneered:

"Four!"

Hugo bounded out from his concealment, and snatched the revolver from the man's hand.

"I forgot you," growled the man, glancing at him disgusted.

And so saying he dashed the candle in Polycarp's face and knocked him violently against Hugo.

Both Hugo and Polycarp fell to the floor.

The man made a leap for the door, and in a second had fled, banging it after him.

Hugo and Polycarp rose with stiff movements. Hugo picked up his lamp, and the two confronted each other. It was a highly delicate situation.

"Your life is, at any rate, saved," said Hugo at length.

Polycarp's lip curled.

"At this moment," said Hugo, "I am not a gentleman. I am just a man. Nothing else. I will appeal to you as another man. I need hardly say that I have no connection with the opposition firm; I was entirely ignorant of the presence of Hawke's mission here when I broke into the flat. I had no notion that Ravengar was pursuing investigations similar to mine. Mr. Polycarp, Ravengar is, or was, a client of yours"——

"What do you want?" asked Polycarp quietly. The sincerity of Hugo's emotion had touched him. "Don't ask me to act contrary to my duty."

"But that is just what I shall ask!" Hugo exclaimed. "Leave me. Leave me till tomorrow; that is my sole wish. What is your duty, after all? Tudor is dead. He is beyond the reach of harm. He requires the protection of no lawyer. Trust me, and leave me. I am an honest man. Forget your law, forget your parchments, forget the conventions of society, forget everything except that you are human, and can do a service to a fellow creature. Exercise some imagination, and see how artificial and absurd is the world of ideas in which you live. Listen to your heart, and help me. I am worth it. Can't you see how I suffer? Today I have been through as much as I can stand. I am at the end of my forces, and I must have sympathy. You will be guilty of deliberate neglect of duty in leaving me here, but I implore you to leave me. And I give no specific reason why you should. Will you?"

Polycarp opened the door.

"Good night," he said. "Perhaps you did save my life. But if you had appealed on that account to my gratitude I should have been obliged to refuse your request."

Twisting his white mustache, and buttoning his overcoat across the vast acreage of his shirt front, Polycarp disappeared from Hugo's view into the corridor.

CHAPTER XVI.

Husband and Wife.

HUGO bolted the front door on the inside, relighted the candle which Hawke's man had used as a weapon, and placed it in the middle of the hall floor.

The door of the principal bedroom, which he had originally meant to invade, lay to his right, the entrance to the drawing room lay to his left. He thought he would take another look at the drawing room, and then:

"No; I'll tackle the bedroom."

And he seized the handle of the bedroom door. At the first trial it would not turn, but in a moment it turned a little, and then turned back against his pressure.

"Some one's got hold of it inside!" he said to himself.

He put the lamp on a chair, and took the revolver from his pocket in readiness for any complications that might follow his forcing of the door.

Then he heard a woman's voice within the bedroom.

"I shall open it, Alb, if you kill me for it. I don't care who it is. You may be dying of loss of blood. In fact, I'm sure you are."

And the door was pulled wide open with a single sweeping movement, and Hugo beheld the figure, slightly disheveled and more than slightly perturbed, of Mrs. Albert Shawn.

"Oh, Alb!" cried Lily. "It's Mr. Hugo! Oh, Mr. Hugo! whatever next will happen in this world?"

The swift loosing of the tension of Hugo's nerves proved to be too much for his self-possession.

He burst into a peal of loud laughter. It was unnaturally loud, it was hysterical; but it was genuine laughter, and it did him good.

Lily straightened herself with a jerk. So far, she had not admitted Hugo into the chamber.

"It's all very well for you to laugh like that, Mr. Hugo," she protested sharply; "but perhaps you don't know that you've nearly killed my husband with that revolver. The shot came through the door, and took him in the arm just as he was emptying this safe."

Hugo saw Albert Shawn lying on the stripped bed, a handkerchief tied around his arm, and in the corner near the door a large safe opened, and its contents in a heap on the floor.

"It's all right, sir," said Albert; "come in. I'm nowhere near croaking. I didn't know you were on this lay as well as me, sir. I thought I was going to come down on you tomorrow with a surprise like a thousand of bricks."

"What lay, Albert?" asked Hugo, advancing into the room.

"Well, to cut a long story short, sir, I happened to come across something yesterday that made me think that the annual sale was going to be interfered with by parties unknown. But I'd got all I could manage, and I left that alone; I'd no time for it. And last night parties unknown tried to break my leg for me with an open cellar-flap. I knew it was a plant, and so I pretended it had been entirely successful."

"He made me think his ankle was that sprained he couldn't walk. He wouldn't trust even me, sir," said Lily.

"Gaboriau," Albert explained briefly. "I knew I was watched, and I told Lily to tell the milkman I couldn't walk. It was all over Radipole road at 8 o'clock this morning. And so, while parties unknown thought I was fast on a sofa, I slipped out by the back door as soon as I'd sent Lily here to warn you about the annual sale, in case of necessity. I must say I thought I should be 24 hours in front of Hawke's men, but I expect they changed their plans. I brought Lily along with me at the last moment. She's read Gaboriau, too, sir, and she's mighty handy."

"I am aware of it," said Hugo.

"Anyhow, we got in here first, by the side door on the balcony. Hawke's man must have come in about an hour after us, and you just after him. That's how I reckon it."

"You went into the drawing room, didn't you?" Hugo asked.

"Just looked in."

"And played with the clock?"

Here he glanced sternly at Lily.

"I shook it to start it, sir, to see if it would go," Lily admitted.

"I reckon you turned out Hawke's man, sir?" Albert queried.

"It amounted to that," said Hugo. "But these phonograph records—do you know what they are?"

"I don't know what they are," said Albert, descending from the bed, "but I know that Mr. Ravengar wanted them very badly. It seems Mr Tudor was a great hand at phonographs and gramophones. Like me, sir."

He pushed up a pile of disks from in front of the safe, and displayed them to Hugo.

"Can we try them here?" Hugo demanded, in a voice suddenly and profoundly eager.

"Certainly, sir. Here's the machine. You undo this catch, and then you"——

Albert was mounted on his latest hobby; and in a few minutes, although he could only use one arm, the
